BLAST U-BOAT NEST: BRITAIN

VOTE 18 BILLION IN HOUSE; LIMIT WAR GAIN TO 6%

Union Tieup of Arms Cargo Revealed.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Rep. Taber.

Washington, D. C., March 28.—The house, by a voice vote, today passed and sent to the senate the new $18,302,201,148 emergency appropriation bill, including a provision limiting profits on arms contracts to 6 per cent. The measure boosts the aggregate of war spending legislation to approximately 160 billion dollars.

After passing the appropriation measure, the house began a two weeks informal recess. No business will be transacted until Monday, April 13, altho daily sessions will be held.

Debate on the bill lasted from noon until early evening. Not since the Jap attack on Pearl Harbor has action on a war measure taken so long. The debate, during which many members arose to assail wasteful expenditures and labor union abuses hampering the arms program, reflected the growing discontent in congress over the Roosevelt administration's management of the war effort.

Huge Profits Exposed.

The limitation on arms profits, frequently proposed in recent weeks but never acted upon, came unexpectedly. The provision was introduced in the form of an amendment by Rep. Francis Case [R., S. D.] and adopted quickly on a teller vote, 70 to 8. Various government contractors have been disclosed at recent congressional hearings as reaping huge profits from the arms program and paying their company officials exorbitant salaries and bonuses.

The amendment provides that no money in the bill shall be used to make a final payment on a government contract until the contractor certifies to the government that his profits have not exceeded 6 per cent.

The contractor is to be compelled to file a certificate of costs with the contracting governmental agency, together with an agreement for renegotiation of the contract and reimbursement of all sums in excess of costs and a 6 per cent profit.

Union Blocks War Goods.

Rep. John Taber [R., N. Y.] climaxed the debate with the charge that the United States navy last week permitted itself to be humbled by a New York trucking union, causing a shipment of important war materiels consigned to our men fighting abroad to be seriously delayed.

Because of a strike miles away in Rhode Island, Taber told his amazed colleagues, the union refused to permit the navy to drive a transport truck, containing the materials, thru New York City to an unnamed point of embarkation.

Altho the truck was driven by a federal employé and protected by a uniformed marine guard, he asserted, the navy was forced to unload it at the New York City limits and transfer the shipment to another truck before the trip could be completed.

Held from Monday to Thursday.

Taber refused to disclose the nature of the shipment, but emphasized that it was a heavy consignment of vital arms. It was shipped Monday from Quonset, R. I., he related, but did not leave these shores until Thursday because of the time consumed in transferring the load at New York.

The veteran New York member of the house told the story in tones of disbelief, explaining that the navy had been forced to commandeer the original truck because of a strike in Quonset. It was because the vehicle was involved in the dispute in another state that the union forbade its passage thru New York.

Spokesmen at the navy department exhibited little interest when informed of Taber's charges. They referred all inquiries to the New York naval district, explaining briefly that "there is no information in Washington on that sort of thing."

Demands Coöperation.

Taber cited the action of the New York union as "only one example" of abuses which must be ended if

ROUNDUP OF WAR NEWS FROM MAIN FIGHTING FRONTS

Latest war developments:

Anti-aircraft guns at Corregidor shot down one Japanese bomber and forced others to drop their bombs in Manila bay. American - Filipino patrols on Luzon and Mindanao islands, 500 miles apart, struck counterblows at invading forces in the Philippines, the United States war department announced. The night raid on Bataan peninsula was augmented by an American artillery attack which blasted enemy troop concentrations and silenced a Japanese battery.

Burma Battle Rages.

In Burma, the Chinese and Japanese were fighting hand to hand in Toungoo, 120 miles north of fallen Rangoon, according to a British communique from New Delhi. To the west, British troops withdrew nearer Prome to straighten the allied line.

Allied and Japanese air forces traded blows in the Australian area, Melbourne dispatches revealed. The allies set a Japanese ship afire at Koepang, Dutch Timor, 300 miles off the northern Australian coast. Japanese planes attacked Darwin, Australia, and Port Moresby, New Guinea, but did little damage.

Blast U-Boat Base.

Converting a former United States destroyer into a floating time bomb, a British raiding force blasted the main dock gate of the German submarine base at St. Nazaire, France. A special communique issued in London said there was "every hope" that the gate had been destroyed. A German communique said the British were routed and their "bomb ship" was blown up before it reached the dock.

Moscow acknowledged fierce German counterattacks all along the Russian front but said the Reds were holding or gaining.

More than $75,000 worth of paper and twine stocks went up in smoke last night when fire swept thru the six story building at 340-48 North Dearborn street occupied by the Pilcher-Hamilton company, paper wholesalers.

The fire was discovered by P. F. Grimm, a switchman for the Chicago and North Western railroad, as it burst out at the southeast corner of the building. Crowds gathered quickly but police had no difficulty pushing them out of danger. The dense clouds of smoke from the burning twine took care of that.

Thirty-five pieces of apparatus answered the 5-11 alarm, including two towers, three light-wagons, and the fireboat Busse, which forced water thru 15 lines running over the tracks on Dearborn street to the fire nearly two blocks away. Five hose lines burst.

U-BOATS SINK 3 MORE SHIPS OFF ATLANTIC COAST

Sailor Dies at Helm to Save Mates.

Three more ships have been torpedoed and are presumed to have been sunk by submarines off the Atlantic coast, news dispatches reported yesterday. From three widely separated ports come reports of the landing of 79 survivors of these torpedoings, and the casualty list included 11 killed and 13 known missing, in addition to an undisclosed number in a missing lifeboat. The attacks brought to 103 the number of ships sunk off American shores since Pearl Harbor. The known dead in these 103 sinkings are 786 and 897 are missing. Survivors total 2,519. The names of the three ships, their tonnage, and the exact area in which the new attacks occurred were not made public.

Survivors of two other torpedoed vessels reached port yesterday. The crew of a Greek freighter sunk in the West Indies arrived at Miami, Fla. Thirty-four of the crew of a united nation's vessel sunk in Puerto Rican waters March 9 arrived at New York. Whether these sinkings previously had been reported by the navy department was not made clear.

[The German radio last night claimed 15 British and American ships, totaling 85,000 tons, sunk in a week. It said the victims off the American Atlantic coast, including seven tankers, made up 80,000 tons.]

Details of the new sinkings follow:

SEAMAN DIES AT HELM

Norfolk, Va., March 28 (AP).—The story of how a sailor burned to death at the helm of his ship after it had been torpedoed Thursday off the Atlantic coast was told today by survivors who were landed here.

They said the ship burst into flames after a submarine had fired three torpedoes into it and that the helmsman Oscar G. Chappell of Normangee, Tex., burned to death while keeping the vessel headed into the wind to give his shipmates a chance to escape.

Twenty-two crew members survived the attack. They said 11 of the crew lost their lives.

Survivors said their rescue ship dropped a dozen depth charges when it arrived on the scene 30 minutes after the attack, and told of seeing six planes which dropped flares to direct the rescue vessel to the survivors.

William R. Wolfe of Nederland, Tex., first assistant engineer, said fire started on the bridge immediately after the first torpedo struck.

Oil Catches Fire.

"The flames enveloped the whole bridge," he said. "Oil on the water caught fire."

Paul C. Myers of Beaumont, Tex., said he and six others were on the forecastle head.

"Chappell was at the helm," he said, "and was encircled by flames. He put the helm hard right and held the ship into the wind to keep the flames from sweeping forward. He burned to death there. We jumped overboard and swam away from the blazing oil."

23 SAVED; FEAR 13 LOST

Savannah, Ga., March 28 (AP).—Twenty-three members of the crew of an American tanker torpedoed off the Atlantic coast have reached safety here. Thirteen of the crew of 36 are missing and believed lost.

The master, Capt. Carl A. Flaathen of Philadelphia, and his officers were among those who escaped in a shower of fiery oil after two torpedoes smashed into the ship at night.

The survivors got away from the swiftly sinking vessel in two lifeboats and two rafts and were picked up the next morning.

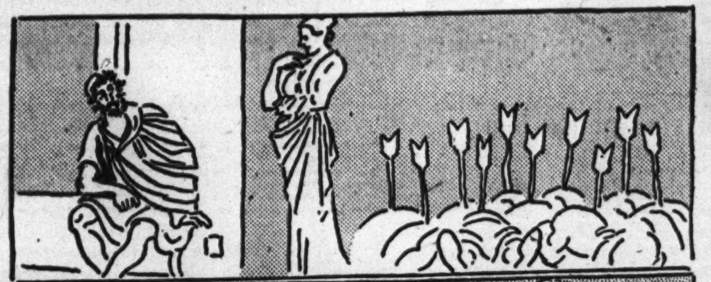
James H. Cosgrove, veteran of 17 years at sea, said: "I was on lookout duty when the first torpedo hit.

"I was blown over the side and all my clothes except my jacket were blown off me."

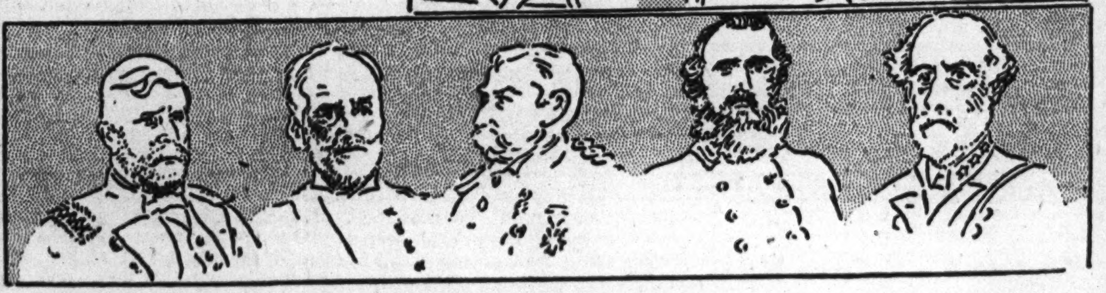
34 Reach Canadian Port.

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, March 28 (AP).—Thirty-four survivors from an allied merchant ship torpedoed in the western Atlantic have been brought to this port after drifting four and a half days in their lifeboats. Two boatloads were rescued by an allied freighter. The ship's third boat still is missing.

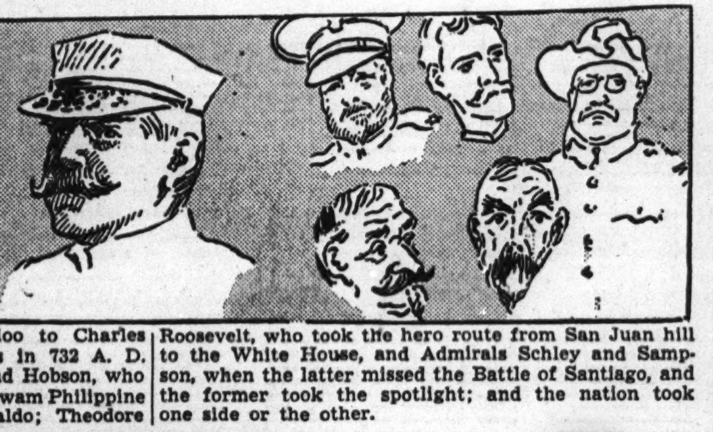
WAR HEROES—PAST AND PRESENT



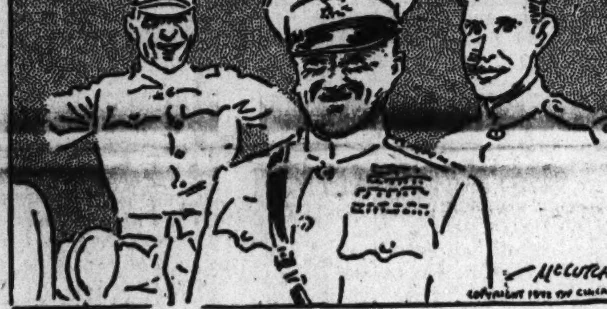
One of the first was Ulysses, hero of the Trojan wars. His wife, Penelope, is asking where he has been for the last 20 years. He has just slain all of her suitors and is resting.



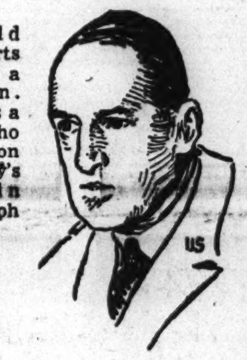
The Civil war produced many heroes, some of whom lasted. Reading from west to east: Generals Grant, Sherman, Sheridan, Stonewall Jackson, and Robert E. Lee. Gen. Grant served two terms as President and nearly ran for a third.



The Spanish-American war was prolific in No. 1 heroes. Right at the start, without any buildup of newsreels, radio broadcasters, columnists, and propagandists, Adm. Dewey was raised to the dizziest pinnacle the people could think of. It has never been equaled since Lindbergh flew the ocean solo the first time. It was so high it became very dangerous, and once or twice the admiral almost slipped. An English philosopher said: "In my judgment, the gun fired by Adm. Dewey in the Battle of Manila, was the most important historical event since the Battle of Waterloo." An American speaker raised the limit from Waterloo to Charles Martel, who turned back the Moslems in 732 A. D. Other Spanish war heroes were Richmond Hobson, who sank the Merrimac; Gen. Funston, who swam Philippine rivers under fire and captured Aguinaldo; Theodore Roosevelt, who took the hero route from San Juan hill to the White House, and Admirals Schley and Sampson, when the latter missed the Battle of Santiago, and the former took the spotlight; and the nation took one side or the other.



The World War I. was not rich in American heroes. Gen. Pershing, Sergt. York, and Ace Rickenbacker.



But World War II. starts off with a bang. Gen. MacArthur is a No. 1 hero who is already on everybody's lips; Colin Kelly, Joseph Lockard, Bulkeley, O'Hare, and Wermuth are known to the whole nation.

A BUNNY STORY NOT FOR EASTER

Benders Prove Something or Other.

BY WARREN PURSELL.

Alcoholic intoxication lowers resistance to infection—especially if the infection is pneumonia and if you're a rabbit. This statement was supported yesterday by the findings in the case of 71 drunken bunnies and 49 sober ones.

Dr. Clarence Lushbaugh, student pathologist at the University of Chicago, collected the 120 rabbits for his experiment to find out how intoxication influences immunity to pneumonia.

First he made 76 of the rabbits immune to pneumonia by vaccination and injections of serum.

Divided Into Groups.

Next he divided his rabbits into groups and proceeded to get 49 of the immunized and 22 not immunized rabbits drunk—so drunk in the words of Dr. Lushbaugh, that they were in a "stuporous condition bordering on coma."

Then he gave 98 of the rabbits pneumonia by inoculating them with the germ. This left the field with 49 bunnies immunized, inoculated and drunk; 27 immunized, inoculated, and sober; 22 not immunized but infected and sober; and 22 that just came along for the ride, for they were neither immunized nor inoculated but were abundantly intoxicated.

Here Is the Score.

Thirty-two of the 49 drunk, immunized and inoculated animals died. Score one for the drys. The immune and vaccinated teetotalers had only one death in their group of 27. Score one for Dr. Lushbaugh, who did the immunizing.

All the 22 rabbits that were infected but not immunized, and which stayed sober, died. Score one for the boys in the back room. Two of the 22 bunnies that just sat around, not immunized, not inoculated, but drunk, also died, one because he had no sense of humor and succumbed when a glass tube was accidentally stuck into his lung. Just score one.

'Went Haywire', Mother Sobs at Flogging Trial; Collapses

BY RITA FITZPATRICK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lafayette, Ind., March 28.—Mrs. Virginia Leslie, the Lafayette housewife who is on trial here for the flogging of Miss Constance Davis, a teacher who reprimanded her son, became hysterical and collapsed on the witness stand as she testified in her own defense today.

It was the dramatic climax of the six day trial which has aroused the whole Wabash valley and started back fense controversies thruout this once quiet, academic town.

"I can't go on. Why do you persecute me like this?" Mrs. Leslie cried as she broke into wild sobs which startled the crowded courtroom and suspended testimony for almost an hour.

Tells of "Persecutions."

Dressed in the same simple, gray wool dress and shabby winter coat which she has worn every day of the trial, the plump, frizzled haired matron had taken the stand in the morning to tell of the alleged persecutions of her child, Danny, 11 years old, at the hands of the teachers of the Longlois school.

She seemed composed as she recounted the grievances, but her stubby hands trembled continually as she twisted her handkerchief into a rope.

Only once in the morning session did she exhibit emotion. In response to a question by Attorney Francis Murphy of the defense, whose hoarse tones became gentle as he quizzed her, Mrs. Leslie had cried, "I would fight to the ends of the earth for my son."

In a terse manner she told how Danny came home earlier than usual on Feb. 27 with the tale that his teacher had hit him with a book and that his head hurt. She then described the trip to the school which she and her husband, Arthur took to find out the cause of the punishment.

"Guess I Went Haywire."

"I entered the room and saw Miss Davis," she related. "She looked so terribly tall I was sure that she really must have hurt my boy. I guess I went haywire.

"I saw all those teachers who had made Danny so miserable. I saw everything—the teacher who choked him and the one who had slapped his little sunburned back. I heard teachers blaming him for things he never did. It was terrible. They were all in the room before me.

"I don't remember anything after that until I found myself in my own living room and my husband telling me what I had done."

Carried from Courtroom.

At this point, Mrs. Leslie slumped in the witness chair and began to sob wildly. She was carried into the Judge W. L. Parkinson's chambers, disheveled and distraught.

"They can do anything with me that they want," she screamed, "but I won't go back on the stand again."

After a doctor treated her, Mrs. Leslie returned pale and trembling.

"Do you recall having a belt in your possession and using that belt to strike Miss Davis?" Murphy asked.

Denies Phoning the Details.

Under cross examination, by D. P. [The Fox] Flanagan, attorney who was hired by a committee of school sponsors to aid in the prosecution, Mrs. Leslie denied she had phoned a friend of hers after the attack and told her "all that had happened in the school room."

Early in the morning Arthur Leslie, a slight, fidgety man, who is charged with aiding and abetting his wife in the whipping of Miss Davis, concluded his testimony begun yesterday. Unable to speak above a mumble because of a paralyzed nerve in his throat, Leslie's story was relayed to the court by Mrs. Bess McCarey, the reporter. He described his actions and those of his wife on the day of the alleged attack.

Mumbles, Jerks Away.

"When my wife entered the classroom, I was at the doorway of the room," he stated. "When she came running out, she was in a very nervous state, her eyes were bulging and she was pale. I asked her what had happened but she mumbled something and jerked away from me. She and I and Danny got into our car and she drove home."

Murphy, who has entered a special plea of temporary insanity on behalf of Mrs. Leslie, asked whether Leslie thought his wife was in a sound mind at the time.

"In my opinion, my wife was of unsound mind that day," he answered.

Britain's Commandos, naval and aerial raiders, struck a smashing blow at the German U-boat and naval base at St. Nazaire, on the French Atlantic coast, yesterday. In an operation strongly reminiscent of the 1918 raid on Zeebrugge, the British declared, that the raiders blasted the main dock gate at St. Nazaire by ramming it with an explosive laden destroyer, sent Commandos ashore to wreck dockyard installations, and diverted the attention of the defenders by air attacks.

The Germans told a different story. They claimed the destroyer was exploded by artillery fire before it reached its target. They first reported 13 torpedo boats were sunk, then later said only that none of the raiding craft "was observed to have escaped." Altho acknowledging some raiders landed, they said all were killed or captured.

The two accounts of the action follow:

Berlin's Version

BERLIN, March 28 (AP).—The German high command tonight issued a special communique on the British raid on St. Nazaire. The announcement, which was the third of the day on the attack, said:

"On March 28, shortly after midnight, enemy planes flew over the area of St. Nazaire in several waves and dropped some bombs which caused no damage. The flights apparently were intended to divert attention of the coastal defenses.

"While the guns were still firing at the aircraft large British naval forces attempted to penetrate into the Loire estuary, but were discovered by naval batteries and fired upon.

"The enemy had drawn up his plans on the model of the Zeebrugge enterprise of the World war, which also was directed against a German U-boat base.

"The events transpired at great speed. While speedboats and assault boats were rushing toward various points on the coast a destroyer set its course toward the lock gates.

Claim Guns Blew up Ship.

"Naval batteries divided their fire and after a short time the destroyer blew up with a thunderous explosion before reaching the dock. It has been ascertained from the wreckage that the destroyer was one of those old American ones which was exchanged some time ago for British bases. The ship was loaded with explosives.

"Almost at the same time at various points of the fight torpedoboats, speedboats, and assault boats went down under the fire of coastal batteries.

"In the course of the massed action several boats managed to land troops on the shore. These were immediately engaged by instantaneous attack, in which all three sections [naval, air, and land forces] participated, dispersed, and fled in small groups into the surrounding houses after their retreat had been cut off.

Troops "Wiped Out."

"A concentric mopping up operation destroyed and dispersed the troops which, in part, surrendered in a body. After a short time calm was established in the town and harbor. All attacks were repulsed and the enemy landing troops were wiped out.

"In pursuit of the enemy which fled with weak forces, German torpedoboats clashed with a superior destroyer formation which the enemy had left there [at the mouth of the Loire] to keep watch. Instead of the expected British motor torpedoboats, German motor torpedoboats dashed at full speed against the destroyers,

London's Story

LONDON, March 28 (AP).—After several hours of official silence, while their raiders returned home from their attack on St. Nazaire, Britain tonight issued the following communique:

"A signal has been received from the St. Nazaire raiding force which is returning safely from the raid, saying that H.M.S. Campbeltown ran the main dock gate at 1:34 this morning only four minutes late on the program time.

"This ex-American destroyer had had her bows specially stiffened and filled with five tons of high explosive.

"A delayed action fuse had been fitted to give our forces sufficient time to complete other demolition work and withdraw before the main explosion took place.

"The signal states that at 4 a. m., after the force had withdrawn, a heavy explosion was heard and seen.

Most of Crew Escapes.

"The majority of the Campbeltown's crew were evacuated by motor launches.

"Special service troops were landed and carried out prearranged demolitions in the dockyard in the face of very heavy opposition.

[Reports from Vichy, France, said Canadian parachutists, as well as Commandos and marines took part in the attack, but senior officers in the Canadian department of national defense said they had no such information.]

"There is every hope that this raid accomplished, tho not without some casualties, the main part, mainly the destruction of the gate of the large dock at St. Nazaire, the only one on the Atlantic coast capable of taking the Tirpitz [a 35,000 ton German battleship].

"Beaufighters and Hudsons of the coastal command covered the return of our forces, one Beaufighter damaging a Heinkel [German bomber].

"Some diversionary bombing was carried out by bombers of the bomber command during the raid in spite of unfavorable weather conditions.

"Further details will be published as soon as the force returns."

Could Isolate Nazi Airports.

The choice of Brittany for this Commando raid, the second on the French coast, appeared significant in view of the contention of many "second front" advocates that the British could seize and hold a line across that 100 mile wide peninsula.

A line from St. Nazaire on the south coast of Brittany to St. Malo on the north would isolate many of Germany's most prized French airports, as well as Brest, the port and shipbuilding center which had served as a hideout for the battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau.

St. Nazaire, a base for American troops in the first World war and the cradle of the big liner Normandie, has excellent docks for any German warships and transports intended for use in an invasion of England. Its facilities have been expanded into one of Germany's greatest U-boat bases.

Underground Sub "Garage" Reported.

The port has been bombed 27 times by the RAF, but the Nazis are reported to have built a huge underground "submarine garage," so these bombings no longer are effective.

Apparently, therefore, demolition parties were landed in an effort to carry out a more direct attack.

A similar success at today's stage of the war would be of great value to the United States and British navies, which admittedly are hard pressed in their efforts to protect shipping in the Atlantic, Pacific, and Indian oceans.

The St. Nazaire raid was the fourth on German occupied Europe in the last three months. The first two were in Norway. The third was on a radio detector post at Bruneval, near Le Havre.

'ANZAC' FIGHTERS RETURN TO HELP GUARD HOMELAND

Vets of Many Battles Join Allied Defenders.

MELBOURNE, Australia, March 28 (AP).—New Zealand troops and flyers today joined Australian and United States troops massing to repel any Japanese invasion attempt. Their commander, Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey, declared that "the next year will decide whether Australia will live or die as a nation."

The New Zealanders were among "Anzac" [Australia and New Zealand] expeditionary forces returning to defend their homeland after two years campaigning in such places as Tobruk, Crete, the Libyan desert, Malaya, and Singapore. Contingents of soldiers, sailors, and airmen were included. New Zealand pilots were among the first arrivals.

The returning Anzacs consisted of fully seasoned veteran organizations which would not be broken up, Gen. Blamey declared. He expected to confer with Gen. Douglas MacArthur, supreme commander of allied forces in the Southwest Pacific, over the week-end before disposing the newly arrived veterans in the swiftly growing defense organization.

Predicts Early Invasion Try.

Blamey, who serves under Gen. MacArthur, said the allies must base their strategy on the assumption that the Japanese would try to invade Australia. He predicted an attack on Darwin, which dangles at the end of a long rail and road line thru the heart of Australia.

"We must see to it that we don't lose Darwin and Port Moresby [New Guinea]," he said. He added an appeal for "hundreds and hundreds" of new fighters and bombers.

"With a powerful air force, we can keep the Japanese from our shores, and with overwhelming air superiority we can blast all the way back to Tokio," he said.

Allies Bomb Koepang.

Allied bombers struck Koepang in Dutch Timor, 300 miles off the northern port of Darwin, and set a Japanese ship afire.

Darwin had its seventh raid shortly after noon but the bombs dropped by seven planes caused no material damage, an Australian communique said.

The enemy, using ever-weakening bomber formations, attacked Port Moresby in southern New Guinea for the 21st time but did little damage.

Huge allied planes ranged hundreds of miles to sea at the northern, eastern, and western approaches of Australia in a vain search for a Japanese invasion armada.

LONDON, March 28 (AP).—The London Star's Sydney correspondent said today that American submarines in the Pacific had sunk five Japanese destroyers, an aircraft carrier, and about 30 transports and supply ships in the last two or three weeks.

Five cruisers, another aircraft carrier, and 30 transports and supply ships were damaged, the paper said, adding that all the sinkings occurred "around Australia."

[The United States navy in Washington said it had no such information as reported by the Sydney correspondent.]

CHICAGO CAPTAIN TRAINS PILOTS AT AUSTRALIA FIELD

"Set to Go," Says Van Auken.

BY BYRON DARNTON.

[By wireless to The New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, March 28.—The young American flyers who soon will be flying against the Japs will have the proper sort of fighting spirit. That was made apparent today in the course of a visit to one of the air fields tucked away in this vast country.

A few flyers who have had combat experience in Java have been assigned to the training groups, and they are able to speak with experience. These veterans pass it on to men who have not yet got bullet holes in their wings.

"These guys are set to go," said Unit Commander Capt. R. D. Van Auken, who is from Chicago. "All they need is a steady supply of ammunition and planes, and they will do their job."

Get Attack Training.

These air men spend much of their time in attacking "enemy" planes. For one of these games one of their fellows took off and climbed skywards. It was his job to be the enemy. For an hour a formation of planes attacked this fellow all over the sky, diving on him from every angle as he sought to evade them.

Wing tips were within six feet of each other during this game. Taking a part in it was a former football player with the New York Giants—Lieut. C. T. Gelatka, a Mississippi State graduate, whose home is in Chicago. Among others were Lieut. M. E. Sims of Norman, Okla., C. C. Johnson of Fort Worth, Texas, and Richard Dennis of Butte, Mont.

Another "setting up" exercise consisted of a quick dash across the field at an altitude of 50 feet, perfecting strafing technique. Sweet sounding engines sent the planes past at a terrific speed.

Like Trains Passing.

"When I am on the ground and the planes shoot across the field that way," said Lieut. Monroe Eisenberg, "it always reminds me of sitting inside a window on a train when passing another train going in the opposite direction. There is the same swish and swoop."

Lieut. Eisenberg is an illustrator who turned fighter pilot for the duration.

All of the aviators are proud of the ships they have and are sure that they can meet the Japanese on even terms—and better if the flow of supplies is not broken.

Lion Tendencies

March still has time to go out like a lamb, but it showed some of the tendencies of a mild lion yesterday. Forecaster G. E. Dunn said March wouldn't mend its ways much today. He said there would be snow flurries and that the weather would continue rather cold, with moderate to occasionally fresh winds.

SMILES ON INDIA LEADERS' FACES CALLED BIG JOKE

NEW DELHI, India, March 28 (AP).—Sir Stafford Cripps says he has been playing a joke on news reporters from the beginning of his conference with Indian leaders.

"I notice," he said, "that reporters try to draw conclusions from the facial appearances of each person as he comes out from the interview. I'm afraid I have been spoofing you. Just as he is going out each time, I tell my visitor he must smile broadly."

CHINESE BATTLE JAPS HAND TO HAND IN BURMA

British Troops Fall Back on Another Front.

NEW DELHI, India, March 28 (AP).—The British defending the central Burma oil fields effected a straightening of their lines today in the Prome area on their right flank, but reported that the situation on their left—about Toungoo—had improved greatly as the result of resistance by the Chinese.

The British maneuver about Prome, involving a slight withdrawal caused by earlier Japanese advances on the allied left, was effected without a major contact with the Japanese. Only "large parties of mixed Burmans, Japanese, and local freebooters" were reported active in the area. The allied lines in that sector had stretched approximately 40 miles south of a line thru Toungoo and were endangered by the possibility of a sudden westward thrust.

Line Still Far Below Prome.

The British lines were said to be still well in front of Prome, protecting the Yenangyaung oil fields to the north.

A Chinese communique said the fighting for Toungoo, 120 miles north of Rangoon, was growing fiercer and that some Japanese troops had infiltrated the southwest corner of the railroad town. Bitter hand-to-hand fighting, in which the Chinese inflicted considerable losses, had been in progress for two days.

The Chinese said the main Japanese pressure was from the south. The arrival of reënforcements for the Chinese troops commanded by the United States Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell improved the position of the defenders.

These forces were encircled Wednesday when Japanese penetrating the Yoma area, circled behind Toungoo and captured an airport to the north of that defense center. The Chinese refused to run, however, and later wiped out the Japanese airport expedition of about 1,000 men.

Chungking Still Optimistic.

Military quarters in Chungking, China, believed the Burma situation was favorable, with the Japanese failing so far to show sufficient strength to score a decisive victory in the six weeks remaining before the rainy season.

They admitted, however, that the Japanese could reënforce their Burma offensive more readily than can either the British or Chinese.

Moreover, strong Japanese air armadas, altho failing to knock out American volunteer group and RAF veterans, nevertheless have been able to strike with telling effect at selected targets.

Today's communique said three-quarters of a town on the Irrawaddy was burned down in a Japanese bombing, but that military damage was slight and casualties few.

[A German broadcast of a dispatch from Shanghai declared the Chinese forces in Burma consisted of 12 divisions divided evenly between the 5th and 6th armies.]

UNIFIED RULE OF FLEET ENDED BY JAVA BATTLE

A SOUTH PACIFIC PORT, March 28 (AP).—A Netherlands navy spokesman said today that the unified command of the united nations naval forces under Dutch Vice Admiral C. E. L. Helfrich had to be dissolved after the first big engagement in the Java sea Feb. 27.

"It is to be regretted," Aneta, Netherlands news agency, quoted him as saying, "that after the incident the allied force went to different refuel ports, because the next day it had become impossible to concentrate again and form a new squadron that should have had a better chance to break thru the enemy, even tho he had superior forces.

"Owing to the impossibility of reconcentrating, the unified command was dissolved, each of the allied admirals in the southwest Pacific taking his own ships under his direct command." He said Adm. Helfrich ordered the attack on the superior Japanese fleet because he believed all must be risked to save the Surabaya naval base.

GEN. MACARTHUR ACCEPTS MEDAL 'FOR THE ARMY'

'Recognition of Courage,' He Declares.

Washington, D. C., March 28 (AP).—Gen. Douglas MacArthur told President Roosevelt in a message today that he accepted the award of the Congressional Medal of Honor "as a recognition of the indomitable courage of the gallant army which it was my high honor to command."

A war department communique said:

"The chief of staff of the United States army has received the following message from Gen. MacArthur relative to the Medal of Honor recently awarded him by the President in the name of congress:

"'Please express to the President and to the secretary of war, and accept for yourself, my sincere thanks and appreciation for the Medal of Honor. I feel that this award is intended not so much for me personally as it is a recognition of the indomitable courage of the gallant army which it was my high honor to command. As a symbol of their heroism it fills me with gratification and solemn pride.'"

MacArthur's message was published along with a message to the Philippine people by President Manuel Quezon and an exchange of messages between Quezon and Lieut. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, commander in the Philippines.

"Gallant Leadership."

Regarding these it said:

"Just before leaving the Philippines for Australia, President Quezon issued a message to the soldiers and people of the Philippines, informing them of Gen. MacArthur's appointment as supreme commander in the Southwest Pacific. He said:

"'His appointment to this high post in charge of wider and more vital activities was undoubtedly due to the brilliance and gallantry of his leadership in the defense of the Philippines.

Brings Renewed Hope.

"'The assignment of Gen. MacArthur to command all allied land, sea, and air forces in our part of the world should bring renewed hope to every Filipino, for as the general himself has asserted, he accepted his new post primarily in order that he may reconquer the occupied areas of the Philippines. I am confident that under his direction reinforcements in increasing quantities will reach the Philippines in the near future. I share the unbounded faith of Gen. MacArthur in our final victory.'

"President Quezon also informed the Philippine people of the appointment by the President of the United States of Lieut. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright to succeed Gen. MacArthur as commander of the forces in the Philippines. In this connection, President Quezon said:

"'No better man could have been selected for that position. Gen. Wainwright is a gallant fighter, an able strategist, and a strong leader. He is a good and sincere friend of the Filipino people and is devoted to their freedom.'

Wainwright's Message.

"President Quezon revealed that, upon receiving this appointment, Gen. Wainwright sent to the president of the commonwealth the following message:

"'I have accepted command of the forces in the Philippines hoping that I shall merit the confidence of your excellency, and that I shall receive from the Filipino people the loyalty and unstinted coöperation which, under your patriotic leadership, were accorded Gen. MacArthur. Inspired by the noble cause for which we are fighting, particularly the achievement of the freedom and the happiness of the people of the Philippines, I will do my dut yunder all circumstances.'

Tribute to Wainwright.

"'Gen. Wainwright knows the Filipino soldier and the Filipino people have faith in him. I know that our forces will be proud to fight under his command, for they have witnessed his extraordinary courage in action, his gallantry, and his willingness to share the trials and perils of combat with every soldier under him. I trust that the Philippine army will give to him the same loyalty and unswerving devotion that it has always given to Gen. MacArthur.

"'I urge all the people of the Philippines to give Gen. Wainwright their unstinted support and coöperation. Under his leadership, and with Gen. MacArthur in command of all forces of the united nations, there is no doubt that final victory for our sacred cause will crown our efforts, thereby assuring liberty, peace, and happiness for the people of the Philippines.'"

Bermuda Again Rejects Woman Suffrage Petition

HAMILTON, Bermuda, March 28.—By a vote of 16 to 15, with five members not participating, the assembly yesterday rejected a woman suffrage petition, thus maintaining the century old suffrage basis of £60 [$240] worth of real estate, with voting limited to men totaling 8 per cent of the population. A woman's suffrage measure once passed the assembly but was rejected by the legislative council.

NECKTIES STOLEN FROM CAR.

A sample case containing neckties valued at $350 was stolen yesterday from the automobile of Harry Yeager, 5125 Kenwood avenue, a salesman. The car was parked at 63 East Lake street.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Chicago army of button buyers yesterday thronged the two Tribune Public Service offices and by closing time had bought 13,250 of the one inch, red, white, and blue buttons bearing the army hero's portrait.

In the four days the buttons have been on sale, approximately 100,000 have been bought by eager buyers at a rate faster than they could be turned out by the manufacturing plant.

The emblems honoring Gen. MacArthur, American hero of Bataan, are being sold over the counter at 2 cents each, with a limit of five to a customer. They cost 5 cents by mail. On the face of each button is a front view likeness of the general taken from his portrait painted for THE TRIBUNE by Oskar Gross.

The button shortage is expected to be over tomorrow when a supply of 100,000 will go on sale at the two offices, 1 South Dearborn street and in Tribune Tower. Profits from the sales are to be used on behalf of the soldiers and sailors at nearby camps and stations.

N. Y. SALES OVER 105,000.

New York, March 28 [Special].—The New York Daily News sold nearly 17,000 Gen. MacArthur buttons by 6 p. m. today, making the total sold in eight days, including mail orders, more than 105,000. Sales are restricted to five for each customer.

Japs Claim Occupation of North Sumatra Town

TOKIO, March 28 [from Japanese broadcasts] — (AP). — Domei news agency reported today that Japanese columns operating against Dutch forces still holding out in northern Sumatra have occupied the town of Koetajana, in the Wilhelmina range 65 miles west of Medan.

JAPS ATTACKED ON TWO FRONTS IN PHILIPPINES

Artillery Blasts Battery in Bataan.

Washington, D. C., March 28 (AP).—A new jolt to Japanese bombers trying to batter the Manila bay forts was reported today by the war department, which said Corregidor's anti-aircraft gunners shot down one heavy bomber and forced others to drop their bombs into the bay.

Lieut. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright's troops meanwhile struck two counterblows at enemy forces, who apparently continued to push their preparations for a renewed offensive.

On the Bataan peninsula, where Japanese patrols were reported active, an American-Filipino patrol carried out a night raid described as successful, while artillery inflicted heavy casualties in silencing an enemy battery, and blasted troop and motor truck concentrations.

Raid Mindanao Post.

More than 500 miles south, defending patrols pushed to within a mile of the occupied city of Zamboanga on the island of Mindanao, and, without sustaining casualties, successfully raided an outpost.

For the fourth successive day Corregidor was under almost continuous bombardment Friday. The foe was reported, however, to have been even less successful than in other raids this week, in which seven enemy planes were downed and others damaged.

Flee in Glare of Lights.

A hail of shells kept the bombers to such heights that their aim was inaccurate and damage to military installations was negligible. After dark the bombers returned, but when picked up by the glare of searchlights, hastily fled, the war department said, after dropping their bombs in the bay.

Whether as many as 54 bombers took part, as in the attack Tuesday, which opened the latest phase of the attempt to cripple the bay fortifications, was not disclosed.

The single bomber destroyed swelled the score of the anti-aircraft artillerymen to 25 planes brought down by Corregidor shells since late December.

Aside from the air raid fighting, batteries of the island forts—Mills, Hughes, Drum, and Frank—shelled enemy gun emplacements on the shore of Cavite province facing the bay.

Portuguese Trawler Picks Up Crew of British Plane

LISBON, March 28 (AP).—A Portuguese trawler reported today that she had picked up the crew of an RAF plane which had asked for help and was proceeding to Lisbon.

Find Cache of Arms Hidden on Farm.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, March 28 (AP).—Two Japanese naval officers posing as agriculturists were arrested at the port city of Belem and large caches of Japanese arms were uncovered today in the interior state of Sao Paulo, hotbed of fifth columnists, by Brazilian authorities pressing a nation-wide drive against axis subversive activities.

The Japanese, identified as Iossio Yamata and Krota Ushi, were found in possession of their officers' uniforms, photographs of ships and strategic Brazilian developments, maps, and spy reports.

Seize Arms, Propaganda.

The hidden arms and a large quantity of propaganda were seized in a raid on a huge Japanese farm, described by authorities as the nerve center of the Japanese nucleus in the Campinas region.

Even before today's raid the removal of Japanese from strategic Sao Paulo areas was under way. The first were cleared away from the vicinity of the explosives plant of the Nitrochimica company, biggest munitions factory in South America which now is turning out supplies exclusively for the Brazilian army.

In a companion move, the government has started proceedings to immobilize the Japanese coastal fishing fleet, estimated at 1,000 vessels.

Arrest More Nazi Spies.

The government also announced three additional arrests in its cleanup of a vast Nazi espionage ring. Previously more than 280 Germans, Italians and Japanese had been taken into custody.

It was disclosed that the Berlin instructions directed an alleged Danish leader of the Nazi spy ring to communicate immediately all information on "shipments of minerals from South America to the United States, Canada, and England; all navigation between the United States and the Red sea, any changes of flag [of allied ships], and all movements of United States air forces in the United States and South America."

TELLS OF QUEZON INAUGURAL WITH NO FANCY DRESS

UNITED STATES ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Australia, March 28 (AP).—Drab khaki clothing replaced fancy uniforms and gold braid when President Manuel Quezon of the Philippines was sworn in for his second term last Dec. 30 in "the rudest type of bomb shelter," officials disclosed today while Quezon journeyed toward this headquarters.

"We chose an afternoon when the Japanese were least likely to start bombing," a spokesman said. "There was a raid, however, just before the ceremony.

"We left all our fine clothes in Manila and there were no fancy uniforms nor gold cloth at this inaugural—just what khaki clothing we had. Yet we believe this was the most impressive ceremony of its kind ever held."

Undersea Tunnel Between Japanese Islands Opened

U. S. WILL AVENGE BATAAN HEROES: COL. M'CORMICK

Gave Japanese Their Only Defeat, He Says.

The story of the defeat of Japanese invaders by American and Filipino forces in the Philippines was told by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, in an address last night over W-G-N, W59C, and the Mutual Broadcasting system as a feature of the Chicago Theater of the Air.

"We cannot tell just now whether they [the Japanese] will accept their defeat and trust to the exhaustion of supplies to obtain their end or whether they will feel that the morale of their troops and world public opinion require that they capture the [Bataan] peninsula by assault, and to this end accumulate a vast force of troops, equipment, warships, and airplanes and attempt to swallow up the defenders," Col. McCormick said.

"Whatever may happen, these Americans and their Filipino allies have done what never has been done before—they have beaten the Japanese. What one group of Americans has done other groups of Americans can do and will do. America must and will march across the Pacific and avenge its heroes."

TEXT OF THE ADDRESS

Following is the text of the address:

"The battle of Bataan, now in its fourth month, will go down as the most heroic battle in history, not only because its defenders are vastly inferior to the attackers in numbers and in equipment, but because of the extraordinary heterogeneous character of the defenders. They are composed of a small American regular force, a handful of marines, a handful of sailors, a handful of aviators without planes, a small number of civilian volunteers, the excellently trained and efficient Filipino scouts, and the Filipino army, which has been forming and training under Gen. MacArthur for the last six years.

"These men had one year of training and were called back a short time before the war broke out and organized partly under American officers and partly under graduates of the Filipino military academy, and under Gen. Vincente Lim, a graduate of West Point. Armed for the most part with World war weapons, this heterogeneous force is acting with uniform efficiency and courage and with the good will of almost the entire native population.

How Situation Came About.

"How this situation came into being is as extraordinary as the force itself. In 1898, when the United States declared war on Spain to free Cuba, Adm. Dewey, stationed at Hongkong, attacked and defeated a Spanish fleet in Manila bay. The Filipinos at that time were in revolution against Spain and were actually besieging Manila.

"After a military force was sent to take the Cavite naval arsenal for use of the navy, the Spanish general in Manila surrendered the city to the American force, which occupied it and kept the Filipinos out.

"What to do with the Philippines now became a question. Since Spain had lost them, Germany coveted them. Great Britain encouraged the United States to keep possession, and Rudyard Kipling wrote the famous poem to the American people—to 'take up the white man's burden.'

"Before a decision could be reached, firing broke out between the Filipinos and the American troops. War started, and there was no place to stop short of conquest.

"When peace had been achieved by the sword, a government was set up which, altho arbitrary, was conducted by men believing in republican principles.

"The Americans undertook something no other colonial power had ever done—the education of the people—and what could they teach them but American doctrine?—the Declaration of Independence—the equality of men—the right to self-government. The Filipinos took these teachings seriously and America began turning the government over to them. In 1933 legislation was enacted providing for the complete withdrawal of the American government and American forces by 1946.

MacArthur Creates Army.

"In 1936, in anticipation of the responsibilities of independence, the Philippine army was organized, and Gen. MacArthur, retired chief of staff of the United States army, was employed to create a Philippine army.

"As the war clouds gathered, the Filipino soldiers who had passed into the reserve were progressively called up, some of them as late as three weeks before the outbreak of the war. The American troops were somewhat reënforced by both regulars and National Guard troops, some tanks, and some airplanes.

"After bombarding the Philippine air fields, the Japanese landed first at the north end of the island of Luzon, and then on the east coast, according to the plan predicted by Homer Lea as long ago as 1909.

"The American-Filipino forces were not numerous enough to contest seriously the landing or the Japanese advance. They could only carry on delaying actions while supplies were unloaded from ships which had arrived just before the Japanese blockade, including one shipload of Canadian equipment, which, unable to reach Hongkong, put into Manila.

"Due to our republican system, there was no class distinction between American officers and American civilians in Luzon. The latter entered the defense to a man, each one undertaking whatever work he was best fitted for. In particular, engineers and electricians rendered indispensable service.

"The Japanese came as thoroly prepared as Germans ever were. They had better maps than our own, and their first troops had been taught to speak Filipino.

Japanese Efforts Don't Work.

"They had the repertory of tactics which has won them so many victories. They attacked from two sides of Manila, the north coast and the west, infiltrated, and advanced rapidly. They had command of the air and parachute troops, tanks, artillery, and snipers.

"But their efforts did not work. In the first place the American engineers did demolish all the bridges. American and Filipino troops fought desperately, no matter what the odds. When cut off they did not surrender, but slipped away thru the jungles and returned to their comrades by a variety of strategems that will long go down in the history of romantic warfare.

"As soon as supplies had been moved out, Manila was declared an open city. The contents of the Cavite arsenal were removed to Corregidor and the Bataan peninsula, and the arsenal was destroyed.

"The armed forces, not allowing themselves to be cut off by the Japanese pincer movement, took station at the head of the peninsula.

Change to Stubborn Defense.

"Now delaying action was changed to stubborn defense.

"The first Japanese attack, made after a preparation fire by artillery and dive bombers, was stopped short of the first line. A subsequent attack drove a wedge into our line. Then the great 31st infantry counterattacked and, in a bloody engagement, lasting over several days, drove the Japanese out.

"The Japanese now had recourse to sharpshooting from treetops, which proved so effective in Malaya.

"MacArthur organized a force of moppers-up under command of that man who so honors Chicago—Capt. Wermuth. They exterminated the sharpshooters.

"Japanese trying to infiltrate by wearing American or Filipino uniforms were detected by the use of a new shibboleth; Japanese cannot pronounce the letter 'L.'

"The Japanese resorted to landings in rear of the American position. Some of the landing boats were destroyed by artillery, some by the airplane or two that MacArthur still had. The Japs that reached the shore were rounded up and captured or killed.

"The Japanese planned and calculated to take Luzon in their stride, just as they took their other objectives.

"They landed what they thought was a sufficient preponderance of men and machines. They worked this army all out to its limit and were beaten by MacArthur's heroes. They have stopped attacking.

"We cannot tell just now whether they will accept their defeat and trust to the exhaustion of supplies to obtain their end or whether they will feel that the morale of their troops and world public opinion require that they capture the peninsula by assault and to this end accumulate a vast force of troops, equipment, warships, and airplanes and attempt to swallow up the defenders.

"Whatever may happen, these Americans and their Filipino allies have done what never has been done before—they have beaten the Japanese. What one group of Americans has done other groups of Americans can do and will do. America must and will march across the Pacific and avenge its heroes."

Freshmen Working on War Map

Mundelein college freshmen are fashioning a war map with the aid of maps published by The Tribune for use in following the course of the war. In this group are members of the history class (left to right), Neta Shifris, Dorothy Clark, Ruthe Bransfield, and Mary Jane Harvey.

Follow the War

Freshmen in the history and art departments at Mundelein college are completing work on a map of the world scaled from Tribune war maps, to be hung outside the tearoom at the college. A Tribune map was copied on wallboard and is being painted in oils so that boundary lines may be changed as the war progresses. Each week freshmen will meet to discuss necessary changes. Sister Mary Carmelyn is in charge of the project for the art department and Sister Mary Harrita for the history department.

W-G-N'S THIRD OPERETTA FULL OF GAY SONGS

Initial Performance Sets Audience Whistling.

BY MARTHA MURPHY.

A sprightly modern operetta, filled with catchy tunes, was presented by the Chicago Theater of the Air over W-G-N and the Mutual network last night as the third and last prize winner in W-G-N's quest for the Great American Operetta. "America Loves a Melody," as the operetta tentatively is titled, was heard by a studio audience which left the theater whistling its gay songs.

Marion Claire and Walter Cassel sang last night's rôles of two young people caught up in the glitter of Broadway. "America Loves a Melody" sings of a young composer who scoffs at popular music, who strives to use his classical training, and who suffers a change of heart when he meets a young and popular singer and writes a hit tune.

Meet at Rehearsal of Revue.

As the operetta opens, Philip Hayes, the composer, meets Lorna Carroll, the singer, at a rehearsal for a new Broadway revue. Phil plays the piano for George Brandon, producer-director of the revue, just as a means of making money. Lorna, on the other hand, is the daughter of a famous musical comedy star and wants a start on Broadway.

Lorna convinces Phil that his ideas about music are wrong and that America needs gay, popular tunes. She persuades him to rewrite one of his classical compositions into a number for the show. Brandon names the song "America Loves a Melody" and makes it the grand finale of the revue.

The revue itself is somewhat like the Great American operetta quest, for all of its tunes are written by Americans about American themes or scenes. One of the loveliest, "When You Come to the End of a Perfect Love," is written by a Brooklyn milkman, Brandon says.

Songs Have New Meaning.

Romance enters the story as Phil and Lorna discover that they are in love and every song they sing has a new meaning for them. Their engagement is announced on opening night of the revue.

The music of "America Loves a Melody" has the light-hearted beat that sets American toes dancing and that has made current American music known thruout the world. Particularly danceable is "Wouldn't You Like to Give My Heart a Break?" which Phil is playing as Lorna meets him for the first time.

The title song from "America Loves a Melody" and "Just a Little Boy's Day Dream," another of the hit songs, appear together with the story of the operetta, in the Graphic section of this issue of THE CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE.

Audience to Choose Winner.

The two other prize winning operettas have been presented on preceding Saturday nights and each of the three finalists has been awarded $1,000. An award of $5,000 will be presented to the grand prize winner chosen by the listening audience in a $2,500 contest. Next Saturday night a program of selections and dramatic sketches from the three prize winning operettas will be presented with Miss Claire and Mr. Cassel again as stars.

Listeners to the Chicago Theater of the Air may take part in the contest by choosing the operetta they like best and stating the reason for their choice in 50 words or fewer. A contest entry blank is printed in today's Graphic section, but entrants may write on their own paper if they wish. Entries must reach the Operetta Contest, W-G-N, Inc., Chicago, Ill., by midnight April 7.

WAR BOARD CURTAILS THUMB TACKS, PAPER CLIPS, SPOOLS, PINS

Washington, D. C., March 28 (AP).—The war caught up with paper clips, thumb tacks, and pins today.

Effective April 1, the War Production board ordered sharp curtailment in the use of iron and steel in the manufacture of these items and a variety of other metal office supplies, including pencil sharpeners, typewriter spools, perforators, clip boards, and desk accessories.

Ordinary consumers will be unable to obtain such supplies in the usual quantities, WPB said but no shortages should occur if consumers make careful use of supplies on hand.

During the next three months, the order provides use of iron and steel in office supplies must be reduced 20 per cent compared with 1940 figures. Beginning July 1 the cut will be 40 per cent. Use of copper, tin, chromium, nickel or crude rubber is prohibited.

Crown's Agent in Canada Flies to Britain to Confer

KING CALLS ALL BRITAIN TO DAY OF VICTORY PRAYERS

Wicked Forces Must Go, He Warns.

LONDON, March 28 (AP).—King George VI. told his people in a broadcast tonight—on the eve of an empire day of prayer—that "there can be no peace until the wicked forces that have wrecked the world are cast down and utterly destroyed."

He said there were "moments, no doubt, when some of us may not feel as fresh as we were two and a half years ago when we started at the bottom of the hill," and added:

"But don't forget that we are much nearer the top. United in close comradeship with our brothers and sisters overseas and with our mighty and valiant allies, we shall go forward together undaunted and unwearied until our task is accomplished.

Asks Prayers of Thanks.

"In our prayers, let us thank Almighty God for bringing us thus far in safety thru so many dangers and let us ask Him to give us that spiritual strength which great causes deserve and with which the conquered survive.

"Our hearts go out to our comrades in Australia, New Zealand, India, and Burma in their hour of trial," he said. "We know that they are facing it with the same unflinching spirit as those at home in the mother country. We shall give them every help in our power, and we are glad to know that strong American forces are already ranged at their side.

"To underrate the effort we have already put forth would be a great mistake, a great dis-service both to ourselves and to our allies. The country has never been so united and has never worked so hard as it is doing now. That does not mean, however, there is not a great deal more that can be done. We can and must improve our teamwork.

Urges Pace be Quickened.

"We can and must quicken the pace, for speed is the sinew of modern war. These things are not just matters for those in authority. They depend on each one of us in every walk of life doing his job with all the energy at his command.

"I ask you to go to your tasks in the critical months ahead with a new fire, with fresh confidence in yourselves, and in each other. We all make mistakes, but let us be certain that we ourselves are doing our utmost before we waste time and energy in finding fault with others.

"To come thru the ordeal before us, we need God's help—and for this I have called my peoples to prayer tomorrow. We must dedicate ourselves anew to the service of the just and good cause for which we fight. Strong in our faith and resolved to shrink from no effort, no sacrifice, we shall march on to the triumph of right which alone will open to all the promises of a broader and better age."

NAZI ARMY TRIES NEW TACTICS TO STEM RED DRIVE

Open Field Attacks Fail, Too, Moscow Hears.

MOSCOW, March 28 (AP).—Driven back upon the defense of fortified villages and cities by the soviet offensive, the German armies have switched tactics to open field fighting in counterattacks aimed at shaking off the Russians' grip and gaining fresh footholds for a spring push.

That was the picture of the military situation drawn tonight both by an authoritative foreign military source who has been with the Red army at the front and by the army newspaper, Red Star.

Each conceded that the Nazis are counterattacking furiously all along the front at tremendous cost. Both agreed the initiative still was firmly held by the Russians.

Calls for Second Front.

While the foreign observer expressed confidence in the soviet campaign, he declared that it would be essential for the allies to open a second front against the Nazis in order to enable the Red army to deliver a knockout blow this year.

Frontline dispatches, meanwhile, singled out the fighting around Staraya Russa, where the entrapped German 16th army made fresh attempts to break the Russians' ring of steel; in a central sector where soviet divisions forced a river and held their positions on the west bank despite counterthrusts; in the southwest, where Russian tanks and artillery were said to have repulsed a tank-led Nazi drive, and in the south, where the Nazis counterattacked time and again.

The midnight Russian communique said several German counterattacks were repulsed and that Russian troops occupied several localities. Eight German planes were reported destroyed Friday.

The Moscow radio, quoting Stockholm dispatches, said a company of 200 Finnish ski volunteers, attached to the SS. Norland German regiment on the northern front, was annihilated when the Germans withdrew and failed to inform the Finns.

Moscow Bombed, Say Nazis.

BERLIN, March 28 [From German broadcasts] — (AP).—"Important military objectives in Moscow" were attacked last night in the first bombing of the soviet capital in recent weeks, a German communique said today.

Strong tank supported attacks by the Red army on the central and northern fronts were admitted, but the Germans said the onslaught proved unsuccessful.

Finns Report Capture of Island.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, March 28 (AP).—The Finnish high command tonight reported its forces had captured the island of Suursaari, in the middle of the Gulf of Finland, north of Estonia and west of Leningrad.

ALUMNUS OF N. U. REPORTED LOST ON JACOB JONES

Lieut. Edward L. Schrenk, Northwestern university alumnus, was one of the more than 100 men who lost their lives March 3 in the sinking of the destroyer Jacob Jones, according to word which reached here yesterday. The destroyer was torpedoed off Cape May, N. J. Lieut. Schrenk was graduated from Northwestern university in 1937 and received a commission as ensign in the Naval Reserve. He had been a member of the university's R. O. T. C. unit.

Lieut. Schrenk was the fourth known Northwestern alumnus killed in service. The others are Harald J. Christopher, '41, who died on the U. S. S. Arizona at Pearl Harbor, and Don McCarnes, former basketball star, and Richard D. Mather.

SERB GUERRILLAS DESTROY ITALIAN DIVISION: MOSCOW

New York, March 28 (AP).—The Moscow radio relayed an Istanbul report today that early this month Jugo-Slav guerrillas "destroyed an Italian division [12,000 to 15,000 men] stationed in the city of Niksic in Montenegro."

The broadcast added that the battle began late in February with the Jugo-Slavs surrounding the city and the Italians refusing a demand to surrender.

"The fighting, which had begun following the refusal, ended on March 6 with the annihilation of the Italians," the Moscow radio said. "The partisans seized large trophies, including 18 tanks, 46 guns, 112 machine guns, and huge quantities of ammunition. The local population helped the partisans."

Joins Air Corps

Philip Blasig (left) being fingerprinted for induction into army air corps by Private Carl W. Stuenkel in Federal building.

Philip A. Blasig, 23 years old, formerly a member of the Polish unit of the royal air force, was sworn in yesterday as an army air corps cadet. He was in England last September with the RAF but returned here on the ship that took American troops to Ireland. Blasig lives at 6500 Newgard avenue.

Louis and Dennis Lochner, twins, of Herscher, Kankakee county, also were sworn into the air corps. Both were graduated from Herscher High school in 1939. They are 20 years old. Another brother, James, 24, is a sergeant in the coast artillery.

BULGARIA AGREES TO AID GERMANS IN WAR ON RUSSIA

Expect Only 'Token' Army Will Go to Front.

BERNE, Switzerland, March 28 (AP).—Bulgaria was pledged in principle to war against Russia today by her premier, Bogdan Philov, but he avoided an outright promise of the troops which Adolf Hitler has demanded of King Boris.

"Thanks to our army," Philov told the Bulgarian parliament, the little Balkan kingdom could fulfill her tasks in the axis and was ready for all sacrifices. He declared "the destruction of bolshevism" was essential, the French news agency Havas reported from Sofia.

"Altho we are not fighting, we are in a state of war with all its dangers," Philov declared. The premier added that Bulgaria's duty was to "increase as much as possible our production by exploiting all possibilities."

Made Good Bargain.

Observers said this did not mean that troops would go to the eastern front. Some suggested the statement might mean that Boris, who saw Hitler this week, had made a good bargain and would send only token "volunteer" troops.

"Our fate is insolubly linked with the fate of our allies," Philov told the closing session of parliament. "The first task of putting into being the new order is the destruction of bolshevism which has always been a great danger for Europe and civilization."

He said he was convinced that "the people are ready for all sacrifices which may be necessary."

Nazi Troops on Move.

Reports from Istanbul, Turkey, told of a considerable new influx into Bulgaria of German troops and airmen and of intense defense construction along the Turkish border. The German military was said to have taken over three large Sofia hotels.

Until Hitler's attack on the soviet union, Bulgaria had considered Russia its "big brother" in international relations. She had steadfastly refused to enter any pacts or alliances directed at the U. S. S. R.

But today the Bulgarian premier said that Bulgaria's sacrifices were "in no way comparable with those of Bulgaria's allies." Rumania has lost large numbers of troops on the Russian front and Hungary has sent some forces to fight there.

Brauchitsch in Greece.

MOSCOW, March 28 (AP).—A Tass dispatch from Istanbul said today there were reports in military circles in Turkey that Field Marshal Gen. Walther Von Brauchitsch, removed by Adolph Hitler from command of the German army, had arrived in Greece on a mission connected with concentration of Nazi parachutists at island bases in the eastern Mediterranean.

CHUNGKING KEEPS REBUILDING, THO BOMBS ARE DUE

Debris Gives Way to New Business Blocks.

BY HARRISON FORMAN.

[By wireless to The New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

CHUNGKING, China, March 28.—Altho winter's protective shroud of mist and rain is lifting and clear days are returning, bringing the "bombing season" back to Chungking, the Chinese capital is optimistic and busy repairing the damage wrought by previous Japanese raids.

Even while Japanese bombers are striking nearer to the capital, money is so plentiful here that merchants and business men are confidently investing in new shops, living quarters, and manufacturing enterprises. This is going on despite the fact that they know Chungking is on the threshold of another devastating season of raids.

For example, one block which was leveled by bombs last fall and which up to last week looked like nothing but a heap of debris, today is swarming with stone cutters, masons, and carpenters. A whole block of buildings is rising almost miraculously.

Native Materials Used.

It is typical of all Chungking, for the Chinese, cut off from foreign trade, are determined to develop their own industry and trade toward the goal of self-sufficiency.

With steel, cement, and other such materials difficult to obtain buildings now are being constructed of native materials such as stone, brick, bamboo, and mud, all of which are plentiful. They are built with an eye to durability and serviceability. There are no fancy frills. The structures range from buildings with heavy stone foundations, brick walls, and timbered roofs to simple ones of bamboo poles and slats plastered with mud.

While there still is plenty of evidence of wholesale destruction from the Japanese bombers last year, signs of a revitalized business world in Chungking are more conspicuous. Where formerly stood four story, foreign styled offices, shops, and banks, glittering with neon lights and impressive window displays, there now are rows of one story, flat roofed buildings. Altho these are plain, they are equally well stocked with seasonable products of all kinds.

How Stocks Were Saved.

This is because the shopkeepers, during previous bombing seasons, kept most of their stocks in bombproof dugouts or safe storage places in the country, carrying only day-to-day supplies on hand.

Altho Chungking is confidently rebuilding, women and children are being urged to leave the city for the safer countryside. The able bodied men are being encouraged to remain to carry on the program of rebuilding and for emergency relief work when the bombers arrive.

40,000 EVACUATED LONDON CHILDREN REPORTED 'LOST'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 28.—Despite the efforts of the London county council, 40,000 London boys and girls "lost" since evacuation of the capital began still have not been traced, it was disclosed tonight.

The reason for this, according to council officials, is that the evacuation began when the children were on holiday. Some of them never returned to London, and have remained at their holiday addresses since August, 1939. A number of others were evacuated unofficially and went to areas not included in the council's scheme.

There has also been, it is pointed out, a certain amount of movement among evacuees since they arrived at their original billets, and altho in the majority of these cases the London county council was notified of all changes of address, in some instances the local authorities did not pass on the information.

BRITISH DOWN 13 NAZI PLANES IN CHANNEL SWEEP

LONDON, March 28 (AP).—Squadrons of RAF fighters ranged over the channel area from Le Havre to Dunkirk today and the air ministry reported 13 German planes were destroyed. Squadron Leader Brendon ["Paddy"] Finucane, Irish ace leading the Scottish auxiliary squadron, shot down two planes, bringing his total score to 29.

The British lost five planes in the day's fighting, a communique said. The Germans sent up a heavy screen of anti-aircraft fire and many fighter planes against the British. A member of Finucane's squadrons said, "There appeared to be Huns all over the sky. It was an amazing party. I've never seen anything like it."

Down Five British Planes: Nazis.

BERLIN, March 28 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—Five British bombers which attempted to fly over Heligoland bight [bay] were shot down last night, the Berlin radio said today.

NAZI BOMBERS BLAST MALTA IN SIX HOUR RAID

VALETTA, Malta, March 28 (AP).—German flyers struck at Malta for six hours today, using dense low clouds as a screen. The RAF provided such excellent defense that most bombs fell into the water, a British communique said. One German plane probably was destroyed. A few civilian casualties resulted from splinters.

[The Rome radio said German bombers had scored direct hits on one cruiser and two destroyers and sunk one of three merchant vessels hit by bombs in Malta.]

CAIRO, Egypt, March 28 (AP).—British patrols working by day and night have penetrated axis positions in Libya between Tmimi and El Mechili, general headquarters announced today, giving no details. RAF bombs fired a large three masted ship.

[The Berlin radio claimed Nazi bombers had wrecked a British troop train and cut a railway in several places in northern Egypt.] opened gunfire, and went into a torpedo attack.

GERMANS ASSERT THEY FOUGHT OFF RAID OFF SUB BASE

"Altho the enemy destroyers laid a smokescreen, they proved to be a clear target for our boats and were only partly able to evade our torpedoes. Five torpedo hits were scored. Under protection of the smoke screen the remainder of the enemy took flight.

Claim Capture of Gunboat.

"During this naval action another motor torpedoboat discovered a British motorboat of a type described as a motor gunboat fleeing out of the Loire estuary, took it under fire, seized it on the high seas, and captured 25 men aboard it.

"In order to be able to participate in the action against both boats the [German motor torpedoboat] commander gave the order to throw off the ropes and refrained from sinking the boat in consideration of three seriously injured British who were still aboard.

"On the return of our torpedoboats from the victorious attacks, the British gunboat was taken in tow and brought safely into port. Except for this boat no other enemy naval unit was observed to have managed to escape from the bay of St. Nazaire.

"The British destroyer formation had kept its watch in vain."

SEE JAP MOVES IN CHINA AS PLAN TO ATTACK REDS

CHUNGKING, China, March 28 (AP).—Chinese military sources said today that extensive Japanese military movements in Shansi province, apparently the preliminaries to a heavy battle to drive Chinese from north of the Yellow river, possibly was part of a Japanese plan to attack Russia.

These quarters said the bulk of the Japanese air force appeared to be concentrated in Manchukuo and Corea. The impending battle in Shansi would be designed to secure Japan's western flank, Chinese said.

Military quarters, expressing optimism on the situation in Burma, said they believed the allied strength there was sufficient to prevent a decisive Japanese victory in the six weeks remaining before the rainy season.

ST. NAZAIRE FEAT ECHOES 1918 RAID ON ZEEBRUGGE

Submarine Was Used as a Bomb.

The British attempt to destroy dock facilities at the German submarine base of St. Nazaire recalled Britain's successful World War I raid on the big German U-boat base at Zeebrugge, Belgium, on April 22 and 23, 1918. In each raid a vessel loaded with explosives was blown up in the harbor, like a gigantic time bomb.

In the raid on St. Nazaire, a former American destroyer was blown up against the dock gate, in an attempt to make the dock useless.

At Zeebrugge, the British used a submarine as a time bomb to destroy a viaduct barring entrance to the harbor. Thru the opening thus blasted in the breakwater, three concrete laden cruisers were sped. They were sunk by mines previously attached to their hulls, and the harbor was effectively blockaded.

Cruiser Is Warped In.

The British approached Zeebrugge under cover of a smoke screen. The obsolete cruiser Vindictive was warped against the breakwater mole and held there by two ferry boats, the Iris and Daffodil.

Under intense machine gun and shell fire from the Germans, British sailors and marines poured onto the breakwater and attacked the German gun positions to distract the gunners and prevent them from hitting the British ships. A battery of 11 inch guns only 300 yards away reduced the Vindictive's entire superstructure to wreckage, but was unable to sink the cruiser, which was protected by the breakwater.

Sink Concrete-Loaded Ships.

When the British submarine exploded and destroyed the viaduct, the cruisers Intrepid, Iphigenia, and Thetis, packed with concrete, entered the harbor and were sunk at designated spots. Having completed the operation, the British withdrew. They lost 160 men killed in this engagement and a simultaneous attempt to blockade the harbor of Ostend, Belgium. Several hundred were wounded.

In a second raid on the Ostend base two weeks later the shattered Vindictive, having been loaded with concrete in the meantime, was sunk in the harbor entrance.

CRIPPS TO TALK WITH NEHRU AND GANDHI TODAY

NEW DELHI, India, March 28 (AP).—Sir Stafford Cripps, who is seeking an independence formula to weld India into a solid bloc against the axis, will meet with the great Indian leaders, Mohandas K. Gandhi and Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, again tomorrow.

The all-India congress working committee will hold an executive meeting tomorrow to discuss Sir Stafford's proposals. Both Gandhi and Nehru, former leaders of the congress, still have powerful voices.

The British envoy declared he was "entirely satisfied" with the extensive talks he already had had and once more expressed his determination to conclude the negotiations within 10 days.

Proaxis Leader Killed, Report.

New York, March 28 (AP).—The Vichy radio said tonight that Subhas Chandra Bose, proaxis Indian Nationalist, had been killed in an airplane crash off the Japanese coast. The Tokio radio said yesterday that a plane bearing 11 persons, including four Indians en route to an "Indian independence" conference in Tokio, was missing and that all aboard were believed dead.

BALKAN ACTIVITY HINTS AXIS WILL OPEN BLITZ SOON

Believe April Is Deadline for Near East Drive.

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAIRO, Egypt, March 28.—Axis activity in the Balkans and the near east indicates that the time is just about ripe for a new axis stab at the middle east. The opinion of experienced observers today is that an attempt at a blitz will come before this moon wanes, if it comes at all. [The moon will be full on Wednesday, April 1.]

For months past there has been a slow, methodical axis preparation which every one talked about. In recent weeks it has become more active and now is almost feverish.

Crete is packed with enemy troops and so are the Dodecanese islands. Of course, that might be a sham, and no one loses sight of that fact, but no one loses sight of another fact—the eastern European and middle east oil are Hitler's lifeblood. He must keep the Rumanian fields and try to get the middle east fields.

Might Cripple Wells.

Long range bombing with flying fortresses or B-24s could destroy the Rumanian refineries and cripple the wells, so it is logical to suppose that, if Hitler sees an opening, he will try for Iraq or Iran.

The enemy air forces in the eastern Mediterranean have been building up slowly for some time past and now are very powerful.

It is not a matter of guesswork to say that this is the most likely period for an axis attack in the middle east. There are these facts: first, they have not attacked yet, altho constantly reënforcing their troops, and second, if they wait much longer they will miss the boat.

If they hope to hold the Russians they must launch a colossal counterattack this spring. That attack should be in full swing by June 1. Anything starting later than the end of April would be too late for even the Nazis to believe they could take the middle east before June.

Air Scouts Numerous.

Enemy reconnaissance flights have been intensified and that always is a sign of coming fighting.

Those who know Turkey do not think that Turkey will give in to the axis, no matter how many messages are sent to the Turks nor how many consultations are held. Turkey is not a country which can be conquered by gestures and threats.

Turkey is like Jugo-Slavia—you have to fight for it and even if beaten the Turks would continue fighting. Turkey is like Jugo-Slavia from every aspect of the military situation. It has the same weaknesses and virtues, so after their experience with Jugo-Slavia, the Germans are not likely to attack Turkey when there are easier ways to do the job.

NAME CHICAGOAN AS ASSISTANT TO SEC. PATTERSON

Washington, D. C., March 28.—Appointment of Herbert A. Friedlich, partner in the Chicago law firm of Mayer, Meyer, Austrian, and Platt, as special assistant to the undersecretary of war, Robert P. Patterson, was announced today by the war department. Friedlich will have charge of all legal matters relating to the army procurement program which is in the province of the undersecretary.

Friedlich was born Dec. 31, 1893, in Rochester, N. Y. He is a graduate of Harvard Law school. In 1917 he served with the Council on National Defense and the War Industries board before enlisting in the army. He served as a private in the coast artillery and was a cadet in an officers' training camp when the war ended.

Herbert A. Friedlich of 636 North St. Johns road, Highland Park, Chicago attorney who has been appointed a special assistant to the undersecretary of war, said last night that he expected to go to Washington on Tuesday or Wednesday. Friedlich, 48 years old, is married and the father of a boy and a girl. In 1922 he was awarded a Carnegie medal for rescuing a man who was injured and marooned on a mountain ledge in Montana.

Shoppers Carry Own Packages

Loop shoppers board bus for home carrying packages, instead of having them delivered.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

It Saves Tires

The shopping crowd in the loop yesterday was toting its own bundles. Most of the Easter shoppers carried at least one package and some were really loaded. It was the first heavy test of the "Carry-Your-Own" program inaugurated when the government ordered truck delivery service cut to a minimum to conserve tires.

There were few complaints heard except in the crowded buses where fragile hat boxes took a beating and some packages with sharp corners were decidedly unpopular. Merchants reported that customers coöperated cheerfully.

NAVY GRAB SEEN IN MOVE TO PUT LAVAL IN CABINET

Washington, D. C., March 28 (AP).—Chairman Tom Connally [D., Tex.] of the senate foreign relations committee asserted today that negotiations to get Pierre Laval into the Vichy cabinet were linked with a new attempt by Hitler to gain control of the French fleet.

But, said Connally, he expected the French people to thwart this scheme.

Saying that without the French fleet Hitler cannot clear the Mediterranean route to Africa, Connally said Hitler tried to deal with Adm. Jean Darlan but that Marshal Petain "was unwilling, and Darlan was not shrewd enough to overcome him."

"Hitler is using the same trick that he always does," Connally added. "He lets it be known that Laval can get the release of French prisoners and the return of the government to Paris, but once Hitler has what he wants his promises will be worth just what all his previous ones have been worth."

Waistcoat of Napoleon Brings $730 at Auction

LAVAL SEEKS JOB IN VICHY AS FOE OF U. S., REPORT

Relations with America Irk Germans.

BERNE, Switzerland, March 28 (AP).—Middle Europe's rumor factory buzzed tonight with reports that Pierre Laval, proaxis former vice premier of France, was about to make up with Marshal Petain, French chief of state, rejoin the Vichy cabinet, and travel to Berlin next week for talks with German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop and Air Marshal Hermann Goering.

Axis sources in Vichy said Laval was seeking greater collaboration with Germany for France and reëntry into the Vichy cabinet as foreign minister, the post now held by Vice Premier Adm. Jean Darlan along with his other assignments.

Laval Back in Paris.

Laval, after talking with Petain and Darlan, went back to his Paris home to await what axis sources said was "confirmation on his appointments" in Berlin.

Foreign observers with Vichy connections in Berne expressed belief Laval's activity was brought about by the at least temporary understanding now prevailing between Washington, D. C., and Vichy, with all major questions between the two governments regulated for the time being.

There was some evidence that the Germans hope greater collaboration between France and Germany would nullify in part the existing good relations between France and the United States. But informed sources also asserted that even if Petain took Laval back into his government, the old marshal probably would not agree to any far-reaching changes in foreign policy.

Seek Prisoners' Release.

Negotiations between Berlin and Vichy, if resumed, would have to be "large in scope and delicate," one Vichy commentator said, and would probably have "great importance in orienting the future internal and external policies of France."

Preliminary meetings would certainly have to deal with possible release of additional thousands of French war prisoners.

Vichy announced the opening of a workers' office in Germany, with a staff of eight, to regulate problems arising from the employment of approximately 100,000 French workers in German factories.

The only previous representation in Germany since the armistice in 1940 has been the embassy—without diplomatic status—for prisoners of war, headed by Georges Scapini, and the French delegation to the armistice commission at Wiesbaden.

CANADA CALLS UP BRAWN AND BRAIN TO SERVE IN WAR

All Males 21-45 to Get Into Shops or Army.

BY GEORGE SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., March 28.—The Canadian government has commandeered for future war services the brawn and brains of every male citizen over the age of 21, prohibited the entry into a host of "nonessential" industries of able bodied men between the ages of 21 and 45, and "frozen" a host of workers already engaged in so-called "nonessential" jobs.

The order, which makes every adult male a warrior or potential warrior, a potential war technician or war worker on either factory or farm, extends to 30 years the age limit of men to be put in compulsory military service for home defense. Their order of selection will be determined by lot, which is the United States system, and a drawing probably will take place in May with the first selectees reporting in June.

Government Controls Workers.

A directorate of national selective service is created, with Elliott M. Little of Montreal, former pulp and paper company executive, at the head. He will have authority to order anybody from any job into any other job if such removal is deemed in the interests of the war effort.

Canadian industry is to be obliged to release for government service skilled technicians who may be wanted and to reinstate them in the same or better jobs after the war.

Farmers' sons and agricultural workers are to be exempt from compulsory military service where they are essential to farm production.

Classes Nonessential Jobs.

No male between the ages of 17 and 45 may take employment in restricted occupations deemed nonessential, such as bookkeepers, cashiers, stenographers, typists, clerks, and so on.

On the heels of this man power mobilization, Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced creation of two new Canadian army divisions as "a mobile reserve" for coastal defense, a "marked increase" in aerial forces for operations in Canada, and unlimited plans for Canadian naval expansion.

Canada, he said, had asked for representation on the Pacific council to be set up in Washington, D. C.

JOHN FRANKLIN NAMED HEAD OF ARMY TRANSPORT

Washington, D. C., March 28 (AP).—Appointment of Col. John M. Franklin, formerly president of the United States Lines, to head the army transport service was announced today by the war department.

Franklin and several others, whose appointments were announced at the same time, have been attached to services of supply to help handle the army's growing inland and overseas traffic and other war transportation problems.

The appointments included W. J. Williamson, formerly traffic manager of Sears Roebuck & Co., to have charge of inland traffic matters; W. S. Guy, formerly traffic manager of the United States Steel corporation, to serve as consultant; G. Metzman, former vice president of the New York Central lines at Chicago; Charles E Denney, president of the Northern Pacific railroad; C. F. Horner, former assistant to the chairman of General Motors corporation, and Leo J. Coughlin, former vice president of Tidewater Terminals and Inland warehouses.

TUESDAY IS LAST DAY TO REGISTER, ALIENS WARNED

Aliens of enemy nationality were warned yesterday that Tuesday is the last day on which they may obtain certificates of identification at the postoffice. J. Albert Woll, United States attorney, said that after Tuesday applications must be made thru the bureau of immigration and naturalization.

So far 135 persons who failed to apply for certificates during the specified period last month have been given permission by Woll to file belated applications. This brings the total of enemy aliens registered here to 41,838, believed nearly 100 per cent of those residing here.

Among those who applied late were four whom Woll turned over to the FBI for investigation. He said these were the only ones whose delinquency appeared deliberate. Those who fail to comply with the law may be interned for the duration of the war.

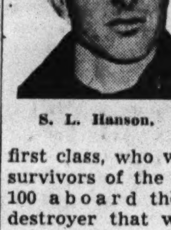
SAILOR RELATES BATTLE FOR LIFE IN SEA DISASTER

Shipwreck Survivor on Furlough in City.



S. L. Hanson.

A first hand story of the fight for life against high winds, snow, freezing temperatures, and mountainous waves on Newfoundland's south coast was told in Chicago last night by a survivor of the Pollux, a navy supply ship that floundered Feb. 18.

The story was told by S. L. Hanson, storekeeper first class, who was one of about 140 survivors of the Pollux and of about 100 aboard the U. S. S. Truxtun, destroyer that was smashed on the rocks in th esame storm. Of those aboard the Pollux, 92 lost their lives. Ninety-seven officers and men on the Truxtun went down.

Visiting Wife in Chicago.

Hanson, who went into the navy five years ago from his home in Montana, was in Chicago on a 10 day leave to visit his wife, who is living here with her father, Fred Mortensen, 7536 Ingleside avenue, a Tribune mailer. He has been married a little more than a year.

"We hit the rocks in a gale about 4:30 the morning of Feb. 18," Hanson said. "About daylight the ship began to crack. All morning men tried to reach the shore. Most of them didn't get there because of the breakers and the oil that was all over the water.

"About noon the ship began to break in half. The captain, Commander Hugh W. Turney, told the men that any who wanted to try it could go overside and see if they could make the shore. There were life rafts all around, and I was one who tried to make it.

12 Reached Small Cove.

"I got on a life raft. Part of the time there would be four men on it, then there would be 10 or 11, and sometimes 30. Once everybody was washed off. I don't know how I ever got to shore. Next I knew we were in a little cove down the coast, about 12 of us, sheltered on three sides from the wind and under an overhang of rock, but freezing in the 19 or 20 degree temperature.

"Then somebody got a fire going and it wasn't so bad. Sometime the next day they took us to the little town of Lawrence Harbor near by and put us to bed. After we thawed out another naval vessel took us back to our base."

Hanson said he learned afterward that one man got ashore during the morning hours and walked four miles across country to seek aid from the villagers. It was by the help of the Newfoundlanders that the breeches buoy and hoisting lines were set up by which the rest of the crew were taken safely off the ship the next day.

FBI RESUMES MASS ARRESTS IN CALIFORNIA

San Francisco, Cal., March 28 (AP).—Resuming wholesale arrests of enemy nationals, Federal Bureau of Investigation agents and police descended on Japanese colonies in 25 cites and towns in 13 northern California counties today.

Their chief quarry were known members of the Shinto priesthood, members of the Military Virtue society, and officials of an organization formed to collect funds for the Japanese army and navy.

Meanwhile, construction crews under army direction worked to complete eight camps where some 37,000 northern California Japanese aliens and citizens will be assembled en route to new homes deeper in the interior.

FBI ARRESTS 60 ALIEN SUSPECTS IN SAILOR HOME

Short Wave Transmitter Found by Raiders.

Hoboken, N. J., March 28 (AP).—Sixty agents of the federal bureau of of investigation and police today raided the Seemannshaus Deutsches, better known locally as the Seamen's institute, and took 60 residents into custody as potentially dangerous aliens.

E. E. Conroy, special agent in charge of the FBI Newark field office, said those detained would be taken to Ellis Island and police stations pending decision on whether they should be held for the duration of the war.

Radio Transmitter Seized.

Conroy said a shortwave radio transmitter was found in one man's room and that a quantity of subversive literature also was seized. He said many of the residents were German seamen who had been stranded by the war.

Those taken into custody were photographed and fingerprinted and held at the institute until their quarters had been searched.

The search proceeded slowly. Most of the residents still were there hours after the raid. Conroy said the raid proceeded without disorder.

The institute, a four story building operated by the Rev. Hermann Brueckner, was filled almost to capacity when the raiders arrived. Brueckner was absent.

German speaking establishments flourished here before the first World war, but the government then seized the piers of German steamship lines.

Nine Seized in New York.

New York, March 28 (AP).—Nine accused enemy aliens, some ammunition, 20 guns, a German army coat, and other contraband were seized last night by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in raids in the vicinity of Croton dam, the city's water supply, in Westchester county.

P. E. Foxworth, assistant director of the FBI field office here, said those arrested, eight Italians and one German, were taken to Ellis Island.

3 MILLION VOTES IN ARMY BECOME ELECTION ISSUE

Will They Be Cast and by What Means?

[Following is the first of a series of articles on the problem of voting by men in the armed services now away from home.]

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 28.—With administration plans calling for upward of 3 million men in military service, either in the field or in the training camps, by next November the soldier vote has become an important factor in the congressional elections. In many closely contested states and congressional districts it may be the deciding factor. It might swing the election for or against the administration.

The selective service act provides that a conscript shall be permitted to vote in person or by absentee ballot in all elections of his state in which he is entitled to vote under the laws of his state, with the proviso that the permission shall not be construed to require a leave of absence of more than one day in order to vote in person.

Provisions for voting in the general and primary elections by conscripts, National Guardsmen, and reservists who now are or will be in service by election day have been made by many states in the last year. As a result of such additional legislation nearly 40 states now have absentee voting laws under which the citizen soldiers will be enabled to exercise the franchise in the congressional and other general elections and primaries and in most cases in local elections.

Five States Disfranchise Soldier.

There are five states, however, whose citizens in military service are now deprived of the voting privilege in all national and state elections, according to the state law index of the library of congress. These states are Kentucky, Mississippi, New Mexico, Florida, and Louisiana. New Hampshire soldiers also will be barred from voting in the congressional election, the absent voting law of that state applying to Presidential elections only.

There are two other states—Alabama and Tennessee—the right of whose soldiers to vote turns upon the construction of absentee voting laws extending the voting privilege to persons absent by reason of regular business and regular duties.

In the other 40 states, while the right of absent citizen soldiers to vote in all general elections is clear, there is a great diversity of provisions qualifying the right and a variety of red tape, as a result of which the proportion of the soldier vote actually recorded may be small unless special endeavor is made to facilitate the procedure.

Most Will Vote by Mail.

Altho Illinois and a few other states provide for the actual casting of ballots at polling places in the field and in the training camps the citizen soldiers and sailors generally will vote by mail in the forthcoming elections just as they did in 1918 in the case of the 29 states that had absentee voting laws at that time. Illinois soldiers in the World war training camps and in France were unable to vote because their state had made no provision for voting away from the place of residence.

Nineteen states, according to the state law index of the library of congress, permitted absent voting outside their borders in 1918—Connecticut, Delaware, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Montana, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Utah, Virginia, and Wisconsin. The South Carolina law provided for the 1918 election only. Absentee voting within but not outside a state was provided by 10 states—Colorado, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Oregon, Tennessee, Vermont, Washington, and Wyoming.

1918 Attitude in Dispute.

Whether the soldiers in 1918 were preponderantly for or against the administration is a matter of dispute. The election, however, went decisively against the Wilson administration, despite the fact that President Wilson had asked for a vote of confidence.

The Democrats lost both houses of congress and Mr. Wilson went abroad a repudiated chief executive to negotiate the peace treaty. His political misfortunes thereafter, including the rejection of the Versailles treaty and league of nations covenant by the American people, are now seen to be the logical result of that popular repudiation.

In the Civil war the soldiers of some states were enabled to vote in the field. Some were furloughed to go home to vote. The modern system of voting by mail was unknown. The Australian ballot was unknown. Special ballots were printed for the voters in the armies. When polling places were set up in the field the soldiers voted on the same day that the ballots were being cast at home.

There was no system about it, however. As the Presidential election of 1864 approached the Republicans in some of the more populous states became concerned over the absence of so large a number of Republicans at the front.

Starts Search for Votes.

To cite but one incident illuminating the situation, Chauncey M. Depew, then secretary of state for New York, came to Washington to see if he could find out where the New York troops were located and make some arrangements for recording their vote. He first went to Secretary of War Stanton for the information. Stanton loftily waved him aside. He could not be bothered by a politician looking for votes.

Depew left the war department considerably cast down. Strolling dejectedly up Pennsylvania avenue he met Congressman Elihu B. Washburne of Illinois, a close friend of Lincoln's. He told his tale of woe to Washburne. He said that unless the New York regiments were allowed to vote in the field Lincoln would lose the electoral vote of New York.

Washburne assured Depew that Lincoln was too good a politician to let anything like that happen. He took Depew to Lincoln who gave ready ear and promptly dispatched a note to Stanton. When Depew called on Stanton the second time he found the war secretary all graciousness and desire to be of service. Depew got the location of the New York regiments, polling places were set up in the field, ballots distributed and deposited in the army ballot boxes on election day—and Lincoln carried New York.

400 Ask Vote Furloughs.

Furloughs to go home to vote were granted whenever possible. Four hundred soldiers in barracks at St. Louis, while Rosecrans was pursuing Price in Missouri, telegraphed Lincoln asking that they be granted furloughs to vote. They scraped up $12 to cover the cost of the plea that their commander, Lieut. Chapman be authorized to grant them furloughs.

Chapman was unable to do so because he could not secure the necessary approval from his superior who was in the field with Rosecrans hundreds of miles away. Lincoln replied promptly giving the lieutenant permission to grant five day furloughs to about 100 Illinois men and 10 day leaves to soldiers from other states.

In the congressional election of 1862 the Republicans suffered severe reverses. New York and several other important states went Democratic. The New York Republicans attributed their defeat to the absence of 100,000 New Yorkers in the army, claiming that 75 per cent of them were Republicans.

According to James Ford Rhodes, however, comparison of the returns in 1862 with 1860 and 1864 "made it plain that this had little to do with the result."

U. S. WILL DEFER ANTI-TRUST SUITS BEARING ON WAR

Roosevelt Approves Plan to Delay Prosecutions.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 28.—The White House tonight announced President Roosevelt has approved a program calling for suspension of anti-trust prosecutions in vital industries for the duration of the war as a means of increasing the production of planes, ships, and guns.

The action had been urged by industry on the plea that business could not devote itself to the war effort if it had to spend time and money defending various charges of violating the Sherman anti-trust act, which were brought by the department of justice.

The proposal was submitted to the President on March 20 in a letter signed by Attorney General Francis Biddle, Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, and Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold, head of the anti-trust division of the department of justice.

Cabinet Aids Get Letters.

On the same day Mr. Roosevelt sent identical letters to the three cabinet officers expressing his approval of the program. No letter was sent to Arnold, whose activities had brought him into a clash with Biddle and had brought complaint from business.

It was not explained why the announcement had been held up eight days. The program was made public after Arnold ended testimony before the senate defense investigating committee in which he charged that the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey had frustrated development of a synthetic rubber industry in this country by keeping a prewar agreement with a German dye trust.

Under the plan each pending and future anti-trust action would be submitted to the attorney general, secretary of war, and secretary of the navy for examination. If either of the secretaries holds that the investigation or prosecution interferes with the war effort, it shall be deferred. The attorney general has the right of appeal to the Chief Executive, who can overrule the army or navy.

Heading Off Indicated.

In submitting the plan to the President the officials emphasized that no violator of the anti-trust laws will escape ultimate investigation and prosecution.

It was said operators of a war plant would have little difficulty in convincing the war or navy departments that examination of plant operations or books by anti-trust investigators would lower efficiency and reduce morale and thus retard production of war materials.

Stephen T. Early, White House secretary, said the government will request an extension of the statute of limitations to cover the wartime suspension of prosecutions so no offenders will escape punishment for violations.

Early said the matter had been discussed by the President with Vice President Henry A. Wallace, Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley, House Majority Leader John W. McCormack, Chairman Frederick Van Nuys of the senate judiciary committee, and Chairman Hatton W. Sumners of the house judiciary committee.

The President's Views.

In approving the program, Mr. Roosevelt wrote:

"If it is true that any substantial slowing up of war production is being occasioned by anti-trust suits, prosecutions, or court investigations, then the war effort must come first and everything else must wait. For unless that effort is successful, the anti-trust laws, as indeed all American institutions, will become quite academic.

"No one, of course, should be permitted to escape ultimate prosecution for any violation of law. I am sure that the departments of justice, war, and navy will all coöperate so that the needs of the war will not be hampered by these court investigations, suits, or prosecutions, but that at the same time the crisis of war will not be used as a means of avoiding just penalties for any wrongdoing.

War Effort Main Concern.

"In other words, it must be made very clear that the war effort is being impeded. No right minded person, or any one who is conscious of what is at stake, should use the nation's extremities as an excuse to violate any statute.

"While every precaution will be taken to prevent any one from escaping prosecution if he has violated the anti-trust statutes, whether he is now engaged in war work or not, we must keep our eyes fixed now upon the one all-important primary task—to produce more materials at a greater speed. In other words, we shall give our attention to first things first."

Arnold and Biddle clashed over the former's recent testimony before the senate defense investigating committee that certain elements in organized labor are injuring and destroying independent business and holding farmers and consumers at their mercy.

Biddle repudiated the statement, saying Arnold was not speaking for the department of justice and that what he said was "unfortunate at this time."

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 28.—A survey of what the American merchant marine can do in the way of carrying and maintaining American expeditionary forces abroad affords an indication of what the American people may expect in the way of action this year.

The survey, undertaken by the consultation of army, navy, and shipping experts, offers no information to the enemy because the employment of merchant ships for military purposes is reducible to a formula, which is as well known in Berlin and Tokio as it is in Washington.

At the suggestion of military authorities, however, specific data relating to the expansion of the American merchant marine is being withheld. The number and types of ships acquired by the merchant marine since the outbreak of the war in 1939 would be of value to the axis powers.

8 Million Tons in 1939.

The United States ocean going merchant marine aggregated 8,134,890 tons on June 30, 1939. The total number of ocean going vessels was 1,398 and the average vessel was of approximately 6,000 tons. The American position as a carrier of trade was not as good as the figures might indicate at first glance, however.

The greater part of this merchant marine was engaged in coastwise trade. There were 319 ships of 2,094,212 tons operating in foreign commerce. These also averaged about 6,000 tons and about 90 per cent of them were over 15 years old.

Since that time the total tonnage has been increased to more than 10 million tons. Actual figures are a military secret. At the same time, submarine warfare in the Atlantic has taken a toll of more than 50 American ships.

Goals Set by Roosevelt.

Recognizing the deficiencies of the American merchant marine, Mr. Roosevelt set a shipbuilding goal of 8 million tons for 1942 and 10 million tons in 1943. This would increase ship production eight fold and ten fold, as the total for 1941 was approximately 1 million tons.

Military experts estimate it takes 17 deadweight tons of shipping to transport a soldier and 3.4 tons to maintain him 3,000 miles from home.

This would mean that 1,700,000 tons of shipping would be required to carry an army of 100,000 men to Europe at one time. Experts said that if such an expeditionary force were to be sent to effect a landing in Norway or France, it would need virtually all the 319 ships which were engaged in foreign commerce in the prewar period.

Supply Lines Necessary.

While many of these ships would be released to shuttle other troops back and forth, it would be necessary to operate others solely to maintain troops already landed. Experts said that eventually ships no longer would be able to transport troops, because they would be needed to carry supplies to troops previously transported.

For a European expeditionary force of 100,000 men 340,000 tons of shipping would have to be engaged in carrying supplies—food, clothing, ammunition, new weapons, and the like. At an average of 6,000 tons for each vessel, this would mean that approximately 56 of the 319 ocean going vessels this country had engaged in foreign commerce at the outbreak of the war would be needed to carry supplies alone.

Experts recognized the merchant marine would not be divided into ships carrying new troops and ships carrying supplies for those already aboard. They said ships would carry both troops and supplies.

Some military authorities have said the United States will have to send at least 2 million men to Europe, as it did in the last war. Others estimate that the European AEF may number 4 million.

Without any estimate of the shipping necessary to transport such a body of men—because that embraces an almost endless variety of factors as to time, number of trips, proportion of losses, and the like—experts said the merchant marine as it stands is not capable of such an effort.

Granting that the men could be transported, a fleet of 6,700,000 tons would be necessary to keep an army of 2 million men supplied and a fleet of 13,600,000 tons to keep an army of 4 million men in supplies. The supply fleet for the smaller army would be a big job for the entire merchant marine of 8,134,890 tons which this country had at the outbreak of the war.

Distance Increases Problem.

As distances increase the amount of tonnage required for transporting and maintaining soldiers increases. Greater quantities of food must be shipped to troops to supply them along the route and at the distant shore.

Transporting an army of 100,000 men to Australia would take upwards of 20 tons of shipping for each man, it was said. Maintenance of each man would take upwards of 5 tons of shipping. Thus, if 100,000 men were to be sent at one time as a fully equipped army to Australia, more than 2 million tons of shipping—or the entire prewar foreign commerce fleet of 319 ships—would be necessary. At least a half million tons of shipping would be needed to keep the men supplied.

Freighters plying the Atlantic might make more than a dozen round trips a year, where freighters operating to distant bases would make only three round trips a year, experts said.

150 or 200 Ships Required.

Maintenance of an army of 100,000 men in France and another army of equal size in Australia would keep approximately 150 or possibly 200 ships of 6,000 tons busy.

It might be possible to keep an army of 1 million men in Europe supplied by employing 3,400,000 tons of shipping at that task and another army of 250,000 in Australia employing 1,250,000 and more tons of shipping, experts said.

Considering troop replacements, submarines, bombings, and the like, such an effort would be a sizable task for the entire merchant marine. This would leave no shipping for raw materials, unless these could be picked up on return journeys, which would occasion delays and require larger fleets, or for sending supplies to the allies.

Shipping Held Insufficient.

Experts said it will not be possible to keep eight or ten sizable expeditionary forces operating within the current year with the total amount of shipping available.

Mr. Roosevelt said this country now has eight or ten expeditionary forces in the field. The largest are in Australia and Northern Ireland.

Experts say the pressing need is for ships and more ships. Until these are acquired, they said, the American people cannot expect to see large American expeditionary forces around the world and huge floods of supplies going to the united nations.

HELD UP AND ROBBED OF $400.

Werner Geisler, 2229 North Tripp avenue, was robbed of $400 yesterday by two bandits who drove alongside his automobile in front of a meat market at 4258 Armitage avenue, where he is employed as a helper.

Other Winners

Tilden Technical High school's ROTC marching unit won the annual platoon championship for the second straight year yesterday in competition with 26 other public high school ROTC units at the 132d Infantry armory, 2653 Madison street.

Sullivan High school placed second; Crane Technical High school, third; Senn High school, fourth, and Bowen High school, fifth. More than 2,000 persons watched the khaki uniformed cadets go thru complicated military drill.

A silver plaque was presented to Tilden Tech by the women's auxiliary of the United Spanish-American War veterans. Each member of the winning team received a medal. Col. William F. Morrison, professor of military science and tactics in the Chicago public schools, supervised the contest.

Purchase of Camelback for Tires Is Approved

Chicago rationing boards last week granted certificates permitting three tire rebuilding companies to buy 10,100 pounds of camelback for recapping tires. The boards also approved the purchase of 53 new passenger automobiles, 231 new passenger car tires, 860 truck tires and certificates for the recapping of 192 truck tires.

SHIPPING LEADER WARNS OF JAPS' BUILDING ABILITY

Luckenbach Urges U. S. to Buckle Down.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 28.—"We can build more ships than the Japs and turn them out faster, but it is a fatal mistake to belittle the enemy's capacity to produce. You can't win a war by belittling your foe!"

This bit of optimism, mixed with a stern warning, was delivered here today by J. Lewis Luckenbach, president of the American Bureau of Shipping, just before leaving on a four weeks' survey of the nation's shipyards, having been in charge of ship construction in the orient for the United States Shipping board during World War I. and afterward.

Helped Japs Three Years.

In that post Luckenbach supervised the building of 45 cargo vessels in Jap shipyards in 1918, 1919, and 1920.

The United States has the material resources, equipment, manufacturing methods and efficiency, and man power with which to build the huge fleets required to carry troops and suppies from point to point in the vast Pacific war arena—and beat the Japanese—in Luckenbach's opinion. But this country will have to buckle down to the task to do it.

Digging into old records, Luckenbach unearthed the actual building performance of the big Kawasaki Dockyard company at Kobe, which turned out the "Eastern" fleet of ships, fast 10,000 ton freighters, for the United States shipping board.

Records Close to Ours.

Kawasaki's records of 22 years ago come uncomfortably close to the production schedules which the United States Maritime commission foresees for the Liberty cargo vessels being built in the 18 million ton emergency program laid down by President Roosevelt.

Rear Admiral Howard L. Vickery, vice chairman of the commission, revealed in a speech at Del Monte, Cal., on Feb. 13, that it now appeared the Liberty craft could be constructed in an elapsed time of three and a half months from keel laying to delivery. Kawasaki's performance in 1919 and 1920 on five vessels for the United States shipping board was as follows:

Ship.	Keel to Delivery.
EASTERN MOON	3 months, 17 days
EASTERN OCEAN	3 months, 17 days
EASTERN PLANET	4 months, 10 days
EASTERN DAWN	4 months, 18 days
EASTERN CLOUD	4 months, 17 days

All the 45 ships turned out by the Nipponese yards have seen service in the American merchant marine, and all have had an excellent record, which testifies to the ability of the Japs to turn out high quality workmanship. The vessels, which had a total cargo carrying capacity of 450,000 tons, were built to meet rigid specifications laid down by the shipping board.

Progress Problematical.

"Who can say how far the Japs have progressed in the last 20 years?" asked Luckenbach.

"We know they have come a long way. Let's start on the assumption they can produce as much shipping tonnage as we can and redouble our efforts from that point. We can't trust everything to the assumption we as a people are better than every one else."

While the Japs have the cheap labor and the regimented labor advantageous in war, Luckenbach stressed the fact that the American worker is usually far more adaptable, especially for rapid expansion of an industry such as shipbuilding.

Luckenbach stated in answer to an inquiry as to his observations on the sea otter that, altho he has never seen this vessel, he is familiar with some of her characteristics and believes that as now designed she does not fit a purpose in the defense program.

Calls Design Radical.

The sea otter is a small cargo craft of radical design produced experimentally as a possible answer to the submarine menace. Once turned down by the navy, new trials have been undertaken as a result of congressional action.

Ships of much greater size, carrying 10 times the cargo and equipped with landing gear, are needed due to the distances at which the war is being waged, Luckenbach said. He said vessels of the sea otter type could transport only about 50 tons of cargo per crew member, whereas 10,000 ton vessels, such as are now being built, will carry about 200 tons of cargo per crew member.

If a need for small coastal vessels arises, a vessel of the size of the sea otter and embracing many of the characteristics of the general design, might be developed, he said.

Actual Jap Figures.

Japanese shipbuilding entered into a renaissance in 1934. In 1937 the Japs turned out 73 ships of 2,000 gross tons or more for a total tonnage of 420,126. They built 66 vessels of 391,806 total tonnage in 1938 and 44 vessels of 283,129 tonnage in 1939.

By way of comparison, the United States built only 28 ships of 241,000 total gross tons in 1939 and 53 ships of 445,000 tons in 1940.

Roosevelt Signs Bill Giving Self More Power

Washington, D. C., March 28 (AP).—President Roosevelt signed today the second war powers act, an omnibus measure carrying more than a dozen new emergency powers. Among its broad provisions are increased authority to take over machines and property for war production, penalties ranging up to two years in prison and a $10,000 fine for violation of priorities orders, and free postage for all persons in the armed services.

HIT U. S. LEADERS FOR DEAF EARS TO TIN WARNING

WPB Experts Forecast a Gloomy Future.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 28.—Serious as is the rubber shortage, the tin situation is even worse, officials of the War Production board told THE TRIBUNE today. The record shows administration failure to heed warnings made years ago.

Considerable attention has been given recently thru congressional hearings to the serious shortage of rubber and failure to increase production of synthetic rubber, but, as one official said, "You can't produce synthetic tin."

Officials within the WPB frankly are very gloomy and pessimistic over the outlook for tin, the lack of which they declare will affect the daily lives of American citizens more than the lack of automobiles or anything else coming under restrictions.

No Satisfactory Substitute.

After all, they observed, much of the nation's food supply is preserved in tin cans, and satisfactory substitutes have not yet been developed, altho attempts have been made.

A congressional committee heard recently that President Roosevelt, as well as Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones, shared the blame for failure to develop synthetic rubber production after the National Defense Advisory committee in 1940 made such a recommendation.

Testimony disclosed that the administration was lulled into complacency by British assurances that the Netherland East Indies and British Malay, source of most of the world's rubber and tin, could be held against any attack. The Japs proved otherwise.

Tin Warnings Earlier.

This story is repeated in tin, except that the warnings extended much farther back than 1940.

The first opportunity for the United States to extract concessions to make it independent of smelters in Malaya, the Netherlands Indies, and England was muffed in 1933 when the international tin committee was reëstablished during the London economic conference.

In 1935 the house foreign affairs committee investigated foreign domination of American tin supplies and made certain recommendations in its report of April 23, 1935.

These included a direction to the government to discuss the problem with governments producing tin. It was suggested that this be done "with a view to making plain to those countries the uneconomic and wasteful features of the present system . . which produces the ore in one country, smelts it in another, and sells it in a third, that third country [the United States] representing half of the total market."

Nothing developed from this report except legislation to provide control over exports of tin plate scrap thru a licensing system in 1936.

Even the small amounts of tin obtained from Bolivia, the only real source in this hemisphere, had to reach the United States by way of England, where the Bolivian ore was sent for smelting. The American state department failed to heed demands for establishment of a smelting industry in this country and upheld British claims to control of smelting operations, as well as of production and marketing.

More than half of Bolivia's production has been controled by Simon Patino, whose interests are interlocked with the big British smelting companies, which refined his tin, and the National Lead company, also interlocked with British interests. Thus even Bolivian production was under British domination.

Virtually the only remaining tin source is Bolivia, whose production runs about 36,000 tons a year. Of this, 18,000 tons go to the British and the other 18,000 tons is purchased by the Metals Reserve company, an RFC subsidiary, under a deal announced by Jesse Jones on July 20, 1940.

But the British are entitled to 6,000 tons, and more if needed, of this last 18,000 tons, according to the arrangement.

The United States has been accustomed to importing and consuming approximately 100,000 tons of tin annually, so this provides some conception of the outlook.

The WPB experts said existing small smelters have a total annual capacity of about 1,000 tons. The $5,000,000 government smelter being built by Jones at Texas City, Tex., which won't start operations until next month, will have a capacity of 52,000 tons annually.

"Jones bet on a short war and the promise that Singapore couldn't be taken," one official said. "He was encouraged in this view by our staunch British allies with whom he dealt."

The experts are predicting pessimistically that it will be eight to 10 years before the United States again gets adequate tin supplies.

Tin still is the only practical material for food canning, said the experts. It flows evenly, over the sheet steel used in cans. It leaves no pores where corrosion can develop.

Leaves Husband

MYRNA LOY.

Beverly Hills, Cal., March 28 (AP).—The Myrna Loy-Arthur Hornblow Jr. marriage flickered out again today, and freckle faced [off the screen] Myrna said it would not be rekindled.

Miss Loy insisted the parting with her producer husband was friendly, but said she would start divorce proceedings soon.

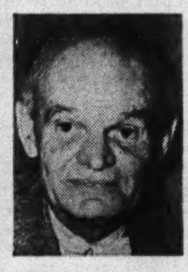
The two separated in November, 1940, but they kissed and made up. At that time Hornblow, who married the actress in 1935, said:

"We have tried for a long time to adjust the inescapable complications of our careers. It has not been possible. That still leaves her the loveliest woman in the world."

Miss Loy said she was moving to an apartment hotel in Beverly Hills, abandoning their spacious mansion, and would sue on the grounds of incompatibility. Other than to admit that he knew of Miss Loy's decision, Hornblow had nothing to say today.

KELLAND CALLS G.O.P. TO DEFEND BILL OF RIGHTS

Holds Ballot Best Weapon for Home Front.



Clarence B. Kelland.

Youngstown, O., March 28 [Special].—The United States Constitution and the Bill of Rights are the basis of the platform of the Republican party in these perilous days, Clarence Budington Kelland, executive director of the Republican national committee, told the Youngstown Young Republican league today.

"Our armed forces will do the business upon the field of battle," he said, "but there is one weapon and only one weapon that can preserve them on the home front, and that is the ballot."

The nationally known author denounced the theory that criticism of the administration amounts to "skulking behind the Bill of Rights." He said within the week he had heard this theory advanced by an eminent speaker and that "unthinking men" had applauded.

Republicans Real Force.

"When a responsible man can utter such words in this republic unrebuked, when such words can bring a response of applause, then I say the danger is real, the danger is near," Kelland asserted.

Kelland said that it is the function of the Republican party to become the bulwark of the Constitution and the Bill of Rights.

The Republican party will coöperate with the President in his program of victory, Kelland said, giving him "such support as in his most optimistic moment he could not have hoped for even from the other party of which he himself is the head."

Five Point Pledge.

He listed five objectives to which he pledged the Republican party would be vigilant:

First: To compel efficiency in our program of production of materiels for victory.

Second: To compel the appointment of efficient men to see that the job of production is done.

Third: To compel the administration to spend our money for victory and not fritter it away for press agents, fan dancers, coördinators of ping pong and political boondoggling.

Fourth: To compel a just, equitable, honest, and honorable settlement of labor disputes so that our production shall not be impeded.

Fifth: To compel the administration to see to it that no man, class, corporation, or politician shall profit improperly from this war.

LEAPS 3 FLOORS WHEN HANDBOOK RAIDERS ARRIVE

A man raised a window and jumped out yesterday when Capt. Thomas Duffy of the Central police led a raid on an alleged racing handbook on the second floor at 225 North Michigan avenue. Soon afterward, a man with both legs broken was carried into the Michael Reese hospital by two men who said they found him near the scene of the raid.

The man in the hospital identified himself as Harry Kay, and police said his address is 5240 Winthrop avenue. Kay, who is 47 years old, declined to answer when asked if he was the man who leaped from the window. The man who leaped actually fell three stories, as he landed on Beaubien court at a lower level than Michigan avenue.

The raiders arrested four men accused as keepers of the handbook, Thomas Burt of 1118 North State street, Louis Goldfuss of 5357 Cottage Grove avenue, Eugene Donahue of 4349 North Hoyne avenue, and Louis Bennett of 5718 Bernard street.

The police also raided alleged handbooks at 717 South Dearborn street, where they arrested Thomas Padgett of 3028 Arthington street, and at 223 North Clark street, where they arrested Meyer Kadish of 3428 Monroe street.

BURNED BY FIRE FROM CIGARET.

Charles Pawlowski, 39 years old, was burned critically on the face and chest yesterday when he fell asleep while smoking a cigaret in his room at 4816 St. Paul avenue.

MEN STOCK UP AS CUFF STYLE IN PANTS ENDS

Men's clothing salesmen did a land-office trade again yesterday as thousands took advantage of the last business day to purchase ready made trousers with cuffs. After midnight tonight it will be illegal for retailers to sell cuffed pants.

Only merchant tailors are exempt from the ruling. They have until May 30 to deliver pants with cuffs, on the theory that it takes about a month to put a made to order suit in the hands of a customer. The tailors reported a 25 to 40 per cent increase over last year's pre-Easter sales.

Cuffs snipped off present pants stock will be sold for reprocessing.

18 BILLION VOTED IN HOUSE; SET 6% WAR PROFIT LIMIT

Taber Reveals How Union Blocks Arms Cargo.

the United States is to triumph over the axis.

"There must be better coöperation on all sides," he cried, "better coöperation on the part of the President himself if we expect to win this war. Many feel that the retention of Madame Perkins as secretary of labor is against the interest of national defense. I am one of those.

"Likewise, many people feel it is against the interests of national defense for the administration to permit the National Labor Relations board and the wage hour division to continue their present activities; or for unions and labor organizations to be permitted to levy tribute of $75 to $1,000 on American workmen before they are deemed worthy to take part in the defense of their country."

Rising Tide of Anger.

Rep. John E. Rankin [D., Miss.] warned the chamber that there is a rising tide of righteous indignation thruout the country over the racketeering and profiteering which is disrupting the war effort.

"Some members clamor for a recess so they can go home and find out what the people are thinking," the fiery southerner declared. "They can find out by reading their mail. If a member is not willing to vote to amend or repeal laws that virtually have wiped out the Bill of Rights—that now are causing trouble thruout the country—then he would just as well stay on here until his time expires—next January."

"Why stay here if the administration and the President will not permit us to act on legislation our people are demanding?" asked Rep. Clare E. Hoffman [R., Mich.]. "I, for one, want to go back home and face my constituents and tell them just who it is that is responsible for the present chaos in the arms industries."

Warns of "False Optimism."

In his explanation of the bill, Rep. Clarence Cannon [D., Mo.], chairman of the appropriations committee, described progress of the war effort in glowing terms, asserting there has been rapid development in all production fields. He spoke bitterly of critics of the program and charged that much of the criticism is due to "misinformation."

"Never before in any period of American history have there been so few errors and such integrity of administration in comparison with the magnitude of the task involved as there have been in the provision of men, money, and munitions in this war," he said. "Never has the government labored under a heavier burden of misinformation and misapprehension than today. . . . Partisans and professional sensationalists catering to the disillusioned resentment in these quarters have sedulously emphasized minor deficiencies and overlooked the notable accomplishments of the program until there is a widespread impression that the war is being mismanaged."

Admits Errors and Profiteering.

The management of the war program, which has aroused the greatest controversy in congress since the Pearl Harbor debacle, was dismissed by Cannon as follows:

"Of course there have been mistakes and of course there has been profiteering. There always has been in time of war and always will be. That is inevitable. We are spending the largest sum ever available in the history of the world."

In reply, Rep. William Ditter [R., Pa.] warned that "false optimism" may prove the nation's undoing. He cited testimony in the hearings before the committee wherein navy officials admitted that airplane production had not advanced as rapidly as originally envisioned.

"Let's give up fooling and misleading the people," Ditter urged. "This war will be won when there is a singleness of purpose here in congress and elsewhere. The people have a right to the truth. Unless we are careful, the country will be lulled into a false sense of security which may prove fatal."

Courtney Holds Closed Meeting with Trial Aids

State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney met yesterday in closed session with his trial assistants. It is understood he discussed pending cases and remarked he was dissatisfied with some recent sentences. The meeting comes at the end of a week in which the county's chief prosecutor criticized two Criminal court judges, one for giving light sentences, the other for permitting a long continuance in a pending case.

New Marine Pack

A marine wearing new pack.

Washington, D. C., March 28 [Special].—The Marine corps has announced development of a new pack which will take quite a load off the back of its troops. The pack contains two canvas sacks—one replacing the haversack and the other providing space for extra clothes and other needs. The blanket and shelter canvas may be strapped to the new pack as a horseshoe roll and may be removed quickly. The new method also puts the weight of the pack higher upon the soldier's back, thus making it less fatiguing to carry.

ARMY REVEALS TRAINING OF NEW MOUNTAIN UNITS

Each Trooper Able to Fight Single Handed.

Mount Rainier National Park, Wash., March 28 (AP).—A mountain combat force of winter hardened soldiers has been in training for many weeks on the blizzard swept slopes of Mount Rainier, the army announced today.

These mountain troops were chosen from the best available skiers in the nation, both professional and amateur; besides many veteran mountaineers, forest rangers, and cavalrymen. The troops, dressed in white parkas, which cause them to blend into the whiteness of the snow, work out daily in the 6,000 foot high snow fields.

All Are Volunteers.

Paradise Lodge, the summer home of thousands of tourists in the past, has been taken over by the army and is being used for the housing and feeding of the specialized troops. All the men are volunteers.

This force could be used not only for fighting in the snow; as mountain troops, they will put away their skis when the snow melts and concentrate on mountain climbing and moving pack artillery thru mountain regions.

In creating the new combat force, officials had to pioneer the way—experimenting with many types of untried equipment to make the mountain trooper an independent factor even if he becomes separated from his organization during a blizzard.

Manual of Arms Revised.

The manual of arms was revised to include handling of skis and poles. New commands were created and new methods of combat were studied to take advantage of the new equipment.

For the fast movement of troops and supplies over the snow, the army has a motor toboggan—a sled with an endless tread running at high speed. Powered by a two cylinder motor, the toboggan rears over the over the snow at a fast clip.

During a preliminary course, the mountain trooper is taught to ski alone and in formation with a load on his back including a 50 pound pack, high powered rifle, and other equipment. He carries his own tent, food for several days, and a small gas cook stove. He also has with him a change of clothing and plenty of ammunition.

6 BELIEVED DEAD IN EXPLOSIONS AT ARMS PLANT

25 Injured, Remington Factory Damaged.

Bridgeport, Conn., March 28 (AP).—Six persons were missing, presumably killed, after an explosion and fire that demolished today a small brick building of the sprawling Remington Arms company plant, one of the nation's biggest munitions centers. More than 25 persons were injured.

A company official said no bodies had been recovered from the wrecked building. He said six or eight people were working in the building when the first explosion occurred.

Blasts' Cause Unknown.

"The cause is unknown," he said. "The first explosion was followed by fire and a series of small explosions."

The blast brought a general fire alarm and a rush of ambulances to the scene. Several fires were extinguished quickly, but not before the flames had spread to three homes.

During the explosions, the vicinity was also endangered by flying bullets.

Twenty-five persons working near the destroyed structure were cut by flying glass.

Mary Nemeth, a part time worker who was treated for shock and shoulder abrasions, said "everything went black. . . . The whole ceiling caved in, and seemed as tho the building crashed down. . . . I saw a fellow climbing toward some light, and I followed him."

John Lucit, employed on a night shift, said the first explosion hurled him from bed in his near by home and then bullets started to whiz by as he lay on the floor.

Three Killed in Plant Blast.

New York, March 28 [Special].—Three men were killed and three others seriously injured today in an explosion and fire at the Unexcelled Manufacturing company, a fireworks plant working on government contracts on Staten Island. The concussion was felt almost three miles away. No explanation was offered for the explosion.

FIRE DAMAGES AUTO REPAIR SHOP. Fire in the repair shop of the Champion Motor Exchange, Inc., at 1346 South Michigan avenue yesterday, threatened a stock of new and used tires worth several thousand dollars in the Banner Tire company store next door. The fire was started by lead overflowing from a melting furnace. Damage was estimated at $1,500.

Friend of the Yanks

BY CLAY GOWRAN.

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and personally if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries. Persons are asked to keep their letters short because of the volume of mail.]

CORRESPONDENCE COURSES FOR SOLDIERS.

Enlisted men in the army interested in furthering their education will be given the opportunity to enroll for special army correspondence courses under a new program to be established by the army on April 1, the war department announced recently.

An Army institute has been opened at Madison, Wis., which, in collaboration with the University of Wisconsin, will offer more than 65 courses in such subjects as English, social studies, science, mathematics, and business. Courses also will be offered in electrical, mechanical, civil, and architectural engineering.

Other Schools to Assist.

In addition, the extension divisions of approximately 80 colleges and universities will coöperate with the army institute in providing correspondence courses for soldiers. Among these will be high school English, English composition, English and American literature, modern foreign languages, mathematics, general science, physics, chemistry, biology, geology, geography, world history, history of the countries affected by the present war, civics, government, economics, sociology, psychology, statistics, and health.

For each course offered directly by the Army institute, soldiers will pay an enrollment fee of $2. For men wishing to enroll in the correspondence courses offered by coöperating colleges and universities, the government will pay half the tuition fees, but not to exceed $20 for any one course.

Draftees Also Eligible.

Men who enter the army as draftees as well as those who enlist are entitled to take advantage of the plan. However, a soldier must be in active service for at least four months before he can be eligible.

[Tomorrow: Civilian Jobs with the War Department.]

QUESTIONS.

E. M. writes: "I expect to be drafted soon. What I want to know is this. Can I take out two government life insurance policies of $5,000 each, one payable to my sister and the other payable to my mother? I know that men in service can take out a maximum of $10,000 such insurance, but can it be split like this?"

ANSWER: It is permissible to take out two national service life insurance policies as you describe. However, an easier way of handling this problem would be to purchase one $10,000 policy and designate that your sister is to be the beneficiary for $5,000 of it and your mother the other $5,000.

S. T. H. writes: "Is a 3-A classification given only to registrants with dependents? My brother has a friend who is in 3-A. He is 31, single, has no dependents and has had military experience. How come he is in 3-A?"

ANSWER: From your description, this registrant is not entitled to a 3-A classification and may have claimed it illegally. However, it is possible that he has legitimate dependents without your knowledge, such as elderly parents in another part of the country.

Mrs. L. E. S. asks: "If a selectee does not pass his physical examination because of a hernia, will the government force him to submit to a dangerous operation without his consent?"

ANSWER: This seems to be a popular fallacy. The government never forces any one to submit to any type of operation without his consent. And, at the present time, there is no program to provide such operations for draft registrants rejected for various physical defects.

G. O. P. OF THREE WARDS VOTES TO INDORSE BROOKS

Charles L. Gerds, Republican committeeman of the 7th ward, made public yesterday a resolution indorsing Sen. Wayland Brooks which the ward organization adopted Friday night.

"Sen. Brooks has demonstrated his sincerity of purpose, his honesty, his integrity, and his willingness to represent all of the people to their best interests," it read. "The people are satisfied he will continue to fight to maintain the two party system of government, which we sincerely believe is essential to maintain our democracy."

Committeeman Jens M. Jensen of the 50th ward announced that his organization also indorsed Brooks' candidacy Friday night. Similar action was reported taken at a meeting of the 48th ward organization, Emerson C. Whitney, committeeman.

MACHINE OPERATOR DIES. Carl Thompson, 38 years old, 4638 South Spaulding avenue, a machine operator, died in the County hospital Friday night presumably of benzol poisoning.

100,000 DEFENSE WORKERS LEARN DUTIES BY RADIO

One hundred thousand civilian defense volunteers in the Chicago area yesterday received their lesson by radio in preparing their neighborhoods against enemy bombing raids.

The lesson, second in a series of three survey lectures, was delivered by Albert Lepawsky, director of training for the Chicago area of defense, in a broadcast over WMAQ. Lepawsky outlined the duties of defense volunteers in spotting enemy planes, preparing blackouts, defending the city against fires started by bombs and in performing rescue and first aid work.

The defense training course will be concluded in a final broadcast next Saturday afternoon. Tentative plans have been mapped to continue the defense training in neighborhood courses to be given by hundreds of public school teachers who now are being trained to instruct volunteers in specific duties.

The neighborhood courses will begin sometime next month. As the present number of defense volunteers is being trained, others will be recruited and, eventually, approximately 250,000 are expected to serve in the city as lookouts, air raid wardens, block captains, first aid workers, fire fighters, salvage workers, and auxiliary civilian policemen.

WRECKS STOLEN CAB; INJURED. Earl Yockey, 28 years old, 111 East State street, Hammond, was in St. Margaret's hospital, Hammond, yesterday with a skull fracture suffered when a cab he had taken without the owner's consent went off the road at 160th street and Torrence avenue, near Calumet City.

CONCEDE FIGHT ON TAX BILL PERILS U. S. WAR INCOME

Predict Months of Delay Before Final Action.

Washington, D. C., March 28 (AP).—Congressional leaders conceded today that controversy over proposed new levies may so delay final enactment of the new tax bill that federal revenues for the next fiscal year will fall far short of the 9 billion dollars increase asked by President Roosevelt in January.

With the house ways and means committee scheduling hearings up thru the middle of April, Sen. Walter F. George [D., Ga.] said it appears unlikely that the senate finance committee, which he heads, can begin consideration of the revenue measure before June.

Three months then might be required, he said, before the bill can be passed by the senate, the differences of the two houses be composed and the measure sent to the President for his signature.

Terms Delay Unavoidable.

Calling this delay unavoidable, George pointed out that if the new tax rates do not go into effect until late August or September, two months of the new fiscal year will have gone by without any of the increases which the President said in his January budget message were necessary in order to aid in financing the proposed 56 billion dollar war outlay in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

While increases made in individual and corporate income taxes would be retroactive to cover the 1942 calendar year, George said the delay in enactment of the bill would cost the treasury a large amount of potential revenue in excise levies, inheritance, estate, and gift taxes, proposed levies on municipal and state bonds, and other forms of imposts which are not retroactive.

In addition George said there are indications that action on the President's suggestion for a 2 billion dollar increase in social security taxes cannot be taken until late in this calendar year.

Problem in Sales Tax.

George pointed out also that if congress shall choose to substitute a sales tax or some other form of new levy for some of the income rate increases previously suggested by the treasury, the delay in getting the new bill on the statute books would be even more costly because the new tax could not be made retroactive.

Considerable sentiment has been recorded in congress for a move to replace some of these increases with a sales tax, but Sen. Robert M. La Follette [Prog., Wis.] served notice that such action is sure to provoke a prolonged controversy.

La Follette, a member of the senate finance committee, who consistently has opposed sales taxes, told reporters he is prepared to show that a 5 per cent tax that exempted sales of food, articles on which present excise levies are paid, and government transactions would raise only 864 million dollars a year. Some proponents have claimed potential revenues upward of 4 billion dollars for a 5 per cent tax with no exemptions.

Moreover, La Follete said he obtained figures from the Office of Price Administration indicating that 42.9 per cent of this additional tax burden would fall on persons with incomes of less than $2,000 a year.

EVANSTON LETS STREET WASTE BUY AMBULANCE

Mayor S. G. Ingraham of Evanston yesterday turned over to the Evanston defense council a completely equipped ambulance which will be paid for by the sale of waste paper gathered from the suburb's streets by city employés.

Since last January 88 street department employés have been gathering the paper. Proceeds from the sale of it, together with a number of small donations from citizens, totaled $500—the down payment on the ambulance. The balance will be paid in the same fashion.

Reunited

Mrs. Lydia Welander (left) and her daughter, Mrs. Caroline Smith.

Mrs. Lydia Welander, 3409 Overhill avenue, and her daughter, whom she had not seen since babyhood, were united yesterday in the Aurora office of Dr. J. W. Dreyer who delivered the infant 33 years ago. The daughter, Mrs. Caroline Smith, a divorcee, lives in Warrenville with her foster parents.

Mrs. Welander, who was Lydia Bergstrom of Aurora, was married in 1908 to a Lewis Linden and the marriage was annulled a few weeks later. When her child was born May 29, 1909, she was unable to care for her and gave her for adoption to Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Popelin of Warrenville.

The reunion of mother and daughter was brought about by Howard E. Palm of Elgin who found a record of the adoption in the Kane county courthouse when searching for a birth record for his wife, also an adopted child. Palm had known Mrs. Welander for many years and knew that she had given her child for adoption.

Remits Penalties Set in Mine Wars.

Springfield, Ill., March 28 [Special].—President Roosevelt has signed an order remitting a balance of $350,000 due on $360,000 in fines assessed in 1937 against 36 miners convicted of conspiracy to bomb railroad trains, United States Attorney Howard L. Doyle informed the federal court here today.

The order is the last chapter in the government's prosecution arising from the southern Illinois mine war which raged from 1932 to 1935 between rival union organizations. The 36 convicted men, all of whom served two year prison terms, were members of the Progressive Mine Workers' organization, now an AFL union, which broke away from the United Mine workers, now CIO, in 1932.

Each Fined $20,000.

The men were convicted in December, 1937, of conspiracy to obstruct the mails and interstate coal shipments by dynamiting railroad trains and mines. Federal Judge Charles G. Briggle sentenced each man to four years in prison and fined each $20,000, a total of $720,000, but fines and sentences were cut in half by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

President Roosevelt's order states "it has been made to appear to me that the interests of justice do not require that the aforesaid judgments of fine be any further executed," according to Doyle, who said he had recommended the remission.

The Progressive miners had paid $10,000 as a first instalment on the fines, and this has been pro-rated over all the cases.

36 Bombings Charged.

Indictments on which the men were tried listed 36 railroad and mine bombings, seven attempted bombings, and one railway bridge burning. These incidents occurred after a faction of the United miners rebelled against the leadership of John L. Lewis.

The rebels objected to a wage reduction agreed to by Lewis and formed an independent organization which attempted to negotiate its own wage agreements with mine owners.

Violence did not come to an end until government agents began investigating the bombings in August, 1935.

NOTHIN' LIKE IT! SAYS SAILOR OF SERVICE CENTER

Only Place He Hasn't Been 'Played for a Sucker.'

BY EDWARD WILSON.

Sailor Louis Pfeiffer of Louisville, Ky., who identified himself as "just another hillbilly," sat in the Chicago Service Men's Center yesterday and said: "Mister, there just ain't nothin' like this anywhere. Every place else they play you for a sucker."

Pfeiffer, a first class seaman, was passing thru Chicago on his way from the west coast to the east coast where he expects to join the crew of a United States destroyer.

Like thousands of other noncommissioned soldiers and sailors, Pfeiffer had stopped in at the Center maintained at 164 West Washington street. Operated thru the coöperation of the Park District and the city, the Center provides entertainment and sleeping quarters for noncommissioned men.

But the spot that impressed Pfeiffer was the canteen section on the third floor—the spot that hits the heart of every service man. There they get the best of food free.

Mayor's Wife in Charge.

Last fall Mrs. Edward J. Kelly, the wife of Mayor Kelly, decided a motherly hand was needed in the canteen. She took over operation of the canteen and until last Thursday, when doctors ordered her to bed and to stay there, she was working 10 to 12 hours a day at the center seven days a week.

Mrs. Gertrude Harding and Mrs. James B. Bowler, wife of Ald. Bowler, are in charge at the canteen during Mrs. Kelly's absence. Mrs. Frank Lyman, whose husband is Probate court clerk; Mrs. James B. McCahey, whose husband is president of the school board, and Mrs. William P. Ronan, whose husband is a civil service commissioner, also give much of their time to the center.

"Wednesday night," she said, "the office notified us that they had 150 soldiers downstairs—and were sending them up for food."

"Did you feed them on such short notice?" she was asked.

Firms Donate Food.

One reason for plenty of free food at the canteen has been Mrs. Kelly's suggestion to Chicago meat packers and bakers that the best service they can render their country is to donate food to the center.

"No service man ever spent a cent here yet, and none is going to," Mrs. Harding said yesterday.

Not only are the boys well fed at the center, but some carry away food for the next day. That system started last January. Until then the boys were not expected to take out food.

A young fellow from Navy Pier, who had been a regular customer of the canteen, was seen to wrap a couple of sandwiches and thrust them inside his blouse. Mrs. Bowler asked if one of his bunkmates was hungry.

"No," the youngster said, "but I'm leaving on my assignment tomorrow. I'm going east, probably to join the fleet. I thought I might get hungry on the train."

"Come along," said Mrs. Bowler, and back in the kitchen she prepared a box for him to take on the train.

Box Lunches Every Day.

"Now," said Mrs. Harding, "we put up scores of box lunches every day. Any boy sent away on an assignment will get a surprise package from the center. That is the least we can give them when they go."

An average week-end at the center, according to Mrs. Harding, calls for about 12,000 hot dogs, 10,000 cups of coffee, 20,000 cookies, 1,500 pies, 20 pounds of popcorn, and 500 pounds of candy.

And all of it, she reminded, is donated.

Cakes come from the suburbs as well as from women in the city. The name of the sender of every cake is listed and each sender receives a "thank you" note from Mrs. Kelly.

Private John R. Kolle of the military police in the Chicago area summed up the center's canteen when he said: "Next to home, this is the best place in the world. Everybody wants our money but Chicago."

210-29 VOTE FAVORS CONSOLIDATION PLAN FOR SIX SCHOOL AREAS

In a special election yesterday, voters in three townships in three counties—Cook, Kane, and McHenry—approved consolidation of six elementary school districts for administration purposes. The vote was 210 to 29.

The territory lies west of Barrington, and is known as the Barrington Hills area. Schools now operating are small and have a total of only 130 students. It is expected that the Cook county superintendent of schools, Noble J. Puffer, will call for election of a consolidated school board soon.

Proponents of the merger said that probably only two schools, Barrington Center and Jackson, would be kept in operation under the new board.

THE CAMPAIGN TO DATE.

The verdict that history may well pronounce on the opening phase of the campaign in the southwest Pacific is that it was the worst planned in history. The one feature that distinguishes the entire series of defeats at the hands of the Japanese is that the nations that call themselves united fought as if they were disunited—as indeed they were. Each in turn took a position in its own supposed stronghold and watched the others go down, until at last its own turn came.

Knowing thoroly the Japanese strength, the so-called united nations yet allowed their forces to be divided into six splinter groups, none of which was by itself capable of meeting the Japanese onslaught. These garrisons stood in Hongkong, in Malaya barring the way to Singapore, in Luzon, in Java, in Burma, and in Australia. There never was any thought of grouping them all together in one defensible theater and there taking a united stand. In attempting to hold everything, everywhere, and all at once, almost everything was lost.

Some 14,000 British, Indian, and Canadian troops were surrendered in Hongkong, and about 100,000 men each in Singapore and Java. The American and Filipino garrison holding the Bataan peninsula is probably greater than the number of troops that were in Hongkong and less than the number in Singapore or Java. In Burma there are now two Chinese armies and an undetermined number of British and Indian troops. A considerable force of Americans has reached Australia and the number of commonwealth troops is placed between 200,000 and 300,000.

If all of these troops had been grouped together for a common defense in a chosen area, it is extremely probable that the united nations would have averted the unbroken string of disasters they have suffered. The surrender of almost a quarter of a million men would not have occurred and a great army would still remain in being. The war, in fact, might have taken an entirely different course, for by now it might have been the Japanese who had taken a crushing defeat.

Objections to this view can be expected from military men and politicians who have nothing to look back upon except disastrous blunders. They will say that the honor of the British empire demanded that Hongkong be defended. They will say that Britons would have lost face with the natives if Chiang Kai-shek's offer to undertake a joint defense of Malaya with the British had been accepted. They will say that Dutchmen could not have left the vast wealth of Java unguarded to send their armies elsewhere.

But, in the event, what happened? The garrisons that remained in their own back yards were lost anyway. The torch had to be put to the oil refineries and plantations of Java and dynamite used to blow up the military installations. The rubber and tin of Malaya have passed to the Japanese.

It is no exaggeration to say that the decisions which led to so many losing fights, each of which was lost separately, were political or emotional decisions, not military decisions. Each was a repetition of the same error made long before, as when prestige sent the British to lose in Norway, and when loyalty to an ally directed that the British Libyan army go to Greece, leaving Cyrenaica to Gen. Rommel. In every instance the result was a dispersion of force, leaving the line too weakly held everywhere to achieve victory anywhere.

Still, it may be argued that to have chosen a defensible theater and to have grouped all of the forces of the united nations for common action would have required extreme foresight and careful preparation. But if we accept all that our leaders said up to Dec. 7, foresight was not lacking. Mr. Roosevelt's speech on the Chicago bridge in 1937 had served warning on the aggressor nations, and after September, 1939, every act of the administration was designed to implement a state of war that was undeclared but was no less effective for that.

Prime Minister Churchill later was to tell us of America's commitments in the defense of the western Pacific, made last summer well in advance of hostilities at the Atlantic conference. Singapore, we were given to understand, was at our disposal whenever the fleet needed it. Hundreds of thousands of regular troops had been mobilized and other hundreds of thousands of men had been called into training long before Pearl Harbor. The fleet, according to the secretary of the navy, was ready for a war.

If these preparations had been made by America, how much more thoro were the preparations to be expected from Britain, which had been at war for more than two years; from Holland, which had been at war for more than a year and a half and which was fully aware of the covetous eye cast by Japan on the Indies, and from China, which was in the fifth year of its war with Japan?

Yet, in the event the big talk proved to have been supported only by a reed shaken by the wind, as the Army Ordnance journal puts it. The cyclone out of Nippon hit each of the united nations with a separate impact and caught each of them in its own little bailiwick. There was confusion and every appearance of complete lack of preparation. Staff talks had determined nothing. They had brought no pooling of forces, no concerted design, not even decisions that certain purported impregnable strongholds were neither impregnable nor even tenable.

Thus Hongkong fought by itself and fell, Singapore fought by itself and fell, Java fought by itself and fell, and Luzon fought by itself and was placed under siege. Thus, too, the American Asiatic fleet offered little serious opposition to the invasion of the Philippines, the main Pacific fleet was caught off guard far away at Pearl Harbor, the British heavy warships Prince of Wales and Repulse ventured out by themselves and were sunk, and the rest of the British and Dutch fleet units did not combine with the American Asiatic fleet until it was too late to do anything except fight a hopeless action in which most of the ships were sunk without barring Java from the Jap invasion fleet.

Equally fatal were other failures in preparation—lack of sufficient military aircraft to keep the Japs from attaining overwhelming superiority, lack of numerous air fields, properly dispersed and concealed; lack of other equipment, and lack of careful training. The British, for example, learned only from the Japs that light tanks could proceed thru the rice paddies of Malaya. Their troops used orthodox occidental fighting tactics against an enemy schooled in special jungle fighting.

The Japanese had prepared a large number of air bases in Indo-China, Formosa, and the mandated islands so that they could strike in every direction. They quickly came into control of the air fields of Siam and in the first few days of the war they seized the best airdromes in northern Malaya. Meanwhile they bombed into destruction a large number of American planes in Hawaii and hit the two principal air fields on Luzon with the result that by the second day of the war many of our bombers had been destroyed on the ground. After this, even if the united nations had had enough planes, they would not have had a sufficient number of air fields from which to use them with effect.

As Mr. Hanson Baldwin says, "Japan's quick conquests are not to be attributed solely to Japanese strength and skill. They are also attributable to allied weakness and unreadiness. The Japanese profited by surprise. They also profited by our mistakes." Complacence, lack of forethought, and a division of command cannot be omitted from any cataloging of these mistakes.

We have won time for the new battle of preparation and we should have profited from our mistakes, but some of the old mistakes are still being repeated. The Burma command is split between the American, Gen. Stilwell, commanding the Chinese armies, and the British general, Harold Alexander, commanding British and Indian troops. Command in that whole quarter of the globe is split between Gen. Mac Arthur, in charge in the southwest Pacific, and Gen. Wavell, who runs the British effort from India. On their relative records, Gen. MacArthur is successful and Gen. Wavell is not, and Gen. Stilwell, tho he is comparatively new to East Asia, has not experienced the defeats that all of the British generals have. These comparisons suggest the appropriate action.

HOW NOT TO COLLECT WASTE PAPER.

Oranges are higher in Chicago than in Florida. Automobiles cost more in California than in Detroit. The reason is freight. It isn't practical for the Chicago grocer to specify a price as F. O. B. Miami for oranges, but the freight is a large part of the price. Automobiles have always been quoted F. O. B. factory, which means that the price in any town is the advertised price plus the freight from the factory to that point. Any Kansas farmer understands that the country elevator price must be less than the Chicago Board of Trade quotation. Or, to put it the other way around, wheat in Chicago is worth the farm price plus the cost of bringing the crop to the market.

All this is perfectly clear to Florida orchardists, middle west farmers, and automobile buyers everywhere. But it seems to be too much for the Office of Price administration. Waste paper prices have been fixed by the government at a uniform level all over the country, altho there are facilities for converting it at only a few places. Thus $15 has been fixed as the price for mixed paper. It is the same in California, Texas, and Colorado as in Illinois, New York, and Pennsylvania. The mills which use the bulk of the waste paper are in New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, and a few other cities. It is in these centers that waste paper is converted into boxes, roofing material, wrapping paper, and other products. The market for waste paper is in these cities.

The $15 price in and adjacent to the market cities is not high enough to bring about the collection of all the waste paper needed by the mills now, and they are forced to buy their supplies elsewhere. Recently paper was purchased in California at the established price of $15 a ton, and shipped to Chicago. The freight was equal to $15 a ton, bringing the cost to $30. What this means is that California waste paper is worth $30 a ton in Chicago, but that Chicago paper of identical character is worth only $15.

Patriotic citizens are saving paper because they have been told that it is needed for defense. The people who make a business of gathering paper are the ones who could add greatly to the supplies if permitted to do so. They are obliged to ignore paper which costs them more than $15 a ton to collect.

By keeping the local price of waste paper at $15 per ton, the Office of Price administration makes it possible to gather only a part of the paper available in this community. The paper users are obliged to supplement their supplies elsewhere at a cost running up to twice the local price. This is done, it is said, to prevent inflation. What nonsense!

Editorial of the Day

ECONOMY? YES, BUT—

[New York Sun.]

Tho individual members of the house of representatives have labored long and hard to make a good showing, economy wise, on the department of agriculture appropriation bill, their collective efforts to date have produced economies which do not bulk very large in comparison with the billions that must be spent for war. Anybody who follows the debate on such an appropriation bill quickly recognizes where the difficulty lies. Once a bureau is established, it becomes its own most ardent advocate, probably with all the sincerity that could be desired. Once a new governmental agency is created, it establishes a vested interest, not only for those on the pay roll, but for those in other fields affected by its work.

That is why so much of the economy talk in congress is of the "yes, but" variety. The standard speech on economy starts with the words, "I yield to no man in my passion for economy, but this would be false economy." The man who desires to defeat a reduction in an appropriation bill finds it easiest to do so by characterizing as "short sighted" the economical proposal to which he objects. It is odd, indeed, how quickly government activities become "indispensable." They were, perhaps, not in existence 10 years ago or 15 years ago, but once they come into existence they become inevitably part of the natural law.

ONE CAUSE—ONE PEOPLE

BY JOHN CUDAHY.

Former Ambassador to Poland and Belgium, Former Minister to Eire.

The other day I heard a man sharply rapped for nothing more heinous than suggesting that there was incompetence and slipshod methods at Washington in high places. He was excoriated as if his utterance was traitorous and disloyal as that of a fifth columnist.

This is a strange doctrine for free Americans. If it be treason to find fault when fault exists, to point out mistakes where wrongs are evident, to protest against incompetence and inefficiency, then the American way of life is suspended not only for the duration of the war but more probably for all time to come. For the critical faculty lies at the heart of the democratic process, and if democracy is to survive certainly the counsels of the people are needed during a time of mortal emergency.

If we too must succumb to the gag methods of the totalitarian states, many people may ask what are we fighting for. If the cause for which we are asked to sacrifice is freedom, that cause is already lost if the people are shut out from any hearing. This is not yet true in England, for it was the people who insisted that Chamberlain must go, after the failure of his appeasement policy, and it is the troubled people in Britain who have brought about the shakeup in the Churchill cabinet after Norway, Dunkirk, Jugo-Slavia, Crete, Greece, Libya, the Mediterranean, Singapore, Malaya, and the East Indies. War is a merciless mistress and will not tolerate failure. There were three complete reshufflings of the British cabinet in the first World war before Lloyd George led the way to victory with the commanding hand of genius.

The popular will is the wind that drives the British ship of state almost on a day to day basis, but our political institution lacks this ready response to the public exigency, and no matter how people in this country may feel about laxity and ill discipline in our conduct of the war there is nothing they can do about it until the elections in November. Perhaps they will not be able to do anything then if it becomes the established American creed to stifle all criticism of blundering inefficiency in the name of patriotism, blundering that causes irretrievable commitment and that may be paid with blood and tears in countless American homes before many more months have gone by.

The success of the democratic process has been due to the working principle that two heads are generally better than one when applied to any tough proposition. It goes upon the assumption that the wisdom of the majority is the ultimate wisdom that has always carried the nation thru the storm and stress of other trying days, and that from the clash of conflicting brains the most mature, intelligent decisions have always emerged. If we must abandon that tried tradition now and submit, unquestioning and in ignorance, to authority simply because it is authority, if the lights are to be put out and we are to be left in darkness, perhaps they can never be illumined again.

The amazing feature of this country and the war is not the occasional muttering and impatience with the cumbersome, clumsy indirection of our leaders, it is the moral discipline and the willing acceptance of hardship and sacrifice on the part of Americans. Here was a people firmly established in the pursuits of peace, enjoying the luxury of a living standard enjoyed by no other people on earth, a people who spoke and acted with no thought of restraint of personal liberty, abruptly, in a matter of a few weeks, witnessing their citizen soldiers leave on undefined missions for the far corners of earth, submitting to a dictatorial censorship of the news, to the deprivation of the indispensable automobile and the radio, shouldering the crushing burden of taxation, facing more and more severe rationing and a future of interminable tragedy. Yet they do not lament. They do not complain or cry out. They only ask for competent and honest leadership in the hard row they are asked to follow. Is there not danger of overtaxing this generous, gallant spirit? Is it not too much that to the sharp rationing of material goods and to spiritual denial there should be added the suppression of all individual thought and free debate, which has always been the birthright of every American and the distinguishing mark of American institutions?

Such is the faith in everything American that even tho the announced war aims are meaningless in the average man's vocabulary, now that we are in it, no matter the cost, there is an ardor to do one's part, to get on with the war and finish the job. But there is bitter hostility to the way things are going, to the defense of mistakes by the declamation of platitudes, the attempt to conceal cruel realities thru subterfuge, the suppression of news, the failure to state the whole truth of what has happened and what will inevitably happen. And there is a dangerous, rising, sullen wave of opposition to those in charge of the war establishment who obstinately refuse to take the people into their confidence, yet at every turn ask of them unstinting sacrifice.

The people of this country know well enough that the British did not go originally to Singapore or the Malayan peninsula to enjoy the tropic air, nor was the Dutch empire in the East Indies established more than 300 years ago as a health resort, and if we are not in the far east for imperialism, some wonder whether the inauguration of the four freedoms for one branch of the yellow race as opposed to the other is of vital concern to the American future. But now such speculation and any inquiries analyzing the causes of the war are out of order and un-American. The fight is on, the country is uncompromisingly engaged in that fight and those who do anything to obstruct the military effort are against the country.

All have consecrated their lives and everything they possess to bring about the annihilation of the axis and the crushing of imperialistic Japan and if, at times, criticism appears impatient, it is because it is prompted only by a consuming desire to win the war. That was the spirit which animated Herbert Hoover, Landon, Gen. Wood, and Lindbergh in offering their services to the country for the duration of this war. They had opposed the foreign policy of the administration with all the vigor at their command, but all this opposition ended when the Japanese struck at Pearl Harbor. An immediate national emergency united all in a common impulse to man the guns. In that call of country these men with purest patriotic motives showed that they had forgotten all differences with the administration and were willing to let bygones be bygones and work wholeheartedly in the common cause. That generous spirit has not been reciprocated. In most part the services of these men, and many more like them, have not been accepted. More than that, they are made to feel they are not wanted.

During the period of debate, stinging acrimonious words had been issued from the White House, statements even challenging the good faith and patriotism of these courageous dissidents, and it would have been fitting to heal lingering wounds with the soothing ointment of a reconciliation by summoning all Americans to close ranks in facing the common foe, but no such message has been sounded by the President. It would be charitable to think that this omission was an oversight, more logical to believe that it was a deliberate exclusion, indicative of that same enduring rancor with which the White House has often viewed opposition in the past, but which does not make for the greatest unity in time of war.

Psychology: By describing her as hippy, dumpy and too thick in the waist, the artful government reconciles Mrs. America to a sugar scarcity.—Detroit News.

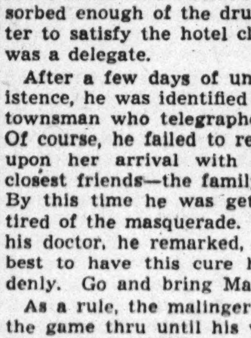
LOSS OF MEMORY AS AN ESCAPE.

Each year we read reports about victims of amnesia. For the most part, these individuals are picked up by the police because they do not know who they are or where they live. Considerable drama surrounds the sufferer, particularly if she is a beautiful young girl. Usually, the publication of her picture will bring a rush of friends and relatives, perhaps from distant points.



Failure of memory may be looked upon as a phase of hysteria. It may be preceded by a psychic trauma of some sort — such as a broken love affair, an unhappy home environment, the loss of a job, etc. But physicians encounter great difficulty in separating pretenders from those who are actually afflicted.

O. Henry's famous story, "A Ramble in Aphasia," describes the experiences of a Denver lawyer who withdrew $3,000 from the bank and vanished. On the journey to New York he fell in with a number of pharmacists who were traveling to attend a druggists' convention. Adopting the name of Edward Pinkhammer, he absorbed enough of the drugstore chatter to satisfy the hotel clerk that he was a delegate.

After a few days of unfettered existence, he was identified by a fellow townsman who telegraphed his wife. Of course, he failed to recognize her upon her arrival with one of his closest friends—the family physician. By this time he was getting rather tired of the masquerade. Alone with his doctor, he remarked, "It will be best to have this cure happen suddenly. Go and bring Marian in."

As a rule, the malingerer will play the game thru until his wishes have been fulfilled. Then he will recover promptly or slowly, as circumstances permit.

It has been well said that a genuine episode is "a weak attempt of a weak personality to escape conflicts." Actual attacks usually come abruptly. Strangely enough, most of these patients make for large cities where there are plenty of people. When, ultimately, they find their way to a hospital nothing can be elicited from them. Questions are met with a blank stare or with the remarks, "I don't know," "I can't remember." To the query, "You are wearing a wedding ring, you must be married—what is your husband's name?" the answer will be, "I suppose I am married, but I can't recall."

The plan of management is simple. Under a generous dose of one of the barbituric acid derivatives, enough hypnosis is induced so that the patient in a dream state will answer correctly.

The case of a 23 year old girl was brought to my attention recently. She became confused while on a shopping expedition. Realizing that she had been walking for a long time, she requested a policeman to direct her to a physician. She presented signs of exhaustion and was unable to tell where she resided.

Fortunately, her address was found in her purse but, when repeated to her, it meant nothing. When her relatives visited her, she failed to respond to their entreaties. A powerful dose of a sedative induced a long slumber from which she awakened in full possession of her faculties. Some time later the sequence of events was traced to a quarrel with her fiancé.

TUBERCULOSIS.

T. O. W. writes: Where can I get reading material on tuberculosis?

REPLY.

Your state and city health departments may be able to send you pamphlets. There are numerous books on the subject, which may be purchased thru medical bookstores or borrowed from public libraries. We have a leaflet on the disease, which you may obtain by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

COLD COMFORTS.

P. L. writes: I find ice packs more beneficial than heat in gout. Is this all right?

REPLY.

Quite. Occasionally heat will increase the pain.

Test Your Horse Sense

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 8, part 2.

1. On a restaurant menu the phrase "café au lait" indicates
   No Cover Charge Open Till Late Coffee with Milk Pie à la Mode.
2. Gutzon Borglum's sculpture is on which of these mountains?
   Mount Rushmore Mount Baker Mount Rainier Pike's Peak.
3. The largest part of the human brain is called the Medulla Cerebrum Cerebellum Cortex.
4. Among Christ's 12 apostles, which one was called the Beloved?
   PETER MATTHEW JOHN JAMES.
5. If you arrived in Denver "on the beam," your method of transportation would be Airplane Bus Railroad Afoot.
6. Here is a group game suitable for church socials as well as home parties. Simply expand the list of clothing needs illustrated below. If I were to ask you which type of cloth would be most appropriate for a hunter, you would deserve full credit by answering "Duck," since that is a type of fabric. Follow this procedure in answering the questions below. You are entitled to one point for each correct judgment.
   [c] Which fabric is suitable for a musician? ....

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6 average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

THE BLAME FOR UNPREPAREDNESS.

Quincy, Ill., March 24.—From time to time we hear considerable criticism and blame heaped upon a few so-called isolationists for our lack of preparedness, but with congress made up overwhelmingly of Democrats for the last 10 years, and granting every desire of the President save one—that of making a change in the Supreme court—such criticism and blame are absurd. Even now, by their own statements, most of the Democratic candidates for congress say they will do the bidding of the President upon whose coattail they desire to ride into office and thus continue the same incompetence now bungling the whole war effort. We do not believe the people who desire the winning of this war are going to allow themselves to be deceived much longer. So far as I am concerned I'm for the reelection of Sen. Brooks.

SERVICE CENTER.

Chicago, March 23.—I traveled all over the United States in the last six or seven months and there is no city or town in the world that can equal what the city of Chicago is doing in its Service Men's center. I think we of Chicago should boast for originating, supporting, and putting over the greatest morale builder in America.

Here is a building of 16 stories, all floors devoted to making the men in our armed forces happy. There are three floors of dormitories, two solid floors of billiard, pool, and ping-pong tables, a reading room floor, and four floors given over completely to theatricals, amusements, and shows. Some of the greatest stars of stage, screen, radio, and the biggest bands in America have appeared absolutely free.

The canteen gives away about 1,500 pounds of meat and has given away as many as 2,000 cakes on one Saturday. I understand over 2,000 theater, boxing, wrestling, and other tickets are given away daily. We have less soldier and sailor trouble in this city of Chicago than any town, big or small, in America. Let's invite the mayors and civic clubs from surrounding cities to come in and see this. Let the world know!

Sidney Stern.

RACE RELATIONS AND THE ARMY.

Chicago, March 24.—As an ex-soldier and officer in the old 370th infantry, I know what our colored boys in the army have to face all over the south. Yet we carried on and proved ourselves. The latest outbreak down in Arkansas doesn't mean that colored people don't have any friends among the whites. It's only the hillbilly class that constantly looks for trouble and tries to impress upon us a superiority they do not feel or measure up to. Our pulse still beats strong for our own America in spite of them.

Ex-Lieut. Jones.

WHERE IS BILLY?

Mount Pleasant, Ia., March 21.—A heavy truck was stuck in the mud just in front of our house. Three men had been trying to get it out, but it still stuck.

Six small boys, about 5 to 6 years of age, were playing on the sidewalk. Six year old Billy looked up and saw them. He shouted: "She's 'tuck! She's 'tuck! Come on, kids, the t'ing's 'tuck!" They lined up and with their added strength the truck gave a grunt in disgust and moved out. America is stuck. Where is Billy?

John Doe.

CIVILIAN DEFENSE IN A FOREIGN TONGUE.

Chicago, March 21.—As a lieutenant in my district I am very much interested in civilian defense work and would like to help my block captain all I can. But as I am an American I would like to see the meetings held in the American language. I feel that all can understand English, and meetings should not be held in a foreign language.

An American.

WOMEN IN THE ARMY.

Lafayette, Ind., March 16.—A woman's army would certainly be a demoralizing undertaking. When women take up warfare the army will become soft. That is the only prerogative left for men to take pride in, so do leave them one chance to show they are trying to fill a man's place!

O. R. Smith.

THE SCHOOL BOARD IS ALREADY BROKE.

Chicago, March 24.—Chicago, first city in America in many fields, lags behind other municipalities in one category: Education. We have no free four year city college such as New York City has had for over 75 years. Even smaller cities, like Detroit and Cincinnati, have their own free universities. Yet Chicago, second largest city in the United States, which squanders millions of dollars annually for one purpose or another, has no such institution of higher learning.

During the depression of the '30s many students with brilliant but undeveloped minds were denied the opportunity to continue their education because of financial difficulties. As a result, America now faces a shortage of college trained men and women for our factories, offices, and armed forces. The city of Chicago has certainly neglected its duty to its citizens by not providing an opportunity for advanced education.

The experience of Great Britain has been that the curtailment of educational activities has resulted in the soaring of juvenile delinquency. British experts have admitted that "it was a sad mistake and one for which this country [Britain] will pay for a generation."

Let's profit from Britain's mistake. Don't ration education! Instead, let's pass out an extra helping by establishing a free four year city college in Chicago.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

The volume of Legal Friend mail necessitates printed statements on common questions. No copies or records of the letters or answers are kept. Hence follow-up letters should be complete in themselves. If questions are based on some previously printed problems a clipping of the article should accompany. Most of the replies are mailed. Letters bearing no name and address are disregarded. A self addressed envelope will expedite handling.

LOST CHECK.

Chicago, March 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My lawyer sent me my husband's alimony check of $5. I get it every week. I have four children and the last check did not reach me altho he said it had been sent to me. I reported it to the postoffice and they said it is up to the lawyer. I need the money bad. How long will it take before I get it?

H. H.

Ordinarily the drawer of a check can be persuaded to issue a new check on satisfactory assurance that he will not be held liable on the first one. This assurance might take the form of a bond. You do not tell us whether you have exhausted these possibilities.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

ADOPTION.

Hammond, Ind., March 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Is it possible for a nonresident to adopt a child in the state of Tennessee? Is a lengthy investigation necessary?

It is not clear why a nonresident would wish to adopt a child. If it is your own question, why not bring the child to the place where you reside and adopt it there? We suggest that you have a personal interview with an attorney.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

TIME FOR SUIT.

Elkhart, Ind., March 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In a case where a person was killed and one brought suit, [1] would it have to be filed within 30 days or one year? 2. What is the lawyer fee, 40 or 60 per cent or just [3] what is the average fee?

4. After the case has been filed with the lawyer, how long does it take before it is tried?

A. G.

1. The suit must be brought within one year.
2. This is a matter for private agreement.
3. It would vary between one-third and one-half on a contingent basis.
4. Depends on the condition of the calendar of the judge to whom the case is assigned.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

INSURANCE.

Columbus, Ind., March 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Is it true in Indiana that the aged or blind who have life insurance shall be required to have it cashed and used before entitled to public assistance?

E. D.

Depends on the nature and extent of the insurance. In general, the carrying of unnecessarily large insurance payable to other persons after death tends to show that the old person has surplus resources and hence does not need the old age assistance. Take the matter up with the local officials.

SCHOOLGIRL, 11, LURED INTO CAR, IS BEATEN, RAPED

Another Child, in Home, Routs Assailant.

A Rogers Park school girl, 11 years old, was lured into a car, beaten and raped in daylight yesterday. Her eyes blackened and her dress torn, she then was driven to the vicinity of her home and pushed from the automobile.

The girl, a parochial school pupil and the daughter of a city employé, had gone to a cleaning shop at Devon and Ridge avenues to get her school uniform. She left the shop about 6:30 p. m. and was waiting for a street car at the corner when the rapist, about 30 years old, drove up in a green sedan.

"I know you," he said. "I know your big brother. Get in and I'll take you home."

Threatens to Shoot Her.

The girl did not recognize the man, but believing him to be a friend of her brother, she stepped into the car and told him her address. When she saw that he was not going toward her home, she demanded to be let out, but he told her, "Shut up or I'll shoot you."

She struggled with him, but he beat her, blackening her eyes. He drove behind a greenhouse in an alley near Peterson and Ridge avenues, where he threw her into the rear seat and overcame her.

The rapist then drove within a block of her home and put his helpless victim out. She made her way home. Her parents took her to a physician's office for treatment.

The victim said her assailant was about five feet six inches tall and weighed about 140 pounds. He had two deep scratches on the right side of his face, from which he kept wiping blood with his handkerchief as he drove.

Seek Earlier Intended Victim.

Detectives William Rittenhouse and James Mitchell of the Summerdale police, in whose district the attack occurred, believe the scratches may have been inflicted by an earlier intended victim. They think that if she will tell her story she may be able to furnish valuable clews to the rapist's identity.

The rapist kept the schoolgirl's purse, containing $2.31. He told her, "I'm going to California, and I need the money."

A Marshall High school girl, 14 years old, was alone in her home in the Warren avenue district about the same time when a man friend of her brother called. She told Detectives Thomas Vail and Thomas Tuite that the caller came in, and finding her alone, tried to rape her.

Hit Over Head with Bottles.

When she attempted to fight him off, he struck her over the head with two milk bottles. She screamed so loud that he fled.

Relatives who returned soon afterward took her to the County hospital, where three stitches were required to close the wounds caused by the milk bottles.

The girl named as her assailant Walter Smith, 28, of 2333 Adams street, an employé of an airplane factory in Melrose Park. The detectives arrested him in his home.

CANDIDATES ASK WOMEN'S AID AT DEMOCRAT RALLY

More than 2,500 women attended a luncheon given by the Federation of Illinois Woman's Democratic Clubs in the Stevens hotel yesterday for the Democratic candidates in the primary elections.

Among those who spoke were Raymond S. McKeough [Small Potatoes], candidate for United States senator; W. D. Forsyth, candidate for state treasurer, and Benjamin S. Adamowski, candidate for congressman at large; Edward J. Hughes, secretary of state, and Mrs. Elizabeth A. Conkey, president of the woman's federation, introduced the speakers.

McKeough urged the women to cast aside all gossipers building a whispering campaign on the conduct of the war. "We are all crusaders in the cause of real Americanism and the four freedoms," he said.

"If it were a woman's world this war would have ended a long time ago," Adamowski said. He said downstate residents expected they would have to fight Chicago and Cook county in the elections but that he knew that would not be true, that the state would stand united.

A suit for accounting and to force disclosure of any assets of the defunct brokerage firm of Hoagland and Allum Company, Inc., was filed yesterday in federal District court here by John H. Chatz, trustee in bankruptcy.

The suit is directed against three former officials of the firm, who in April are due to complete sentences imposed in 1938 for using the mails to defraud; their wives; three other former employés of the firm, and two residents of Cleator, Ariz.

The former officials are George F. Allum, president; Olaf A. Larsen, vice president, and Henry A. Engel. The three men were accused of obtaining $750,000 fraudulantly and the suit charges this money or some of it may have been hidden.

The former employés, William E. Gleason, Arthur Kaplitz, and Harold E. Ralley, are charged with diverting various sums. The Arizonans, John Nezik and his wife, Thelma, it is charged, sold a silver mine to the former brokerage officials.

UAW-CIO ORDERS PARLEY ON HOURS; LEWIS ATTACKED

Charge Mine Leader Foments Dissension.

Cleveland, O., March 28 [Special].—Refusing to take on its own shoulders responsibility for a decision on the question of renouncing double time for Sunday and holiday work, the international executive board of the United Automobile Workers-CIO, voted today to call a special convention at Detroit April 7 and 8 to pass on the demand by Donald M. Nelson, director of the War Production board, for abandonment of premium pay within the limits of the 40 hour week.

Altho no explanation was given for the board's unprecedented convention call, it was learned that top leaders of the union had asserted at the closed meeting that adherents of John L. Lewis, seeking to reëstablish the power of their chief at the expense of the war effort, were trying to foment rank and file dissatisfaction with the decision of the national leaders of the CIO.

Back Nelson.

To support Nelson's plea, the national executive board of the CIO urged all of its affiliates at a meeting in Washington last week to give up the double pay principle within the standard work week.

At today's session of the UAW board R. J. Thomas, president of the union and vice president of the CIO, charged that Lewis was secretly supporting the movement in congress for restrictive legislation against labor because he felt his own union, the United Mine Workers, was strong enough to survive and because he hoped to capitalize on the disruption that would ensue in other organizations.

Walter P. Reuther, director of the union's General Motors division, likened Lewis to Robert Ley, head of the Hitler labor front. Both Reuther and Thomas pledged unqualified support to Philip Murray, CIO president, in his anticipated showdown with Lewis on labor's contribution to winning the war.

Charge Lewis Active.

Reuther said he had been informed that agents of Lewis were actively carrying on disruptive activities in several automobile centers.

Reuther asserted that Lewis was disregarding the best interests of the nation and the labor movement in his quest for power. He expressed certainty that the members of the auto union would back its policy of loyalty to Murray if they were made to realize that the issue was not one of personalities but of adherence to "basic CIO principles."

Several board members who had formerly been aligned with Lewis assured Thomas of their coöperation in his insistence on the undivided support of all UAW board members and international representatives in repelling efforts by the Lewis forces to split the auto union.

None spoke in defense of the mine leader.

Faces Year to Life Term on Theft Conviction in 1921

A deputy sheriff left last night for Troy, N. Y., to bring back Joseph Garbaciak, 38 years old, who fled in 1921 after being convicted on a charge of robbery and sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary. Garbaciak disappeared while his case was being appealed to the Illinois Supreme court, which subsequently upheld his conviction. Troy police said Garbaciak, who had been living there under the name of Joseph Novak, confessed he was a fugitive from Illinois.

60 UNITS OF 100 HOUSE PROGRAM NOW BUILDING

Brick One Story Homes to Sell for $6,000.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

One hundred solid brick walled homes for war workers, representing a total investment of over $600,000, are to be built in the southeast section of La Grange. Work is under way on the first 60 units with completion set for May 1, and plans are being drawn for the remaining 40. With the exception of five homes all will be one story and will sell for $6,000 each for land and building. The five will have two stories and cost $7,250.

Being built by Wallen Homes, Inc., these residences are in the area bounded by 48th and 51st streets, 6th and 9th avenues.

Near Diesel Engine Plant.

This is one block east of La Grange road and within reasonable walking distance of the big Electro-Motive corporation's Diesel engine plant. It is about seven miles by bus to both the Buick airplane engine plant in Melrose Park, and the Western Electric plant in Cicero.

Designed by Architect H. Clyde Miller of La Grange, in a variety of floor plans and elevations, the homes are being erected on a staggered building line to avoid uniformity and add attractiveness to the development.

As excavations were made prior to the restriction on gas heating all of the homes in the project will be heated by gas fired warm air furnaces. The houses are being built on lots 50 by 134 feet.

Use FHA Financing.

The houses are being financed with FHA insured mortgages negotiated thru the Prairie State bank of Oak Park.

Garfield Anderson, president of Wallen Homes, Inc., and his brother, Lester R. Anderson, have been associated with William L. Wallen Jr., builder, for the last seven years. They are in charge of the construction of the La Grange project.

In addition to their activities in Westwood residential sales and in River Forest manor, where the Wallen organization has built and sold more than 125 houses, the Anderson brothers handled the sale of all of the homes in Harmon's Colonial village at Halsted and 127th streets.

The Electro-Motive corporation's plant near the new La Grange development has added 1,000 employés in the last few months. It now has about 6,000 workers, it is said.

Predicts Low Cost Housing Activity Boom

Gael Sullivan, Illinois state director of the Federal Housing administration, predicted yesterday that low cost housing will boom in Chicago as a result of amendments to the city building code adopted by the council on Wednesday. FHA already has approved a half dozen different designs for homes which can be built under the new code regulations at a cost of from $3,500 to $4,000.

The plans provide frame construction [except in a two family building which will have solid brick walls] with a partially excavated basement. Complete building specifications and plans are exhibited in the FHA offices in the United States courthouse. FHA loans may be obtained for houses of approved design and the loans may be paid off in monthly installments of $24.89 to $28.44.

Construction under the building code amendments, Sullivan said, not only will be cheaper and faster but will be just as healthful and durable.

These changes in the code make it possible to use many of the newer techniques of building. Concrete slabs and hollow concrete blocks are accepted for foundations. Dry walls, or plaster board construction, may be substituted for three coat plaster walls, and downspouts and gutters may be eliminated. Wiring and plumbing installations are simplified.

Carbon Corporation Rents Floor in 333 Building

Great Lakes Carbon corporation yesterday leased the entire 16th floor of 333 North Michigan avenue building, containing 10,000 square feet, for five years. Sherwood D. Steele, of Ross, Browne & Fleming, was broker. The lessee will have double the space it now occupies at 910 South Michigan avenue, and has options on additional space. It will move about June 1. Increased business, both war and regular, necessitated expansion of its office space.

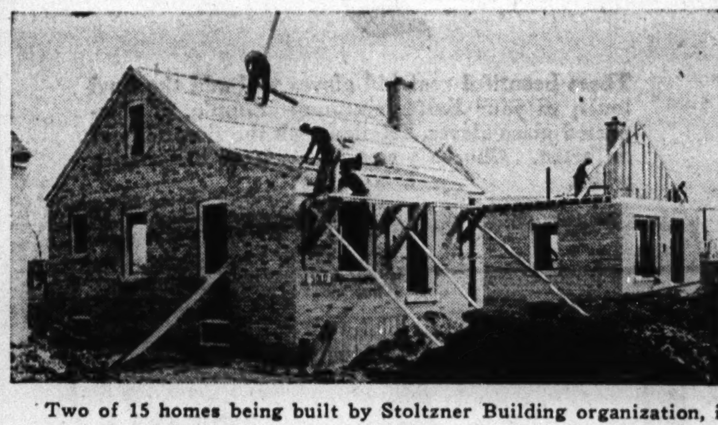
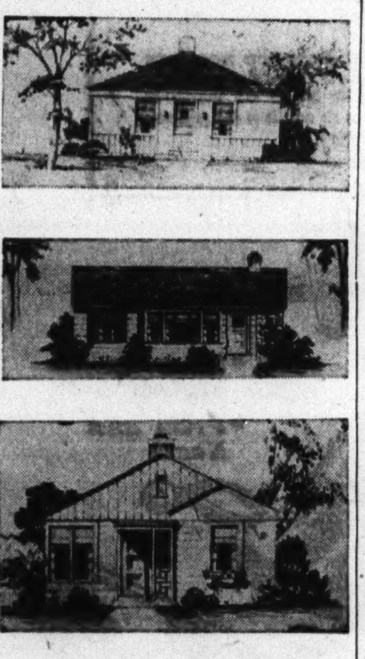
Two Homes for War Workers



Two of 15 homes being built by Stoltzner Building organization, in a contemplated 60 units for war workers. These are at 5000 North Nagle avenue.

Cost $3,800 and Less



Above are FHA approved designs for homes to cost from $3,500 to $3,800 under the new revised city building code. No. 1 will cost approximately $3,500; No. 2, $3,600, and No. 3, $3,800. No. 2 has only one bedroom, kitchen, living-dining room, and bath. The others have two bedrooms each.

WAR CANCELING CLAUSES PUT IN MARINE LEASES

Insertion of a clause in all leases for suites in the Marine Drive apartments, 5060 Marine drive, permits men called into service or families forced to move elsewhere on account of war construction work to cancel their leases. Samuel Oman, one of the architects of the apartments, and secretary of Marine Drive Apartments, Inc., the owner, said yesterday this was being done to help straighten out the confusion in the minds of many who wondered what would happen if they had to pay rent while in the service on an apartment which they did not occupy. All of the 200 suites in the group of buildings are occupied, Howard P. Hurst, rental agent, reported.

Start First 15 of 60 Homes on West Side

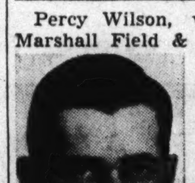
Work is well along on 15 homes by the Stoltzner Building organization in the two blocks bounded by Nagle avenue on the west, Strong street on the south, Mobile avenue on the east and Argyle street on the north. They are the first units of a contemplated 60 "defense homes" to be built during the next few months in these two blocks.

Designed by John Neebe, they have solid brick walls, with the same kind of brick on all sides, full basement, living room, kitchen and dinette, two bedrooms and bath, with attic space for two future rooms.

Occupying lots 40 by 125 feet, the homes are being financed thru the First Federal Savings and Loan association with monthly payments of $31.68. Price of land and building is $6,000.

The Stoltzner Building organization is a partnership of Harold Stoltzner and Eric Erickson, son and son-in-law of Orla Stoltzner, a northwest side builder.

At the Realty Boards



Burt Kiely.
[Edgewater Beach studio.]

Percy Wilson, vice president of Marshall Field & Co. and also vice president of Percy Wilson company, yesterday announced that he would not run as vice president of the Chicago Real Estate board. Press of business caused the withdrawal of his name from the ticket, he said. The nominating committee named Burt Kiely, former president of the North Side Real Estate board, to take Wilson's place.

James C. Downs Jr. was selected to be head of the renting and management division, which was to have been presided over by Kiely. The election will take place on April 1. There is no other ticket in the field, Friday having been the last day for opposition to file names.

WILL BUILD 272 FLATS FOR RENT TO WAR WORKERS

To Be Erected in Groups of Four Units.

Work is scheduled to start the latter part of next week on one of the largest apartment projects in the Chicago area in several years. Sixty-eight buildings, each to contain four apartments of three rooms and bath, or a total of 272 living units, will be built by the Ashland Mortgage company, Frank J. Marzurkiewicz, president, in locations convenient for war workers.

Designed by Architect B. J. Bruns, the 64 structures will look like one family residences, with little resemblance to the ordinary four flat building. Each apartment will have its own utility room in the basement equipped with a warm air coal fired heating system which readily can be converted to gas firing when restrictions on that type of fuel are removed.

Bruns said one ton package fuel will be used with storage in the utility room. Under heavy duty, he said, one ton will heat each flat for 18 days and with average firing it will last 30 days.

Following are the locations of the four flat buildings: Two at southeast corner of Laramie and Ainslie, two at northeast corner of Hamlin and Cornelia, one at 6608 North Richmond, three at Hamlin and 83d, two at Lawndale and 83d, two on 70th between Hamlin and Springfield, eight between Farwell and Morse, 175 feet west of Ridge boulevard; one on Cumberland near Irving Park road, 15 on West 68th and 69th between Keeler and Kolmar [just north of proposed Chrysler plant], 15 on West 77th, 78th, and 79th streets between Lawndale and Ridgeway, 17 on West 69th, 70th, and 71st between Pulaski road and Hamlin avenue.

DENISON HULL IS FORMER HEAD OF PRO-WAR GROUP

Political Newcomer Out for Congress Seat.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Denison B. Hull.

Republican voters are being asked this spring to nominate for congressman at large Denison B. Hull, former chairman of the interventionist Fight for Freedom committee and a contributing member of its predecessor organization, the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies.

Hull, an architect living in Winnetka, is listed in the social register. He contributed from $500 to $1,000 to the Committee to Defend America, according to a list published a year ago. Four months later, in July, a cross-section of Illinois voters registered a 4 to 1 wish to remain out of war, expressing their opinion in a state-wide poll.

Made Chairman in October.

Last October Hull accepted the Chicago chairmanship of the Fight for Freedom committee. He presided at a meeting in the International amphitheater at which Dorothy Thompson, newspaper columnist, called members of a mothers' group opposing war "black cockroaches" and "black crows."

The candidate has taken no previous interest in politics, he says, altho his father, the late Morton D. Hull, was congressman from the 2d district for 10 years between 1923 and 1933. He is virtually unknown except for his prowar activities before the Pearl Harbor attack.

During a recent interview Hull declared he thought it "a mistake to rehash old issues—pre-Pearl Harbor issues." He said he was campaigning on a five point program with these objectives: to win the war, to stop waste, to guard democracy, to give needed help, and to reconstruct the peace. He emphasizes the second, he says, calling for a stop "to the squandering of taxpayers' money on things which do not help win the war," and adds, "we must prevent the stifling of private enterprise and individuality."

Tried to Join Armed Forces.

In reply to a question of why he was in the race he said: "I have tried to get into both the army and the navy. The navy turned me down flatly because of my hearing [he wears a hearing device], and the army, while never giving me a direct 'No,' put me off and put me off, so I decided to see if I could be useful in public service."

Hull is campaigning independently, he says, talking neither for nor against any other candidate. He claims the backing of Gov. Dwight H. Green. John T. Dempsey, Cook county Republican chairman and the governor's political leader in Chicago, has indorsed him.

Hull was born in Chicago 45 years ago. He is more than six feet in height and thin, with dark hair parted precisely in the center and allowed to hang on either side of his forehead. He is a product of the Harvard school of architecture, a designer of churches, and an oil painter good enough to have had some of his pictures hung.

[Other informal sketches of major candidates in the April 14 primary elections will appear in early issues of The Tribune.]

College Queen

MISS CECELIA WEILER.

Lake Forest college's highest social honor for a freshman girl, election as queen of the annual freshman ball, went to Miss Cecelia Weiler of 989 Elm street, Winnetka. The entire student body voted Thursday for five candidates for queen, but the identity of the winner was not disclosed until she was crowned at the ball last night by Warren Erickson, chairman of the dance committee. Miss Weiler is 18 years old, a graduate of New Trier High school and a member of Chi Omega sorority.

1% OF NEW CARS IN OPA POOL MAY BE PUT ON SALE

High Priced, Special Models Included.

Washington, D. C., March 28 [Special].—The Office of Price Administration today announced regulations under which possibly 1 per cent of the new passenger cars now held in a government pool may be released for general sale under certain restrictions.

The cars affected by the amendment are those which OPA may determine will not serve the purposes for which the pool was created.

As a condition to release of a car from the pool, the OPA may require the dealer or manufacturer to put another new car into the pool as a substitute. Even after an automobile is released, it still may not be sold except to the holder of a certificate issued by a local rationing board.

Come Under Six Classes.

Among the cars which OPA will consider releasing from the pool are:

1. Those ordered on or before Jan. 1, 1942, by agencies of federal, state, local, or foreign governments, or by the American Red Cross.

2. Automobiles specially built, painted, or equipped on order of specific buyers.

3. Automobiles with a list price above $2,000.

4. Automobiles manufactured prior to March 2, 1942, for experimental purposes.

5. Automobiles that on or before Jan. 16 were in the hands of or in transit to a manufacturer's branch engaged primarily in selling cars at retail; or were consigned to an agency not controled by the manufacturer.

Hinged to Registration.

6. Automobiles for which registration had been effected or applied for prior to Jan. 1 and for which rationing certificates were given.

Included in the amended order is a provision that new passenger automobiles not in the pool may be taken into it in particular instances where these cars may be required to meet emergency needs.

BARRETT ENTERS WAR OVER PAPER MILK BOTTLE USE

Seeks to Oppose City in Hearing on Appeal.

Attorney General George F. Barrett yesterday entered the five year fight on the use of paper milk bottles in Chicago. He filed with the United States Supreme court a petition to intervene in oral hearings on the city's appeal from a pro-paper container decision of the federal Circuit Court of Appeals.

The hearings are scheduled in Washington tomorrow. The Appeals court, in its decision last August, ruled that the Fieldcrest Dairies, Inc., the city's adversary in the fight, could sell milk in paper containers, because the city ordinance confining the packaging of milk to "standard milk bottles" was void.

Calls Step Public Duty.

Barrett, in his petition, stated that inasmuch as Chicago is within the state, it is his public duty to take a hand in the controversy on the side of the dairy and "in the interest of the public." "The present action of the city," he declared, "is obviously intended to give the bottle manufacturers a monopoly. The answer to the whole problem is simple. If the housewife wants to buy milk in a carton, let her have it! If she wants it in a bottle, let her have it!"

Barrett itemized various reasons backing his stand that the city should not be allowed to prevent sale of milk in paper bottles:

"A federal District court [Judge Charles E. Woodward] and the Circuit Court of Appeals both have sustained the state in its decision that either bottles or cartons are legal.

Says Cartons Are Sanitary.

"Cartons are as sanitary as glass bottles.

"Cartons take up less space in transportation and in iceboxes.

"In short," said the attorney general, "it is contrary to public policy and against the laws of the city to prohibit the use of such containers after the state has approved them."

Thruout the long battle over paper bottles, the containers have been in general use in suburbs surrounding Chicago. They have been in use here since October, 1940, when Judge Woodward granted the Dean Milk company an injunction restraining the city from interfering with the sale of milk in paper bottles.

FATE OF WITNESS IN UNION RACKET QUIZ A MYSTERY

Aid of Retail Clerks Long Missing.

One of the unsolved mysteries of labor racketeering in Chicago is the fate that has befallen Michael Savachka. Dead, a prisoner of gangsters, a fugitive beset by unwarranted fears, or just a determined draft dodger—any one of these descriptions may fit his case, and one guess is as good as another in the opinion of policemen and FBI agents who have been seeking him for months.

In the early part of 1941 Michael Savachka was secretary-treasurer of a union, local 1248 of the Retail Clerks' International Protective association. Max Caldwell, a former Indiana bootlegger whose real name was Pollack, was the union's boss. Those familiar with the dark history of the Caldwell régime considered Savachka only a stooge for the czar, who paid him only $37.50 a week for his work.

Devoted to His Mother.

Quiet and retiring, Savachka was then 38 years old. He lived at 5415 South Laflin street in a rented room. He had a small 1940 automobile. He was a churchgoer and devoted to his mother, who said at her Rome, N. Y., home she is sure harm has befallen him.

Suddenly, last June, Savachka became important. Rebellious union members sued Caldwell and aids, including his brother, Michael Pollock. They demanded an accounting of an alleged $910,000 collected by Caldwell and his henchmen in four years. Caldwell was ousted, and union property seized. Cash amounted to $62. The books were missing.

"Savachka kept the money and he had the books," Caldwell asserted.

Uncover Caldwell Property.

Then the union boss asserted he had no income but his salary of $125 a week. Investigation showed that he had property worth more than $62,000 in Chicago and had bought a $45,000 home in Miami Beach, Fla., from the gangster, Frank Nitti.

State's Attorney Courtney, striving to get the facts about the union, sent policemen to seize Savachka. They learned he had left Chicago about the time of the Caldwell exposé. Since then the authorities have neither seen nor heard from Savachka.

"With Savachka here," said Assistant State's Attorney William B. Crawford yesterday, "we could try for indictments of the Caldwell gang. He is a necessary witness."

Savachka was called by his draft board here but failed to report.

DISCOVER NUDE BODY OF WOMAN; HUSBAND CONFESSES SLAYING

Edna Melson.

Louisville, Ky., March 28 (AP).—Police who battered in the door of her bungalow in West Louisville today found the nude body of Mrs. Edna Melson, 31 years old, lying on the floor of her bedroom.

Coroner John M. Keaney said the woman had been beaten to death, adding, "It is one of the worst such cases I have ever seen."

Detective Captain Oda Pate said the woman's husband, Oather Melson, 40, a truck driver, had admitted in a signed statement slaying his wife with his fists. Sergt. Henry Riebel of the homicide squad said later a murder charge had been placed against Melson.

Police were called by Earl Ramsey, who lives in another apartment in the bungalow.

NYA WAR SHOPS IN ILLINOIS PUT ON 7 DAY WEEK

All war production training shops maintained by the National Youth administration in Illinois yesterday were ordered on a seven day week by Mary Stuart Anderson, state NYA director.

The order affects about 8,500 youths employed in 30 war production centers, four standard shops, and 100 projects. Miss Anderson said directors of the nine NYA areas in the state were ordered to reduce the average three month training period to between six and eight weeks to increase the output of skilled youth in war materials production.

Is The Nutritional Revolution Making A Stronger Race of Americans?

SOME PLEASANT AND UNPLEASANT FACTS IN AN APPRAISAL OF VITAMINS!

THE discovery of vitamins marked an important milestone in nutritional betterment. It revolutionized our concepts of deficiency irregularities and emphasized the role of preventative therapy. It inaugurated the era of protective diets and focused attention on the desirability of eating to keep well instead of eating to get well.

And, like every discovery there followed a period of excesses. The possibilities resulting from the use of vitamins have assumed even fictional aspects. We are told there is a "morale" vitamin. This is a travesty on the fortitude of every American. God help us if we require pills to give us guts! We are told the "Busher" making his start in the big league can have a .300 batting average only by taking fence busting vitamins. The good lady fighting for youth, in terror of gray hair, to hold her man, is told to seek the comfort of the so-called anti-gray hair vitamin. The impotent and sterile of both sexes have been told to seek rejuvenation with this magic force; and the skinny, scrawny lassies have been emblazoned as buxom, glamour girls with plenty of oomph—all as a result of the kindly administration of these miraculous pills.

We are told of the "abundant" life, the transformation into an outdoor hero—all by taking vitamins. Never has a worthy cause been more greatly maligned or prostituted. The startling statements made by over-enthusiastic publicists have put to shame the charlatanism of patent medicine fakers years ago. It is unfortunate that these excesses occur in connection with the sponsorship of vitamins. Many fantastic and incredible claims made have no scientific basis in fact, and presuppose a reader's intelligence that is slightly less than moronic.

What actually happened with the discovery of vitamins is relatively simple, but the result is of transcendent importance. In vitamins a new fifth factor in nutrition was found. A new constituent element of vital significance in food was isolated and a new nutritional essential established. Vitamins took their place with proteins, fats, carbohydrates and minerals. It is hardly necessary for anyone to urge the need for proteins, to emphasize the importance of fats, to expatiate on the need of carbohydrates, or to dwell on the significance of minerals in nutrition. Nor is there any necessity to resort to wordy legerdemain to proclaim the value of vitamins.

In the past decade the signs of this revolutionary rebirth of nutrition are unmistakable. Throughout the land there has been an awakened interest in diets; there has been an unparalleled advance in the precautionary measures to avoid many deficiency irregularities; there has been a greater consciousness of protective foods. Manufacturers and distributors have emphasized the nutritive values in their products. Results are evident. Men reporting for military duty have been found to average two inches taller than similar age groups in the last war. Insurance companies report an increase of ten years in the life expectancy of the average man. American women are taller, more svelte, more athletic and more energetic than they were a generation ago. Better health is enjoyed by the average individual. There are fewer cases of serious infectious disease. Preventative medicine is growing in importance, and an intelligent approach to—indeed a revolution in—nutrition is playing a tremendous role in safeguarding the health of the nation.

No competent scientist requires any special plea to justify the need for vitamins any more than he would require a plea for the need of fats, proteins, carbohydrates or minerals as essential elements in nutrition. The laudable objective in the interest of good nutrition is to so rationalize our diet that an adequate vitamin intake may be had in our food. With the sweeping envelopment of the nutritional revolution this may, in time, be entirely possible. But the eating habits of the nation cannot be changed overnight. Meanwhile we should be realistic and solve the problem quickly by dietary supplements in the form of vitamin concentrates.

Striking as has been the kaleidoscopic change in the field of nutrition, the more marked has been the evolution in the sale of vitamin concentrates as dietary supplements. In the early stages, a distributor of vitamin products made the mere allegation that a given preparation contained vitamins. There was small concern as to the extent of the vitamin content. The next stage brought about the necessity to indicate on the label the precise vitamin content in a given product. This was a step in the right direction, although the problem was far from solved because in the absence of a standardization, very little was known about the adequacy of vitamin supplements. The present stage, brought about by the establishment of minimum daily requirements of vitamins makes it obligatory to indicate on the label of a vitamin product not only the vitamin content but the extent to which a given product satisfies the minimum daily requirements for vitamins.

By reason of these altered standards it has become possible to effect a comparison of values in vitamin supplements. The user is able to evaluate his purchase and determine if he is getting his money's worth. This is desirable for the reason that there has been justifiable complaint in connection with the excessively high cost of vitamin supplements—an unfortunate situation that has denied their use to those groups who perhaps need them most.

The revolutionary changes that have occurred in the field of nutrition and the relation of vitamins and minerals to protective therapy is a subject that is now discussed everywhere. Unfortunately, it has heretofore been coupled with considerable mystery and confusion so that it is little understood; but there is now a way that you may be fully informed about this interesting and important subject. You may have, absolutely free, a new guide book on vitamins and minerals. In just 30 minutes reading time, it gives you an education on vitamins you cannot afford to miss.

It tells you what they are and their tremendously important place in nutrition—shows you how to appraise values—get your money's worth. It explains why "unitage" only is the VITAL test of quality. You may learn that you have been paying twice as much as you should have paid for vitamins.

In addition, it answers many puzzling questions about vitamins, such as—Why are vitamins called the fifth—and hidden—essential factor in nutrition? How may the presence or absence of vitamins in the diet show dramatic and startling contrasts? Are vitamins fattening? Have they calory value? Is there any difference between "synthetic" and "natural" vitamins? What is the fallacy of the so-called B-Complex vitamins? Have vitamins any proven merit in the correction of graying or thinning hair? Do competent authorities agree there is such a thing as an anti-sterility vitamin—that vitamins have anything to do with sex?

These questions and many others which have puzzled thousands are answered for you in this fascinating, truly informative book which gives you a frank, outspoken appraisal of what you may reasonably expect with vitamins. And most important of all, it will show you how to save up to 40% on your vitamin needs. This valuable book does not cost a penny. A copy is yours FREE without obligation. ADM. BLAKELY LEAPS TO DEATH FROM HOSPITAL

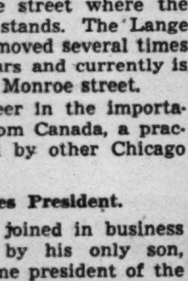
Denver, Colo., March 28 (AP).—Rear Adm. John R. Y. Blakely, 69 years old, retired, was killed today in what army officers described as a leap from the fifth floor of Fitzsimons General hospital, where he was a patient.



Rear Adm. Blakely.

Col. Omar Quade, public relations officer at the army hospital, said the death was suicide and that an army court would hold an inquest.

Col. Quade said two letters were found in Adm. Blakely's room. One, addressed to a ward officer, gave instructions for disposal of personal effects.

The other was addressed to John R. Y. Blakely Jr., who was described as a nephew.

Adm. Blakely, a veteran of the Spanish-American and World wars, was admitted to the hospital in October, 1940, for treatment of tuberculosis. He was graduated from the United States Naval academy in 1892 and retired from active service June 1, 1932. He was promoted to the grade of rear admiral in 1926, being one of the youngest officers ever to hold that rank in the American navy.

FIRE MARSHAL RISKS LIFE IN HEROIC RESCUE

$100 Tribune Award Won by John L. Fenn.

BY EDWARD WILSON.

Fireman Curtis Volkamer, seven years on Chicago's fire fighting force, stumbled in the black smoke and hot air. He fell into water two feet deep. He had stayed too long in the basement of the burning building and had breathed too much hot air and smoke. He gasped a few faint calls for help—each one fainter.

John L. Fenn.

Hands grabbed Volkamer in the darkness. The rescuer struggled up the basement stairway with his still breathing burden. At the top of stairs, in fresher air, friendly hands of comrades caught both men.

Volkamer lost consciousness until revived by an inhalator squad 30 minutes later. For 11 days he remained in Henrotin hospital until his system was free from the poison of fire and smoke.

His rescuer, who also suffered from breathing the hot fumes, continued on his job. He was the toughened veteran, Division Fire Marshal John L. Fenn, 54 years old, of 1006 North Menard avenue; a fireman since Jan. 1, 1913; married, father of two children [one of them Fireman John W. Fenn of Engine Co. 5].

The fire was a night blaze on February 11 in one of Chicago's old brick and wood buildings downtown—at 128 West Lake street. The alarm was a 3-11.

The team from engine company 40 was in the basement when a "blow" or explosion of accumulated gas occurred. The men rushed for the stairway. It was pitch black; flashlights would not penetrate the smoke.

Officials Check the Men

At the top of the stairs Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan, Division Marshal Fenn, and Capt. Thomas J. Walsh checked off the men as they came out. One was missing. It was then Fenn heard the feeble calls for help and rushed down.

"I heard the last cry," Fenn said later, "as I reached the bottom step. That gave me my direction. My light was no good. I kept on thru the darkness until I found Volkamer.

"By that time I was pretty well spent myself. I had already breathed too much of the hot air. I couldn't get him to my shoulders so I pulled him up halfway and dragged him up the stairs."

Fenn will retire in seven years.

Because of his bravery in completing the rescue Fenn has been awarded the $100 monthly police and fire hero award for February given by THE TRIBUNE. Tonight at 8:15 Fenn 8 year old boy. Tonight at 8:15 Fenn will describe the rescue on W-G-N.

ROUTED BY BASEMENT FIRE.

Negro tenants in a two story building at 939 Lake street were driven to the street yesterday when fire broke out in the basement. Damage was placed at $1,000.

DEMAND 3 NEW CAR LINES FOR WAR WORKERS

The opening of three additional routes by the Chicago Surface Lines as a transportation aid for war plant workers was asked yesterday in a petition submitted to the Illinois Commerce commission.

The routes sought are on Harlem avenue from Devon avenue to 95th street, a distance of 19 miles; on Laramie avenue from Foster avenue to North avenue, 4½ miles, and on Oak Park avenue from Irving Park road to North avenue, three miles.

SUE FOR OUSTER OF NORTH SHORE LINE RECEIVERS

Bondholders Attack Cost of Labor Truce.

Ouster of A. A. Sprague and Bernard J. Fallon as co-receivers for the North Shore Electric railroad was demanded in federal District court yesterday by a mortgage bondholders' committee.

The petitioners, known as the independent mortgage bondholders' committee of the railroad, asked dismissal of the co-receivers because of the dispute between the unions of the railroad and of the Chicago Rapid Transit, or elevated, lines. The bondholders asserted that the co-receivers, who are also co-trustees of the elevated lines, cannot properly act in behalf of the North Shore.

Suggest Naming Third Receiver.

The North Shore, according to the bondholders, has an unnecessary operating expense in excess of $1,000 a day because trainmen of the elevated lines have operated the North Shore trains within the city since a truce was called in the labor dispute.

The bondholders suggested an alternative to dismissal of the receivers. It is that another co-receiver be appointed to settle disputes involving the two lines.

The bondholders also called upon the court to terminate the arrangement under which North Shore trainmen are forbidden to operate their trains within the city. In this demand the bondholders were joined by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, and the Order of Railroad Telegraphers. These organizations represent many of the North Shore employés. Elevated trainmen are members of the Amalgamated Street Railway and Motor Coach Employés' union.

Lines Tied Up Two Weeks.

The smoldering dispute between the two union groups burst Feb. 1, when the Amalgamated trainmen were ordered to cease throwing the switches by which the North Shore trains enter and leave the city on the elevated tracks. The Amalgamated accused the Brotherhood of raiding the Amalgamated membership on the North Shore.

For two weeks North Shore passengers were forced to ride the elevated trains within the city, transferring to and from the North Shore trains at the city limits. The union and transportation officials then reached an agreement, sanctioned by Judge Michael L. Igoe in the federal District court. It provided that elevated crews should operate the North Shore trains within the city. This meant changing crews at Howard street.

Allows 20 Days for Reply.

The petitions were filed before Judge William J. Campbell by William H. Ihrig, attorney for the bondholders, and Leo J. Hassenauer, for the trainmen. Judge Campbell gave Sprague and Fallon 20 days to reply.

Both the North Shore and the elevated lines are in receivership. North Shore bond and stock owners have received no returns since 1932, altho the railroad had the largest revenue last year it has enjoyed since 1931.

Sprague receives $500 a month as receiver for the North Shore. In addition, he is paid $500 a month as receiver for the Chicago, Aurora, and Elgin and $2,000 a month as trustee for the elevated lines, of which he was formerly receiver. Since the three lines went into receivership in 1932, he has thus collected $346,000 from the three jobs. Fallon receives no fee as receiver, but is paid $20,000 yearly as executive officer of all three lines.

DON'T LET WAR BURY FINE ARTS, EDUCATOR ASKS

A warning that the broader aspects of education should not be neglected during war time was sounded yesterday by O. C. Carmichael, chancellor of Vanderbilt university, Nashville, Tenn. He spoke at the closing sessions of the 47th annual meeting of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

"The broader aspects of education," he said, "should not be sacrificed.

"Training programs must meet the requirements of the army, navy, and the defense industries; humanities, the fine arts, the social sciences, and the natural sciences must not be neglected; special emphasis on the issues of the war is necessary; new courses on Latin America and the western Pacific that will provide some understanding of these lands and their peoples need to be added. That is the job of education in this crisis."

The association voted to hold its next annual meeting in Chicago March 22-27, 1943.

2 REPORTS SHOW JOBS INCREASE IN CITY AND STATE

Checks to Unemployed, Relief Pleas Drop.

Figures showing a slight pickup in employment were released yesterday by two social agencies, the Chicago Relief administration and the Illinois unemployment compensation division. Facts contained in the statistical reports showed:

1. Relief applications in Chicago have dropped to the lowest number in the history of the city's relief setup. In February 3,500 persons applied for relief, an all time monthly low, according to George J. Klupar, director, who said that in past years applications ranged from 4,000 to 20,000 a month.

2. The number of unemployment compensation checks distributed in January and February this year to jobless Illinois workers was 474,734, compared with 491,608 in the same period in 1941. However, the amount of compensation totaled $5,939,582, an increase of $216,370 over January and February of last year.

More Claim Total Unemployment.

The reason for the monetary increase in the amount of compensation, department officials explained, is that more persons have been claiming total unemployment, whereas last year a greater number were drawing partial benefits.

Unemployment compensation payments last year were $28,433,384, an average of slightly less than $12 a week for the 2,385,435 checks paid out.

Following is a table showing the checks and the aggregate payments by months:

	No. of checks.	Amounts.
1941—
January	282,696	$ 3,227,015
February	208,912	2,496,167
March	179,630	2,142,471
April	125,565	1,531,208
May	233,508	2,865,304
June	283,679	3,455,835
July	233,822	2,771,289
August	183,896	2,134,142
September	148,177	1,715,787
October	145,414	1,687,274
November	144,148	1,688,464
December	216,588	2,718,298
Totals	2,385,435	$28,433,384
1942—
January	263,542	$ 3,269,357
February	211,192	2,670,225
Totals	474,734	$ 5,939,225

Increased unemployment benefits will go into effect today. The maximum benefits, which formerly were $16 a week for 16 weeks, will be stepped up to $18 a week for 20 weeks.

108,800 on Relief in Chicago.

In Chicago the relief case load now is 52,800 cases, representing approximately 108,800 persons. Of these 52,800 cases, about 32,500 are considered unemployable because of physical limitations, lack of work experience, or a combination of both, according to Director Klupar.

BARTENDER, 33, KILLED BY BUS IN HAMMOND

Raymond Trenbacz, 33 years old, 2212 South Ridgeland avenue, Berwyn, a bartender, was killed yesterday when he was struck by a Chicago and Calumet District Transportation company bus at Indianapolis boulevard and Calumet avenue, Hammond. David L. Van Kirk, Hammond, was the bus driver.

Christ Jensen, 59 years old, a laborer, 2712 North avenue, died yesterday in North Avenue hospital of injuries suffered March 16 when he was struck at North and Washtenaw avenue by an auto driven by Edward Foyell, 37, 1739 North Wolcott avenue.

Up to 2 p. m. yesterday 191 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 151 were killed in Chicago, where 1,745 were injured.

TWO ACCUSED OF FAKE USE OF OFFICERS' GARB

Two men who impersonated army officers were named yesterday in criminal informations before Federal Judge William J. Campbell. One is Harry Edward Jenkinson, 24 years old, 11011 Emerald avenue, a drug store clerk, arrested last Saturday when an army officer spotted a disarray of insignia in his captain's uniform. Jenkinson told Assistant United States Attorney Francis J. McGreal that he lived near Morgan Park military academy and liked uniforms. He purchased the uniform, he said, and only wore it on the one occasion.

The other defendant is Arthur A. Williams, 22, of 4218 Monroe street, who on the night of the attack on Pearl Harbor stood up in the uniform of a first lieutenant at a west side ballroom and ordered all service men present to report to Fort Sheridan immediately. Williams, a photographer, told McGreal he liked to talk and no one would listen unless he was in uniform. He confessed to wearing the uniform two or three times a week.

NYA WILL TRAIN U. S. MARINES TO BE MECHANICS

Washington, D. C., March 28 (AP).—Aubrey Williams, National Youth administrator, said today the NYA would train marine corps enlisted men for mechanical jobs. He said the arrangement would be the same as now in effect with the navy for the training of enlisted men.

The first contingent of marines to receive NYA training will be from the amphibian tank forces, assigned to the NYA resident project at Camp De Soto, Tampa, Fla.

CHICAGO GOLDEN GLOVERS SET FOR NEW YORK

THEY'LL MEET TOMORROW; 16 FIGHTS ON CARD

Eastern Team Last Won in 1933.

BY HOWARD BARRY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 28.—The Golden Gloves campaign, which began two months ago with all the territory east of the Rocky mountains involved, will be concentrated in Madison Square Garden Monday night as Chicago meets New York in the 15th annual intercity matches.

Chicago's squad, led by its captain, Morris Corona, went thru its last severe session of sparring this afternoon in Stillman's gymnasium, where the boys have been working since their arrival on Thursday. Coach Johnny Behr pronounced himself satisfied with the spirit and the physical condition of the team upon which rests the responsibility of maintaining Chicago's long succession of intercity matches without a defeat. Chicago's last defeat was in 1933.

Pressure's on Capt. Corona.

Corona himself has something to live up to—for the captains of Golden Gloves teams have been coming thru consistently under pressure. In the last appearance of a Chicago team in Madison Square Garden, it was Savior Canadeo, leader of the 1940 team, who won at a stage that turned out to be the turning point of the evening. Up to that time, it had been a rout, with New York leading, 6 to 2, at the intermission. After Canadeo's victory, his teammates went on to punch their way up to an 8 to 8 tie.

Bob Burns, who was captain of last season's Chicago team, also delivered the goods. He beat Charles Burley, a hard hitting southpaw who was considered one of the strongest New York fighters.

Corona, too, laid a victory on the line for Chicago on that occasion, so it will be nothing new for him to make good Monday night. He and Burns swept the welterweight competition for Chicago last year, but Morris has dropped down to the 135 pound class while Bob has remained in the heavier division.

Chicago Wary of Conway.

Corona's job will be a tough one, however. In the eastern tournament, recently concluded, it was considered that the lightweight was one of the strongest divisions. Eugene Burton, a New Yorker, came out on top in this class, beating last season's champion, Bob McQuillan of Buffalo, in the final. Now it's up to Corona to take care of Burton. If he should fail, it may be damaging to his team's fortunes because the Chicago coaches are depending upon the lighter weight boys to take a lead so that there will be a little margin for reverses when the New Yorkers send their powerful fighters of the heavier weights into action.

The Chicago staff is particularly concerned about the easterners' strength in the 175 pound class. Here the top man is Clint Conway, a sturdy, experienced fighter who formerly represented Cleveland in the Tournament of Champions. In the New York finals, Conway needed only one round to stop his opponent.

Attra Faces Rugged Foe.

Against Conway, the Chicago forces will send Tom Attra, a member of the Fort Worth, Tex., group, which annually contributes some of the best amateurs of the country to the Golden Gloves tournament. Attra is a rugged, aggressive fighter who habitually charges and throws punches from start to finish. He'll have to stay out of the way of Conway's counterblows, however, for they carry tremendous power.

The squad will confine its efforts to light work tomorrow and will weigh in Monday at noon. At that time the coaches of both squads will announce the entire lineup for the 16 bouts.

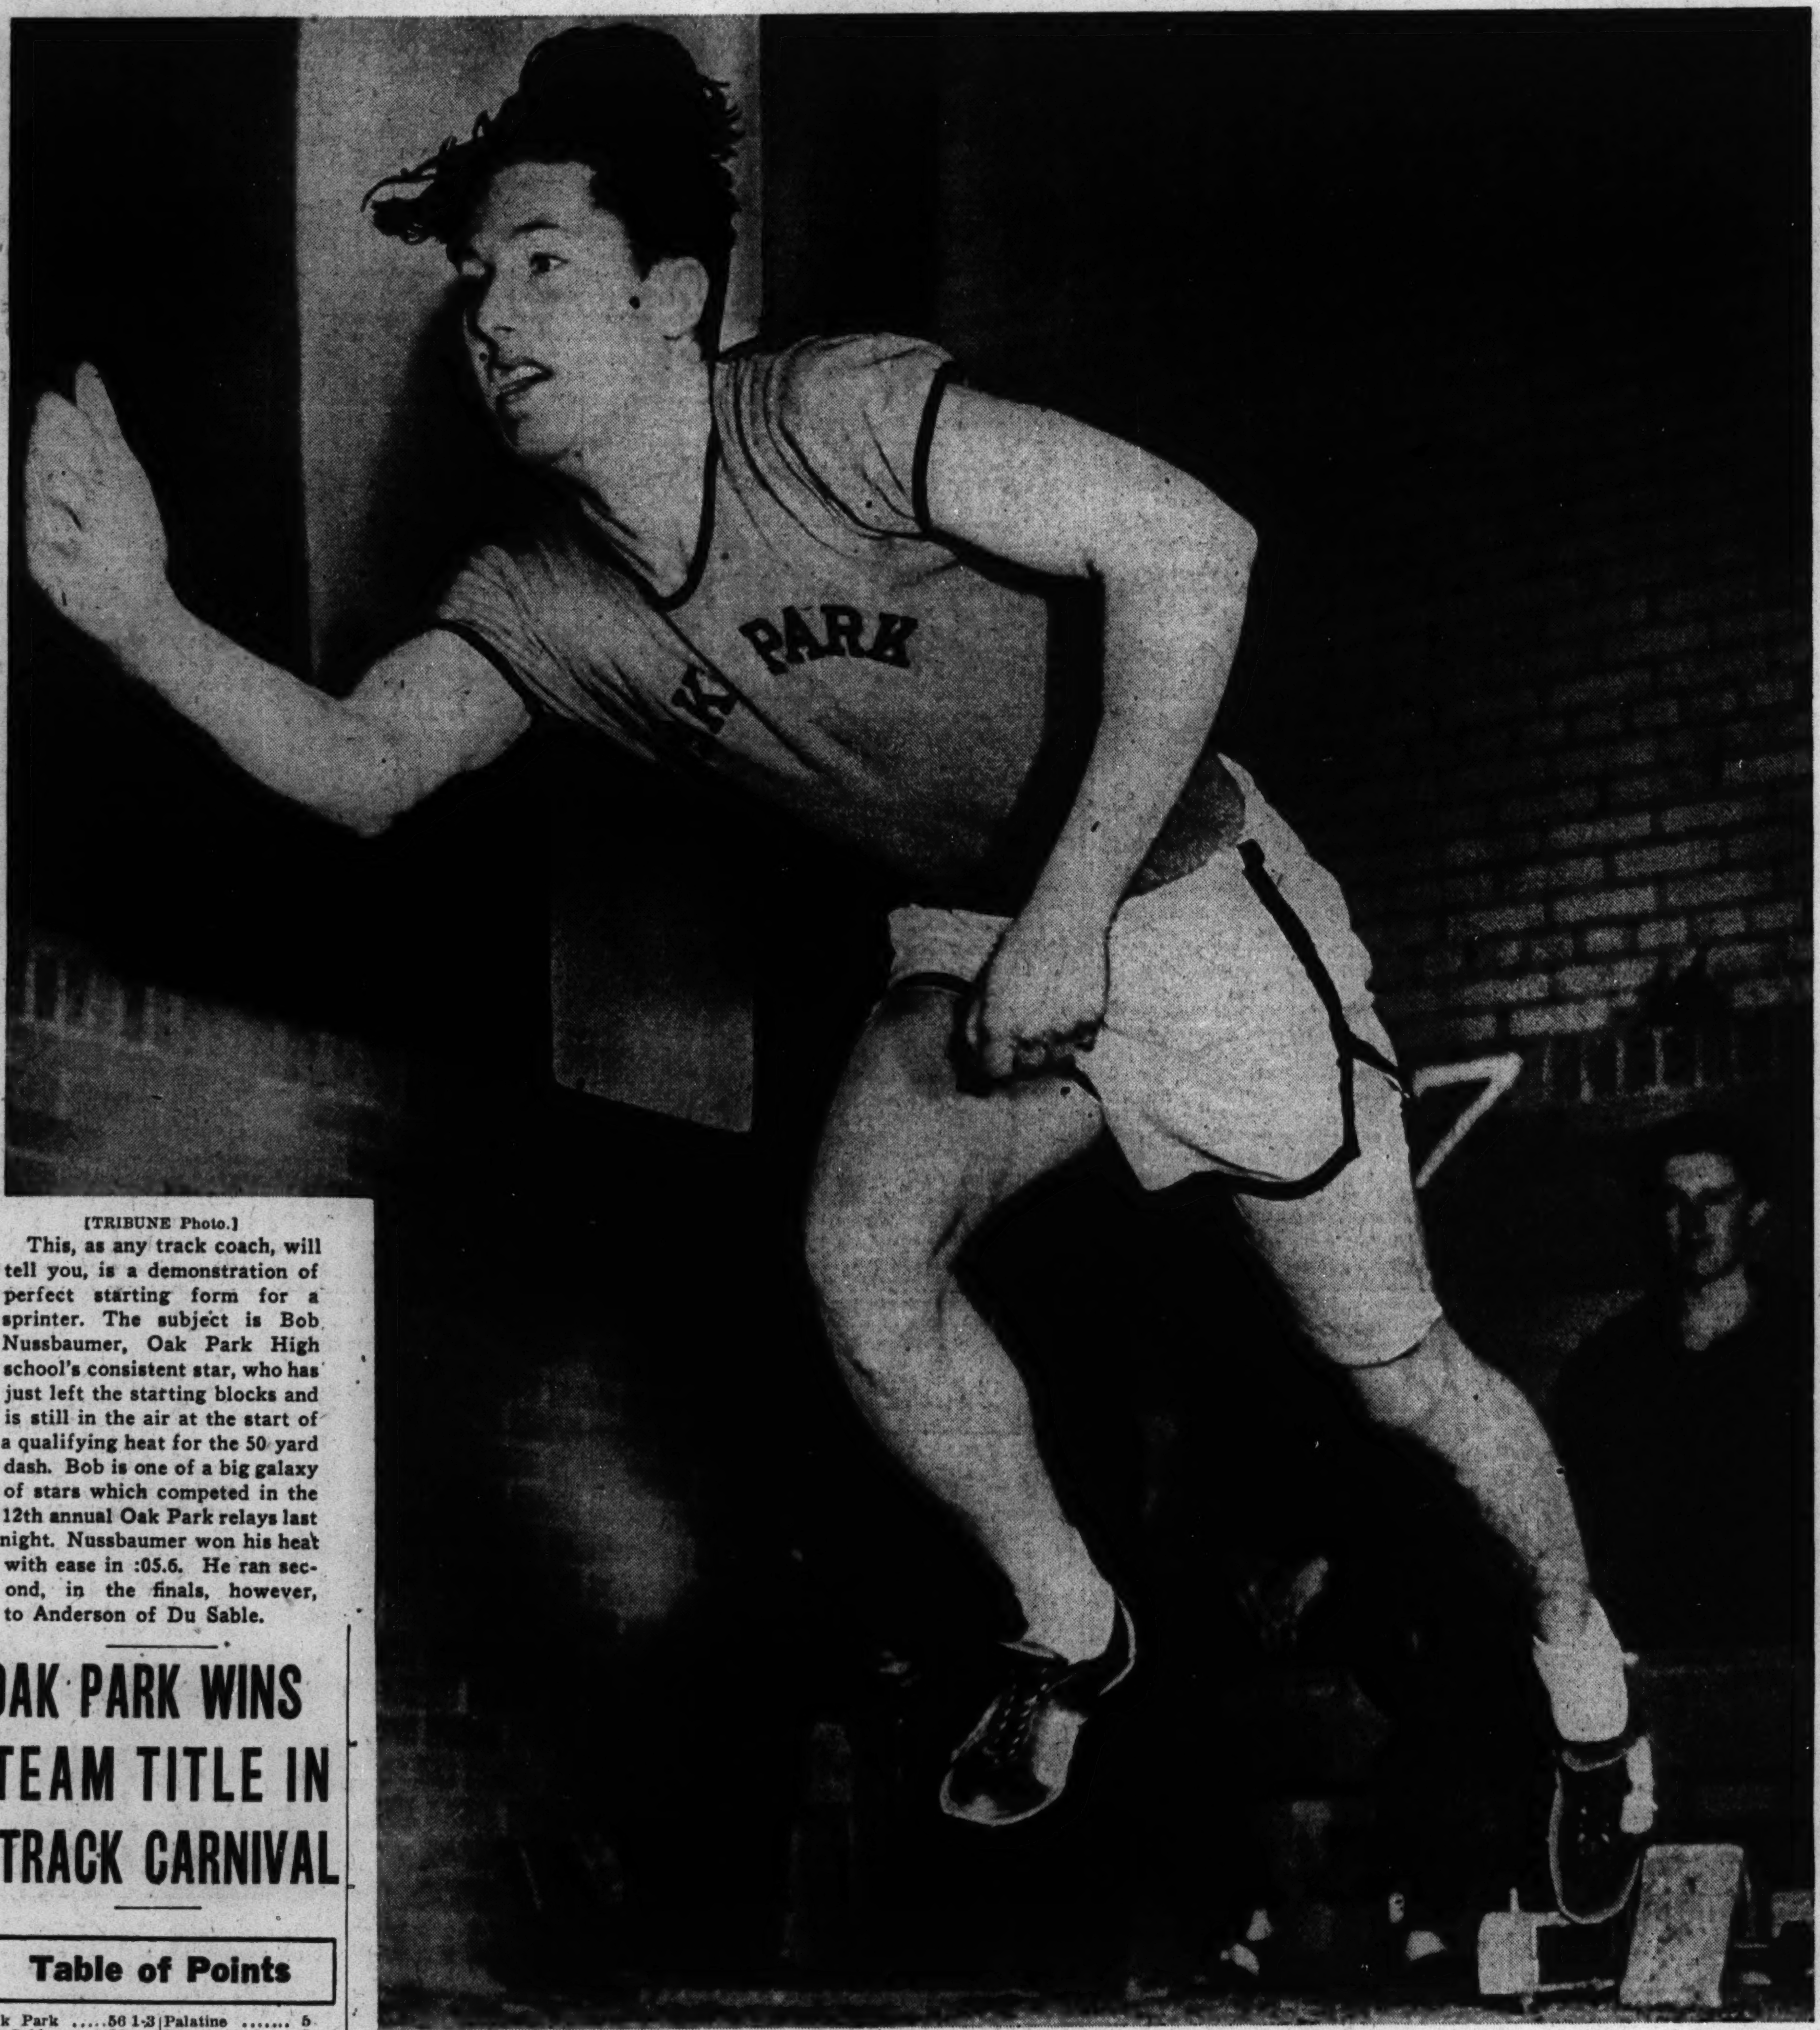
FLYING START IS HALF THE BATTLE IN A SPRINT



[TRIBUNE Photo.]

This, as any track coach, will tell you, is a demonstration of perfect starting form for a sprinter. The subject is Bob Nussbaumer, Oak Park High school's consistent star, who has just left the starting blocks and is still in the air at the start of a qualifying heat for the 50 yard dash. Bob is one of a big galaxy of stars which competed in the 12th annual Oak Park relays last night. Nussbaumer won his heat with ease in :05.6. He ran second, in the finals, however, to Anderson of Du Sable.

Stanford Beats Dartmouth in NCAA Final

Kansas City, Mo., March 28 (AP).—Stanford university captured the National Collegiate Athletic association basketball championship here tonight by routing Dartmouth in the tournament final, 53 to 38, before a crowd of 6,000, well under the anticipated 9,000.

Until the final 10 minutes it was a close game. Then Stanford began hitting the basket at a rate of three points a minute and drew away rapidly.

Inaccurate passing nearly cost the Californians the game. Jim Pollard, star sophomore, did not play for Stanford because of a sinus infection.

The Pacific coast team started out as if it sorely missed Pollard and trailed by six points at one time in the first half as Dartmouth poured thru spectacular one handed shots. But Sophomore Howard Dallmar came to the rescue with 11 points to tie the count before half time. Then Jack Dana took a long pass and gave Stanford a 24 to 22 lead.

In the first five minutes of the final period, Dartmouth tied the score twice, then pulled ahead, 27 to 26, on George Munroe's free throw. It was the last point the Hanover Indians got for five minutes.

MAPLE LEAFS BEAT RANGERS, 2-1; LEAD IN STANLEY CUP SERIES, 3-1

TORONTO, Ont., March 28 (AP).—Toronto's Maple Leafs beat the New York Rangers, 2 to 1, tonight and took a 3 to 1 lead in games in their best of seven series A Stanley cup hockey playoff. A record crowd of 15,624 watched the contest in which all the scoring was concentrated in the last period.

Wally Stanowski, rushing defenseman, supplied the spark that inaugurated the Leaf drive which netted two goals within four minutes half way thru the final period.

Stanowski made a rink-length dash thru the Ranger team and left the puck out in front, from where Syl Apps blasted it home. Minutes later, Stanowski went down the ice again and this time laid a neat pass on the stick of Sweeney Schriner, who took only two strides before firing it into the Ranger net.

Hextall Averts Shutout.

The New York goal was scored at 17:31 by Bryan Hextall, who took Phil Watson's pass and beat Turk Broda cleanly. It was the first goal of the series for Hextall, who was the leading point-getter of the National Hockey league this season.

The clubs will resume their feud in New York tomorrow night and another victory would put the Leafs into the finals against the survivor of the Boston-Detroit series.

WINGS VS. BRUINS

Boston, Mass., March 28 (AP).—The Stanley cup finalists of last year—the Boston Bruins and Detroit Red Wings—clash this year in the semi-final playoffs with the title defending Bruins as host in the opening game tomorrow night in Boston Garden.

Boston took two of three from the Chicago Blackhawks to gain the semifinal round while Detroit handed similar treatment to the Canadiens of Montreal in their series.

The Bruins, who hold a two games to one edge on home ice will rely on their long standing jinx over the Detroit club—a hex which has prevented the wings from gaining a victory on Boston ice for several seasons.

After Sunday's game, the teams will journey to Detroit for the second game Tuesday. If a third is necessary, they will return to Boston to play here Thursday with the winner of the series facing the victor in the Toronto-New York playoff in the Stanley cup final round.

Big Names of Golf Falter at Greensboro

Greensboro, N. C., March 28 (AP).—The lesser lights of golf gave the big names a thoro beating in the $5,500 Greensboro Open today and held the four first places at the halfway point in the 72 hole event. Leading the parade were Sam Byrd, the one time New York Yankee outfielder, and Thomson, who were deadlocked at 136.

Rod Munday of the lefthanded putts missed two out of 15 today and slid from first place to third, a stroke off the pace. He added a par 71 to his opening 66.

Seldom in the last five years has a tournament gone this far without Nelson, Sammy Snead, Ben Hogan, or Craig Wood near the top. Today Snead was tied for 12th with 69—73—142. Hogan slipped to one over par for 143 to a tie for 16th. Wood was far back at 147 after needing 74 shots today.

Blank Padres 3 to 0; Appling to Play Today

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Diego, Cal., March 28.—Luke Appling, the wandering Georgian, has concluded that he might as well go to work in behalf of the White Sox tomorrow as at any other time. Slow Motion Luke reached this momentous decision today after searching himself and finding that except for his customary half dozen or more imaginary ailments, he was a perfect physical specimen as a result of five days of training. While Luke was busy revealing his intentions his mates engaged in a successful 3 to 0 frolic with San Diego's Pacific Coast league Padres.

For his debut and maybe for a bit longer the veteran shortstop who was delayed by contract difficulties will have to bat in the fourth or cleanup spot. It is Manager James Dykes' intention to place Taft Wright there eventually, so the pending arrangement probably is an indication that the boss hasn't forgotten one of the Georgian's utterances while pleasantries were being exchanged over salary a few weeks ago.

A Chance to Redeem Himself.

When Appling complained about a contract that indicated he would receive less than his fancy salary of last season, Dykes spoke to the newspaper boys about Luke not being worth it—that he couldn't drive in runs. Luke's retort was that he couldn't drive in runs if there were never any people on the bases. So now Dykes' neat little scheme is to put Luke in a spot where he should find runners waiting and Jim can keep careful check on just how many times Appling produces in the pinch. Of course, if Luke should happen to pile up a worthwhile total in the next ten days he might remain No. 4 man.

Today's match with San Diego furnished additional proof that Dykes' pitchers are consistently tough. Eddie Smith, the little fat man, did a vast amount of sweating thru a five inning job but nevertheless gave the Padres only three scattered hits. Following him came Joe Haynes, the ex-Washington cripple, who again showed his arm ailment has vanished. He now has pitched 13 innings and allowed only one run, which was scored by the Cubs.

Behold, Boots Poffenberger.

The Sox frittered away various chances this afternoon before getting down to the business of scoring against a lefty named Al Olsen. This happened in the fourth and it turned out to be the only run contributed by the so-called regulars. Taft Wright drew a base on balls and was nudged to third on a single by Myril Hoag. Bob Kennedy whistled a single thru short to send Wright home. This assault was slowed down to almost nothing when Tom Turner tapped to Olsen for a double play and was closed completely when Smith was thrown out.

The famous Boots Poffenberger, who makes all the stops, was present when the Sox made their next display of batting energy. The portly Boots walked Dave Philley with one out in the sixth and it proved costly. Dario Lodigiani spanked a single into right. Turner made amends for his previous double play ball by singling to center, Philley scoring and Lodigiani going to third. George Dickey flied out as pinch man for Smith and Poffenberger then lost his aim. He walked both Bill Knickerbocker and Rookie Harry Sketchley, forcing Lodigiani to score the final run.

Hajduk Heads for Home.

The Sox will conclude with the Padres tomorrow and the latter will be treated to the pitching of Johnny Humphries and Lee Ross.

Chet Hajduk, the first base freshman who has been talking about enlisting, has decided to leave for Chicago Monday night and make an effort to join up at the Great Lakes naval training station.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 28.—Two former Cub catchers, Babe Phelps and Bill Baker, were the main men in today's Pirate squelching of the Cubs, 10 to 9, in 10 innings.

Phelps knocked a pinch homer off Jake Mooty with the bases loaded in the ninth to tie the score and took a perfect throw from Johnny Wyrostek to cut down Charley Gilbert at the plate with the potential winning run in the latter half of the ninth. Baker knocked a pinch double off Johnny Schmitz with two out and two on in the 10th to give the Pirates victory.

The Cubs did some powerful slugging off two of the Pirate mainstays, Truett Sewell and Luke Hamlin, with Lou Novikoff hitting two homers and Bill Nicholson one. But they were beset with collapsible pitching by Claude Passeau, long a soft touch for the Pirates, and Jake Mooty, who folded after six innings of brilliant pitching. Schmitz looked all right rescuing Mooty in the ninth, but didn't have a thing in the 10th.

Four Pinch Batters Deliver.

The Pirates' big ninth perhaps set some sort of a record, or at least tied one, for three pinch batters loaded the bases and another, Phelps, knocked them home. This would seem to be near the maximum in the emergency production of a set of four runs needed to tie a ball game in the ninth inning.

Going into the ninth, Mooty had yielded only two singles and had walked none. Stu Martin, batting for Frank Gustine at the start of the ninth, drew Mooty's only pass. Eddie Stewart batted for Al Lopez and singled to left, Jimmy Wasdell batted for Hamlin and singled to right, loading the bases. Phelps then batted for Pete Coscarart and banged the ball over the right field screen, scoring behind Martin, Stewart, and Wasdell, to tie the count at 9 to 9. Schmitz then entered the scene and retired Johnny Barrett, Bob Elliott, and Cully Rikard in order.

Winning Run? He's Out!

Ken Jungles went in at the start of the Chicago ninth and Gilbert opened with a single and advanced on Cy Block's sacrifice. Nicholson was given an intentional pass and Novikoff flied out. Phil Cavarretta then singled to left and Gilbert tried for home but was out on a slick play, Wyrostek to Phelps.

The first thing Schmitz did in the 10th was pass Elbie Fletcher. Wyrostek popped to Schmitz on an attempted sacrifice. Then Martin walked and Stewart flied to Nicholson. Baker batted for Jungles and lined a double to left, Fletcher scoring what proved to be the winning run.

Nick Strincevich pitched the Chicago 10th. Bob Scheffing fouled to Phelps, Clyde McCullough batted for Len Merullo and tapped to Al Anderson and Babe Dahlgren, batting for Schmitz, whiffed to end the ball game.

Cubs Are Boisterous.

Featuring the wasted Cub attack were those two homers by Novikoff and one by Nicholson. Lou and Nick each got one off Truett Sewell in the first inning and Lou's second one was the only hit the Cubs made off Luke Hamlin in 2⅔ innings. All three shots were far over distant walls.

CARDINALS POUND CHANDLER; BEAT YANKEES, 8 TO 1

Fifth Triumph Clinches Spring Series.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 28 [Special].—The St. Louis Cardinals pounded Spud Chandler for four runs in the first inning this afternoon and went on to whip the New York Yankees, 8 to 1. It was the Cards' fifth triumph in eight exhibition games with the Yanks and assured them of victory in the nine game series.

Two errors and wild pitch, plus doubles by Terry Moore and Ray Sanders, Columbus rookie, gave the Cards' their first inning start. They added four more runs off Marv Bruer in the eighth. Sanders tripled, Gus Mancuso and Frank Crespi singled. Then Harry Gumbert walloped an inside-the-park home run over Joe DiMaggio's head in center field.

Mort Cooper blanked the Yanks for five innings. Gumbert was almost as effective. The Yanks' run came in the ninth on successive singles by Buddy Hassett, Tom Henrich, and Charley Keller. Score:

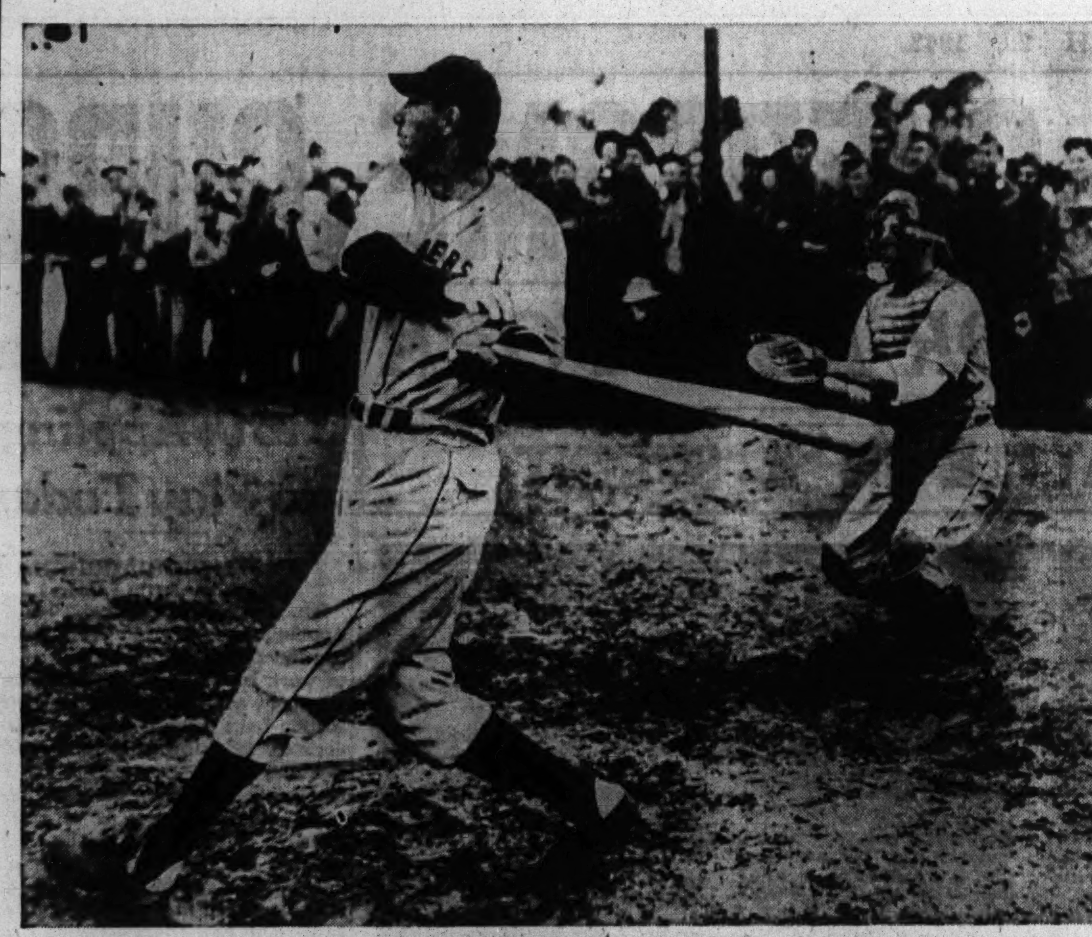
HE'S A SLUGGER IN ANY UNIFORM



Sergt. Hank Greenberg is still banging the ball. Here the former Tiger slugger bangs out a triple for the MacDill Field Flyers in yesterday's game with the University of Tampa in the Florida city. Hank also got a walk, but his efforts were unavailing as the collegians won, 9 to 4. Greenberg fanned in his other time at bat.

Pirates Beat Cubs on Late Rallies, 10 to 9

Other Cub sluggers were Stan Hack with two doubles and a single, and Len Merullo with three singles.

After Passeau had shut out the Pittsburghers in the first half of the inning the Cubs went up in a surprisingly bruising mood. Hack singled to right and after Gilbert had sacrificed and Block had flied out, Nicholson knocked the ball over the right field wall. Novikoff then lined a homer over the left field wall.

The Pirates went to work on Passeau in the second inning. Maurice Van Robays singled, Gustine walked, and Lopez busted one over the left field wall. Sewell struck out, but Coscarart walked, stole second, and reached third on Scheffing's bad throw. Barrett walked, then Elliott singled, scoring Coscarart and put Barrett on third. DiMaggio's fly scored Barrett.

Cubs Start Creeping Up.

In their third the Cubs made a run when Hack opened with a double to right and scored on Gilbert's single. Then Block fanned, Nicholson grounded out, and Novikoff popped out.

The Pirate infield coöperated to put the Cubs ahead in the sixth, but the Chicagoans did a lot of socking nevertheless. After Nicholson walked, Novikoff rolled a double play ball straight at Elliott. Elliott's wide throw pulled Gustine off second and Gustine relayed the ball to the dugout, putting runners on third and second. Vince DiMaggio leaped high against the screen for Cavarretta's drive, but Nicholson scored the tying run. Scheffing's single to right scored Novikoff and Merullo came thru with his third straight single. Mooty caromed a singled off Sewell's hand, Scheffing scoring and Merullo reaching third. Hack's second double scored Merullo with the inning's fourth run. Sewell was replaced by Hamlin, who passed Gilbert intentionally, then made Block ground into a double play launched by Elliott. The only Cub run thereafter was Novikoff's second homer.

It can't be officially announced until April 1, but Bithorn probably will revert to the Hollywood club from which he was drafted. Gardner is slated for return to the Houston Buffs.

It is reported the Cubs will leave four players with the Los Angeles Angels, but no official announcement will be made till getaway day, next Tuesday.

The Cubs cannot even tie the spring series with the Pirates, who have won four of the five. The Pirates have captured 15 of the 18 games this spring; the Cubs 5 of 15.

Love Is Cause of Cub Slump, Says Gallagher

BY EDWARD PRELL.

Jim Gallagher, general manager of the Cubs, returned to Chicago yesterday more than 24 hours in advance of the scheduled arrival of Harry Grabiner, vice president of the White Sox, proving that these north siders of 1942 can beat the south siders at something.

Gallagher, who is a man of moods, was in a talkative one when newspapermen contacted him shortly after his arrival by plane. Later in the evening, tho, when the night shift sports writers came on duty, the general manager relapsed into one of his famous I-won't-talk periods and was unwilling to say anything except that the Cubs would put a team on the field this season and that he wasn't enthusiastic over the Cubs' preparations to play night baseball.

Won't Talk to Night Shift.

To the afternoon gazeteer, Mr. Gallagher blamed the team's sorry showing in exhibition games in California on the love bug. There have been many reasons presented in other years in deference to the Cubs' fat lost column, but the one about the Cubs being propelled in the air over love presented a new high.

The Cubs' general manager denied that he was opposed to love in general, but that the ailment in the romantic or honeymoon stage was not conducive to good baseball.

Here's Cupid's Lineup.

Gallagher didn't name any of the love-sick Cubs, but this is at least a partial box score:

Lou Stringer interrupted spring training to be married and was absent from the club for several days. Babe Dahlgren recently took bride No. 2. Barney Olsen and Bob Sturgeon also are classed as newly-weds. Frank Jelincich, rookie outfielder, and Pitcher Paul Erickson are said to be engaged.

As to lighted parks, Gallagher maintained baseball is a game to be played in the sunshine. The only reason the Cubs are planning to play under the lights, he said, is because of the letter written last winter by President Roosevelt to Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis recommending an increase of night games to accommodate war workers who labor in the daytime.

Praises Don Kolloway.

Gallagher praised the playing of Don Kolloway, the young White Sox second baseman, but expressed the opinion Manager Jimmie Dykes delayed too long last season before turning over the position to him. Some one doubtless will ask Grabiner what he thinks about this when the White Sox executive arrives at 1:45 o'clock this afternoon on the Santa Fe super Chief.

Both Grabiner and Gallagher will clear the way for the Chicago interpretation of the spring series between the rivals. The teams will meet April 10 and 12 in Comiskey park and play in Wrigley field on the 11th.

*Retained title.

Cambridge, Mass., March 28 (AP).—Yale's mighty swimming forces gained their first National Collegiate A. A. title tonight in decisive fashion by winning 5 of the 11 events and placing in all of the others for a total of 71 points in the Harvard pool.

That display of scoring power forced the title-defending Michigan team to surrender its throne and be content with the runner-up honors with 39 points.

Ohio State, the only other well balanced team among the 30 that started in the two day competition, wound up in third place with 34.

14 Other Teams Score.

Fourteen other units shared in the scoring. Princeton and Rutgers were deadlocked for fourth place with nine points each, and Dartmouth and Northwestern each totaled seven.

The meet's outstanding performer was Yale's Rene Chouteau, a senior from St. Louis who learned to swim as a child in the Mississippi river.

He started out as the defending champion in the 1,500 meter free style and, after winning that event, he became a double champion by capturing the 440 event.

Chouteau Third in 220.

Chouteau also gave additional help to the Elis, the first eastern NCAA victors in 16 years, by gaining third in the 220 free style behind Michigan's Johnny Patten, who dethroned Howie Johnson, the Yale captain.

Johnson, however, continued as a champion, for he turned the tables on Patten in the 100 yard free style with a 52.4 seconds performance.

The only other two event victor was Frank Dempsey, Ohio State's sensational diver, who dominated the high class field on both the one and three meter boards. In the other closing night's individual competition, Jim Skinner of Michigan set a new Harvard pool record of 2:23.7 while winning the 200 yard breast stroke in handy fashion.

Michigan Relay Team Wins.

While Yale was rolling up its lofty score, it met with one crushing setback, for its supposedly invincible 400 yard relay team was defeated by a good five yards by Michigan's Dobson Burton, Louis Kivi, Patten, and Gus Scharemet as they clipped 3.2 seconds off the NCAA record of their 1940 predecessors with a 3:27.8 performance.

440 YARD FREE STYLE FINAL—Won by Rene Chouteau, Yale; John Ryan, Ohio State, second; John Storrs, Dartmouth, third; Samuel Bacon, Williams, fourth; Henry Dunbar, Amherst, fifth; Stephen Grimm, Ohio State, sixth. Time, 4:46.4.

THREE METER DIVE FINAL—Won by Frank Dempsey, Ohio State, 151.20 points; James Cook, Yale, 149.54, second; Sammy Lee, Occidental, 146.42, third; Charles Batterman, Ohio State, 140.32, fourth; Strother Martin, Michigan, 129.26, fifth; Howard Jaynes, Northwestern, 128.44, sixth; Harry Perry, Southern California, 123.86, seventh.

The team totals:

Yale, 71; Michigan, 39; Ohio State, 34; Princeton, 9; Rutgers, 9; Dartmouth, 7; Northwestern, 7; Massachusetts State, 6; Occidental, 5; Harvard, 4; Iowa, 4; North Carolina, 2; Minnesota, 2; Williams, 2; Wayne, 1; Amherst, 1; Pennsylvania, 1.

LATE DATE FOR GREEN BAY-BEAR GAME PROPOSED

New York, March 28 (AP).—The National Football league owners rolled up their sleeves and went to work on next fall's schedule today, but after a long session they had decided nothing because of a controversy over the date for the season's second Chicago Bears-Green Bay game.

The only business completed, as a result, was a player sale sending Half Back Mike Rodak from Detroit to Pittsburgh and an announcement by George P. Marshall that his Washington Redskins would meet the Green Bay Packers in an exhibition game in Denver, Colo., Sept. 6.

The tentative schedule presented to the owners had the second Bears-Packers game on Dec. 6, instead of midseason, as usual. This started the fireworks and they never stopped in a meeting that began before noon and went on far into the night.

Rodak, a graduate of Western Reserve, broke into the National league with Cleveland, and went to Detroit last year after serving two seasons with the Rams. He suffered a broken ankle in training with the Lions before last season started, and was out of action during the entire campaign. The price the Pittsburgh club paid for him was not disclosed.

ALTON MAN SETS WORLD'S RECORD IN RIFLE SHOOT

Hits 40 Bull's-Eyes from 400 Yard Mark.

Fred Spencer of Alton, Ill., shot a perfect 400 and put all but one of his 40 shots in the X ring in the center of the bull's-eye to establish a world's record at 50 yards with optional sights yesterday in the University of Chicago seventh annual midwest rifle meet in the Midway fieldhouse. Firing was slated to begin this morning at 7:30 in the final day of the meet, continuing until 11:30 tonight.

The record which Spencer broke was one year old. Mrs. Marie Davis of Winnetka set the mark of 400 and 37 last year.

William Woodring, defending champion, with perfect scores in the last two years of the meet, had a slim lead among those who had completed their shooting, but his score of 2,395 with 165 in the x-ring left plenty of room for the other rifle men to squeeze in ahead.

Wife's an Expert Too.

Woodring barely nosed out Mrs. Kay Woodring, his wife, who had 2,395 and 171 and in the aggregate iron sights shooting led Woodring and the field with 1,199 out of a possible 1,200 and 77 in the x-ring.

In addition, Emory Hawcock of Monmouth, Ill., who passed Woodring when the champion made his first miss in three years, also was potentially out of the running, standing third with 2,393 and 153. Spencer, who set the world record, completed his shooting last night with a score of 2,391 and 173. Hawcock, whose downfall came in the metal sights firing, had, however, turned in the best score in the optional sights competition, a 1,199 and 76.

Leonard Johnson, leader of the Ohio State university team, led the field in the Dewar course, iron sights match, with 400 and 29. J. Russell Peachor of St. Louis, was second, with 400 and 26; Bob Waggoner of Pontiac, Mich., had the same score but was third on a technicality; and P. L. Ferguson of Waterloo, Ia., was fourth, with 399 and 30.

In the Dewar course using optional sights, Jarvis Her Haar of Holland, Mich., was leading with 400 and 37, followed by Elbridge Lord of Chicago, with 400 and 33, Herbert Deal of Chicago, with 400 and 31, and George Cooper of Des Moines, with the same score.

Leads on Technicality.

Wayne Ferguson of Jackson, Mich., topped the contestants who had completed the 100 yards, iron sights event, leading by a technicality over Herbert North of Dayton, O., and Bob Miner of Chicago, who had the same score, 400 and 28. Tom Sexton of Wilmette stood fourth with 400 and 27.

In the 100 yards firing with optional sights, Earl Saunders of Louisville had a 400 and 32 to lead Woodring, who had the same score but trailed on a technical point. Marshall Grosskopf of Marion, Wis., was third with 400 and 31, and Chester Jones of Albert Lea, Minn., was fourth with 400 and 30.

Verne Leffel of Springfield, led the field in the 50 yards, metal sights match, with 400 and 34, followed by Ted Holm of Des Moines, with 400 and 31, Mrs. Woodring with 400 and 30, and Grosskopf with 400 and 29.

In the 50 yards shooting with optional sights, Spencer, of course, had the best score with his perfect 400 and 39. Bob Lafferty of Aurora, was second, with 400 and 36, Her Haar of Holland, Mich., third, with 400 and 35, and Herbert Strecker of St. Louis, Mo., fourth, with 400 and 32.

Des Moines, Ia., March 28 [Special].—Ottumwa captured the Iowa state prep basketball title here tonight defeating Davenport in the final, 37 to 30, at the Drake university fieldhouse. In the consolation final Nevada scored a 31 to 30 victory over Spirit Lake.

Ducks Unlimited Votes $100,000 for Breeding Ground

Representatives of the country's duck hunters from Connecticut to California voted an appropriation of more than $100,000 to preserve the great wild duck breeding grounds of Canada at the annual meeting of Ducks Unlimited, Inc., concluded in the Union League club yesterday.

Will J. Reid, Long Beach, Cal., was elected president of the organization.

"Wholesale marsh drainage during the first World war in the race for more wheat lands ruined many of the finest waterfowl breeding grounds on the continent. We aim to prevent recurrence of this if possible," said Reid. Dominion and provincial governments are coöperating.

Other officers elected were: William R. O'Donnell, business executive, Chicago; treasurer, George H. Mason, Detroit; chairman of the board, E. Herrick Low, New York City; vice presidents, Louis H. Traung, San Francisco; Lawrence C. Phipps, Denver; Roland M. Hoerr, St. Louis; Stuart Logan, Chicago, and Robert A. Leeson, Boston.

Illinois Gym Team Retains National Title

Annapolis, Md., March 28 [Special].—Led by Caton Cobb, who was ably abetted by J. L. Adkins and L. R. Fina, the University of Illinois scored 39 points to retain its team championship in the national collegiate meet conducted at the Naval academy today.

Penn State was second with 30 points, Minnesota third with 23, Temple fourth with 20, Chicago fifth with 17, Navy sixth with 13, and Army seventh with 12. Maryland failed to score.

Quite a Man, That Cobb.

Cobb also retained his championship crown for the side horse exercises, finished second on the parallel bars, fourth on the long horse, and was second in the all around competition. Newt Loken of Minnesota won the all around with 1233.8 points, displacing Courtney Shanken of Chicago, last year's winner. Shanken was in third place, but he annexed the individual championship on the long horse. Fourth place in the all around was taken by L. R. Fina, Illinois; fifth by S. Rudman, Penn State, and sixth by J. L. Adkins, Illinois.

'QUICK COUNT' OR NOT, SIMON WAS BEATEN FIGHTER

18,200 Will Tell You Louis Is Abe's Master.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 28.—Despite the widening circle of protest that Abe Simon may have been a victim of a quick count when he was knocked out in the sixth round last night in Madison Square Garden by Champion Joe Louis, Broadway today calmly accepted the result it had predicted, to wit: Louis won by a knockout.

The furor over the alleged quick count by Referee Eddie Joseph that ended the one sided encounter 16 seconds after the start of the sixth round was started by Jimmy Johnston, manager of Simon. It seemed a fitting denouement to a fight in New York, where the referees frequently have been embroiled in controversy engendered by incompetence or, at best, by mistaken judgment.

What's the Difference?

If there was a quick count last night, and thus far Referee Joseph has not admitted it, the 18,200 in the Garden unanimously realized that it did not affect the result. It made no difference insofar as the champion was concerned whether Simon was knocked out in 16 seconds of the sixth round or a minute 16 seconds. Simon would have been knocked out eventually and Louis' 21st successful defense of the title cannot be tarnished.

While Louis knocked out Simon with a left hook to the head and a right cross to the jaw, assists must be given to the scores of similar blows Louis delivered earlier against an opponent who had no weapons to back up his bulk and courage. Scientifically, the bout was the most uneven pairing for Louis since he knocked out Primo Carnera in 1935, barring, of course, the famous swoon by King Levinsky in Comiskey park, when the King resigned while sitting on the ring rope.

It Was Joe All the Way.

Louis won each of the five rounds preceding the knockout. He dropped the challenger to his knees as the bell ended the second round and had him on the floor in the fith round, when the bell rang at the count of four. This furious fifth, during which Simon was defenseless and was hammered as one strikes a workout bag, except for two rest period clinches, presaged the quick knockout that followed.

In six seconds of the sixth round, Louis landed his 1-2 punches and Simon went down. He rolled to the ropes, grabbed them, and came up. Referee Joseph ruled the challenger failed to rise before the count of 10. Whether his count coincided with that of Jimmy Crowley, knockdown timekeeper, is a point of contention.

Jimmy Plans a Protest.

Manager Johnston said it did not and he will have some support if he cares to argue further before the New York State Athletic commission Tuesday. But, even the verbal barrage of Johnston cannot alter the facts that Simon was stopped in 13 rounds by Louis a year ago and thoroly whipped last night.

Simon actually has no ground for complaint. He lasted longer than it seemed he would, especially after the champion began throwing his heaviest punches in the first round. Abe proved his superhuman ability to absorb punishment and he was handsomely paid. He will return 2½ per cent of his 15 per cent to the Army Emergency Relief fund, the recipient of Louis' entire earnings and the promotional profit of Mike Jacobs.

The 18,200 in attendance paid $132,430.41. The discrepancy between these receipts and the $189,700.55 paid by 18,870 who saw the Navy Relief fund show when Louis knocked out Buddy Baer Jan. 9 is explained by price cutting of the $25 ringside tickets. Hundreds of these were sold at reduced rates on the last day.

Soldiers to Get $50,000.

Last night's detailed figures may not be available for several days, it was announced at Jacobs' office this afternoon, but the army relief probably will receive more than $50,000.

An unofficial breakdown of the receipts gives $13,243.04 to the federal government. The state tax is estimated at $5,559.36, leaving net receipts of $113,628.01. Simon's 12½ per cent probably will be $14,203.50. The fund's share is subject to deduction of Louis' expenses and the cost of the promotion including rental of the Garden, ticket and office expense of Jacobs' office.

Louis left Fort Dix yesterday on a five day pass. Tonight he boarded a train for Chicago and Detroit to see his family and Trainer Jack Blackburn, who is recuperating in a Chicago hospital.

Texas Vault Mark Broken by Nebraskan

Austin, Tex., March 28 (AP).—Harold Hunt of Nebraska soared over the 14 foot mark in the pole vault today in one of two record-bettering performances at the 15th annual Texas relays.

The University of Texas dominated the meet.

Hunt, national collegiate champion, went to 14 feet ⅝ inch to beat out Jack Defield, Minnesota star, and erase the record of 13 feet 10⅛ inches set four years ago by Beefus Bryan of Texas.

Schoolboy Mark Broken.

The only other record came in the high school division with Sunset of Dallas making the sprint medley in 3:40.2 to wipe out the mark of 3:40.8 set last year by Woodrow Wilson of Dallas.

The entry list was the smallest in years and the crowd numbered only about 3,000. The war, which cut down travel and also prevented some of the greatest stars of other years competing, was cited as the reason for the falling off in interest and records.

University of Texas Longhorns romped to three relay titles, the 440, the spring medley, and one mile. No other college or university won more than one event.

Loyola Retains Title.

Drake captured the two mile, Rice the half-mile, Oklahoma university the distance medley, and Minnesota the mile team race.

In the college class, Loyola of Chicago repeated with the championship of the spring medley relay, North Texas State took the half mile event, and East Texas State supplanted North Texas State as champion of the mile relay.

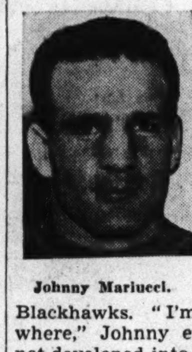
Mariucci Stuns Hawks at Last Meeting; Says He's Quitting



Johnny Mariucci.

An unhappy band of Blackhawks came home yesterday after their unsuccessful Stanley cup playoff stand against the Boston Bruins Thursday night. All the Hawks were unhappy, but the worst hockey hangover belonged to Johnny Mariucci.

Mariucci announced that he was quitting the Blackhawks. "I'm not getting anywhere," Johnny explained. "I have not developed into a top flight player, so what's the use of struggling along for another few years, then dropping down to the minors?"

Mariucci intimated the Hawk management was not enthusiastic about his play the last season. "At least," he added, "when I talked things over with Paul [Thompson, Hawk manager] this morning, he didn't urge me to reconsider. I don't have any future in hockey, so I think it's time I got into another line of work."

Johnny supports his mother and has been classified 3-A in the draft. He said he did not anticipate an early call to service, but would like to enter Comm. Gene Tunney's Naval Physical Instructor corps.

Played with Gophers.

Mariucci signed with the Hawks after a brilliant hockey career at the University of Minnesota. Johnny played two months for the Providence, R. I., Reds in 1939, then jumped to the Hawks and quickly became a favorite of the fans thru his tough, rugged defensive work.

After Mariucci's surprising statement the Hawks disbanded quietly. There was no discussion of contracts for next season. Club officials said contracts would not be considered until late summer, when and if the National Hockey league is certain the 1942-'43 schedules will proceed without interruption.

March Is Golf Pro.

The Hawks will go widely different ways during the off season. Manager Paul Thompson will leave for Vancouver, B. C., on Tuesday. Coach Helge Bostrom will drive to his summer resort at Deer River, Minn., in a week. Joe Cooper and Bill Carse will make an auto trip to Mexico before returning to their homes in Canada. Cooper lives in Winnipeg, Man., and Carse in Edmonton, Alta. Alex Kaleta will leave in a week for his home in Canmore, Alta. George Allen and Max Bentley will drive today to their homes in Kerrobert, Sask., and Delisle, Sask., respectively.

Mush March and his wife will go to Hibbing, Minn., in a week. March is golf pro for Messaba Country club in Hibbing. Bob Carse will drive to his home in Edmonton, Alta., dropping Bill Moslenko off at Winnipeg.

COLLEGE TENNIS.

Oklahoma, 5; Michigan State, 4.

SCANNELL HEADS STUDENT SPORTS AT NOTRE DAME

Notre Dame, Ind., March 28 [Special].—Appointment of Prof. John A. Scannell, head of the department of physical education, as director of interhall athletics for the University of Notre Dame was announced today by the Rev. J. Hugh O'Donnell, C. S. C., president.

Prof. Scannell will work with Director of Athletics Frank W. Leahy in placing this part of the Notre Dame physical training program on a wartime basis. Directors for the program in each of 25 branches of athletics will come from the ranks of the coaching staff and the department of physical education personnel.

2,500 Students Active.

Prof. Scannell, who has been actively connected with the interhall program for several years and has been responsible for much of it, estimates that about 2,500 out of the total enrolment of 2,800 are actively engaged in some sort of athletics. Every freshman—about 800 a year—takes the compulsory university course in physical education, which entails two one hour periods of activity a week.

He has recommended that this be increased to include the first four semesters, that periods occur three times a week instead of two, and that they last two hours instead of one.

300 Play Interhall Football.

Prof. Elvin R. Handy of the department of physical education, supervised the interhall football program during its period of revival the last two years. Approximately 300 men from the 14 campus halls participated in the round robin schedule. Prof. Dominick J. Napolitano of the physical education staff, annually trains boxers for the university championships, and makes up pairings.

Every student is taught to swim as part of his freshman physical training program. Those majoring in physical education spend 10 hours a week for four semesters in physical education activity classes in addition to varsity athletic participation.

The broadcast will give complete details of all the action in the final bouts of this climaxing night of the 1942 Golden Gloves bouts, which each year bring together the best amateur fighters of the country in tournaments sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and the New York Daily News.

SLOVAK SOCCER TEAM BATTLES VIKINGS TODAY

Swedish-Americans Take on Dalzell Rivals.

Seek April 5 Game

THE Detroit Chryslers soccer team, which was ordered to meet Sparta of Chicago today in a replay of a National cup match and refused, yesterday notified James Armstrong, secretary of the USFA, that if allowed to meet Sparta on April 5, the date Detroit had wanted originally, the team would continue in the open and amateur cup contests. The Chryslers disbanded Thursday when informed they would have to meet Sparta today. Sparta club officials said yesterday a ruling was expected early this week from the national cup committee.

The International Soccer league offers a full schedule of games for today, with two outstanding attractions in the major division. The Slovaks, leading contenders for National Amateur cup honors, clash with the Vikings at 51st street and California avenue, while the Swedish Americans and the Nickeloids of Dalzell, Ill., meet at 6600 North Francisco avenue. These games replace in interest the Sparta-Chrysler National cup game, scheduled for Sparta stadium this afternoon, which was canceled Friday night when the Chryslers announced from their headquarters in Detroit that they had decided to disband.

Two Important Matches.

In the first division two matches will have a direct bearing on the championship. The Molines and Linneas will meet at Moline, Ill., while the South Side Swedes and the Centers play in Jackson park. In the playoffs, the 9th Air Base won Monday's opener, 24 to 23, but on Tuesday Chuck Lowe's team was beaten by Stan Slyter's quintet, 26 to 25, necessitating the rubber game already noted. . . . ARKANSAS DERBY MARK SHATTERED BY WITH REGARDS

Cerberus Trails by One Length; Columbus Day 3d.

Hot Springs, Ark., March 28 (AP).—With Regards, the Kentucky-bred horse picked up for $800 by T. D. Grimes, won the $5,000-added Arkansas Derby today and broke the track record of 1:50 for the mile and an eighth.

The powerful bay flashed under the wire a length ahead of R. Needham's Cerberus to establish himself as a stout contender for the Kentucky Derby. H. C. Richards' Columbus Day was third, six lengths back of Cerberus.

With Johnny Longden up, the Grimes colt was the 5-2 favorite in the field of 11 of some of the nation's best 3-year-olds. With Regards paid his backers in the crowd of more than 8,000 fans, on hand for Oaklawn Park's Farewell program of the 30-day season, $4.60, $4.00, and $4.10 for $2 mutuels. Cerberus paid $5.70 to place and $4.30. Columbus Day paid $6.40.

Longden Earns Derby Chance.

With Regards was fourth as the field left the post but steadily improved his position as Longden brought him home two-fifths of a second faster than the record established in 1937 by Peace Move. Second choice of the bettors was R. C. Thatcher's Jug which broke last but came up strong to finish fourth.

Grimes, who bought the winner as a 2-year-old from Col. Phil T. Chinn who had paid $400 for him at a yearling sale, said With Regards would be ridden in the Kentucky Derby by Longden.

Night Editor Triumphs.

Back of fourth place Jug, the field finished in this order: E. R. Moulder's Fijiwari; Chester Lauck's Lum's Pride, a Kentucky Derby nominee; J. A. Kinard's Bold Chance, another Blue Grass candidate; Clyde Troutt's Can't Lose, which led by three lengths at the first turn; H. C. Bentley's Conejo, a Kentucky Derby nominee; Mrs. V. Sovjnski's Remembering, and Mrs. G. W. Church's Quiz Kid, a Kentucky Derby candidate.

Mrs. C. C. Winters' Night Editor nosed out Mrs. J. L. Chesney's Frank's Boy to win the $1,000 Au Revoir handicap over six furlongs and pay $5.30, $3.20 and $2.30. Stalking showed. The time was 1:11.

Longden scored again in the $1,000 Farewell handicap when he booted A. G. Tarn's Bulwark in over the mile and sixteenth course in 1:43 1-5. R. G. Whittington's Three Clovers placed and L. Barker's Favored Pirate showed. Bulwark paid $5.80, $3.40, and $2.40.

DAILY DELIVERY WINS

Miami, Fla., March 28 (AP).—A. B. Christopher's Daily Delivery outfooted a field of fleet sprinters today to pay $28.80 for $2 in the $5,000 added De Soto handicap at Tropical Park.

It took a photograph to show the four year old colt's head advantage over Augury, the favorite, Neil S. McCarthy's six furlong performer which equaled the track record only recently.

Daily Delivery's time today was 1 minute and 11 seconds, a full second off Augury's record tying effort.

Bull Reigh Finishes Third.

Mrs. Tony Pelleteri's Bull Reigh, second in the public favor, finished third—two lengths behind Augury.

Bull Reigh got off in front, but lost the pace immediately to De Kalb, a winner earlier this week at the same distance. De Kalb faltered at the one-half pole, and Doubt Not took over the lead temporarily.

Moving thru a hole as they turned into the stretch, Daily Delivery flashed out into the clear and barely held on over the thundering Augury.

Longest shot in the race, Daily Delivery paid $7.50 to place and $4.80 to show. Augury, just under 2 to 1 in the betting, returned $3.90 and $3, while Bull Reigh's show price was $3.20.

Worth $3,950 to Owner.

The victory was worth $3,950 to Christopher, who has not collected a winner's purse on Daily Delivery since the horse won three in a row at Hialeah Park earlier this winter.

Maxwell Howard's The Chief, an in and out sprinter, was out today and wound up fifth in the seven horse heat.

Bright Willie, the advance favorite in the $25,000 Flamingo stakes at Hialeah, returned to form and beat six other 3 year olds in the secondary feature, paying $4.10.

ANNUAL CHICAGO ROLLER DERBY TO CLOSE TONIGHT

The Californians now lead the National Roller Derby league, but Chicago can tie for the top by winning tonight.

Tonight's winner will leave immediately for Milwaukee to start a week's series at the Fairgrounds arena tomorrow night for the league championship. The opposition will come from the winner of the current Milwaukee-New York series, which also ends this evening.

CY YOUNG, HALE AND HEARTY, 75 YEARS OLD TODAY

Newcomerstown, O., March 28 (AP).—Denton [Cy] Young, baseball immortal whose record of 511 major league victories never has been equaled, will be 75 years old tomorrow. Hale and hearty at his diamond jubilee, the famed old time pitcher lives on a hilltop farm near Peoli.

Cy Young.

He attributes his health and longevity to the strict training he observed during his career.

Cy summed up his 75 years with four words: "I did my best."

His best was the tops in major league baseball. He started at 23 as a Cleveland rookie and pitched more years, pitched more games, and won more than any other major league pitcher in baseball history.

In 22 years he pitched 874 games and won 511 with St. Louis, Boston, and Cleveland teams.

He had three no hit games and once turned in 23 consecutive innings of no hit pitching. For 14 consecutive seasons he won 20 games or more, hitting his peak in 1892 when he won 36.

Cy regards his encounter with Rube Waddell of the Philadelphia Athletics in Boston in 1907 as his greatest thrill. It was a perfect game.

3 RECORDS SET AS FORT WAYNE WINS GARY MEET

North Side's 68 Points One of Marks.

South Bend, Ind., March 28 [Special].—North side of Fort Wayne rolled up a record breaking total of 68 points today to win the Gary invitational indoor track meet for the second successive year at the 11th renewal of the affair in the Notre Dame field house.

Hammond, a three time winner, finished second with 56 points, and third place went to Fort Wayne South Side with 30 points. Each of the 15 competing schools scored.

Score in Ten Events.

North Side athletes scored in ten of the 11 events, and in one of them, Ashley Hawk set one of the two new marks established. North Side's total bettered by 13 points the winning score of the ten previous meets, Hammond's 55 points in 1940 representing the ceiling. North Side failed to score only in the 60 yard dash.

Hawk, a sophomore, shaved seven-tenths of a second off the half mile mark, winning in 2:01.8, the previous record being held by Tommy Woolard of Hammond at 2:02.5, established in 1938. Hawk earlier had won one of the mile events, and took rank with two other contestants as a double winner and individual scorer of the afternoon.

Two Others Get Ten Points.

Mike Bojinoff of North Side, a double repeat champion in the two hurdle events, and Horace Mamala of Hammond, winer of the 60 yard dash and quarter mile race, joined rank with Hawk to split scoring honors, each getting ten points.

Bob Prymuski of Hammond accounted for the other new mark when he tossed the shot 50 feet 9¾ inches to shatter a record of 50 feet 7 inches set in 1931 by Don Elser, then of Gary Horace Mann.

REISER PONDERS RETURN AGAIN TO SWITCH HITTING

Daytona Beach, Fla., March 28 (AP).—Outfielder Pete Reiser of Brooklyn, who, hitting lefthanded exclusively last year, captured the National league batting title with a percentage of .343, may go back to hitting both right and lefthanded this year.

Reiser hit righthanded in many of his training sessions this spring but batted lefthanded in exhibition contests played thus far. A check up today by Coach Chuck Dressen on how Reiser fared last season as a lefthanded batter against southpaw pitchers disclosed the winner of the league championship compiled an average of .275.

"There's talk about it," said Reiser when asked if he were going to bat righthanded against lefthanders this season.

Reiser was originally a righthanded batter. He was converted into a switch hitter by George Treadwell, manager of the Superior club in the Northern league in 1938.

The Dodgers' game with the Detroit Tigers, scheduled for today, was canceled.

FAVORITES MOVE FORWARD IN DOG SHOW JUDGING

6 Nationally Known Stars Come Thru Unbeaten.

BY BOB BECKER.

The purebred favorites in the American dog scene—the dogs which consistently have won over competitors in their breeds and gone on to win the supreme title of best in show—qualified for the major title in the International Kennel club event by winning their preliminary jousts in yesterday's opening session in the International Amphitheater.

This evening these winners will face even stouter competition when the judges call the breed title holders into the ring to determine the six group champions and then go on to pick the best individual dog of all the 1,445 entered.

Four from Middle West.

There were few upsets in yesterday's returns. Six nationally famous dogs, each of which has won one or more best in show titles, came thru unbeaten. The fact that four of these winners were middle western dogs which beat off the challenge of canine kingpins from Canada and other states didn't harm the spirits of local exhibitors.

Among the most significant victories accounted for by local breeders was that of the Irish Water spaniel—Champion Mahoney's O'Toole, owned by Mrs. Charles M. Wynns of Highland Park and handled by Dick Cooper of Franklin Park. O'Toole recently has been best in show in two large fixtures, those in Detroit and St. Louis, and will be one of the favorites in the group judging at 8 o'clock tonight.

Irish Setter a Competitor.

To win the sporting group O'Toole will have to beat one other gun dog which also has a background of winning groups an dshows. The handsome Irish setter, Champion Kleiglight of Aragon, came thru against a field of 49 red dogs which included three other champions. Owned and handled by Jack Cooper of Franklin Park, Kleiglight has won more than 20 groups and five best in shows.

The field of 122 cocker spaniels has been narrowed to two possible challengers for the sporting dog title. The winning American type cocker was Champion Foxspan Legacy, owned by Mr. and Mrs. W. Holden White of Chagrin Falls, O. Legacy, a son of the famous Champion My Own Brucie, has been mopping up all over the middle west this year, but to win the title of best cocker in the International and challenge O'Toole and Kleiglight in the sporting final tonight he still has one more hurdle to top. At 10 o'clock this morning Legacy will go into the ring in that test against the winning English type cocker Giralda's Marguerite, owned by the Merrie Sherwood kennels of Waterloo, Ia.

Obedience Tests Draw Thousands.

Obedience competition for dogs, a sport which is gaining new followers because of its timely value to the army and defense industries, attracted several thousand spectators to the south wing of the amphitheater. These events for trained dogs, sponsored by THE TRIBUNE, are of more than usual interest this year because army officers have just received more than two hundred canines of the caliber being shown in the tests.

Winner of the first obedience event was Arzan V D Schwarzen Eiche, a Rottweiler, owned by Arthur Eichler of Milwaukee. Rottweilers, used in Europe for trailing and police work, are rarely seen in American shows. Arzan scored 92 points out of a possible 100.

The second obedience winner was Duffy II., English springer spaniel, which already has won the title of "companion dog" in obedience tests. Duffy, owned by W. J. Ludwig of Highland Park, won the open A division.

The program for today follows:

10 A. M.—Ring 1—Judge, Bud Lewis, Pasadena, Cal., English springer spaniels. Ring 2—Judge, Alfred Delmont, Wynnewood, Pa., wire fox terriers and best cocker spaniel. Anglers Told of Wisconsin's Rule on Dams

BY BOB BECKER.

Another wartime regulation which Wisconsin fishermen will have to keep in mind this year is the one involving dams in rivers which anglers are accustomed to fish. The ruling is that nobody can get within 500 feet of a dam. So far we have heard of just that one state issuing orders that fishermen have to stay at least 500 feet from big dams, but it's possible that other states also will establish such a ruling.

The idea behind this order forbidding any one to get close to big power dams is that utilities fear some of them might be damaged by saboteurs posing as fishermen. Electric power is considered one of Wisconsin's more vital defense needs, so the state is taking no chances. This new regulation does not prohibit fishing on any flowage or any river. Fishing will be as usual. But while wielding a rod and reel on any river or parts of it, you can't approach within 500 feet of certain dams.

Here's List of Dams.

The list of such dams is as follows:

Cedar lake reservoir, Bear lake reservoir and Rice lake in Barron county; Jim falls, Chippewa falls, Wisota, Chippewa county; Menomonie and Cedar falls, Dunn county; Dells, Eau Claire county; Brule, Twin falls, Pine river, Florence county; Flambeau reservoir, Iron county; Upper Watertown, Jefferson county; Tomahawk, Grandfather falls, Alexander, Jersey, Merrill, Rice, Spirit, and King's, Lincoln county; Wausau West, Big Eau Pleine, Marathon county; Caldron falls, High falls, Johnson falls, Sandstone falls, Grand rapids, Potato rapids, Peshtigo, Upper Quinnesec falls, Chalk hill, White rapids, Marinette county; Sparta and Angelo, Monroe county; Upper Oconto falls, Oconto county; Hat rapids, Rainbow and Willow river reservoir, Oneida county; Appleton power plant, Outagamie county; Nevers reservoir, St. Croix falls, Polk county; Stevens Point, Lower Stevens Point, Portage county; Beloit, Rock county; Big falls, Rusk county; Apple River falls, Somerset, Riverdale, St. Croix county; Kilbourn, Sauk and Columbia counties; Otter rapids and Rest lake reservoir, Washburn county; Weyauwega, Waupaca county; Nepco lake, Centralia, Port Edwards, Nekoosa, Wisconsin rapids, Biron Wood county.

Trout Season Opens April 15.

Special provisions that have been in force as to closed areas about some of the dams continue in force.

Wisconsin offers a number of special early season opportunities to the fisherman who wants to use his tackle before the regular state-wide fishing seasons open. For example, the lake trout season in Wisconsin opens April 15. The special pike season on the Wolf river waters also starts April 15. Probably none of the early seasons get as much attention as the special trout season in Ashland, Bayfield, Douglas, and Iron counties on May 1. May 15 starts the fishing season for most persons who go into Wisconsin, but muskalunge do not become legal until May 25 and the bass season starts on June 20.

Columbus, O., March 28 [Special].—Johnny Paul and Oscar Ericson of Philadelphia posted 1,357 for second place in the doubles division of the American Bowling Congress tournament today.

A blow by Ericson on the 1-2 leave after a strike in the last frame cost the pair a tie for the lead now held by Walter Rosnick and Harry Hedtke of Los Angeles at 1358.

After opening with 480, of which Ericson contributed 276, the Philadelphians really clicked. Paul hit 245 and Ericson 256. Needing 435 to smash the record of 1,415 posted by Frankie Benkovic and the late Gil Zunker of Milwaukee in 1933—with Columbus also the host city—they caught two splits and three misses and finished with 376.

Third in All-Events.

Paul is a 22 year old electrician who currently carries a 203 league average, and Ericson is a 50 year old iron worker.

Ericson, carrying over a 632 total from five man competition, moved into third place in the all events with 1,937 following his 718 in the doubles and a modest 587 in the singles. At the same time, William Lewis, secretary of the Belleville, Ill., City Bowling association, slipped into sixth place over the nine game route with 1,893 behind a helpful 675 in the singles.

One other change of the matinée session saw Anton Bevsek of Milwaukee take third place in the singles with 714. This was the 10th 700 series of the tournament.

Joe Aurvek Gets 687.

Joe Aurvek, after opening with 193, finished his single series with 225 and 269 to pace the Chicagoans with 687. George Paluch opened with 275, but dropped to 196 and 185 to total 656. John Cast hit 647 and the veteran Al Lea, Chicago ABC executive committeeman, 637. Other top Chicago single totals included Marcel Barles with 631 and Harlow Tarnow, 611.

Stan Para and John Crow collaborated on a 1202 doubles score, best among Chicago pairs today.

LIEUT. SULLIVAN TO BE HONORED BY OLD TIMERS

Lieut. Chester N. Sullivan, manager of the Chicago fire department baseball club for more than fifteen years, will be honored at an old timers' dinner April 9 in St. Agnes's hall, 3916 Archer avenue.

As an active player Sullivan was one of the outstanding third basemen in the semi-pro circuit and led the Fireos to a number in intercity championships as well as the championship of the Mid-West league.

The affair has the approval of Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan and is sponsored by members and friends of the firemen team.

STOCKS STRIVE TO RALLY, BUT END IRREGULAR

Turnover Smallest Since Last Aug. 16.

New York, March 28 (AP).—Some recently weak high grade stocks made feeble attempts at recovery in today's stock market, but the list generally finished an irregularly lower week without a definite trend. Some short covering in high priced stocks that have declined lately provided props for most groups, altho speculative and investment demand was too small to start many real recoveries.

As usual at the week-end, boardrooms were nearly deserted and traders who put in an appearance discovered scant inspiration in the news of war, taxes, business, labor, and politics.

Smallest Trade Since Aug. 16.

The turnover of 131,350 shares was the lowest since Aug. 16 and compared with 160,690 of last Saturday. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged at 34.4, but on the week was off .3.

Belief the market was a bit oversold helped prices to rally Monday, altho buying was meager. Heavy purchasing of secondary rail bonds bolstered the stock division Tuesday. Demand for shares waned Wednesday and the averages dipped. Renewed concern over dividends because of mounting operating costs reduced prices Thursday. The Burma crisis and further liquidation of "blue chips" brought declines Friday.

CHICAGO LIST STEADY.

Prices were about steady on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday in transactions of 10,000 shares. Of the more active stocks, Commonwealth Edison, volume leader, and Standard Oil of Indiana declined ⅛. Zenith Radio advanced 1 and Nash-Kelvinator and Central and South West were unchanged.

In the half hour after the close in New York Zenith Radio advanced ⅛.

FIRM WITH LARGE FEDERAL ORDERS OMITS DIVIDEND

National Automotive Fibres, Inc., Oakland, Cal., yesterday announced that the common dividend of 15 cents usually paid at this time would be omitted. The company, which manufactures automobile upholstery material, holds large government contracts and must conserve cash for the purchase of new equipment, officials said.

The Atlantic Coast Fisheries company, New York, declared a dividend of 50 cents on common stock, the first since 1937.

Commodities

Cotton futures gained 35 to 75 cents a bale yesterday, extending their advance to seven consecutive days. Mills took on additional contracts against large orders booked recently for cloth and other basic fabrics. Also bolstering the market was a report that demand for spot cotton in the south was increasing due to new government contracts.

Wool tops closed 1.6 to 3.3 cents a pound higher following Friday's boost in the ceiling price to $1.39. The old ceiling was $1.327.

WAR INDUSTRIES BOOST OUTPUT ANOTHER NOTCH

Factory Conversion Gains Impetus.

BY LELAND FORRESTER.

War industries quickened last week, and guarded statements from government authorities and from company officials at stockholders' meetings indicated a steady stream of additions to the list of factories that have completed their conversion to arms work.

The week's developments in business and in the field of government regulation of the national economy covered a wide range, but, pieced together, they showed progress in unifying the American war efforts.

For one thing, the government took a drastic step aimed at putting little plants to work on war orders. President Roosevelt, by an executive order superseding laws governing contracts, ordered the army, navy, and maritime commission to start approving and guaranteeing loans to small businesses that can produce war goods.

Rush of Funds Forecast.

Because such loans will be unreservedly backed up by the credit of the government once they have been approved by one of the three agencies, a rush of bank funds into war industry was expected.

Big plants, with plenty of credit already available, meantime were reported up to or ahead of schedule on military orders. The automobile industry was said to be making such rapid progress in its swing from civilian work that temporary unemployment among its workers is only about half what was expected. One of the major peacetime producers of automobiles was seven months ahead of schedule on its tank making job. A large aircraft company, going at full war pace, reported it was right on time with deliveries.

As factories pushed their efforts they had an increasing supply of steel to work with. Steel plants made 1,681,600 tons of ingots last week, establishing an all-time high production mark for the fourth consecutive week.

Barometer Rises Further.

The Associated Press index of industrial activity rose to 146.7 per cent of the 1929-'30 average, comparing as follows:

	Latest wk.	Prev. wk.	Yr. ago.
Steel mill activity...	*143.1	141.5	137.6
Elec. pwr. product.,	158.5	156.0	142.5
Total car loadings..	87.7	88.7	84.6
Composite index.....	146.7	145.6	126.6

*New 1942 high.

The rising activity in war plants caused increased concern over man power, and the trend toward employment of women became more pronounced. Housewives and mothers who once were employed in business were finding they could get jobs in banks and business houses on a flexible work day schedule that permits them to take care of their homes.

Another effect of expanding military production was to increase pay envelopes, and that caused an upsurge in retail trade, particularly in clothing and accessories. The public was not letting the war interfere with its plans for the Easter parade.

INCREASED USE OF RIVERS URGED TO AID SHIPPING

Washington, D. C., March 28 (AP).—Increased utilization of the nation's inland waterways to help relieve the shipping situation was advocated by President Roosevelt today in a letter to Chairman Joseph J. Mansfield [D., Tex.] of the house rivers and harbors committee.

The President wrote that "sufficient equipment to accommodate the tonnage" was not now available, but "this subject has already been taken actively in hand and is being carefully studied by the office of defense transportation, the war shipping administrator, and others."

Asserting that the program presented problems such as obtaining necessary strategic materials, providing construction facilities and in some instances dredging of waterways, the President added:

"I am hopeful that something constructive may be worked out without undue delay."

All Supplies of Pig Iron Put Under Allocation Rule

Washington, D. C., March 28 [Special].—The War Production board issued orders today making all supplies of pig iron subject to government allocation. The order eliminates the reserve tonnage pool and gives the government full control of distribution. Supplies were said to be decreasing.

Call Meeting on Petroleum Rule April 14

Little Rock, Ark., March 28 (AP).—Petroleum Coördinator Harold L. Ickes will hold a national conference with petroleum regulatory groups in Washington April 14 on wartime regulatory measures, Don R. Knowlton, production director of the Office of Petroleum Coördination, announced today at a meeting of the Interstate Oil Compact commission. The conference was asked by some of the regulatory bodies.

Knowlton declared that new drilling operations should be pushed during the war because the United States "might have to supply the entire allied world with oil." He said this country had been losing ground in finding new reserves. He estimated that only about 19,000 new wells would be drilled this year against 31,000 in 1941.

Urges Search for New Reserves.

"I think this situation is so serious that companies should be encouraged to continue fundamental research to discover new reserves," he asserted.

Knowlton emphasized that the OPC's new order M-68 limiting spacing of wells in oil and gas fields should not be interpreted as a move to slacken new drilling.

Gov. Payne H. Ratner of Kansas said the big internal transportation bottleneck in the oil industry was from Chicago east, and declared this could be partly broken by using pipe lines from Chicago to the east coast exclusively for gasoline instead of crude oil.

GASOLINE DEMAND DIPS

Washington, D. C., March 28 (AP).—A substantial drop in the nation's total demands for gasoline during April, because of tire rationing and a 20 per cent motor fuel curtailment in the east and Pacific northwest, was forecast today by the bureau of mines.

The bureau estimated 55,700,000 barrels of motor fuel would be needed next month, and said this was "about 5 million barrels less than might have been expected," had there been no rubber and gasoline restrictions.

Set Tank Car Record.

Meanwhile, Petroleum Coördinator Harold L. Ickes reported that tank car movement of petroleum to the east last week again set a new record with the railroads delivering 464,561 barrels daily in an effort to combat the seaboard oil emergency resulting from a shortage of tanker ships.

The railroads used 14,453 cars in this operation. The previous record of 439,200 barrels daily was set in the week ended March 14. Until the emergency developed, nearly all the east's oil was supplied by tankers plying between gulf and Atlantic ports.

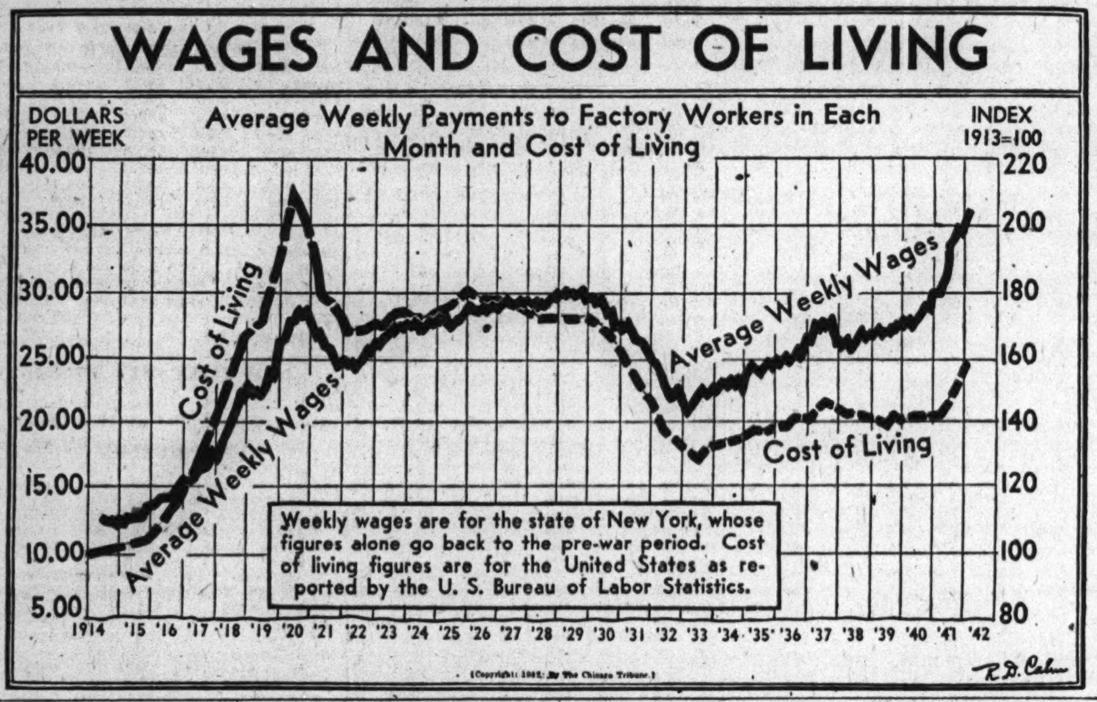
CLEVELAND GETS FIRST 1942 CARGO OF ORE BY LAKE

Cleveland, O., March 28 (AP).—The year's first water shipment of iron ore reached Cleveland today to cut 12 days off the earliest previous record for Great Lakes movement of the precious dirt that is the backbone of America's armament.

The 10,000 ton capacity freighter J. H. Sheadle steamed into port with a cargo from Escanaba, Mich. Coast guard ice breakers helped clear part of the way for the Sheadle and other boats of the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company which traditionally inaugurated the season.

Buffalo Season Opens.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 28 (AP).—Buffalo's 1942 navigation season opened today—third earliest start on record—when the bulk freighter Lebanon nosed into Lake Erie's ice fields, bound for Erie, Pa., to pick up a coal cargo. Clearance of the vessel, operated by the Bethlehem Transportation company, was nine days ahead of last year's opening, but three days behind the record March 25 date set in 1937.



Weekly wages are for the state of New York, whose figures alone go back to the pre-war period. Cost of living figures are for the United States as reported by the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Demand End of Acts That Hurt Industry

Chambers of commerce preparing for the forthcoming annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States are demanding that government agencies put an end to activities that "harass industry and divert the attention of industrial management from the problems of military production," the national group reported yesterday. The meeting will be held in Chicago April 27 to 30 at the Stevens hotel.

The national chamber's member organizations have expressed their views on war problems in communications to the chamber's policy forming resolutions committee.

Stand on Social Reform.

"The policy proposals, coming from every part of the nation, show that business men are dissatisfied with federal conduct of activities not related to the war program," the chamber said. "Calling for a more efficient and vigorous prosecution of the war effort on the home front, several organizations propose that the initiation or extension of broad so-called social reforms by the government be adjourned for the duration of the war. They urge that activities of government agencies and departments that harass industry and divert attention and abilities of industrial management from the problems of military production be dropped."

The theme of the national gathering of business men and industrialists to discuss the war production job will be "Let's get it done!"

More than 3,000 to Attend.

More than 3,000 delegates are scheduled to attend the convention. They will represent more than 1,700 chambers of commerce and trade and industrial associations having a combined membership of more than a million manufacturers, merchants, mine operators, millers, and other business men.

In urging the policy committee to demand more vigorous prosecution of the war, some of the member groups have asked amendment of the wage-hour act to permit a 48 hour work week at regular pay rates. The committee reported it received many demands that the government curtail nonessential expenditures.

7 Chicago Area Firms Get First Direct War Orders

Government war orders were placed last week with 46 Chicago area companies, including seven which had not received direct arms contracts before, the Chicago Association of Commerce reported yesterday. With these new contracts, 1,405 Chicago area companies have received government contracts totaling $1,334,585,000 since the start of the defense program, the association said.

MANAGEMENT-LABOR COMMITTEES FORMED IN ABOUT 100 PLANTS

Washington, D. C., March 28 (AP).—Management-labor committees, keystones in the government's drive for an immediate speedup in war production, have been organized in more than 100 plants, it was learned today.

Since the drive was undertaken early this month to bring a 25 per cent increase in armament output on existing equipment, 31 labor and management conferences have been held in 29 cities under arrangements made by WPB consultants. Nearly 10,500 persons representing some 2,000 war plants, attended the meetings.

The government program calls for appointment of a labor-management production drive committee in each plant, a study of plant efficiency, establishment of production scoreboards, suggestion boxes, and bulletin boards, slogan contests, and government recognition of individual and plant achievements.

HYATT, BANKER, ENTERS NAVY AS SECURITY OFFICER

Roger C. Hyatt, a vice president of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, will report for duty tomorrow as a lieutenant commander at the United States naval training station at Great Lakes. Long a member of the naval reserve, Hyatt will serve as a security officer. He recently completed a course for security officers conducted at Washington.

Roger C. Hyatt.

Hyatt, a native of Ithaca, N. Y., studied at Cornell and was admitted to the bar in Ohio in 1914. He was a member of the law firm of Newton D. Baker, who was secretary of war in Wilson's cabinet, and was a vice president of the First National Bank of Cleveland. He is 51 years old.

FORM ADVISORY UNIT TO AID WAR ORDER FINANCE

Washington, D. C., March 28 (AP).—Organization of a bureau of finance to assist contractors and subcontractors in solving financial problems in connection with war orders was announced today by the War Production board.

The bureau has taken over the function and personnel of the financial section of the WPB contract distribution branch and will be headed by Bradley Nash, New York City, chief of the section since last June.

The bureau will not make loans or disburse funds to contractors, WPB emphasized, but will give advice and assistance to companies engaged in war production or those that wish to obtain war contracts.

WPB asserted that the bureau's functions, being purely advisory, would not conflict in any way with the lending operations of banks or government agencies.

Grain Futures Carried Higher in Fast Trade

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

Grain prices advanced yesterday in the largest trade in more than a week. Soy beans rose 3⅛ to 3⅞ cents with May closing at $1.89¾ a bushel as dealers learned vast quantities of the remaining supplies on the farm were rotting away.

Wheat futures advanced 1 to 1¼ cents as federal officials reported that 540,000 barrels of white flour had been bought for lend-lease purposes. The purchase in terms of wheat is equivalent to about 2½ million bushels. The May wheat contract closed at $1.26¾.

With the first boatload of corn leaving Chicago for Canada today and another scheduled to go late tomorrow or early Tuesday, there was a much wider interest in the corn market. Prices advanced ⅜ to ¾ cent, with May at 88⅛ cents.

Inflation Report a Factor.

Grain dealers advanced their country prices for oats a cent a bushel while futures prices were up ½ to ⅝ cent. Rye rose with other grains, closing 1⅛ to 1¼ cents higher.

Factors influencing the higher prices were:

1. The report of an Office of Price administration official that the nation is losing the fight against inflation.
2. Increased lend-lease pork and lard purchases and a federal boost of 2 cents a pound in wholesale butter prices in Chicago.
3. Passage by the Canadian house of parliament of a bill that would guarantee western Canadian farmers 90 cents a bushel for 1942 wheat.

First 1941 Loan Defaults.

The Commodity Credit corporation reported the first defaults of 1941 wheat loans. Some of the farm stored wheat carried seven month loans, according to the grain men, and these have matured. Defaults so far aggregate about 8 million bushels, the government lending agency said. About 2 million bushels were redeemed thru loan repayments during the week.

As of March 21 the CCC had made loans on 95,234,000 bushels of 1941 crop corn. It sold approximately 2 million bushels of corn during the third week in March and held 81½ million bushels of corn on March 21.

SUSPEND FLAXSEED

WINNIPEG, Man., March 28 (AP).—The Canadian wheat board announced today that effective at the close of business on March 31 trading in Flaxseed futures would be prohibited in Canada. All open contracts in May, July, and October futures are to be cleared thru the Winnipeg Grain exchange with the wheat board at the present maximum price of $1.64 a bushel.

The board notified grain dealers on March 5 that to provide for war needs flaxseed stocks in Canada were frozen from that date. Today's announcement included an order that all flaxseed held in country elevators or in private stocks must be sold to the board.

ANNUAL REPORTS.

During the last few weeks corporations have filled the mails with their annual reports to stockholders. The several million investors who hold fractional interests in these corporations are given an accounting by the managements of their stewardship of the property which has been in their charge the preceding year.

A majority of the reports being received this year reveal a practical effort by the managements to awaken stockholders' interest and sense of participation in their companies. The average report is now more than a compilation of figures and a brief message to the share owners.

◆

Most of the reports are simple and graphic. They are made up in bright colors and are filled with photographs, illustrations, graphs, and charts. Texts are in everyday language and the more complicated phases of finance and operations are either reduced to understandable terms or explained in appended paragraphs.

Life insurance companies, pioneers in this new type of annual report, are emphasizing the service and protection they give their policyholders by means of extensive texts accompanying the formal income accounts and balance sheets.

A large California oil company's 1941 statement is an outstanding example of management's effort to give stockholders an adequate report on their business. The company's operations and finances are set forth in 32 pages of text, pictures, and figures.

Each item of the income statement and balance sheet is traced step by step. One large graph depicts the distribution of the pay roll dollar. Other innovations, including a full page of photographs of the officers and directors, are included.

BRITAIN'S FUND RAISING WEEK IS BIG SUCCESS

Heavy Subscription Boosts Goal.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 28.—As expected, London's "warships week" [fund raising] turned out a great success from the government viewpoint. By Friday the "target" total of 125,000,000 pounds [about $500,000,000] was surpassed by more than 5,000,000 pounds [about $20,000,000] and Lord Kindersley, president of the national savings movement, raised the "bull's-eye" figure to 150,000,000 pounds [about $600,000,000].

Despite the vast volume of funds involved in subscriptions to war bond issues, the turnover was arranged so successfully by the treasury and the Bank of England that the London money market felt little of the inconvenience and stringency which many of its members expected.

Treasury Pays Out Big Sums.

This was partly due to the fact that at the beginning of the week the treasury paid out nearly 60,000,000 pounds [about $240,000,000] against conscripted Canadian securities and another 50,000,000 pounds [about $200,000,000] in repayment of treasury deposit receipts to banks.

Reinvestment of these sums provided the most important channels thru which subscriptions of war bonds were financed, and to that extent the amount raised during "warships week" does not represent new savings. Furthermore, the Bank of England bought in nearly 20,000,000 pounds [about $80,000,000] worth of government securities.

Thus despite "warships week" subscriptions, there actually is a superfluity of funds on the London market. Profitable commercial investment in wartime is difficult because of the shortage of stocks, and during the week the supply of money became so large that banks had to accept ¾ per cent interest from the treasury for a substantial amount of short term investment funds.

Currency Circulation Rises.

Another unexpected development of the week was that currency circulation, instead of contracting as the result of subscriptions to savings certificates, etc., rose another 800,000 pounds [about $3,200,000] to a new record of 755,066,000 pounds [about $3,020,264,000].

The excitement of "warships week" served to overshadow the grim prospect of the new budget which Sir Kingsley Wood, chancellor of the exchequer, is preparing.

The national accounts for 1942 seem likely to end with 2,700,000,000 pounds [about $10,800,000,000] deficit despite the fact that the government revenue, at 1,996,500,000 pounds [about $7,986,000,000], already exceeded the estimate by 210,000,000 pounds [about $840,000,000] on March 21.

Tho the chancellor's plans will remain secret until he announces them in the house of commons immediately after the Easter recess, members of parliament and economists seem generally convinced that he will not increase the standard rate of income tax beyond the present level of 10 shillings [about $2] on the pound [about $4].

3 BANKS TO MAKE REPAYMENTS ON DEPOSIT CLAIMS

The state auditor authorized yesterday a 5 per cent repayment of $176,213 to 17,000 depositors of the Noel State bank, Chicago, raising to 37 per cent the total repaid. He also authorized a 5 per cent repayment of $114,860 to 9,000 depositors of Reliance Bank and Trust company, Chicago, making a total of 61 per cent repaid.

First National bank of Wilmette depositors will receive an eighth and final repayment, amounting to 2 per cent. When this payment is completed the depositors will have received 77 per cent of claims.

Tests to Start Tomorrow on Stanley Plan

War Production board officials yesterday completed arrangements for a test, in the Chicago area, of the Stanley plan for facilitating negotiations between small businesses and large prime contractors who are seeking to sublet war work to little plants. The test will begin tomorrow.

George Landry.

Completion of preparations for the test was announced by George Landry, staff branch chief of the production division of the WPB, after he and Joseph L. Overlock, state director of the WPB contract distribution branch, made the final arrangements.

Directory of Opportunities.

Landry said the main feature of the Stanley plan is a directory of contract opportunities to be issued each week, listing in code and in alphabetical order the work to be done, with each type of item listed separately. With each part or item will be information concerning the machines, tolerances, machine hours, and material required to make the part.

"The plan was tested in Indianapolis and found successful," Landry said. "We are extending the experiment to Chicago with the hope of mobilizing more facilities to speed up war production.

"We will start in Chicago with a group of 25 to 50 manufacturers engaged in a wide variety of work—makers of parts for ships, airplanes, tanks, gun mounts, tool products, and job shop items. We will give them instruction in how to list their requirements and as soon as the first directory is published, subcontractors will be called in for schooling in use of the directory. When the subcontractors select the items they can make, they will be free to make immediate contact with a contractor."

Explains Plan's Benefits.

Landry said that one of the principal benefits of the plan will be that it will permit a prime contractor to bring his needs to the attention of subcontractors without the prime contractor having to conduct a search.

Overlock will supervise the Chicago test. James S. Stanley, originator of the plan, S. C. Wilson, and Henry Stringfellow, members of the WPB's production division staff, will be in Chicago to work with Overlock as consultants.

BREWERS PAY 345 MILLIONS IN U. S. TAXES FOR 1941

Brewers paid the federal government 345 million dollars in taxes for 1941, Joseph P. Hein, president of the Monarch brewery and chairman of the eighth district of the brewers' defense liaison committee, said yesterday. For 1940 they paid $274,458,685, and for 1939 $269,352,765.

State taxes paid in 1941 included $4,479,036 to Illinois at a rate of $1.24 a barrel, compared with $2,804,410, or 62 cents a barrel, in 1940.

Hein said the brewers purchased from farmers 40,380,000 pounds of hops in 1941, compared with 26,410,000 in 1931 and 358,709,000 bushels of malt barley, compared with 303,752,000 bushels in 1931.

BUTTER PRICES RAISED DESPITE RECORD SUPPLY

Federal Buyers Set Top of 36 Cents.

Butter prices, already at a peak since predepression 1929, were started toward still higher wartime levels yesterday by order of Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard. In an announcement issued in Washington, D. C., he added 1¾ cents a pound to the level at which the government supports the wholesale market in Chicago, and said further advances will be made "if they are found necessary to assure adequate production."

Dealers said the added costs would soon be passed along to consumers when the wholesale costs are reflected in retail sales. Wholesale prices are already about 5 cents a pound above levels prevailing at this time last year.

Wickard termed the new scale of prices minimum levels which, unless raised, will continue thruout 1942. Beginning tomorrow, government buying will be carried out in Chicago, San Francisco, New York, and other markets on the basis of 36 cents a pound for 92 score butter in carload lots in Chicago.

93 Score Rises to 37 Cents.

Proportionate differentials will be retained between the markets, according to grade of butter. The top grade, 93 score, will rise to 37 cents in Chicago. A 2 cent increase applies to one of the lower grades.

During the last several weeks the government has spent more than 5 million dollars in purchasing about 16 million pounds of butter on the basis of 34¼ cents a pound for 82 score in carlots in Chicago.

The purchases are made by the federally financed Dairy Products Marketing association and, along with other dairy products, are either stored for release on the market later, distributed under domestic relief programs, or shipped abroad under the lend-lease program.

Wickard ordered the increase despite the fact the nation's warehouses hold supplies of butter never before equaled.

Prices Normally Decline.

At this season butter prices are normally on their way down toward the lowest level of the year as production rises toward a seasonal peak.

The secretary said that altho the "food for victory" program required an 8 per cent increase in milk production this year, output had risen by only half this amount because of farmers' rising costs. The bureau of agricultural economics reported that while farmers were receiving about 15 per cent more for butterfat and 30 per cent more for milk than a year ago, feed grains had increased 40 per cent in cost, commercial feeds 55 per cent, and farm wage rates 35 per cent.

Wickard, in justification for the advance, said that if butter production should decline substantially consumers would later encounter reduced supplies and consequent stiff increases in prices.

"At this time," he said, "a reduction in milk production would injure every one concerned."

Prices Termed High.

Butter dealers had been told on Friday by the department of agriculture that "prices of dairy products seem high. Butter prices have been slipping back in comparison with levels of other farm products, and seem likely to slip further."

To lift prices yesterday the DPMA purchased 76,000 pounds from Chicago wholesale dealers.

The higher butter prices influenced the wholesale egg market. Eggs packed for storage advanced to 30½ cents a dozen, the highest price paid this season.

POOR'S EARNINGS RISE TO HIGHEST LEVEL SINCE '29

Proportion of Armament Work Increasing.

Last year's profits of Poor & Co., Chicago manufacturer of railroad track construction and maintenance equipment, exceeded 1 million dollars for the first time since 1929, the annual report revealed yesterday.

The company earned $1,011,796, equal to $1.94 a share on class B stock, compared with $646,236, or $1.12 a share, in 1940. Provision for federal and Canadian income and excess profits taxes was $1,119,068, against $276,216 a year earlier.

Fred A. Poor, president, told stockholders the profit was only about 55 per cent of that in the record year 1929, altho orders, shipments, and profits before taxes were at record levels.

Arms Work Increasing.

The company's participation in armament work assumed larger proportions last year, altho it still accounts for a relatively minor part of output, Poor said. But he anticipated a "continued increase in the importance of this phase of the business."

Dividend arrearages against the company's class A stock were decreased $1.50 a share to $2.25 during 1941, but Poor asserted the "many uncertainties that face the business world make it impossible to attempt a prediction as to when the balance might be cleared up."

Parmelee Transportation company, Chicago, which thru subsidiaries and affiliates is the nation's largest operator of taxicabs, reported 1941 profits of $145,606, equal to 20 cents a share. In 1940 the company had a net loss of $83,533.

Masonite corporation, Chicago and Laurel, Miss., building products manufacturer, reported its net income in the 12 weeks ended March 14 was $328,368, equal to 54 cents a share, compared with $302,236, or 52 cents a share, in the corresponding period a year before.

TRANSIENTS
A few units are set aside here for those who travel. And those who come once generally come again. Maybe they like the park view, maybe they like the homey rooms, maybe they like the club atmosphere, maybe they like the low rate—or maybe it's all of these things rolled together, with the famous Parkway service added. You'll like them, too.

INCOME RANCHES

ARE AN IMPORTANT ARM OF OUR NATIONAL DEFENSE

IN ADDITION TO SAFEGUARDING Our own

ECONOMIC SECURITY

Subject to prior sale we offer the best available, well located estate liquidations that will "stand up and add up."

Here are 2 examples:

LEMONS & VALENCIAS

60 acre A-1 producing citrus grove plus 25 acres adjoining vacant quality soil, ready for planting; located in a "frostless" zone. Ideal 12 mos. climate; cheap water, definite potential oil possibilities; modern 7 rm. bungalow and all farming equipment. Packing house receipts show 10% NET on total price of $90,000 after deducting expert management cost. One of the best groves.

REAL CATTLE RANCH

BIG MONEY MAKER

About 23,000 acres rich valley "fee" land; all year feed; no "pitching of hay"; no waste land; worlds of water; will profitably carry 6,000 head year in and year out and "finish them off." Definite near future potential enhancement because of ideal location and close proximity to many fast growing cities.

If buyer desires we can lease these 23,000 acres for 10 years on a 5% NET basis to the largest Pacific Coast cattle firm with the highest AAA credit rating, backed by 50 years of very profitable operations.

Most large chain merchants LEASE the stores they occupy instead of owning the property, thereby "keeping their money in their merchandise"; the large cattle operators on the Pacific Coast who own from 50,000 to 100,000 head of cattle LEASE their ranges and "keep their money in their livestock."

TOTAL PRICE $552,000.

This is the best and only remaining big cattle ranch of quality that should in our opinion TRIPLE IN VALUE because of the steadily increasing demand for small 500 acre farms in this fast growing district

DAY by DAY on the FARM by BOB BECKER

Spike Saves Farm $100.

March 28, 1942.

SPIKE, the smooth haired fox terrier pet of the Wheaton farm flockmaster, could present the farm management with a bill for $100 for services rendered last week.

Spike went on an anti-rat campaign the other day, and when his foray was completed the flockmaster counted more than 20 dead rodents scattered around an old lumber pile. The lumber had been stacked there since last summer, and evidently the rats had been using it for a shelter during the winter. When the men tackled the job of cleaning up the lumber pile Spike went along to supervise. As the rats dashed out of the pile Spike systematically grabbed, jerked, and tossed each one in the air.

According to farm experts who have studied the rodent problem a single grown rat consumes enough grain and destroys enough young poultry to cost the harboring farm an average of $5 per year. So the 20 rats which Spike destroyed in his eradication campaign the other morning saved the farm a potential $100.

Chow Puppy New Pet.

Spike isn't the only dog in this week's farm news. A fawn colored chow puppy, apparently 5 to 7 months old, was found by one of the farm residents recently. It walked into the yard of one of the homes alongside the main highway at the north edge of the farm. The men think it was lost by an auto traveler or deserted there.

It is a well mannered puppy and seems to be a purebred. It wore no collar or other identification. Local police officers were notified, but no one has claimed the dog. The men on the farm are hoping the owner will call for the puppy soon, otherwise it will be placed in a private home.

Partridges Near Farm.

A pair of Chukar partridges which were seen trotting across the highway about two miles east of the Wheaton farm caused some of the men to wonder if these could be birds which were hatched and released from the farm game bird yard two years ago.

Chukars are not native birds in this area, altho they have been hatched by a number of game breeders. The Illinois department of conservation also has released Chukars in the state. The birds released by the men on the farm in the spring of 1940 were seen a few times in the woods, then disappeared. But it is possible that they could have left the farm property and stayed in the surrounding area.

They Say We Can't Sell These Cars at These Prices
YOU TRY US AND SEE!

Competitors are taking a lot of "potshots" at us—they say we can't possibly sell these cars at the prices we quote! WELL, WE CAN! They say that DEALERS will pay the prices we offer the public! THAT'S RIGHT—THEY WILL! But we won't sell to dealers! Why we choose to sell these cars so low is OUR BUSINESS—and definitely YOUR GAIN.

AS LONG AS CARS ARE SOLD "3315" WILL SELL 'EM LOWER!

SUDDEN STREET CAR STOPS.

Chicago, March 24.—Last week I was told of an accident where a man was hit getting off a street car. He was hit the moment he stepped off of the car. He was thrown 75 feet. The driver didn't stop. The injured man died later in the hospital.

I don't know any of the circumstances surrounding the accident but it brought to mind a certain experience of my own.

I was driving down Chicago avenue in my car and approaching the rear of a street car, going in the same direction as I. It was traveling at a slow rate of speed, and as I prepared to pass the car it came to a stop. I was lucky to stop my car in time.

I feel that at many times it is hard to tell if a street car is stopping or not. They should be required by law to have stop lights on every car. The street car without stop lights is a definite traffic hazard in slippery weather.

STICKERS TOO LARGE.

Chicago, March 20.—Engineers with a thought for greater safety increased the front window vision in automobiles on an average of 22 per cent. Politicians with a reckless disregard for safety force us to put an opaque vehicle sticker, 25 per cent larger than last year, in a spot on the windshield that is vitally necessary to safe driving. How many crossing accidents can be traced to this hazard? Why was this large size picked in view of the paper shortage? Why should we have the sticker anyway? Is there a law to make its display mandatory, or, if there is, why should there be one?

C. S. MACNAIR.

USE PARKING LIGHTS.

Chicago, March 22.—During these murky mornings why do not more motorists make use of their parking lights [not headlights]? By so doing oncoming traffic has full notice of the approaching car—and the traffic behind the car has the benefit of the tail lights.

True, a wide-awake driver will see the other car even without the parking lights on, but in using the parking lights it is just another of those little things which are quite convenient for the other person even tho not absolutely essential. This practice would be an additional safety measure and if universally adopted would be to the mutual benefit of all automobilists.

EXTRA DANGERS IN NIGHT DRIVING CITED IN DEATHS

While driving westward over the Chicago avenue viaduct east of Halsted street, John A. Schilo Jr., 30 years old, 1000 North Lorel avenue, was killed recently when his automobile struck the abutment on the east end of the structure. The accident occurred at night.

During 1941, 49 persons were killed in Chicago as cars in which they were riding struck fixed objects. Out of a total of 603 fatalities for the year, 381 occurred during hours of darkness, according to Ald. George D. Kells [28th], chairman of the city council committee on traffic and public safety.

Night Driving Dangerous.

The Chicago Motor club points out that driving at night is approximately five times more dangerous than during daylight hours. Charles M. Hayes, president of the club, says:

"Bearing in mind the comparative volume of traffic at night and during the daytime, night driving is becoming increasingly hazardous. Today, one out of every 28 injuries which occur at night results in death. This is particularly alarming when it is considered that only about one-third of all driving is done at night."

Three Greatest Factors.

Safety experts are agreed that three definite factors cause the severity of night accidents:

1. Inadequate lighting.
2. The tendency of motorists to overdrive their headlights.
3. Poor vision due to uncorrected eye faults, misjudging the distance of objects ahead in artificial light, vitamin deficiency or drowsiness.

Collision with a fixed object is recognized as second only in disastrous results to striking another vehicle head-on. Most accidents involving abutments, safety islands, parked cars, telegraph poles, or similar objects result in injury or death, as well as severe damage to the car.

Gasoline Consumption Drops, but Too Slowly, Say Officials

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 28.—Gasoline consumption in Illinois, Indiana, and Michigan during the first two weeks of this month declined between 17 and 19 per cent from the total during the same weeks of last year. This is a rough estimate made by oil company representatives in conferences here this week with Petroleum Coördinator Harold L. Ickes.

Companies operating on the east coast reported that the use of motor fuel in their territories was down from 6 to 12 per cent before federal restrictions imposed last week cut gas station supplies 20 per cent.

Rumors continue that general gasoline rationing is imminent, not so much to conserve fuel as to conserve rubber now on vehicles.

Administration Dissatisfied.

The administration is not satisfied with present responses to its appeals for the public voluntarily to reduce its driving to save tires.

Joseph B. Eastman, director of the Office of Defense Transportation, told an audience in Kansas City, Mo., this week that rationing of gasoline may be an effective means of curbing nonessential use of private automobiles. In preliminary discussions in the Office of Price administration, which handles rationing, there have been suggestions that private cars receive a certain weekly fuel allowance, such as 5 or 10 gallons, and there have been suggestions that only owners whose driving is essential to community welfare or the war effort be given gasoline—like the present requirements for buying a tire.

Some inkling of what the OPA is aiming at was contained in its announcement this week of April quotas for tires and tire recaps. It said that the April allowances, if continued in succeeding months, would maintain rubber on 5 million of the nation's 30 million passenger cars.

Hoarders, Beware!

Eastman, speaking before a meeting of shippers, mentioned as a probability a requisitioning of unused tires, whatever their present ownership, for reassignment to essential uses. Hoarding preceded the government order of last December halting all tire sales pending rationings.

"It is possible also," he continued, "that various vehicles and their tires which are not now used for essential purposes may ultimately have to be requisitioned and rationed in a similar way."

For transportation of workers to large munitions plants, Eastman said that plans are being perfected for trailers of special type which can accommodate large numbers, and for conversion by similar construction of motor vehicles which are not now used for essential purposes.

Driving Is Reduced Slowly.

While the ordinary family automobile faces these threats—no rubber, curtailed fuel or no fuel, and possible confiscation—the average owner has not reduced his driving as quickly nor as much as was expected by federal agencies. The American Automobile association was warned against inciting a panic that would cause some owners to use their cars extravagantly on a "here today, gone tomorrow" philosophy.

The bureau of mines, in an unofficial survey, reported that gasoline consumption in the United States in January was 12 per cent above the same month of a year ago. This was attributed to increased industrial activity, mainly arms production, and to the public's disbelief of the rubber shortage rather than to any abandoned extravagance. For February, the bureau reported national consumption had dropped to 1 per cent above the same month of 1941, not from tire failures but due to an awareness of the rubber shortage.

It's Not a Rosy Future.

In Springfield [Ill.] last week, the latest figures on gasoline consumption were based on February tax collections. These collections were for fuel consumed in January and, like the national figure, were about the same as a year ago. However, highway department engineers found that the number of cars on the roads is shrinking according to traffic counts which are indicative but too sparce to be conclusive.

The latest estimates here predict that only 1 million passenger cars will drop by the wayside for lack of tires this year but that 12 million more will be laid up next year with all but 5 million of the present 30 million cars still rolling by the end of 1944. This forecast discounts any relief that might be obtained from the tardy synthetic rubber program. The officials are not hopeful.

NEWS AND VIEWS

[Advice will be given in this department from time to time on how to make the family car last longer.]

Spring is in the air and it's time to give the family car a check up before warm weather sets in. First of all be sure to save your anti-freeze solution, because it seems likely that preventive of winter trouble will be hard to get next year.

Letting the anti-freeze out of the radiator often is not a job for an amateur—a large part of the precious solution may escape before the amateur can do anything about it. Consequently, it is advisable to have your service station man or dealer do the job.

After the anti-freeze has been removed have the radiator and all parts of the cooling system carefully checked and cleaned. It is advisable to have the radiator reverse flushed so as to remove all rust and sediment accumulated during winter driving. A rust inhibiter put in the clean water when the radiator is filled is a good investment.

Next change your oil to the type recommended by your manufacturer for summer driving. You will need a heavier oil for driving in hot summer weather than was used during the winter. Change the lubrication in the differential and transmission.

The engine should have a tune up. Spark plugs at least should be cleaned and it's good economy to have those showing signs of wear replaced. Good spark plugs aid gasoline economy.

Even tho it appears driving speed will be reduced substantially thruout the nation, unless your car is brand new it pays dividends to see that the brakes are in perfect condition. Besides promoting safety, brakes that work right save on tires.

Of course you will want to do everything possible to prolong the life of your tires. Your dealer or service station has mechanical equipment which enables you to be sure your wheels are properly aligned. When wheels are only slightly out of alignment, severe damage may be done to the tires. It is probably time to criss-cross your wheels. In doing this be sure the spare is given its turn of duty. Putting the spare to work will help extend the over all life of your tires.

The Tragedy of Modern Co-Eds

By LLOYD WENDT

ILEANA is a girl of surpassing loveliness, by all odds the most popular young woman in her university. She is entertainment chairman of her sorority, she led the junior prom. The colors dipped to her at the military ball, she won the rhumba prize at the country club. The men who sigh for a look from her could man a warship. Her schedule of dances and dinner dates looks like the agenda of the USO. She is the darling of her senior class, the envy of the juniors, and an inspiration to the freshmen.

When Ileana came to college she brought a high school scholastic record that set the faculty hearts to throbbing. She elected difficult courses and plunged into her studies with vigor. You could always expect to find Ileana in the library, or cheerfully carving crayfish in the laboratory, or snuggled over a book in the dormitory. Ileana's freshman marks naturally were very good and her teachers thought of her as a paragon of all the virtues.

Midway in her second year the teachers perceived a change in Ileana. She was worrying about something. Soon she began to exhibit a distaste for her studies, and finally she deliberately refused to study at all. Always an attractive girl, Ileana had never lacked opportunity for dates, but she had not previously given the boys much opportunity. Now she reversed her attitude. She threw herself into a whirl of social activity with the same energy she had once pursued her scholarship. Her life became an endless series of parties, dances, and men. Her escapades became the talk of the school. She was proud of the fact that her social life left her too weary to prepare her lessons, and she openly snoozed in classes.

When the teachers protested and pointed to her past fine record Ileana was defiant and scornful. She was having too much fun to worry about work. Committees were more important than classes. Ileana was campused and scolded, penalized and threatened with expulsion, but her answer was more parties, more dates, and more defiance. Thru it all, the faculty marveled, she became more beautiful and more adept in the social graces that kept the lovesick swains at her pretty heels.

Ileana will be graduated on the strength of her early scholarship and her native ability to catch an idea just in time to save herself. Her picture will occupy a full page in the yearbook. Already she has been voted the all-American co-ed by the men of two other colleges. But Ileana is unhappy.

There was Louise. Louise was one of those slim, willowy girls the fashion model bureaus are always hunting. Her hair was chestnut and her eyes were blue, and she had the kind of teeth odontologists dream of. As a trim young freshman Louise could stop an interfraternity softball game merely by walking past. And she was brilliant. Smarter than Ileana, if anything.

Louise wanted to be a chemical engineer, an ambition that somewhat startled the faculty advisers but one they thoroly approved. She submerged herself in her studies, rejected all dates and parties as something frivolous, and came up with some of the finest English compositions and laboratory experiments the school had seen. In her sophomore year Louise's interest in scholastic matters even increased. She had no time for the beauty shop, she wore enormous horn-rim glasses to protect her eyes, she affected mannish clothes that hid her trim figure, she forgot about lipstick, rouge, and manicures.

By the time Louise was a senior she was often mistaken by the students for one of the sterner members of the faculty. She had exhausted the undergraduate chemistry classes and was being admitted to graduate courses. She was rarely seen with young people, never had a date. Even the house mother felt constrained to suggest from time to time that Louise watch her nails, shampoo her hair more frequently, and think a little about a good time. But Louise merely replied severely that she didn't have time to be a woman; her studies and her career were too important. Sometimes Louise sits a little wistfully at her window watching the softball teams.

> ● "There is really nothing antagonistic between femininity and intellectualism. A girl can and ought to have both. But the colleges only recently are beginning to recognize the problem."

Alice has the corner room on the third floor. It's hung with fuzzy dolls and pennants, an inspirational motto, and pictures of Galileo, Clark Gable, and Rabindranath Tagore. It's a good place for a bull session where the girls can get together to talk about their dates, the latest exploits of Ileana, or seek Alice's help on a Spanish translation.

When Alice came to college no one paid her particular attention. Her green eyes got a second look from some of the men, but somehow she wasn't the sweater girl type, and her skirt always made you think of something you forgot to send to the cleaner's. Alice had time for study, and she made the most of it. But she wanted dates and fun, too, so she took a hint from the beauty columns and became a customer of the Purple salon.

In physical education Alice learned a few things about poise. She took a course in costume design, because she knew there was something wrong with the way she wore her clothes. She got A-plus in design, and something better when the boys began looking about them in the coke den. Alice was studious and scrupulous, and she learned how to make the most of those green eyes. It wasn't long before Alice had all the dates that she could use, having picked up a few rebounds from Louise as a starter. To tell the truth, Alice was more interested in her studies than in social life, but the more she went out the more she enjoyed it. College men were simple souls, but nice to have around, and Alice practiced all the feminine wiles she knew, and learned new ones, to insure a good supply handy. Then Alice fell in love. She's going to work until the war's over, then they'll be married.

Every one knows Alice is a happy young woman, and she's mighty useful. She's been in minor trouble just enough to help a girl in a worse jam. She knows what one ought to wear and what shade of rouge is best for what complexion. She can always produce an extra boy, she can produce an idea at least on the latest dance step, and she knows enough to help a friend put out a good B paper on short notice. Alice isn't exactly pretty, and she's not quite brilliant, but when the yearbook comes out you'll find Alice a full-page girl, too—the Purple's ideal co-ed. And it's not because her boy friend's the editor, either.

You'll find Ileana, Louise, and Alice in great numbers in every college. Ileana will usually be the faculty problem child. Louise is pointed out as the college grind. The (Continued on page eight.)

Cargo Fleets—Key to America's Success in War!

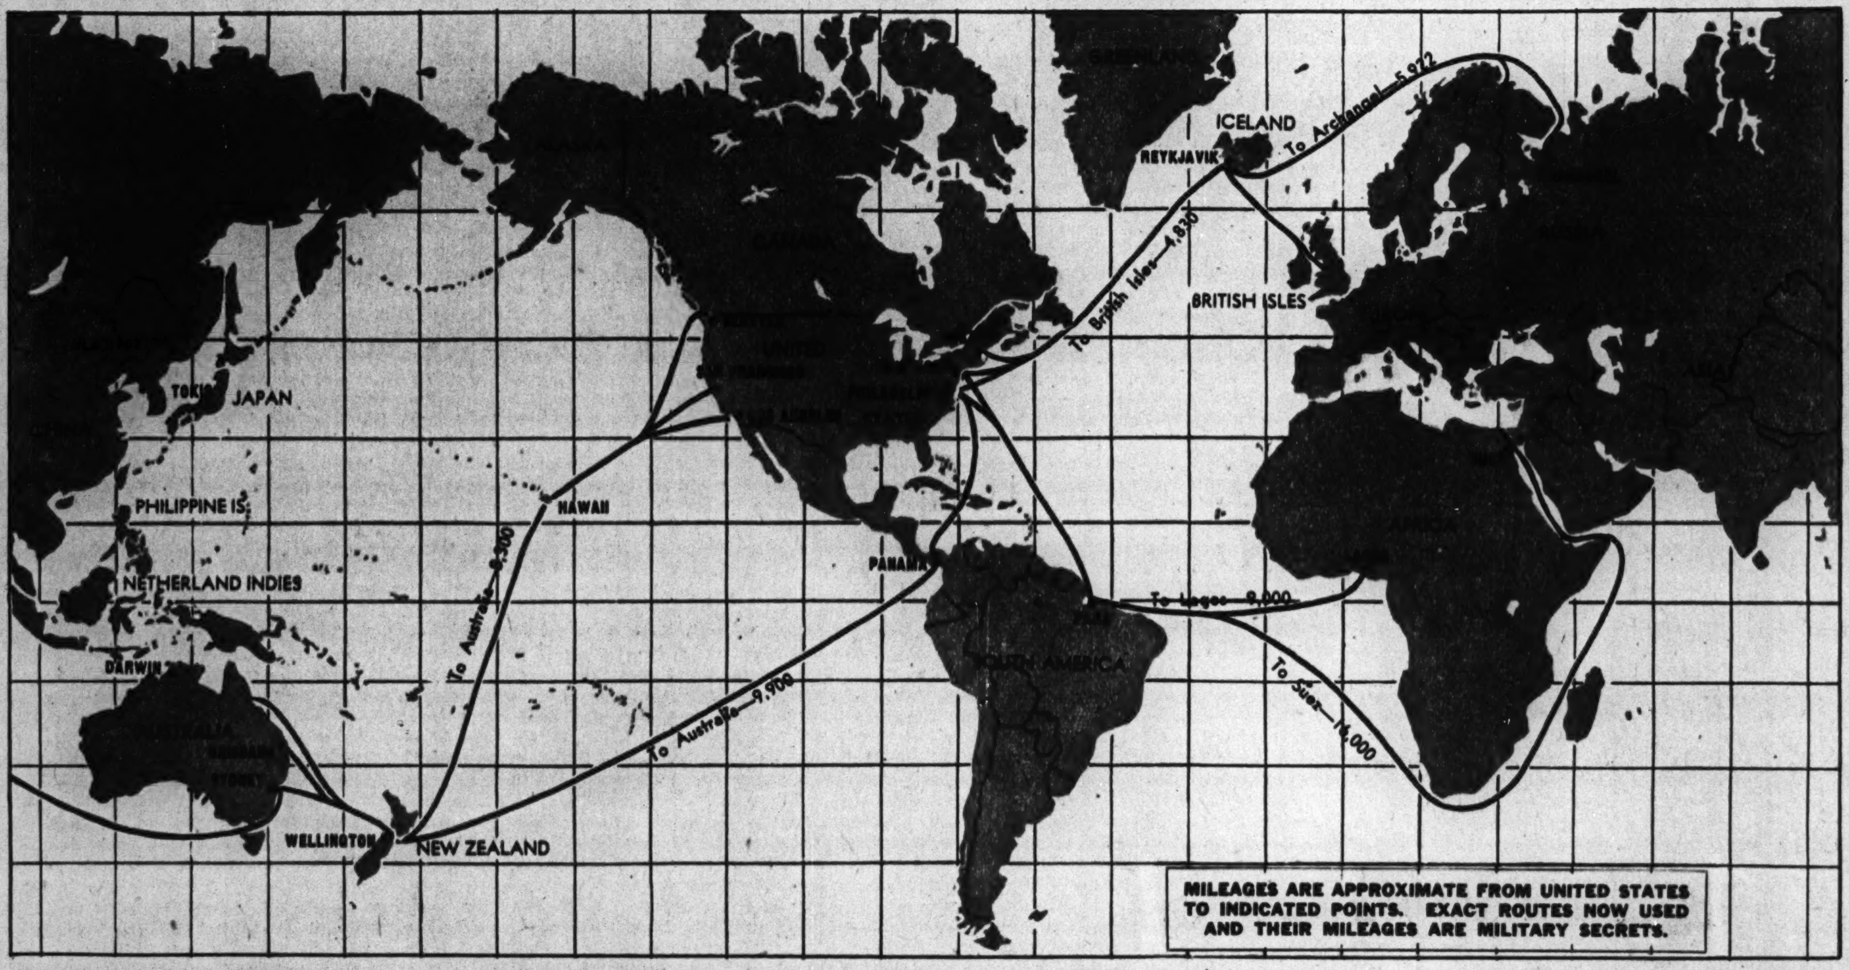
Our Supply Lines Are Long

By STANLEY JOHNSTON

THE UNITED STATES is waging war against enemies that must be fought far afield from our own continental borders, and consequently the nation's war efforts and success must depend in the final analysis upon the fleets of cargo vessels that will carry men, machines, munitions, and food to the battle zones. Without the vessels, even tho the nation produces on schedule the vast supplies of arms ordered by the President, these arms will merely be stacked up on our shores and have no effect on the war.

The President and his advisers know this, as is shown by the demand that the shipyards of the country "raise their sights" and produce 8 million tons of merchant ships in 1942 and 10 million tons in 1943. These quantities compare with the 1,100,000 tons built in 1941—with virtually every shipyard and shipway in the nation working at full capacity. The easy portion of the new enormous cargo ship building program has been completed. This consists of deciding upon needs, allocating funds in congress to provide for these needs, and placing of orders for boat building.

The difficult part, as every shipbuilder in the world knows, comes when it is necessary to convert contracts into vessels of steel and iron, provide them with engines, crews, and all the vital appurtenances of seagoing craft. This is a task to strain even the mighty resources of our own industry.



Map of American supply lines, showing approximate courses to the world's battle fronts.

The immensity of the program is best understood when it is known that all the cargo-carrying vessels of the world—some 34 million tons of ocean or "blue water" ships—would not be enough to satisfy the needs of America and other united nations. These needs are now placed at 40 million tons.

But the United States, Great Britain, and other members of the united nations control only 23 million tons of the 34 million total. The rest are Axis owned and operated or otherwise useless to the United States. In reality the task ahead for the United States virtually amounts to doubling all the cargo vessels now in allied hands.

The job is, however, even greater than this. The total tonnage required must include sufficient new ships to raise the operating tonnage to 40 million despite ravages of Axis surface raiders, airplanes, and submarines. These have cost Britain an average of 4 million tons a year since the war started. (In May last the President stated: "The Germans are sinking ships twice as fast as the combined U. S.-British yards are building new ones.") It will be necessary for us to reach the 40 million ton figure against the constant drain of ship sinkings—due now to increase since Japan has entered the war with Italy and Germany.

The President's call for 18 million more tons of ships in the next two years will just about raise the united nations' totals to the 40 million ton figure. At this time the 23 million tons of seagoing freighters owned by the allies consist of 15½ million tons of British and associated nations and 7,500,000 of the American mercantile marine. The 23 million plus 18 million would give 41 million tons, but this fails to take into account the losses we will suffer during the two-year building period.

Nothing stated here is news to our enemies. The Axis powers understand well that the Atlantic and Pacific must be bridged by our own supply lines if we are to carry conflict to them. They know, too, that this bridging will be done finally with vessels that have not yet been constructed, and they are racing against time to try to expand their frontiers and smash the outposts of the allied nations before this bridge can be built and put to use. The Axis hope apparently is to seize now, fortify, and prepare to stand us off in the future.

Before going further into the wherefores of our ship requirements let us consider the reasons why we need 40 million tons of ships in action before we can begin to make our power felt. Look at the accompanying map of the world. On it you see routes of seaways extending from key American ports to the battlegrounds of the world. These routes do not follow the shortest possible great circle courses. Instead they wind across the world's waters along routes that are the safest possible. Their winding fails to take into account distance.

For example, the lines from the United States to the Australian war zone extend south to New Zealand and then west to the island continent. From Australia, before the recent Japanese successes, they bent northward again to the Netherlands Indies, Singapore, and Burma—a distance between 9,000 and 10,000 miles, depending upon the exact spot toward which supplies were dispatched.

Eastward from the Atlantic coast there are two main routes. One of these follows the peacetime steamer lanes northward but deviates off toward Greenland and Iceland and finally arrives at England from the north. Another shoot of this lane continues on from Iceland to Archangel in the Russian White sea. The British line is 4,000 miles in length, the Russian one from 1,200 to 1,500 miles more.

The second major route from the eastern United States heads south to the city of Para, Brazil, on the "elbow" of South America. From there one half of a dividing course goes to Lagos on Africa's waistline. The other extends on southward around the Cape of Good Hope, into the Indian ocean, and finally into the Red sea and Suez. The shortest of these routes to Africa is 5,000 miles long, and the longer water route to Suez is 13,000 miles.

These are the longest supply lines ever established by any powers or combinations of powers in a major war. In the past it has been held that supply lines more than 2,000 miles in length could not be maintained. This has proved out in Russia, where the length of German supply lines was the chief factor that caused German forces to fall back to "winter defense zones" and relieved pressure upon Russian forces. Whether we can maintain our enormously long sea lines remains to be seen. Our military experts say they must be kept open.

The U. S. S. Hamlin, a C-3 cargo ship, is launched at San Francisco. It is being converted into a navy auxiliary ship.

If we are to send armies of two million men each to Africa and to Australia, for example, we will need at least 20 million tons of ships for this purpose alone. You suggest, however, that we already possess a pool of 23 million tons. Quite so, but that existing pool is not sufficient to carry on the following jobs in which it is now engaged, to wit:

1. Transport of 75 per cent of all the food for the population of the British Isles, which now numbers 45 million persons.

2. Carrying of essential raw materials to England to supply British industry engaged in war production.

3. Transport of finished weapons to England, Africa, and Australia.

4. Maintenance of essential supplies of raw materials to the United States for our own war effort.

5. Carrying of essential manufactured goods to dependent countries such as South and Central America, Australia, and South Africa, where there is little or no home industry.

None of these can be stopped even after we put our expeditionary forces into battle. So the vessels that will transport our armies overseas and will keep them properly reënforced, equipped, and supplied must come from new building.

The total facilities now available for shipbuilding have been surveyed by federal agencies. Careful studies made jointly by British and American authorities show that the major building program must be American.

The British and allies had some 20,000,000 tons of shipping when the war began two years and six months ago. Losses to date have been about 10 million tons in sunk and damaged ships. These losses have gone as high as 500,000 tons in peak months. Nevertheless the British have been able to keep their tonnage total at 15 million as of today by the following methods:

1. Capture of enemy ships.

2. Purchase of ships in world markets.

3. Transfer of American ships to other registry and making them available to English charter.

4. Drawing in British ships from far-flung corners of the world and sacrificing commercial work on which they were engaged.

Today all these expedients have ended. The British, as they themselves admit, have reached the end of their expedient tether. Any new acquisitions must come from their own shipyards. These, however, had suffered from neglect during 19 years before this war began. Amalgamations, introduction of faster and more economical ships, and other factors had caused many British yards to close. These were stripped and allowed to rust away. Skilled workers grew too old and few younger men were trained.

The net result is that today the British annual production of new ships on the British Isles cannot exceed 1,250,000 tons. The rest of their yards are busy with repairing and refitting damaged ships, keeping their naval vessels at fighting strength, and adding to their grand fleet strength in accordance with the British naval expansion program.

The British production, then, will barely offset a minimum sinking rate that the exigencies of war have forced planning authorities to accept. In other words, the new British building will not even replace the ships that are expected to be lost during the year to Axis actions.

Our own shipbuilding picture is not a bright one. At enormous cost and great waste we commenced a vast shipbuilding program in 1917 and 1918. This program hardly paid out, because the facilities for building ships were barely completed before World War I. ended and we called a halt.

The halt was almost complete. Our new building dwindled away until the shipyards of the country—those able to survive at all—were engaged merely in repair work. And this condition continued for a period of 10 years prior to 1936, when the first revival began here.

At that time the Maritime commission placed orders with our yards to build 50 new ships a year for 10 years. The annual tonnage was to be 400,000, or about 8,000 tons to each ship.

There were only 10 functioning shipyards in the United States when that first maritime order was given. And these 10 had only 46 shipways—the construction docks in which hulls are completed and then launched for final fitting—in operation. But the 50-per-year order was a starter. Closed yards were reopened, and then came British orders for new cargo vessels as Great Britain entered the war against Germany. The boomlet was becoming a full-sized boom.

• • •

Then came the Maritime commission's program of 1940, and now the President's outline for 1942 and 1943. Even today, however, we have only 40 shipyards open, with a total of 275 shipways capable of building a 300-foot ocean-going ship. This is about the smallest size that is considered practical for blue water work. These facilities will, of course, have to be expanded enormously again to carry out the building of 8 million tons of shipping this year and 10 million tons next year.

The chronology of the shipbuilding revival runs something like this:

1936—Maritime commission ordered 50 ships a year for 10 years; total tonnage, 400,000 a year.

1941—Maritime commission ordered 1,400 of three classes, average about 9,000 tons; total tonnage, 12,600,000.

1942—President Roosevelt ordered this upped to 2,000 ships; total tonnage, 18,000,000.

This is not a series of separate programs. In each case the foregoing programs were included in larger conceptions. The result is that President Roosevelt's 1942 and 1943 shipbuilding plans include all the earlier programs plus vast additions as deemed essential by him. In other words, the total number of cargo ships that is planned for our war effort is 2,000 ships, not the sum of all those listed herewith.

Let us assume for one minute that the 275 shipways now existing in the United States must carry this load alone. Actually there is some doubt on this point. Many authorities say that entirely new shipyards can be opened and put into productive stride soon enough to assist the nation in building the 18 million tons of ships required by the end of 1943.

But, assuming that the existing facilities alone must do all the work, it is obvious that these 275 shipways must turn out just over seven ships each during the 24 months of 1942 and 1943. This is an average of about three and a half months to each ship, a time limit that has never been reached for blue water vessels of comparable tonnages. The swiftest jobs ever done on ships of from 7,000 to 9,000 tons each is five and a half months. But in this instance—with governmental push behind the shipbuilders—the old record may be broken.

The 275 shipways are entirely separate and apart from the shipways used for our expanding naval program. The naval building is being done in the country's best shipyards and shipways, but these are in addi-

MILLIONS ARE SLOWLY CUTTING CAVITIES INTO THE EXPOSED, SOFTER PARTS OF THEIR TEETH

Scientific research has proved that this damage is caused by regular brushing with dentifrices containing abrasives. Clinical studies show that 8 out of 10 adults examined risk this injury because the softer part of one or more teeth is left exposed (usually due to shrinking gums) with no hard enamel to protect it. You can avoid this trouble by changing to Teel Liquid Dentifrice, because it contains absolutely no abrasives.

NEW DENTAL RESEARCH SHOWS HOW TO SAVE YOUR TEETH FROM THIS INJURY

Change at Once to Liquid Dentifrice!
It Beautifies Your Teeth Safely—Without Abrasives

It's a scientific fact: Abrasives contained in dentifrices are now causing millions of people to slowly injure their precious teeth.

These abrasives consist of particles so small you can't see or feel them—yet they are so hard that water will not dissolve them.

As you brush these abrasive particles back and forth, they gradually wear away the softer, exposed part of your teeth.

You can save your teeth from this appalling injury by changing to the revolutionary new dentifrice for brushing teeth—Teel.

Not a paste—not a powder—Teel is a ruby-clear LIQUID containing absolutely no abrasives. Tests shows that it cannot injure even the softer part of your teeth.

How Teel Reveals Beauty of Teeth

Teel uses a new-type, patented cleansing discovery that bursts into thousands of tiny, surging bubbles in the mouth which instantly go to work to help remove the daily accumulation of decaying food particles and dulling surface film. Thus your teeth look so much whiter, more thrillingly beautiful.

Also, Teel's amazing action gives your whole mouth a glorious beauty bath—a refreshing clean "feel." It helps sweeten bad breath. A few drops of Teel in ½ glass of water is delightful as a mouth wash. And Teel's grand taste sensation makes a real hit with children.

Start This Safe Liquid Way Today

Teel is easy to use and so economical. Get a bottle today at any drug, department or 10¢ store and follow this safe, new-day way in tooth cleansing. If you feel that your teeth need occasional scouring or polishing, follow special, easy directions on the Teel carton. And visit your dentist regularly for professional care. Procter & Gamble.

IT SEEMS THERE ARE TWO ARMENIANS . . . .

In 1935 Rouben Mamoulian's name was linked with Marlene Dietrich . . .

In 1934 it had been linked with Garbo, whom he directs here.

LOOKING AT HOLLYWOOD

with JOHN CHAPMAN

Hollywood.

THIS TOWN, whose collection of people is undoubtedly the most unusual and possibly the most valuable in the world, seems to have two Armenians. There may be more than that, but the two I am thinking about—Rouben Mamoulian and William Saroyan—are the only ones I can think of who count. They are friends and they admire each other, yet you couldn't find a more different pair of guys.

One is serious, hard-working, fairly highbrow; the other is impish, easy-going, and an intellectual bad boy to whom work is nothing at all. One has only recently discovered comedy, and finds he likes it; the other has been a comedian all his life.

Mamoulian was born in Tiflis 43 years ago, with a banker for a father and a mother who headed the Armenian theater in that city. Saroyan was born 33 years ago in San Francisco and is by birthright an American—but by family connection is as Armenian as the rug peddler of fable. Mamoulian grew up all over Europe, with plenty of dough for schooling in Paris and summers in Switzerland; Saroyan grew up in San Francisco public schools and is an ex-messenger boy. The hero of his first movie is a messenger boy, and Mickey Rooney probably will play the part.

Mamoulian, having gone for comedy in the new Gene Tierney-Henry Fonda "Rings on Her Fingers," likes the stuff and plans to go for more. This is a change, for his most notable work as a director on both stage and screen has been in drama and spectacle. He directed the New York production of "Porgy" and "Porgy and Bess"; in Hollywood he made the first full length technicolor picture, "Becky Sharp," and last season got more color and spectacle than drama in a Ty Power remake of Valentino's "Blood and Sand."

• • •

Rouben, tall, gentle, heavily spectacled, and serious-faced, is not happy about the state of the stage—but he isn't offering any cures.

"Plays," he says, "are like pancakes now; you eat them hot and they're good, but they're no good when they cool off."

Mamoulian knew a lot about America long before he came here in 1923 to direct the American Opera company and the Eastman theater in Rochester, for he was accustomed to reading Poe, Bret Harte, and Mark Twain in Russian. His first love affair was with a girl named Maruch in a Harte story. When the 1917 revolution drove the Mamoulians to Paris, Rouben's favorite literature was French reprints of the Buffalo Bill dime novels.

Mamoulian can be called a highbrow, for he has studied in good schools and universities in Tiflis, Moscow, and Paris. (His father wanted him to be a criminal lawyer.) But he is a pushover for a detective story, and it was his craving for criminal fiction that got him interested in movies in a peculiar way.

WILLIAM SAROYAN

Rouben inherited show business from his mother. He is fond of recalling that, whereas most Americans think of Armenians as a mistreated people whom we used to give benefits for, his mother once gave a benefit for Americans. In Paris in 1906 she organized a concert for the benefit of victims of the San Francisco earthquake, and her effort brought her a letter of thanks from President Theodore Roosevelt. Well, Rouben inherited show business, and when he was 24 he directed his first English play, "The Beating on the Door," in London. The critics all yelped about a new technique in lighting, tempo, and mood, and George Eastman signed him up for the Rochester job.

In 1926 he went to New York's Theater guild and in 1927 directed his first Broadway play, the unforgettable "Porgy." When George Gershwin made an opera out of "Porgy" Mamoulian directed it, too. He understands that this season's remarkable revival of "Porgy and Bess" is using his basic scheme. In the late '20s and early '30s Rouben Mamoulian was hot stuff in the New York theater, and his assignments weren't bad. He drew "Marco Millions," "R. U. R.," "Wings Over Europe," and "A Farewell to Arms" among others.

He was a busy stage director, and he had no particular interest in movies—but he did love detective stories. His idea of a fine time was to buy a box at the Hippodrome, which had by then degenerated into a vaudeville-picture house, and go there and read pulp fiction. A whole box didn't cost much, and he could stretch out and smoke. It was lighted, so he could read. If a vaudeville act interested him momentarily he could stop reading long enough to listen. One night a movie snuck up on him, and before he knew it he was fascinated. It was a picture called "Submarine," and he thought it was a wonderful job of direction.

After the picture was over he went to the back of the house and asked people who directed it. Nobody knew, or cared. The Hippodrome just ran movies and didn't care about screen credits. Finally Mamoulian located a box office lad who happened to know who the director was—a fellow named Frank Capra. This was the first time Mamoulian had ever thought of movies.

The movies thought of him in

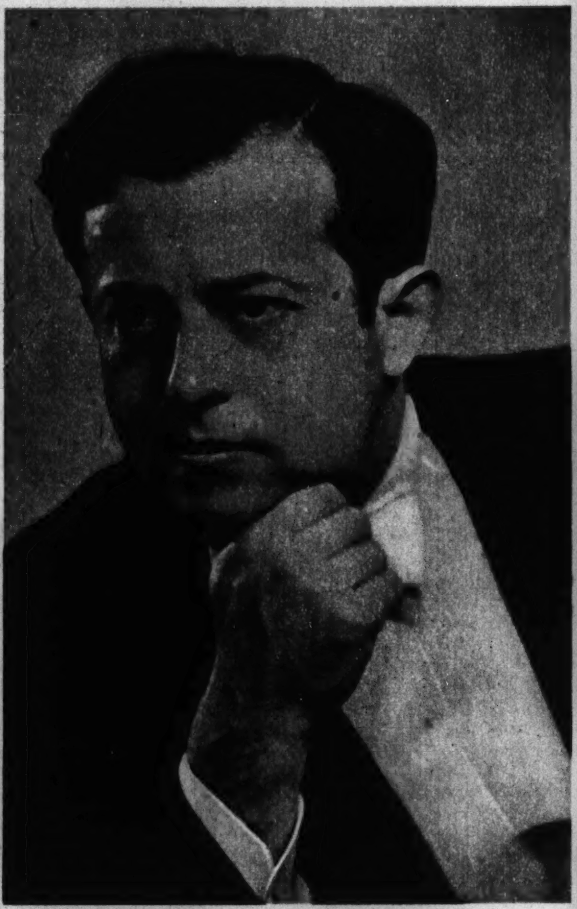
YOUR SOUVENIR PAGE OF THIRD PERFORMANCE IN W-G-N'S OPERETTA CONTEST FINALS

You've Heard All Three Operettas; NOW PICK THE BEST



HENRY WEBER, musical director of W-G-N.

THE THREE prize winners in W-G-N's quest for a great American operetta now have been broadcast. Last night operetta No. 3, known by its working title of "America Loves a Melody," was presented over W-G-N and the Mutual network, with Miss Marion Claire and Walter Cassel starring. Two of its song hits and a summary of its story appear on this page.

Preceding last night's performance the other winners, operetta No. 1 ("The Gandy Dancer") and operetta No. 2 ("The Lead Soldier") were presented on the evenings of March 14 and 21 respectively.

Now the contest for listeners begins. Within the next 10 days you are invited to send in your preference as to the best of the three operettas, give it a title, and write a letter of 50 words or less telling why you feel the operetta of your choice should be judged the grand prize winner.

To the listener whose title and letter are judged the best will go a first prize of $1,000. Other prizes will be divided as follows: Second prize, $500; third prize, $100; next 10, $50 each; next 20, $10 each; next 40, $5 each.

But not only will the listeners get prize money; they will be responsible for awarding to the composers whose work is voted best a grand prize of $5,000. The three winning composers already have been awarded $1,000 prizes for their preliminary victories.

On April 11 the winning operetta, with its new name, will be presented over W-G-N and the Mutual network. This will be the grand climax of a contest that was announced last fall and that by the deadline on Feb. 10 had brought hundreds of completed works from amateur and professional composers.

According to the rules of the contest you listeners may send in only one entry. You may use the coupon at the bottom of the page or any sheet of paper, giving the same information. To refresh your memory as to the first two operettas the following brief summaries are given:

OPERETTA NO. 1—Known as "The Gandy Dancer," this is the story of a young West Point graduate who thru the villainy of a friend is driven into the solitary life. He is a track worker on the transcontinental line being completed in Utah in 1869. Fate links his path with that of the girl he thought he had lost, and when he gets a chance to win the track-laying race for his company he discovers that his prize is complete vindication of his past actions and the promise of marriage from the girl.

OPERETTA NO. 2—Also laid in the Civil war decade, "The Lead Soldier" tells the story of a southern girl who inherits some lead mines in Galena, Ill. When war comes and her brother joins the Confederate army she finds herself forced to live in what she feels is a hostile community. The man she loves is an officer in the northern army. But near the end of the war she finds that the man she loves had saved her brother's life, and the hurts of war are forgotten.

(In voting for winner this will be known as Operetta No. 3)

Casting the chorus line of a New York musical show.

THE STORY opens on the stage of a Broadway theater where rehearsals are about to begin for a musical comedy. The time is some time before Sunday morning, Dec. 7, 1941.

Steve Hayes, a young musician, arrives an hour early for the rehearsal of the show and finds that Pop, backstage custodian, is the only person at the theater. Steve sits down at a piano and begins to improvise. His work is not the musical comedy type, but shows his years of training at the Paris conservatory.

Soon Della Bronson, a young singer, arrives for the rehearsal. She also is too early, and to help pass the time she goes over to the piano where Steve is playing and starts to sing. Steve tells her to stop singing. Then he looks up and sees her and stops playing abruptly. He apologizes for being rude and they both talk about their reasons for being in the cast.

Steve wants to write something great and be able to play it in a concert hall. Della, daughter of a famous musical comedy queen, merely wants to get a chance to work on Broadway, and this looks like her opportunity.

George Brandon, producer-director, is next to arrive, and soon the complete cast, chorus, and orchestra are on the stage. Brandon tells them that their musical comedy is going to be different from most, as the backer, J. Atherton Van Raleigh, wants the show to feature the music of unknown composers. From hundreds of scores Brandon has selected the outstanding songs, and these are to be woven together into a finished production.

The whole idea disgusts Steve, but he needs the job. Finally, with the help of Della, he rewrites one of his classical compositions into a hit tune, "America Loves a Melody," for the show. Brandon likes the number and arranges for it to be the final number, a duet with Steve and Della. Then Pop appears on the stage again to announce that he is really the play's backer, Van Raleigh, and that he has financed the play just so that Steve would find himself in music and realize that songs are just as great and can mean a lot more to the public than classical compositions. Pop tells the cast he also had planned the show to make an opening for Della, whose mother he had known. Now Pop knows that both Steve and Della are on their way to stardom, and as the curtain goes down he learns they are also planning to be married.

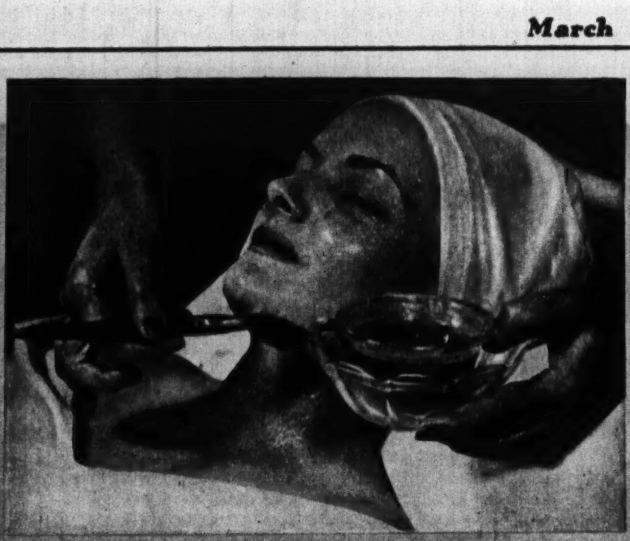
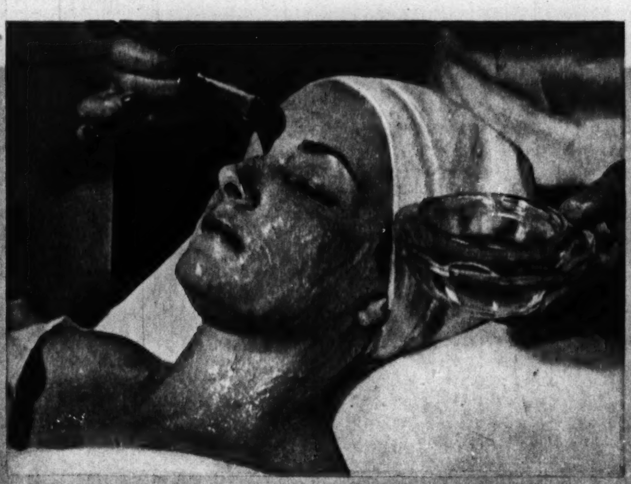
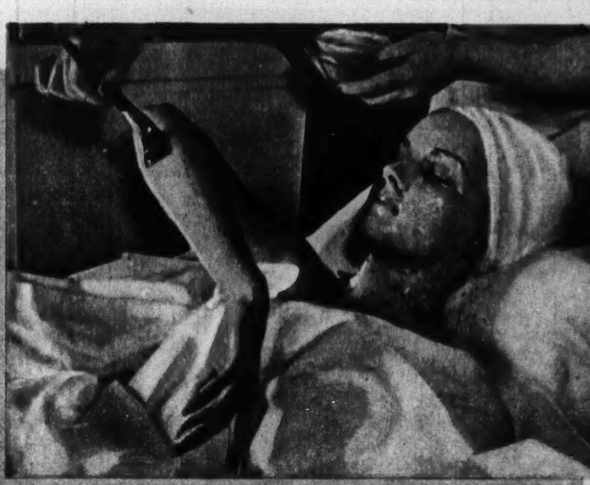
1 A superlative reconditioning treatment for the winter-ravaged complexion begins with cleansing and progresses to massage . . .



2 Then warm, rich, beautifully fragrant oil is applied to the parched surface with a soft brush. It feels good!



3 The rich oil is brushed over neck and face, even over eyelids, where the thin skin needs lubrication . . .



4 While the oil is setting, the sandpapery skin of the elbows gets its share of the same soothing, softening treatment . . .

POUR OIL ON TROUBLED FACES!

By ELEANOR NANGLE

BEST SPRING soother we know of for the winter-ravaged skin is one, or two, or six, oil mask treatments. We've seen the sandpaper roughness vanish after one such treatment, and we've seen chronically dry, crêpy skin become moist and satiny as a rose petal after two!

The treatment itself is lovely and luxurious. The tired woman with tormented complexion finds it more than an external beautifier. It soothes the troubled spirit and relaxes the taut nerves and proves once again that one hour in the treatment chair is worth every penny it costs.

The tender process begins with cleansing, moves on to gentle massage for slipping contour, and is climaxed by a unique oil masking that erases every sign of roughness and brings up a soft underglow that is radiance at its most flattering.

The oil used is incredibly rich, heated to comfortable warmth, and wonderfully fragrant, with a scent that deserves special mention. It suggests fresh peaches!

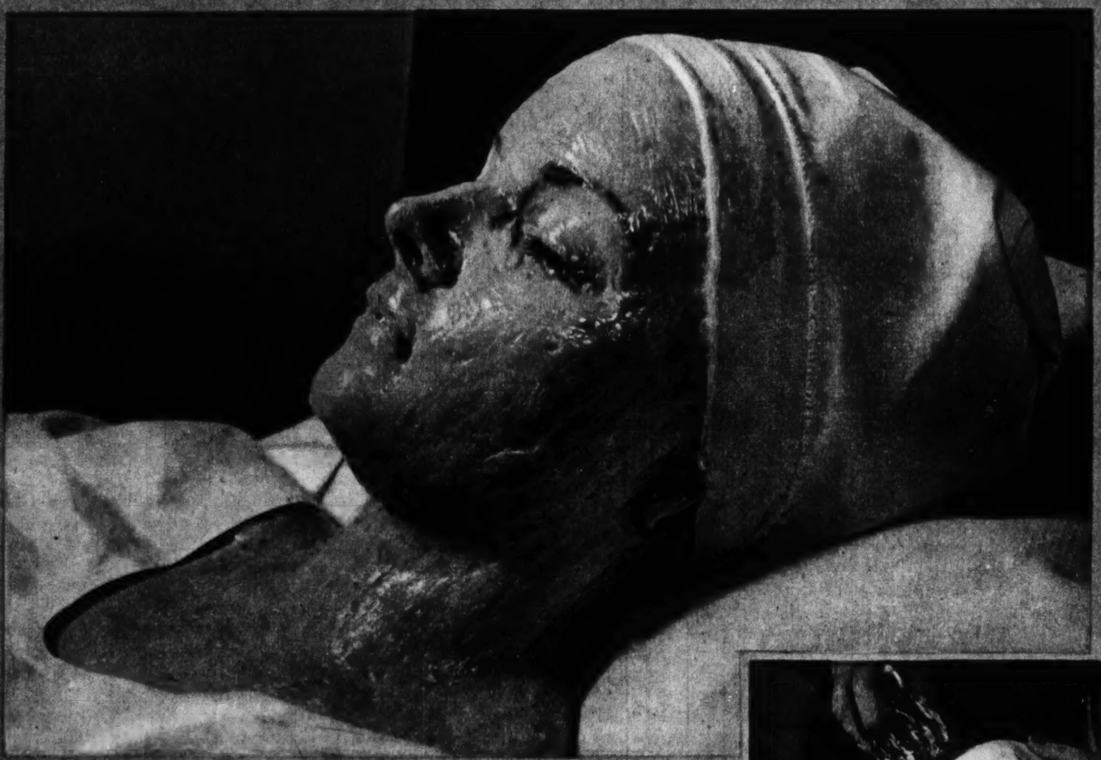
This oil is applied with a soft brush all over the neck and face, even unto the eyelids. The parched skin seems to lap it up. The heavy mask of oil sets but doesn't dry hard; beneath the fragrant, warm mask the moist, beautifully lubricated skin seems to be getting the coddling of its life.

The time the mask takes to set is an utterly peaceful, cozy period in which most patrons slide off blissfully to sleep. This is where the complete relaxation comes in—a factor as important to beauty as the skin treatment itself! If rough elbows are a problem—and they usually are—the elbows are oiled and masked, too, so that the corrugated skin there can have its share of beautification.

The mask is removed with a pliable spatula; then comes the bracing tie-up. Pads saturated in lotion are placed over the eyes, the entire face is swathed in ice-cold cloths, and over this strange sheath the operator gives an invigorating massage with ice. It's the most wonderful, brisk awakening for the skin that has been so warm and oil-laden.

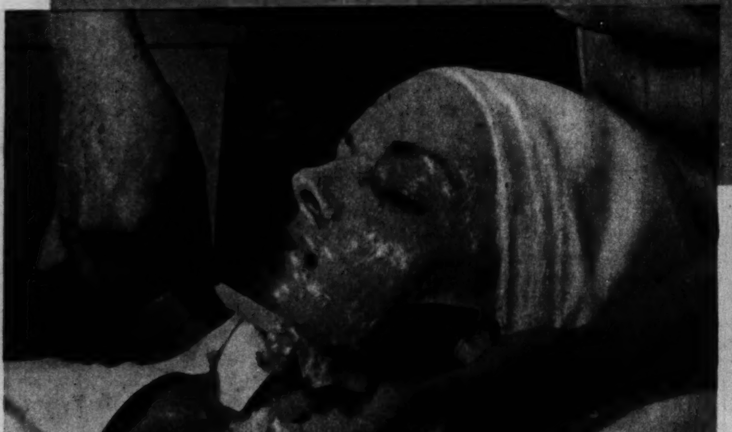
The skin emerges from all this more beautifully soft than you ever dreamed it could be. The flakiness has disappeared, the sandpapery roughness has vanished. It's as tho winter, with its destructive drying force, had never been.

For information telephone Eleanor Nangle, Superior 0200. Inclose self-addressed, stamped envelope for written reply.

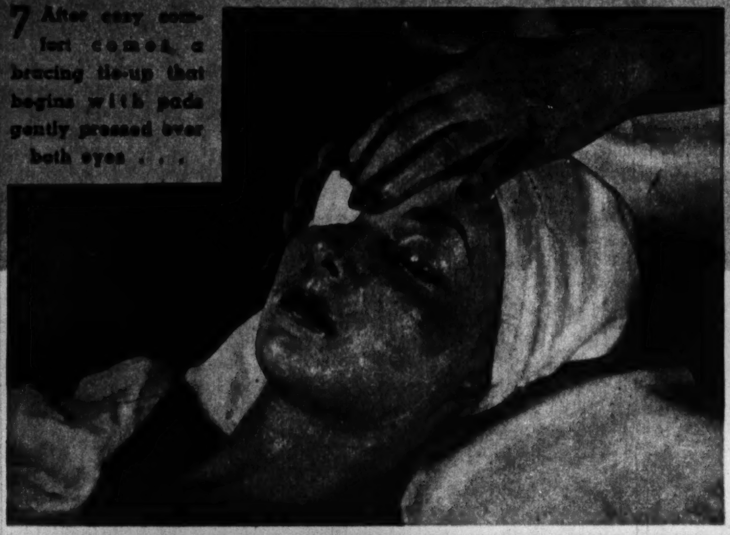


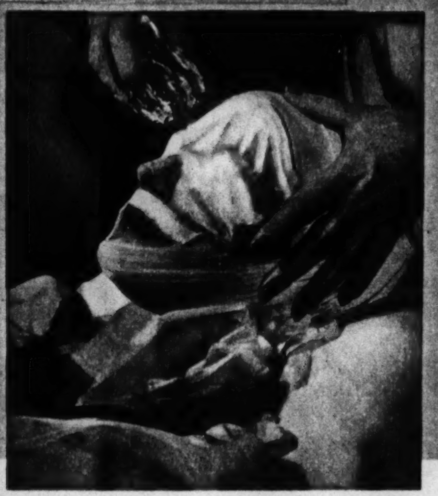
5 Then, sheathed in a warm, cozy mask of oil that sets but does not draw uncomfortably, you can have a beauty nap.

6 A pliable spatula peels it off after 20 minutes. Outward signs of extreme skin dryness vanish with the mask fragments.



7 After cozy comfort comes a bracing tie-up that begins with pads gently pressed over both eyes . . .





8 And is climaxed (at left) with an invigorating ice massage that wakes up both the complexion and its owner.

Coconut Orange Cream Tarts

- 2 cups milk
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- ½ cup sugar
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- ¾ cup shredded coconut, cut
- 1 teaspoon grated orange rind
- 8 baked Orange Tart Shells

Scald milk in top of double boiler. Combine flour, cornstarch, sugar, and salt and mix thoroughly. Add to scalded milk and cook until thick and smooth, then cook 15 minutes longer, stirring occasionally. Stir a small amount of mixture into beaten egg yolks, return to double boiler, and cook a few minutes longer. Cool and add vanilla. Rub coconut and orange rind together. Add to cream filling and blend. Pour filling into baked Orange Tart Shells.

Make a meringue by beating 2 egg whites and ¼ teaspoon salt until they hold a stiff peak. Add 4 tablespoons sugar gradually, beating constantly. Pile lightly on filling. Bake in slow oven (325° F.) 20 to 25 minutes, or until firm and delicately browned. Makes 8.

Orange Tart Shells

Mix 2¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour and 1 teaspoon salt. Add 2 tablespoons grated orange rind and blend. Measure out ¾ cup Spry and divide into two equal parts.

STEP 1 FOR TENDERNESS

Cut in first half of Spry until fine as meal. This makes the crust tender.

STEP 2 FOR FLAKINESS

Add 5 tablespoons orange juice (no more, no less), mixing thoroughly into a dough. Roll ⅛-inch thick, prick with fork, cut in 5-inch rounds and fit snugly over outside of muffin pans, pinching into about 7 pleats. Bake in very hot oven (450° F.) 8 to 10 minutes. Makes 12 meltingly tender, flaky tart shells.

And notice the delicate orange tang they have. Ordinary shortenings might smother it but purer Spry lets you get its FULL deliciousness. You'll love Spry FULL FLAVOR cakes and fried foods, too. Change to Spry today for all your baking and frying.

DARE BEAUTY HAVE BRAINS?

Her care to be attractive, her interest in social activities and boys, have made Alice popular among the young people. Her attention to scholarship has won the plaudits of the faculty.

trouble with them is, says Dr. Ruth L. Munroe in a recent study of girls at Sarah Lawrence college in New York,* that colleges and universities have set a double standard for female education which says that a girl can't be feminine and intellectual at the same time. It's a false notion, promoted by modern society in general and the colleges in particular. It's a grave problem, one that causes a good deal of unhappiness for young women everywhere, in college and out. But the solution might be found if girls would just look into the lives of the Ileanas, Louises, and Alices about them. These conclusions have been reached by Dr. Munroe in her case studies:

1. Many young women are driven into a hectic social life, replete with dates and dances, because they feel insecure as women and must prove to themselves their thoro femininity. Intellectualism has been made unattractive because it is often accompanied by primness and severity in manners and dress.

2. Other girls put away everything feminine as frivolous and an impediment to serious study or a successful career. Such girls, despite the fun they miss, are more likely to be happy, because they have solid, enduring values.

3. There is really nothing antagonistic between femininity and intellectualism. A girl can and ought to have both. But the colleges only recently are beginning to recognize the problem.

Ileana's tragedy is her sense of insecurity. She suddenly stopped her interest in study for fear it would stamp her as a grind. To prove to herself that she was fully woman and attractive to men Ileana engaged upon a giddy whirl she couldn't stop. Each new exploit demanded a better one to follow. She thought that beauty dare not have brains, and now she is finishing college with a sense of loss because the enduring values were there to take and she refused to take them.

The fault is not really Ileana's. "In our present society we educate girls like men," says Dr. Munroe. "On the other hand, we put a premium on femininity as something quite different.

"The girl who is not sure of herself as a woman may therefore be compelled to deny actively an interest in study which might carry the connotation of masculinity. She demonstrates her womanliness by constant dates and blatant neglect of intellectual pursuits. She is actually afraid to be a good student because of the implication that she is not a full woman."

The case of Louise is not much different basically. She, too, recognizes the double standard. Having no feeling of security in a feminine world, she puts it away completely, refusing to face the reality that woman can't happily live a man's life.

A girl frankly intelligent is more likely to be happy than one devoted completely to a shallow femininity. But Louise cuts herself off from a normal life as she goes along. Femininity demands some special attention to person and social graces. In a gregarious, bisexual world making oneself attractive to others is not exactly waste effort.

Alice might have taken either of the two wrong courses. But she did not feel driven by a sense of insecurity into an enervating social spin. She knew that she ought to have a lively interest in social affairs, and she knew that feminine charms, no matter how ordinary, can be enhanced by careful grooming, by the development of poise, by intelligent emphasis of good points. Study comes first, but dates and movies and cokes at the drugstore have a place in a girl's life, too. Alice observed that the average young man is more interested in a good dancer than in a girl who knows the history of philosophy. Alice preferred philosophy, but she also took dancing lessons. She never forgot that a manicure is as important as a problem in calculus, and if she unwittingly got into a discussion of astrophysics with boy friends she let them win the arguments, and she punctuated her discourses with soft sighs and sultry smiles.

Her care to be attractive, her interest in social activities and boys, have made Alice more than moderately popular among the young people. Her attention to scholarship and her refusal to overdo social life have won the plaudits of the faculty. Alice on graduation can look back upon a full college career, not too brilliant and exciting but thoroly satisfying. She can take a career or marriage in stride.

But it is the girl who thinks she must prove herself feminine, who is sure that beauty dare not have brains, that the college officials are worrying about. While Dr. Munroe does not say so specifically, it appears that the popularity of the notion is really the fault of men. Dr. Ernest L. Burgess, sociologist at the University of Chicago, has found that men do not like to marry girls who appear smarter than they are. Dr. Burgess didn't discover this truth; he merely demonstrated it statistically. Women have known it and accepted it for ages, contributing to the general feeling that femininity and intellectuality won't mix.

The position of woman grows increasingly difficult in this respect as civilization progresses. In recent years men have been marrying later in life than previously, and a girl perforce must become adept in masculine ways in order to earn her living in a man's world. But, the division of emphasis being what it is, there is danger she may lose the feminine attributes. If this happens her chances of marrying grow fewer.

As more and more males are called into the services in the present war the difficulty becomes aggravated. The competition for men is keener, while the demand for masculine traits and abilities in women increases. The girl who feels insecure in her womanhood is likely to react by reverting to a type of feminine exhibitionism designed to give her prestige above her group.

For girls of this type, Dr. Munroe finds, "any defeat in their social contacts is devastating. Success is worth any price at all. They are so anxiously bent upon proving social prowess that they have little energy or interest left for anything else. The competition between the college and the 'prom' is not fair.

"Analysis of excessive concern about 'dates' would not be complete without some discussion of sexuality. . . . The collection of a large number of bids to men's colleges and even sexual misbehavior often has no significance beyond the need for prestige.

"Until recently the college has done nothing to allay these insecurities. On the contrary, it has promoted the distinction between intellectuality and feminine pursuits. The aims of woman's education were made identical with those of men. The female college graduate tended to look upon traditional female activities with masculine eyes. Concern with her home was a sort of betrayal of her education. Far from preparing her for the future, the college actually degraded that probable major focus of her life. It is perhaps not too much to say that successful adjustment was won in spite of education rather than because of it."

It appears, then, that tho women have invaded masculine fields and are needed there, they cannot slough off things feminine and remain happy. Biologically they are forever secure in many of their womanly rights. Historically feminine influence is credited with contributing more to the advancement of civilization than all the brawling and striving of men, some anthropologists attributing civilization itself to the fact that slowly developing human infants remain long in the care of the mother. But, more immediately and practically, girls need to develop the feminine ways and niceties that will safeguard them in their everyday rights as women. They can't do it, however, at the cost of intellectual advancement. Both are possible, and are needed, to complete the full, modern woman.

Girls need to develop the feminine ways and niceties that will safeguard them in their everyday rights as women.

1928 when Paramount hired him to direct the late Helen Morgan in "Applause" at its Long Island studio. "Applause" wasn't so hot, but it had a big campaign. Three years later Mamoulian came to Hollywood to start with "City Streets" and "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," and he has been here for a decade. He did Garbo's "Queen Christina," "Love Me Tonight," "Golden Boy," "Mark of Zorro," and a lot of hits. A free lance, he won't tie in with one studio for long.

He is one of the fussiest directors in the business. He doesn't often have visitors on his sets. He fiddles and monkeys in all departments — costumes, sets, props—until everything is precisely to his liking, and he makes many takes of most scenes. His newest number, "Rings on Her Fingers," is a slight enough affair about Gene Tierney, a corset saleslady, being duped by a couple of gambling crooks into being a lure for their victims. One of the chumps is Henry Fonda. Mamoulian had an interesting time playing the camera on Miss Tierney's fine figure and skirting the edges of the Hays office rules on sex art on the screen.

One time a few years ago a fellow liked some picture Mamoulian had directed and wrote him a 17-page letter of praise. This is just the sort of impulsive thing William Saroyan would do, and the letter writer was Saroyan. This was the beginning of a friendship.

In a small way I know Saroyan, and always wish I knew him better. When it became known that he had some sort of weird deal on to assault the movies via M-G-M studios, pals of mine moaned and groaned. "That nut! That ass! That conceited ape!" they said.

"You wait," I counseled. "You wait until you meet the guy and get to know him. He's as cagey as they come, and no matter what people say, he is a modest fellow and a very conscientious workman. You'll like him."

And of course they did. Saroyan, the literary Katzenjammer Kid, is the hit of Culver City. He went to Metro on a weird deal whose basis was that maybe he would like to do something in the movies if he approved of the medium. He asked for no contract. All he wanted was a small office with no name on the door, a small weekly wage, and the privilege of mooching around. If, after mooching around, he decided maybe he could do something in the way of a picture, he'd do it.

After a few weeks of this he allowed that maybe he could do something. He would go away and write it. He went to San Francisco, shut himself in a modest hotel room, and knocked out 287 pages of scenario in three weeks. He called it "The Human Comedy," and it is mostly about himself. He took it to Metro, and the bosses, liking it, bought it for something like $60,000. When he was asked if he would like to work on his own scenario—to trim it down, work up camera angles, and turn out a technically finished shooting script—he would.

Saroyan was given an office which used to be Louis B. Mayer's before the new administration building was built.

First thing William insisted on was a player piano, which sounded typically whimsical but really isn't. The period of his movie is just before World War I., and it involves the tunes of the period. Since Bill was about 8 at the time, he can't depend entirely on memory, and the piano is an understandable tool of research.

The movie interviewers have been catching Saroyan for the first time. Most of them go thinking, O, shucks, and what of it? They come back sold—as I first did in New York some years ago. I remember when Sidney Whipple, the World-Telegram's drama critic, broke his leg and was out of the paper for some time. Various folk filled in, including Saroyan. About once a week he would write an article about the stage that was a honey—funny and wise and excellently written.

"I wish you would do more of those," I told Saroyan. "But I suppose it's too much to ask when you doing it for free."

"I'll write all they want," he said, "if somebody asks me. It's no bother. It only takes about 20 minutes."

He is literally a writing fool. Twenty minutes for a good article. A moment or two for 17 pages of praise for Rouben Mamoulian. Three weeks for a scenario, when many men would take six months at $2,500 a week.

Saroyan announced to one interviewer that he thought his film script "The Human Comedy" was the greatest movie ever written. He always makes these announcements very quietly. After the interview a studio publicity man jumped him and asked: "Why do you say things like that? Why do you put on such an act?"

"Why not?" shrugged Saroyan. "Suppose I'm an author and I write a book and it gets published. I'm proud of it, naturally. And then somebody tells me he thinks it's a wonderful book, and I act modest about it. I tell him it really isn't that good. Well, I'd be putting on an act then."

YOUTH ON THE COLLEGE CAMPUS

By ELEANOR NANGLE

ANY WHO might deplore the carefree attitude and the country club atmosphere around the average college campus would approve the state of affairs at Michigan College of Mining and Technology. A less country-clubbish school would be hard to find. The curriculum is notoriously stiff, the country rugged—and only the earnest and the sturdy need apply.

In the directories Michigan Tech is listed as coeducational, a classification justified by the enrollment of only a dozen girls. Eight are working for degrees in chemistry, four are enrolled in the general science curriculum — and that completes the feminine roster. The 12 co-eds seem lost in the sea of 750 hard-working boys who move about the campus, dressed for comfort rather than fashion, and each burdened with a khaki knapsack. If a campus fashion could be said to exist at Michigan Tech the knapsack would probably be it, but no collegiate whim fathered it. It's been estimated that the student at Houghton must often tote for a day's work no less than 30 pounds of books, and the capacious knapsack is intensely practical.

The tin lunch pail is something of a feature on the Houghton campus, too. Only about 200 boys can live in Douglas Houghton hall on campus; huge numbers of them plow their way to school each day from surrounding towns, and Houghton offers few restaurants. During the winter there is considerable snow, and unpredictability of weather and hearty appetites fostered by cold and vigorous activity make a lunch pail almost a student necessity. Michiban Tech boys have prodigious appetites, we discovered. The table, usually a good source of revenue in fraternity houses, consumes every bit of the profits in the few houses at Houghton!

Ice skating, in and out of doors, and skiing, are the favorite recreation for the budding engineers, but with the stiff schedule the boys don't have a great deal of time even for this. The high point of the year so far as frivolity is concerned is the winter carnival in February, usually a week-end devoted to ski competition with visitors from other schools, snowshoe races, a parade, a dance, and, of course, the inevitable crowning of a queen.

Geographically the Michigan College of Mining and Technology is ideally situated for the particular training it gives and, according to the experts, gives so well. In Keweenaw peninsula in the famous copper country of upper Michigan, it's favorable for the study of all phases of engineering. The deepest mines in North America are in the territory, accessible to students. There are also local mills and smelters that afford opportunities for students of metallurgy, and famous geological formations which students may work on under the direction of specialists in mineralogy and geology.

Currently the Michigan Tech student organization is working on its own inspiration of MacArthur day on April 11 and appealing to other colleges and universities for collaboration that the observance may be widespread. The plan is to have each collaborating school sponsor a dance on that night, admission to which will be a dollar's worth of Defense stamps, these to have been purchased en masse if possible by students and townspeople on the morning of April 11.

NEW LIFE FOR LIVER

"Pot Roast" Excellent Dish

By MARY MEADE

YOU'VE fried, braised, and broiled sliced liver, but did you ever make a "pot roast" out of a large piece of beef liver? Liver makes an excellent braised meat when cooked in a piece. If you have a large family or are having company soon perhaps you'll want to try this recipe. For a small family which doesn't care about liver leftovers it would be better to cut the recipe in half.

A pound of liver makes four servings in almost any way in which this meat is prepared.

COUNTRY STYLE LIVER POT ROAST

(12 servings)

3 pounds beef liver
¼ cup flour
½ cup hot drippings (ham or bacon)
4 large onions, peeled and sliced
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
1 cup sour cream
½ cup water

Rub flour into liver and brown all around in the drippings. Remove to another skillet or baking dish. Cook sliced onions gently in the drippings until lightly browned. Place atop the meat. Add seasonings, cream, and water to remaining fat and pour over meat. Cover and cook over low heat or bake in a 325-degree oven for 1½ hours, or until tender.

If you haven't made any hot cross buns yet this season, you'd better get out the mixing bowl and begin with this good recipe:

One a penny, two a penny, hot cross buns! They aren't hard to make, and they're awfully good!

HOT CROSS BUNS

(About three dozen)

1 cup scalded milk
1 cake compressed yeast
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt
2 eggs, beaten
½ cup butter, melted
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
About 4¾ cups sifted flour
⅓ cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
⅓ cup washed, dried currants
2 tablespoons finely chopped citron

Cool scalded milk to lukewarm and crumble in the yeast. Add sugar and salt. Stir until dissolved, then cover and set in a warm place until bubbles appear around the edge of the bowl, about 20 minutes. Add beaten eggs, melted butter, and lemon rind. Then add flour, which has been sifted with the ⅓ cup sugar and the cinnamon. Mix well. Turn out onto floured board and knead until dough is very smooth and elastic. Knead in currants and citron during last few minutes. Round up dough, grease it, and place in a greased bowl. Cover and let rise in a warm place for an hour. Knead down and shape into balls. Place well apart on a greased baking sheet; gash a cross in the top of each bun with a sharp knife. Cover and let rise until light. Bake at 400 degrees for 20-25 minutes, or until golden brown. Drip a soft confectioners' sugar icing into the gashes while the buns still are warm.

TODAY'S PRIZE RECIPE

THESE taste-teasing canapes will disappear in a hurry—allow at least three to a person. Mrs. E. L. Woodword, 531 North Catherine avenue, La Grange, also serves them with a salad as a bridge snack. For the recipe she wins today's prize of $5.

Be sure to submit your best recipe to the Mary Meade contest. Perhaps you've an old family favorite or have concocted an original of your own that will be worthy of the $5 prize given daily. Write it in standard form, listing ingredients in order of use and giving complete directions.

MUSHROOM CANAPES

(Serves five)

15 medium mushrooms (approximately)
2 tablespoons butter
15 rounds of bread
1 3-oz. package cream cheese
½ beaten egg yolk
Dash of salt
¼ teaspoon onion juice or scraped onion

Select mushrooms of uniform size and brown in butter over low heat. Meanwhile cut rounds of bread very slightly larger than the mushrooms. Toast. Place mushroom on top of each round of toasted bread. Cool. Combine cream cheese with egg yolk, salt, and onion juice, blending until soft and creamy. Ice each of the cooled mushrooms completely with the cheese mixture. Just before serving place in moderate broiler as far away from heat as possible, so that the canapes will be heated thru. When lightly toasted remove and serve immediately.

A Thing of Beauty Is a Joy Forever

By JOHN KEATS

A thing of beauty is a joy forever;
Its loveliness increases; it will never Pass into nothingness, but still will keep
A bower quiet for us, and a sleep
Full of sweet dreams, and health, and quiet breathing.
Therefore, on every morrow, are we wreathing
A flowery band to bind us to the earth,
Spite of despondence, of the inhuman dearth
Of noble natures, of the gloomy days,
Of all the unhealthy and o'er darkened ways
Made for our searching: yes, in spite of all,
Some shape of beauty moves away the pall
From our dark spirits. Such the sun, the moon,
Trees old and young, sprouting a shady boon
For simple sheep; and such are daffodils
With the green world they live in; and clear rills
That for themselves a cooling covert make
'Gainst the hot season; the mid-forest brake,
Rich with a sprinkling of fair musk-rose blooms:
And such too is the grandeur of the dooms
We have imagined for the mighty dead;
All lovely tales that we have heard or read;
And endless fountain of immortal drink,
Pouring unto us from the heaven's brink.

Dear Miss Tinée: I would like very much to know the name of an actor in "The Maltese Falcon." He took the part of a stooge to Sidney Greenstreet, who pretended he regarded him "like a son." I thought his characterization of that part was outstanding. Thanking you in advance, I am very truly yours,

FRANCENE L. FLOWER.

Dear Miss Flower (I like your name!): Elisha Cook Jr. played the rôle of Wilmer Cook, Sidney Greenstreet's stooge in the film "The Maltese Falcon." You're welcome.

Dear Mae Tinée: It has been a mystery to me why such handsome young men as Dan Dailey Jr. can get only tiny bit parts in good pictures or star in some "B" pictures that are positively awful. Would you print a picture of him? Orchids to you and your column. I follow your columns faithfully in both The Sunday and Daily Tribune.

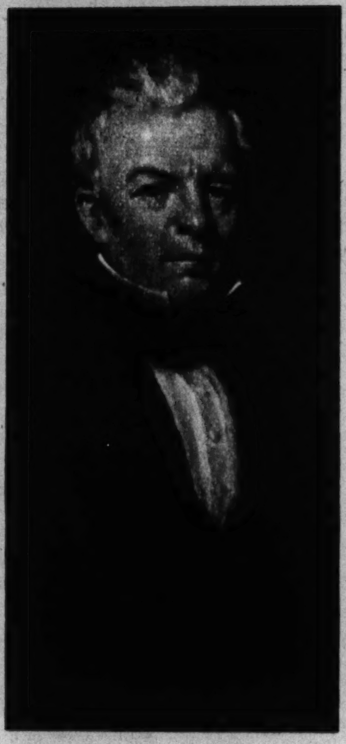
Dear Tony H.: The film world is full of unsolved mysteries! Here's Mr. Dailey's photo. Thanks for the kind words.

DISTINGUISHED AMERICANS

● This is another in a series of biographical sketches of America's historical celebrities appearing every week in the Graphic Section. The illustrations are taken from a famous work, "The National Portrait Gallery of Distinguished Americans," published in 1865.



James Kent

JAMES KENT, eminent jurist and legal commentator, was born in Philippi, N. Y., July 31, 1763. He obtained his preparatory education from private tutors and at schools in Norwalk and Danbury, Conn., entering Yale in the autumn of 1777 and being graduated three years later from that institution.

Soon after finishing college he began a three years' legal apprenticeship in the office of Attorney General Egbert Benson in Poughkeepsie. At the age of 21 he was admitted to the New York Supreme court bar and at once entered into a partnership in Poughkeepsie with Gilbert Livingston. This partnership existed until 1793, when Kent moved to New York City and unsuccessfully sought election to the national house of representatives. His political career thereafter, so far as elective offices were concerned, was limited to three terms in the New York legislature.

After moving to New York City he encountered financial difficulties due to a lack of clients, but thru friends in the Federalist party he obtained an appointment as professor of law at Columbia college (now Columbia university). Appointments as master in chancery in 1796 and as recorder of the city of New York in 1797 led to his selection in 1798 as a justice of the New York Supreme court. He returned to live at Poughkeepsie, but after a year there moved to Albany, where he resided for 24 years.

In 1804 he became head of the state Supreme court, and in 1814 he was appointed chancellor of the state Court of Chancery. In this position he was instrumental in laying the foundation of the American system of equity jurisprudence. At the age of 60 Kent was required by law to resign from his judicial post. He thereupon moved back to New York City, where he at once was given a professorship of law at Columbia.

As a professor he was compelled to lecture a great deal, and this he did not like, so at the age of 63 he withdrew and began writing for publication on the subject of law. He rewrote his lectures, expanding and extending them, until by 1830 he had turned out four large volumes. This first edition was followed by five other editions, the last of which, under his personal preparation, was published in 1848, not a great while after his death. These "Commentaries on American Law" won for him a high and permament place among American and British jurists. He wrote on many aspects of the law, his treatise on international law being the first general American work on the subject.

Kent's final years were happily occupied in reading and revising new editions of his "Commentaries" and in preparing occasional opinions. He spent his last summers at a cottage in Essex county, New Jersey, and his winters in New York City, where he died on Dec. 12, 1847.

tion to the commercial yards and ways that can be used.

The chance that new shipways can be of material assistance to our next two years' ship production is rather remote. Experience of World War I. is illustrative. In 1917 the world's largest shipbuilding yard was established on Hog Island, near Philadelphia. It was 15 months from the time the yard was started until the first ship was launched—the launching itself coming a month after peace was declared. Shipbuilding methods have not changed materially since 1918, and a similar time lag must be anticipated if it is decided to create new shipway facilities.

There is no question about the kinds of ships that must be built. Details of that nature were worked out long since by the head of the Maritime commission, Rear Admiral Emory L. Land, and ship designers. There are three basic sizes, with one variation in power plant that virtually makes four separate types, as follows:

Designation	Length (feet)	Tonnage	Long-range cruising speed
C-1	415	7,500	14 knots
C-2	455	9,000	16 knots
EC-2	455	9,000	10 knots
C-3	492	11,975	20 knots

All four types have been designed for quick production, and war needs have been anticipated in their original blueprints. For example, gun mountings are made part of the original plans. Also the engineers have sacrificed beauty to obtain the maximum of performance and carrying capacity.

The C-3 types are readily convertible into small but effective aircraft carriers, and since the Pearl Harbor assault by the Japanese orders have gone out for such conversions to be made right in the shipways. Even tho a C-3 type freighter was complete as a commercial vessel, the conversion into carrier, which consists chiefly in the razing of the superstructure and building of a flight deck, can be done in four months. Such carriers will accommodate a maximum of 25 aircraft, and in the next three years they probably will be found with American fleet vessels all over the world. Their speed is not as great as the new large carriers, but it is sufficient for them to render valuable services. The C-1 and C-2 types are too small and slow for such work.

All the new C boats will be fitted with turbine or Diesel engines except the EC-2 series. The "E" stands for "emergency." The EC's will be completely stripped of comforts and refinements so that they can be turned out in the shortest possible order. And they will be fitted with outmoded and uneconomical reciprocating steam engines. These engines are responsible for the slow cruising speed shown in the table. This slow speed materially affects the economic value of these vessels, for they will take 50 per cent more time to complete a voyage than the 16-knot C-2 series boats of identical size. The EC's will be wasteful of crews, because they will be longer at sea, and of necessity they must carry more fuel and more crew supplies for the same reason.

Finally, after the war the EC series boats will be of little commercial value in competing with faster boats. But the rest of the series should give the United States the world's greatest commercial fleet, which will be able to compete on equal terms with the best British, German, or Dutch merchant vessels after the war. The EC's would be able to compete only if their engines were changed—an expensive process.

The labor problem to be considered in conjunction with our expanded cargo ship building program is important. In 1937, when our ship construction facilities were at their lowest ebb, fewer than 100,000 men were employed in this craft. Admiral Land recently estimated that the "sweat and tears" ahead of the shipbuilders would require almost a 600 per cent increase in man power. He said that at least 700,000 men would be required to accomplish the goal set by the President, and most of these must be trained especially for the job, because the shipbuilding art has languished.

Among the professions and crafts that are required for shipbuilding are engineers, electricians, plumbers, carpenters, riveters, welders, steelworkers, painters, and fitters. In a 10,000-ton freighter alone there are from 450,000 to 500,000 rivets. This means that from 1,200,000 to 1,500,000 rivet holes must be drilled out.

Admiral Land has said that there will be an enormous increase in the use of welding in the new ships, for a number of reasons. One of the most important is that by welding instead of riveting there can be great savings in labor. Another is that without impairing the strength of a ship in any way there can be a weight saving of about 10 per cent. Finally, the use of welding will allow more prefabrication of ship parts than riveting, another method of speeding up production.

Labor savings thru welding are twofold. First, a single skilled welder can replace the usual four-man riveting crew. The single welder in a given day's work will accomplish exactly the same amount of work as the four-man riveting team. Other advantages of welding are: No need for the drilling of rivet holes; use of thinner plate, because this thinner plate is not perforated and consequently will be as strong as the older heavier gauge metal that was drilled; saving of rivet metal and rivet weight in a ship; saving of material, because the edges of steel plates are joined directly together instead of overlapped, as in riveted ships.

An all-welded steel vessel, the motor ship Joseph Medill, was built for The Tribune in 1935—seven years ago.

The Germans have been using welding in their ships for years. They apply welding directly to war vessels as well as cargo ships. The Bismarck, regarded as the most powerful fighting vessel in the world, had a welded hull that stood up for days against the greatest pounding that any single warship ever received.

Costs of these new ships will be high. Averages worked out for the 1,400 ships of the 1941 program indicate that they will cost us $200 a ton. In normal times ships like them can be built for $60 a ton at most, and in some instances British ships of equivalent performance and capacity have been built for $40 a ton. The $200 a ton figure is the result, according to Maritime commission experts, of the war, of priorities on materials, labor shortages, and the constantly increasing cost of man power required to build the vessels.

Plans for the training of officers and men to man our new ocean fleet already are under way. Admiral Land has said that while we now have crews to work our existing vessels, we must provide an estimated 9,450 more licensed officers and 37,500 more seamen. Schools already have been established and are in operation at St. Petersburg, Fla.; Hoffman Island, New York, and Port Hueneme, Cal.; and a large number of special training craft are being operated under the guidance of the Maritime commission. Among such vessels are the sailing bark Joseph Conrad, two 5,000-ton freighters, a 115-ton yacht, and 18 various other steam, Diesel, and sailing vessels.

The commission takes civilian apprentices between the ages of 18 and 23 years and puts them thru a seven months' training course. When finished the men are rated as able seamen. Seamen who already have had sea experience also can take the course for refresher training. The apprentices receive $21 a month while training, the more experienced men $72 to $82 a month.

Student officers are trained at maritime schools at New London, Conn., and at Alameda, Cal. Men who have had three years' service as seamen can attend. They are given a four months' course in navigation, gunnery, sea regulations, and kindred subjects. While at school the student officers get $99 a month. If successful in passing examinations they are rated as third officers.

According to Admiral Land, the present training facilities will turn out 6,300 licensed officers and 25,000 trained seamen by the end of 1943. This will represent about two-thirds of our requirements. The remainder must be made up thru establishment of new schools and advancement of older men who have not hitherto been eligible for officer rank because of age.

Now for a final look at how 40 million tons of shipping will be used. The 23 million tons now in operation are being strained in work that cannot be halted. How will the remaining 17 million tons be used? The answer is as follows:

It will be necessary to have an aggregate of nearly 15 million tons in constant operation to transport, supply, reënforce, and munition the expeditionary forces that will be placed in the field by the United States and Great Britain late this year and early next year, according to plans already made public. In round numbers these expeditionary forces will include almost three million men, which the united nations expect to place on the European, near east, and African fronts, and another similar number into the Australian front. The East Indies front, which was to get men, already has been lost.

Each of these men will require three-quarters of a ton of shipping capacity in constant service to keep him clothed and fed. Since each vessel can make roughly only three and a half round trips a year on the enormously long supply lines we now must maintain, that means that over a period of 12 months 2.6 actual tons of shipping will have been allotted to servicing each individual in the expeditionary forces.

At $200 a ton construction cost, that in turn means that the united nations must maintain in service for each expeditionary soldier $520 worth of tonnage. For the expeditionary forces envisioned that would be close to 15 million tons, or an investment of $300,000,000.

Use of 15 million tons in this manner would leave a minimum of 2 million tons at the end of 1943 to offset Axis sinkings—which may amount to at least 6 million tons by then—and to provide shipping for war supplies we may send to Russia.

The British, speaking more frankly than American leaders, candidly say they "hope" Russia will be able to keep a front open during the next summer. In order to assist in this Britain and the United States must supply arms, airplanes, and food. Russia lost its major industrial towns and the sources for its munitions supplies to the Germans during the Nazi push of June-December, 1941. Thus it is of vital importance that supplies from the democracies continue to pour in for Russia's armies and air units. How shipping for this supply line is to be provided is already giving headaches to forward thinking engineering and supply executives in Washington and London.

MOSTLY ABOUT DOGS

By BOB BECKER

> The one absolutely unselfish friend that man can have in this selfish world, the one that never deserts him, the one that never proves ungrateful or treacherous, is his dog.—SENATOR VEST.

THIS FAMOUS quotation from Senator Vest's immortal tribute to the dog takes on new meaning during these war days, for millions of dog owners are beginning to appreciate even more deeply than ever before the invaluable position that dogs hold in the average American home. Used for centuries as loyal guards, willing to sacrifice their lives if need be, dogs again are taking more responsibility as guardians of homes and outposts on wide, far-flung battle fronts. They furnish companionship to those who are lonely. In these days, when many homes have given men to the armed forces, the dog has much to offer those who stay behind and help to do their bit on the home front.

But no one has ever been able to appraise one particular attribute of the dog in dollars and cents—its ability to give us a mental lift when we need it. Any dog, it makes no difference what breed it is, is (as one authority phrased it) an antidote for the blues. He's a morale builder. His wagging tail and eager greeting make us forget our troubles.

The importance of dogs as bolsterers of civilian morale already has been proved in beleaguered Britain. During the months to come American pets undoubtedly will play a similar rôle in this country. They also are furnishing companionship to armed forces on many fronts.

The way dogs attach themselves to fighting units, give soldiers a new interest, and refuse to leave their masters even under fire, was graphically portrayed recently in a dispatch from the Libyan front. Out in the desert British troops think the world of their pets, some of which even have stayed with their masters when the latter took off in fighting planes for an attack against the enemy. One dog is reported to have taken four prisoners and guarded them until British soldiers arrived.

In countless thousands of homes dogs today are a real comfort to families whose men have gone to war. But aside from their value as companions, these pets also have a very definite value as guards. There is every reason to believe that all breeds which do a good job of guarding a home will increase in popularity and value during the war, for right now dogs have more to do in that field of activity than ever before.

In many locations inland and along our coasts dogs can prevent sabotage by their vigilant watchfulness, keep guard over important military positions, and work with handlers in many different ways for defense. Whenever and wherever a blackout is necessary a dog becomes doubly valuable as guard in a home. As men have learned down thru the years, no animal on earth makes such a perfect companion for lonely humans, is so reliable and faithful, and eagerly offers its services as a guard and protector of old and young as the dog.

It's a noticeable fact that, starting hundreds of years before the Christian era, man and the dog always have been drawn closer together during wartime. In the early days soldiers called upon dogs to fight on the battlefields. Today they are trained by some nations for dozens of services on and behind the battlefields. In England, where thousands of trained dogs are being used, a large group of them even has been trained to help troops repel attacks from parachutists.

Altho we have few dogs in actual war work compared with the number now in service in Europe, authorities point out that all of our canine pets are going to become more important to us in these days of war. Dr. W. A. Young, widely known head of the Chicago Anti-Cruelty society, recently has said that the value of dogs as guards, protectors, rodent destroyers, and builders of morale will be enhanced in days to come, and he stresses the point that authorities everywhere should take cognizance of that fact.

This is the correct way to hold a bewhiskered terrier when you use a comb on its whiskers.

Recognizing the value of dogs and the part they play in bolstering civilian morale, animal welfare organizations in all parts of the United States are counseling owners on how to prepare their pets for wartime existence. And behind this advice comes the urge that we do not make the mistake that England did when in the first hysteria of war bombings some owners destroyed their pets. England still is regretting that foolish action, because its people have learned what the dog can do for the spirit of people under fire. They have seen its value as a builder of morale.

These two little American water spaniels were exhibited in a recent puppy match by M. H. Wykoff, their owner. The American water spaniel is a breed especially popular with sportsmen in this country.

One of the leading animal welfare organizations that are sending out practical advice on the care of pets during wartime is the American Red Star Animal Relief, 135 Washington avenue, Albany, N. Y., a department of the American Humane association. The association coördinates the work of hundreds of United States animal welfare groups. It has prepared written instructions for all pet owners who want suggestions on how to look after their pets during blackouts, etc.

DOG NOTES

A number of American dog shows have instituted the policy of paying cash awards in the form of defense stamps and bonds. Many other dog shows are contributing all profits to the Red Cross, the United Service organization, and other national charities.

The largest number of puppies from one litter ever reported to the American Kennel club was 18. An English springer spaniel gave birth to these 18 puppies, but nine were either born dead or died soon after birth. The largest number of puppies from one litter ever registered was 17, whelped by an Irish setter. A springer, a Great Dane, and a Newfoundland each whelped 16 puppies in a litter, and a collie and a St. Bernard each whelped litters of 15 puppies.

NO PARKING, PLEASE!

By MAUREEN DALY

AND YOU don't have to read the signs to know what that means! Whether you are a sophomore or a senior; whether you rate high or low in your I. Q. tests—every one knows that. Sometimes it is called "muffing," sometimes "making the margie," and sometimes just plain necking. But no matter what it is called, it isn't nice, it isn't smooth, and it isn't smart at all.

Perhaps you feel you can't help it. There are so many wolves in sheep's clothing that you can't tell the fast boys from the nice ones. But with so many revealing magazine stories, radio shows and movies even the nicest little lambs should know the score. So don't pretend to be surprised, will you? Every one knows what a quiet evening, a country road and a low-slung moon mean. Maybe you just intended to sit and talk and listen to the car radio. Maybe you are both such very good friends that an evening together discussing school and teachers and life in general is always pleasant. But unfortunately "moonlight" usually turns into "moodlight" and before you know it the mood is on you!

There is always an aftermath to those evenings. Perhaps boys don't mean to, but they always talk, and before you know it you have been grapevined all over the study hall, drugstore, and locker room. That's just the thing you've wanted to avoid. You don't want to be a girl who plays one-night stands with all the boys. You don't want your name scratched on the back-booth table in the drug store or chalked up on the wooden wall of the coke shanty at the neighborhood tennis courts. You want to be the kind of girl who makes the scholastic honor roll every semester and who is still strictly drugstore bluebook. You never wanted to be classed as a Ubangi. Well, it is up to you whether you want the wolves howling around your door or not.

You remember little Miss Muffet who was sitting on her tuffet, drinking a small lemon coke, when along came a spider and sat down beside her, but it didn't frighten her in the least, for she had run into this kind of thing before. She asked him if he had heard Bob Hope's program last Tuesday, and he had, and before long, in discussing it, they were both laughing so hard and having so much fun that she didn't have to run away at all! Try to keep the conversation animated and very normal, shying away from moonlight-and-roses topics, and you will have no trouble at all. If you don't think and act as if you were a movie star the fellows won't think and act as if you were, either.

There is safety—and sense—in numbers, so double-dating is always a good idea. You would feel very foolish kissing a boy with your best friend and her date sitting in the back seat looking on. And besides there are other things to do with an evening. Stick with the crowd and make it fun from beginning to end. Really keep busy and it won't be so difficult to bring it to an end. Have you been bowling lately? Why not get the crowd together to go roller skating one of these nights? There are also good plays to see and good music to hear.

Make your plans before the date. If you are just driving around and driving around trying to think of something to do or somewhere to go, you are very apt to turn into a country lane, and you both know it.

There is the same sad story to tell for fellows as for girls who insist on being swifties. Perhaps you are a boy who has been having trouble lately getting dates with smooth girls, the nicer ones with whom you would really enjoy going out. The kind of girl who is a good sport for bridge dates, for walking to the movie on Sunday nights, or for playing tennis. It may be your own fault. Make a truthful mental examination of the last five dates you've had. Does the trouble lie there? You can't be a roving Romeo without the news getting around. Girls talk, too—and even more than boys. The girls you have dated can get together over cokes, at bridge clubs or hen sessions and compare notes—and sad will be your case if those notes check! You'll find yourself very much alone or just "going out with the boys" on Friday nights. You'll be branded as a drugstore duke or a Casanova, and that brand is hard to work off. And it is even harder to cover it up with a man-about-town attitude, pretended bravado or "what a big boy am I" talk.

All these things are unfortunately important—for both fellows and girls. Reputations are things that stick like shadows. Your reputation will be with you when you are out of school and long afterward. Don't fool yourself by saying that necking is all part of being young; all part of growing up. It isn't necessary to neck to get around; it isn't necessary to neck to prove that you are now man-sized. It is a very serious thing. It isn't smooth or smart to be a swiftie—that is good to remember. You may want to chalk it up as experience, but you may never be able to get that chalk mark off your wall.

Perhaps you think you are in love. You've got that light-hearted, starry-eyed, "isn't it a wonderful world" feeling and you really think you are in love. Perhaps you are. But be honest with yourself. It might be love and it might not. Didn't you think you were in love a month ago last Tuesday when you were dating that drugstore fountain clerk who looked so smooth in his white cap? And think of all the others. At close hand they all looked like love and now, at a distance, they just look silly. They don't look like legitimate excuses for kissing the boys at all. You are beginning to regret those long evenings and all the things you did and said. Are you sure your current love isn't another of those quick affairs? Some one once said of a girl: "She isn't really smooth. She's just been around so much she's worn smooth."

So quite frankly, and with no punches pulled, necking just isn't smart and should be avoided. Maybe you have caught the red, white, and blue spirit and claim that parking is less hard on tires than driving; but wait—you needn't be that patriotic! This is one activity that can't be passed off as an aid to national defense, so—no parking, please!

Know Your Camera

By ANDREW B. HECHT, Ph. D.

HAVE YOU ever tried photographing statues? They are excellent subjects, not only because they will hold still for any length of time but also because as works of art they usually show a good deal of ready-made composition for your camera to pick up.

Unless you are quite an experienced photographer you should welcome any opportunity for photographing motionless subjects which offer some amount of interest. As long as you are not absolutely sure of your lighting and exposure such motionless subjects are a boon to you. You can take your time in selecting the point of view from which to photograph them, you can focus with care, and you can consult your exposure meter or exposure guide before shooting.

Nothing will give you a better idea of how the changing light alters the appearance of faces and figures than to observe the same statue at different hours of the day and under different lighting conditions. With the sun low in the morning and late afternoon, you will get dramatic side lighting. Strong shadows will accentuate the modeling of figures and will bring out their texture, whether it be bronze, rough stone, or polished marble. In diffused daylight these same statues will often seem dull and uninteresting, at least if viewed on the ground glass of a camera or in a photograph.

Your experiments with photographing statues need not be confined to outdoor work. They can result in just as interesting pictures and will be probably even more instructive if you conduct them indoors in artificial light. Of course you must find, purchase, or borrow some "models" for your indoor work, but this should not be too difficult, as anything from inexpensive little statuettes to the dolls of window decorators may prove suitable.

Let us assume you photograph a statue in a park. Unless you want to make a mere record shot you would include only the statue itself, or possibly even only a part of the statue, in your picture. You would not be interested in the lawn before the statue, in the trees surrounding it, or in the buildings in the background.

If you are lucky you will find not only an interesting statue but also one that is standing out in the open where no trees or buildings disturb your composition. If you are not, you will have to find a spot from which you can make a picture that includes only a minimum of disturbing elements. The solution may be to shoot from a low angle, using only the sky as a background. Depending on the statue and the mood it expresses, you may want a light gray sky, or it may be preferable to darken the sky with the aid of filters. Clouds on the sky may add immeasurably to the effect of some pictures of statues, while they may be definitely disturbing if you photograph others.

It also depends on the nature of the statue whether you should include human figures in your picture. Figures may be valuable to indicate the size of the statue by affording a comparison, or they may help to tell a story, such as, for instance, a little boy admiring the mighty bronze soldiers on a war memorial. But unless there is a definite story to tell it is better to concentrate entirely on the statue and to avoid including any people.

Here are a few general hints on photographing statues: Concentrate on your subject. Select the view which seems most interesting to you. Wait until the sun moves into a position from which it will give you the best lighting effect.

Because the expression of the statue itself is packed with drama, the photographer had here many of his problems already solved by the sculptor. But the photographer used fine judgment in darkening both foreground and background, thus concentrating attention exclusively on the main subject.

Pictures of statues need not be static, because many statues show gripping action. Taken from a low angle, this picture of the famous "Gloucester Fisherman" utilizes a plain sky background. The sky was darkened with a yellow filter.

BE LOVELIER — it's Spring!

Are you LIGHT?

Then you tend to have fine-grained, sensitive skin — like baby's! So use baby's own Ivory. Each night "baby" your skin with New Ivory lather and gentle massage. Use lukewarm water, never hot, for both massage and rinse. Since your skin may tend to be dry, apply lightly a little cold cream.

Are you DARK?

Then your skin may tend to be oily. New Ivory's richer, creamier lather effectively removes oiliness that dulls beauty. Twice a day: With a washcloth, massage heavy lukewarm Ivory lather vigorously into your skin. Warm rinse, then cold. Repeat treatment. Soon your skin will be Ivory-smooth and soft—"spring-fresh!"

Are you IN-BETWEEN?

Then do as doctors advise. Avoid soaps that are irritating or drying. Give your skin daily soap-and-water cleansing with a gentle soap. New Ivory is actually milder by far than imported castiles. Ivory's gentle velvet-suds "baby-care" is safe complexion care!

Doctors advise Ivory's gentle care for winter-dulled skins

Why let your skin mirror the drabness of winter—just when all Nature is blossoming? Help spring bring beauty to you, too! Give your skin each day the gentle New Ivory care doctors recommend for the world's Loveliest Complexion . . . baby's own!

See how soon your loveliness responds to improved Ivory Soap's faster-lathering, safe velvet suds.

For radiant spring beauty, what kinder cleansing could your skin have than "baby-care" with gentle New Ivory Soap?

STEP INTO A "BABY-CARE" BATH . . . and relax in Ivory's luxuriant velvet suds. In the foamy wake of that white floating cake all your tenseness dissolves. Ivory's rich lather smooths your body . . . soothes your nerves. You'll step out feeling . . . and looking . . . Lovelier!

I LOVE ME . . . I'm so smooth all over! And I just love Doctor for recommending New "Velvet-Suds" Ivory to help keep my complexion so pink and perfect. New Ivory's faster lather is such fun—and Ivory contains no dye, medication, or strong perfume that might be irritating.

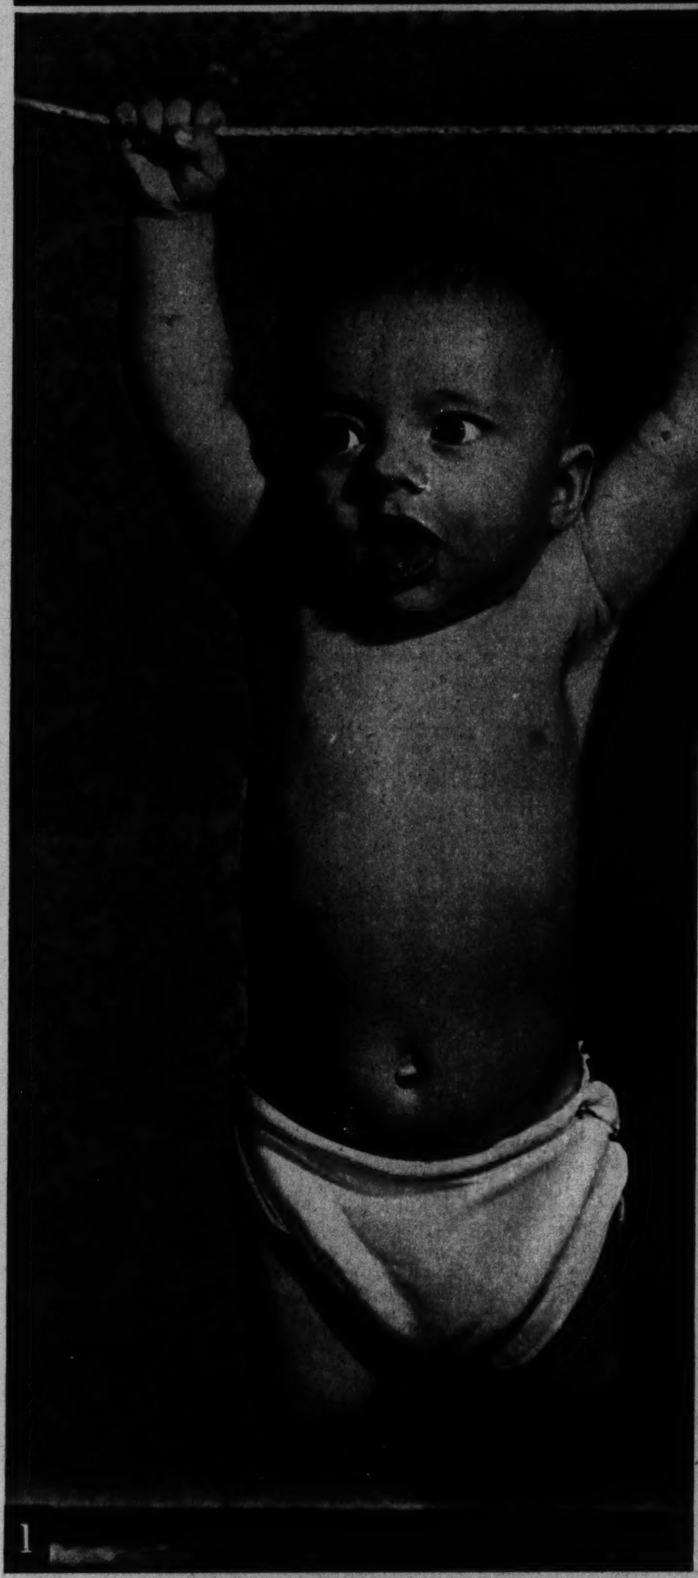
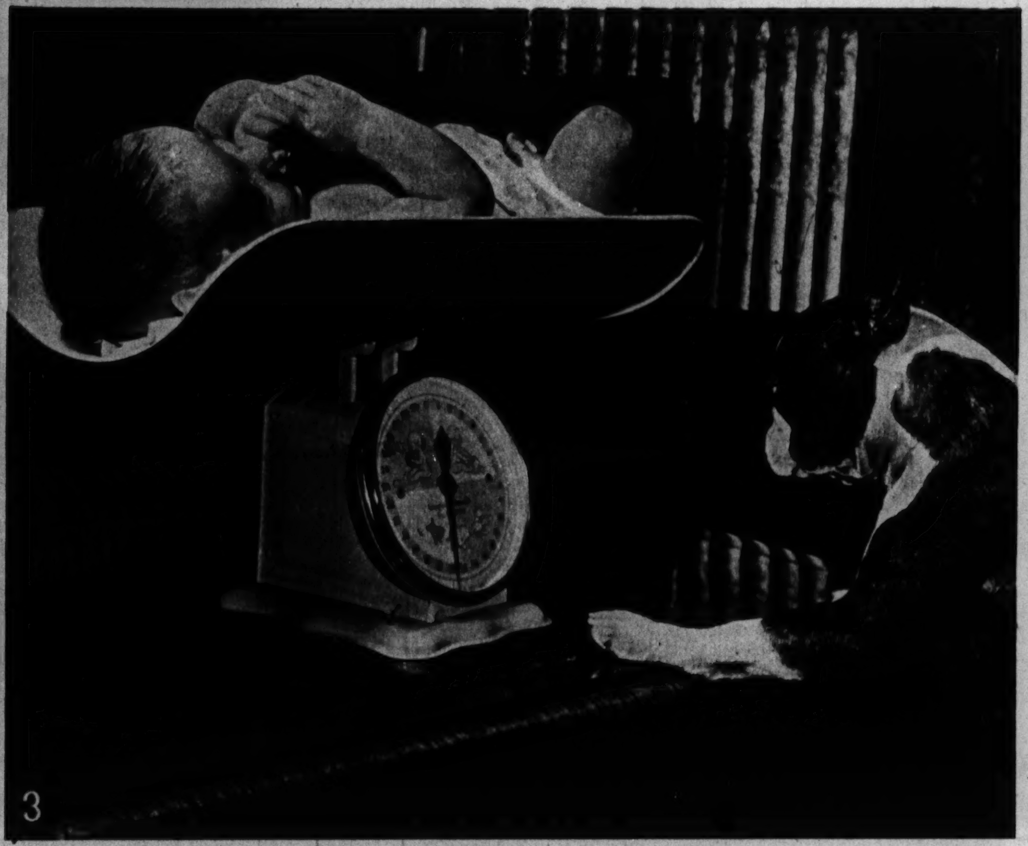
BABY SAMSON

Chalmer, 5 month old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bowman of 3962½ Ellis avenue, amazed doctors and nurses at the hospital where he was born by holding up his head; his feats of strength since then have been equally unusual.



WHEN HE WAS 2½ MONTHS OLD Chalmer first hung by his hands from a clothesline. It has been one of his favorite pastimes ever since.

LAID PRONE, he raises his head with a vigor that reveals his unusual strength.



WHEN CHALMER IS LAID ON THE SCALES the pointer registers nearly sixteen pounds, and its vibrations fascinate Snuffy, the family Boston terrier.

TAKE PHILLIPS' MILK OF MAGNESIA

Tonight

Want to start the day with a smile instead of a frown? Then don't let your stomach go sour during the night because of over-indulgence. Give that excessive acidity the one-two action of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

One-two action means that Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is an efficient alkalizer and gentle laxative in one! It not only provides quick relief from the discomfort of an upset stomach but also promotes mild yet thorough elimination.

The next time your dinner disagrees with you—or after a gay party—try Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—it's an ideal laxative-antacid—and wake up "feeling like a million." Read the directions on the Milk of Magnesia package and take only as directed thereon or as prescribed by your physician.

ONE-TWO ACTION!

1 NEUTRALIZES EXCESS STOMACH ACIDS—and does it almost quicker than it takes to tell. Rated among the most effective neutralizers of excess stomach acids known. Relieves that uneasy feeling of discomfort almost immediately.

2 ACTS AS MILD LAXATIVE. So gentle that it does not upset the system and leave you feeling "all wrung out." Take it any time of the day because it does not act with embarrassing urgency. Many physicians recommend it for young children. There is no better mild laxative.

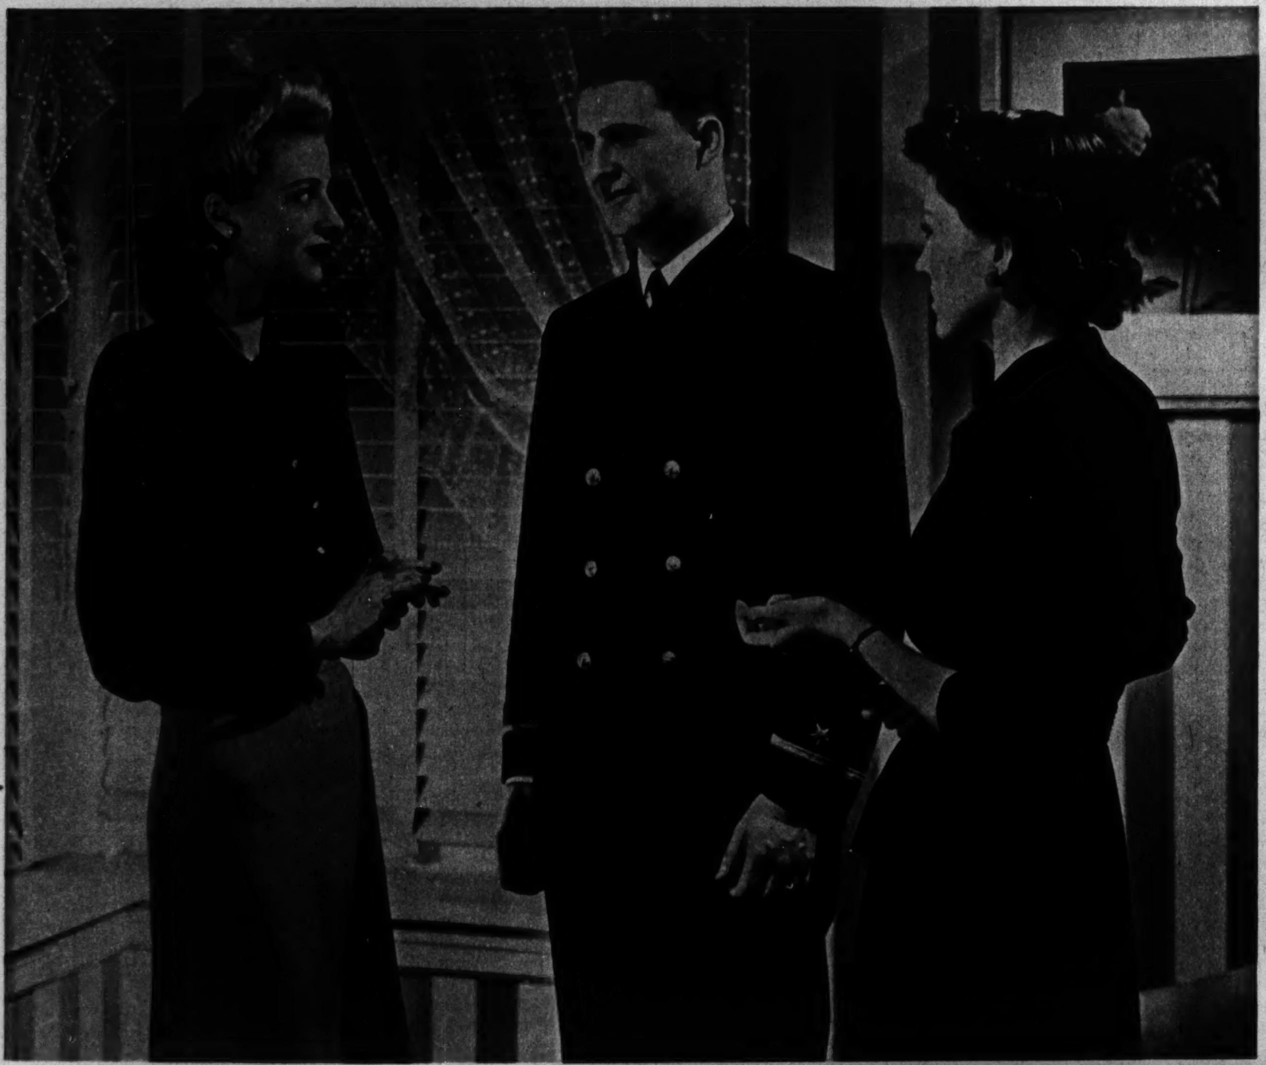
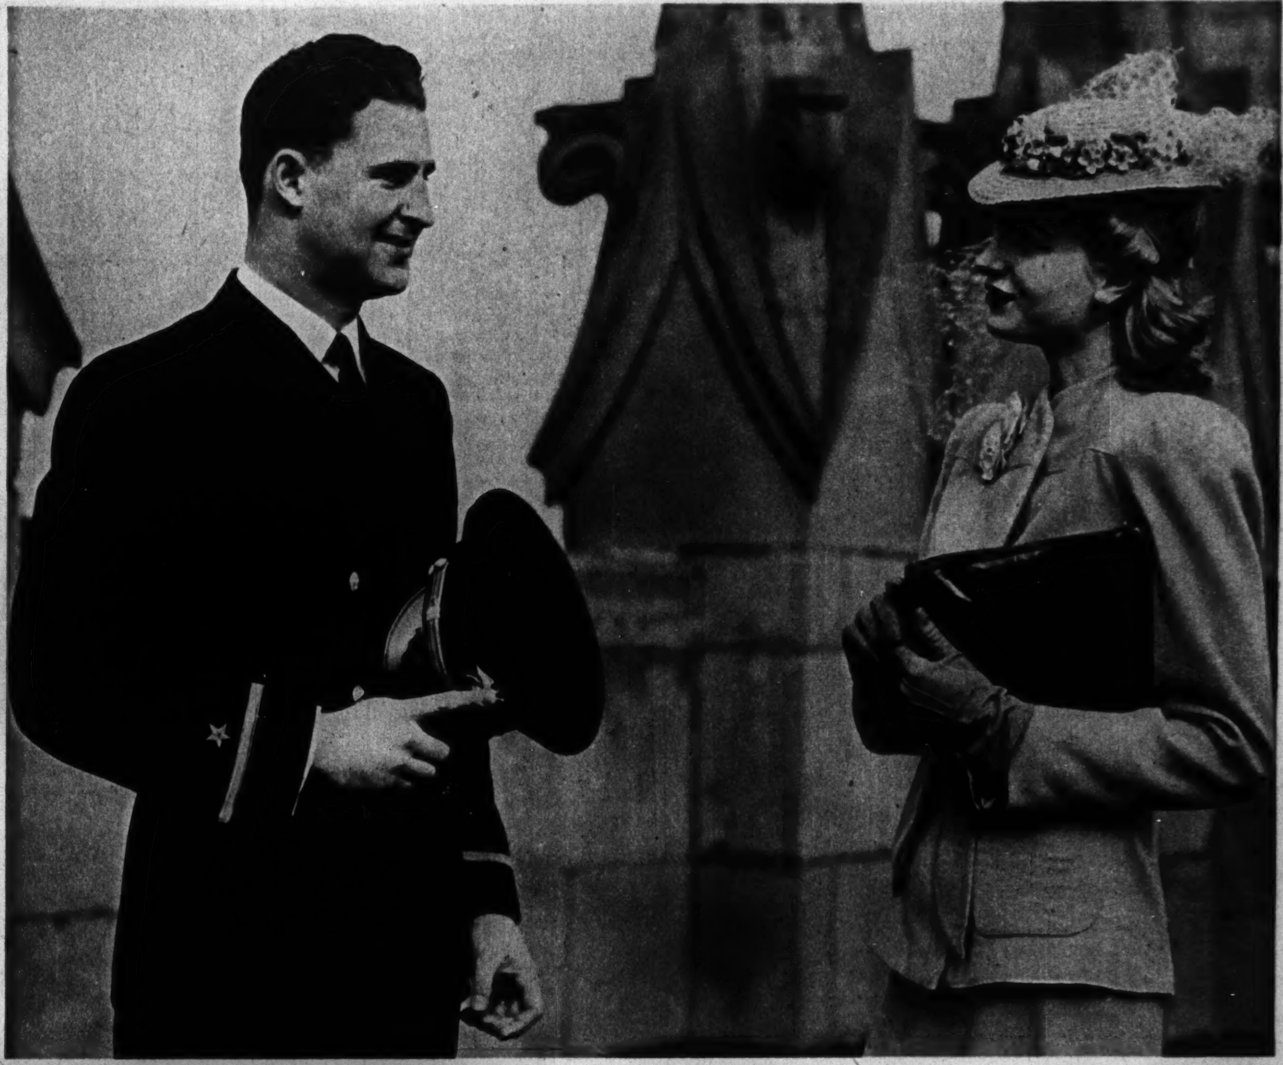
ETIQUET IN THE NAVY

The well-trained officer reflects credit on the service by correct manners, unostentatiously manifested. The photographs presented here were arranged in cooperation with the navy public relations office.

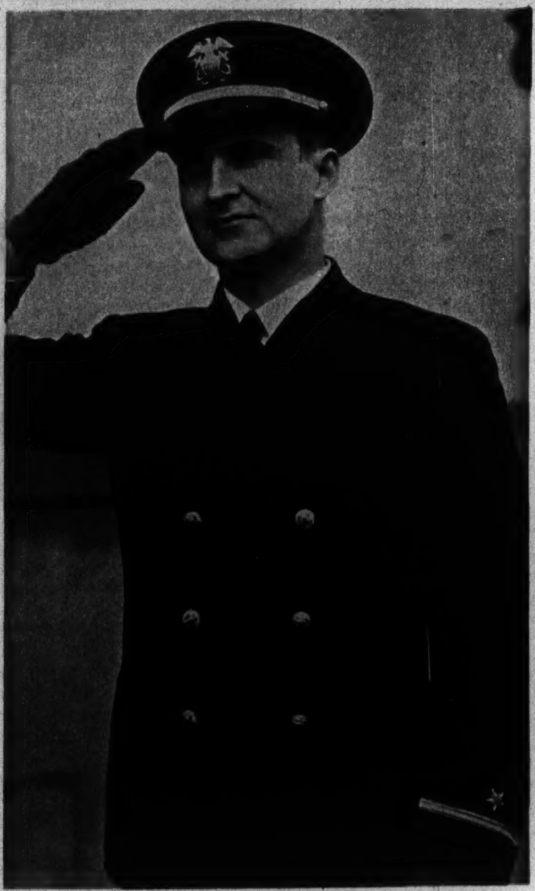


Naval officers are introduced by their titles: "Miss Smith, this is Ensign Howard." The officer being presented stands erect, heels together, facing the person to whom he is being introduced, and says, "How do you do."



The officer in uniform removes his cap or salutes on greeting civilians except when under arms; in that case he must salute and never remove his cap, except indoors.

Formal calls still are strictly observed in army and navy life. Such calls are terminated after 15 or 20 minutes, and leave is taken promptly without apology or excuse.

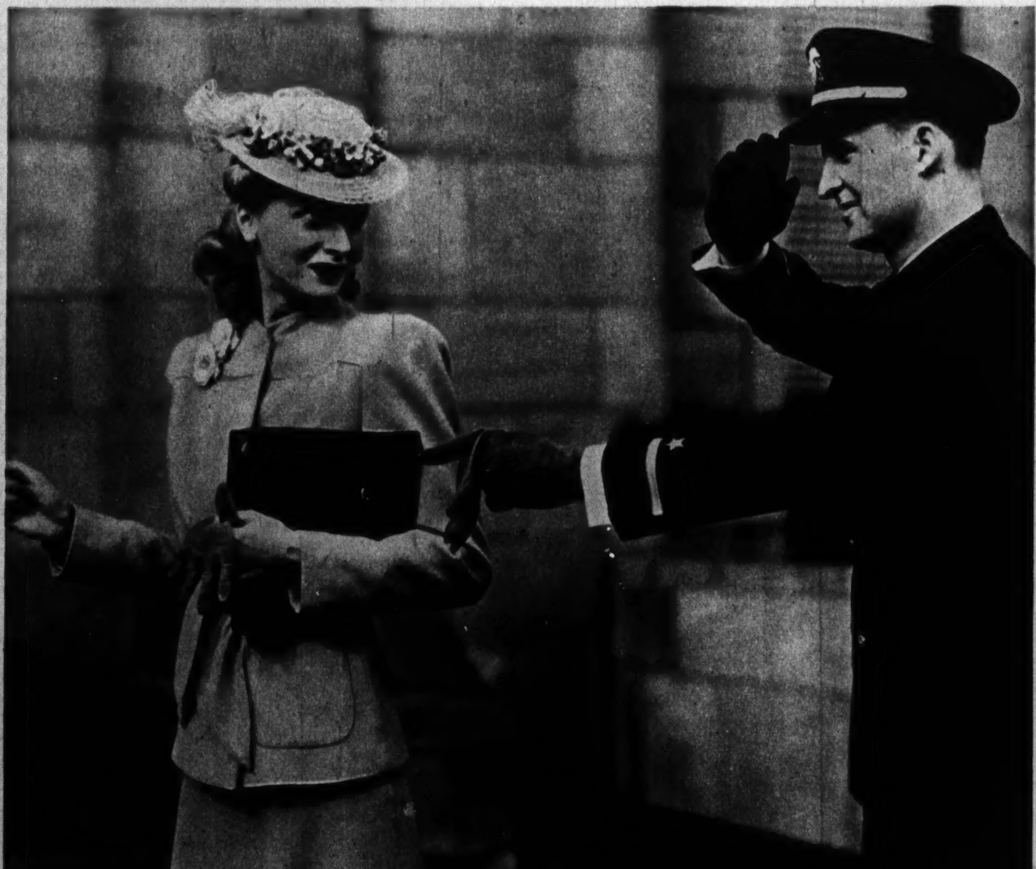


The salute is correctly executed by standing at attention and raising the right hand smartly until the tip of the forefinger touches the lower part of the headdress, or the forehead.

The correct officer may smoke, but not on the street.

The officer assists his lady by holding the chair for her as she is being seated, and again when she arises.

When dancing follows a dinner party, the officer must not fail to invite his dinner partner to dance, as well as his hostess and any lady guests of honor.



An officer in uniform, returning to a lady an article she has dropped, salutes or lifts his cap.

When the officer makes a social call, he does not offer his calling card to the hostess or the lady of the house; but, if it is an occasion for leaving a card, places it in a small silver tray which has been put on the hall table for that purpose. This he does when he departs. Should a servant answer the door in response to his ring, however, he may introduce himself by giving her his card.

I HAVE A NEW MAN FOR A HUSBAND!

Since I started him off on this wonderful breakfast with ALL of whole wheat's energy

"There's no need for fad diets when there are foods that give us the vitamins and minerals we need. And so I choose my menus carefully. Our breakfast seven days a week is that grand-tasting Nabisco Shredded Wheat and milk. And I'll tell you why . . ."

IMAGINE!—HE SMILES AT BREAKFAST!

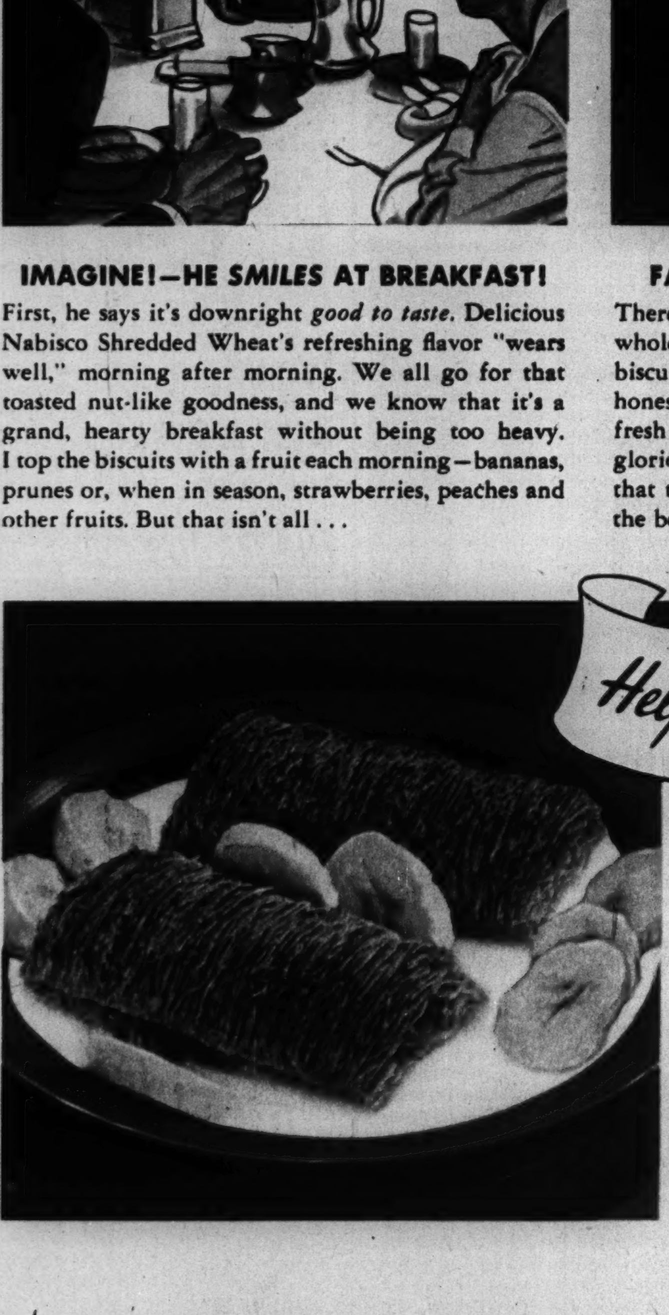
First, he says it's downright good to taste. Delicious Nabisco Shredded Wheat's refreshing flavor "wears well," morning after morning. We all go for that toasted nut-like goodness, and we know that it's a grand, hearty breakfast without being too heavy. I top the biscuits with a fruit each morning—bananas, prunes or, when in season, strawberries, peaches and other fruits. But that isn't all . . .

FAMILY FITNESS IS SO IMPORTANT!

There's all the energy of whole wheat—the pure whole grain—in Nabisco Shredded Wheat. Two biscuits and a cupful of milk with fruit provide an honest-to-goodness one-dish breakfast that, with fresh air and proper exercise, carries the whole family gloriously through the morning. No one can deny that the pure whole grain—whole wheat—is one of the best sources in the world, of needed food values.

LIFE IS LOTS MORE FUN

when we choose our foods for fitness as well as for good flavor. Important food values that nutritionists tell us are essential for family fitness, come to you in one dishful when your breakfast is Nabisco Shredded Wheat and milk. Millions have enjoyed Nabisco Shredded Wheat seven days a week, year after year. It is now featured at your food store. Be sure to order it by the full name—Nabisco Shredded Wheat.



Choose Your Family's Food With Care

Among the "preferred foods," say nutritionists, are the whole grain foods, especially those made of whole wheat. Nabisco Shredded Wheat is whole wheat in its most delicious form.

A Teenie Weenie Cyclone

ONE MONDAY morning the Teenie Weenie General stepped into the teapot where the Chinaman laundered the Teenie Weenies' clothes. The General handed a tiny suit of pajamas to the Chinaman.

"Be careful of these pajamas," the General said. "They were made for me by the Lady of Fashion and I greatly value them."

"Me velly calful," the Chinaman said.

There was little room for drying clothes in the teapot, and the Chinaman hung the pajamas outside on his tiny clothesline with many other Teenie Weenie garments.

The Chinaman was wringing out a Teenie Weenie tablecloth a little later when, happening to glance through his window, he saw that the sky was dark with clouds.

"Better take in clothes click!" he said.

But before he could reach the door there was a great rush of wind that fairly shook the old teapot. He ran to the window just in time to see the clothesline go down and to watch some of the tiny garments go sailing through the air in a cloud of dust and bits of old wastepaper.

"Gloodness me!" he cried. "Genelal's pajama cloat gone!"

The windstorm ceased almost as quickly as it had begun. The Chinaman opened the door to find that rose bush stems had blown over and had fallen against the teapot, knocking down his laundry sign and slightly damaging the awning over the door. He quickly gathered up the clothes which had remained pinned to the clothesline, but a number of the garments had been carried away by the wind. The General's pajama coat was among the missing things.

"Oh, me muchie shame. Me can't flind Genelal's pajama coat!" the Chinaman told the Teenie Weenies who ran over from the shoe house to see how much damage the wind had done in the neighborhood.

"Don't worry about the coat," said the General. "We'll probably find it."

Several of the Teenie Weenies were sent to help the Chinaman search for the missing clothes while the Sailor and the Dunce put the Chinaman's sign back in place and mended the awning. Others began sawing and chopping up fallen twigs which the wind had scattered around the shoe house where the little people lived.

The Teenie Weenies who had been sent out to help the Chinaman find the lost clothes soon returned with most of the garments, but the General's pajama coat could not be found. Though the General had told him not to worry and all the Teenie Weenies were trying to help him, the little Chinaman was on the verge of tears.

"I'll make the General another suit of pajamas," the Lady of Fashion promised, "and I'll embroider his initials on the coat."

Just then Tillie Titter, the sparrow, flew down and perched on the broken handle of the teapot with the missing pajama coat in her beak.

The Chinaman was so happy he turned a cartwheel. "You wait and me clook a thimbleful of lice for you," he said.

"I don't like lice," said Tilly, with an injured look.

"He means rice," laughed the Sailor, and Tilly joined all the Teenie Weenies in a hearty laugh.

CHESTER AND COUSIN JUNIPER FOUND AN OLD NEWSPAPER CONTAINING THE DEATH NOTICE OF AN AGED MAN WHO CLAIMED TO BE A DESCENDANT OF MORGAN, THE PIRATE— AMONG THE DECEASED MAN'S EFFECTS WAS A LONG CODE MESSAGE WHICH THE NEWSPAPER PRINTED—

GOSH! I HOPE YOU CAN SOLVE IT!!
AHOY!
HCC CB
GEE, I WONDER IF ANYONE EVER FIGURED OUT THIS CODE, COUSIN JUNIPER?
THERE'S A GOOD CHANCE NO ONE DID, CHESTER— THE NEWSPAPER PRINTED IT ON THE VERY DAY THAT THE OLD SPANISH-AMERICAN WAR BEGAN—
EVERYBODY WAS TOO EXCITED TO EVEN NOTICE THAT LITTLE NEWSPAPER ARTICLE—ALSO, IN THOSE DAYS, NOT MANY PEOPLE KNEW ENOUGH ABOUT CODES TO FIGURE THEM OUT— HMMM—
NOW, THE FIRST THING TO DO IN SOLVING A SECRET CODE MESSAGE IS TO FIND OUT WHICH LETTER APPEARS MOST IN IT—AND, IN THIS CASE, 'TIS THE LETTER "C"—
THAT'S RIGHT!
HCC CBF HCWCJDN JJREC
IN THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE, THE LETTER "E" APPEARS MOST FREQUENTLY—SO, PUT AN "E" UNDER EVERY "C" ON THE BLACKBOARD—

SANDHURST IS AN EXPERT AT DEALING WITH THE ENEMY... HE'LL DIVERT THEM BY HELPING CATCH US!... WHICH THEY WON'T DO, IF I CAN HELP IT!
IT'S ALL SO FUTILE, PAT! WE MAY HOLD OUT FOR A TIME.. BUT WE'RE SO FEW —AND THEY ARE SO MANY...
THAT DOESN'T SOUND LIKE YOU, NORMANDIE! YOU KNOW VERY WELL WHAT HAPPENS TO WOMEN PRISONERS! ...YOU WEREN'T HARMED BEFORE BECAUSE YOUR HUSBAND HAD CONNECTIONS WITH THE AXIS.. — HEY! HEAR THAT?
AIRPLANE..! —OH, PAT, THEY'RE AFTER US!
...THEY'LL TRY TO HEAD US OFF, TOO! —AND THIS JIGGLE WAGON WON'T RUN FOREVER WITHOUT GASOLINE!...
WH-WHY, PAT, THEY DIDN'T FIRE A SHOT!...DO YOU SUPPOSE THEY'RE JUST TRYING TO LOCATE US?
YOU'RE RIGHT, NORMANDIE! TANKS COST TOO MUCH FOR THEM TO DESTROY THEIR OWN WITH BOMBS! IT WOULD BE CHEAPER TO CUT US OFF! THEY COULD STARVE US OUT EVENTUALLY... BUT WE'LL TRY EVERYTHING FIRST...
BEHOLD! THE YANKEE FUGITIVE THINKS HE ESCAPES US BY HIDING AMONG THE TREES! —HE DOES NOT KNOW HOW CLEAR TANK TRACKS APPEAR FROM THE AIR! SUMMON THE GROUND TROOPS BY WIRELESS!
THE TRACKS ARE CLEAR... JUST AS THE OBSERVATION PLANE REPORTED! APPROACH THE TANK CAREFULLY! THE YANKEE WILL BE DESPERATE... BUT OUR ORDERS ARE TO CAPTURE THE FIRE CART INTACT!...
THE FOOL THINKS HE HAS CAMOUFLAGED THE TANK WITH BRANCHES! CRAWL TO THE SPOT AND GET UNDER HIS GUNS!
We don't make the same Pearl Harbor twice

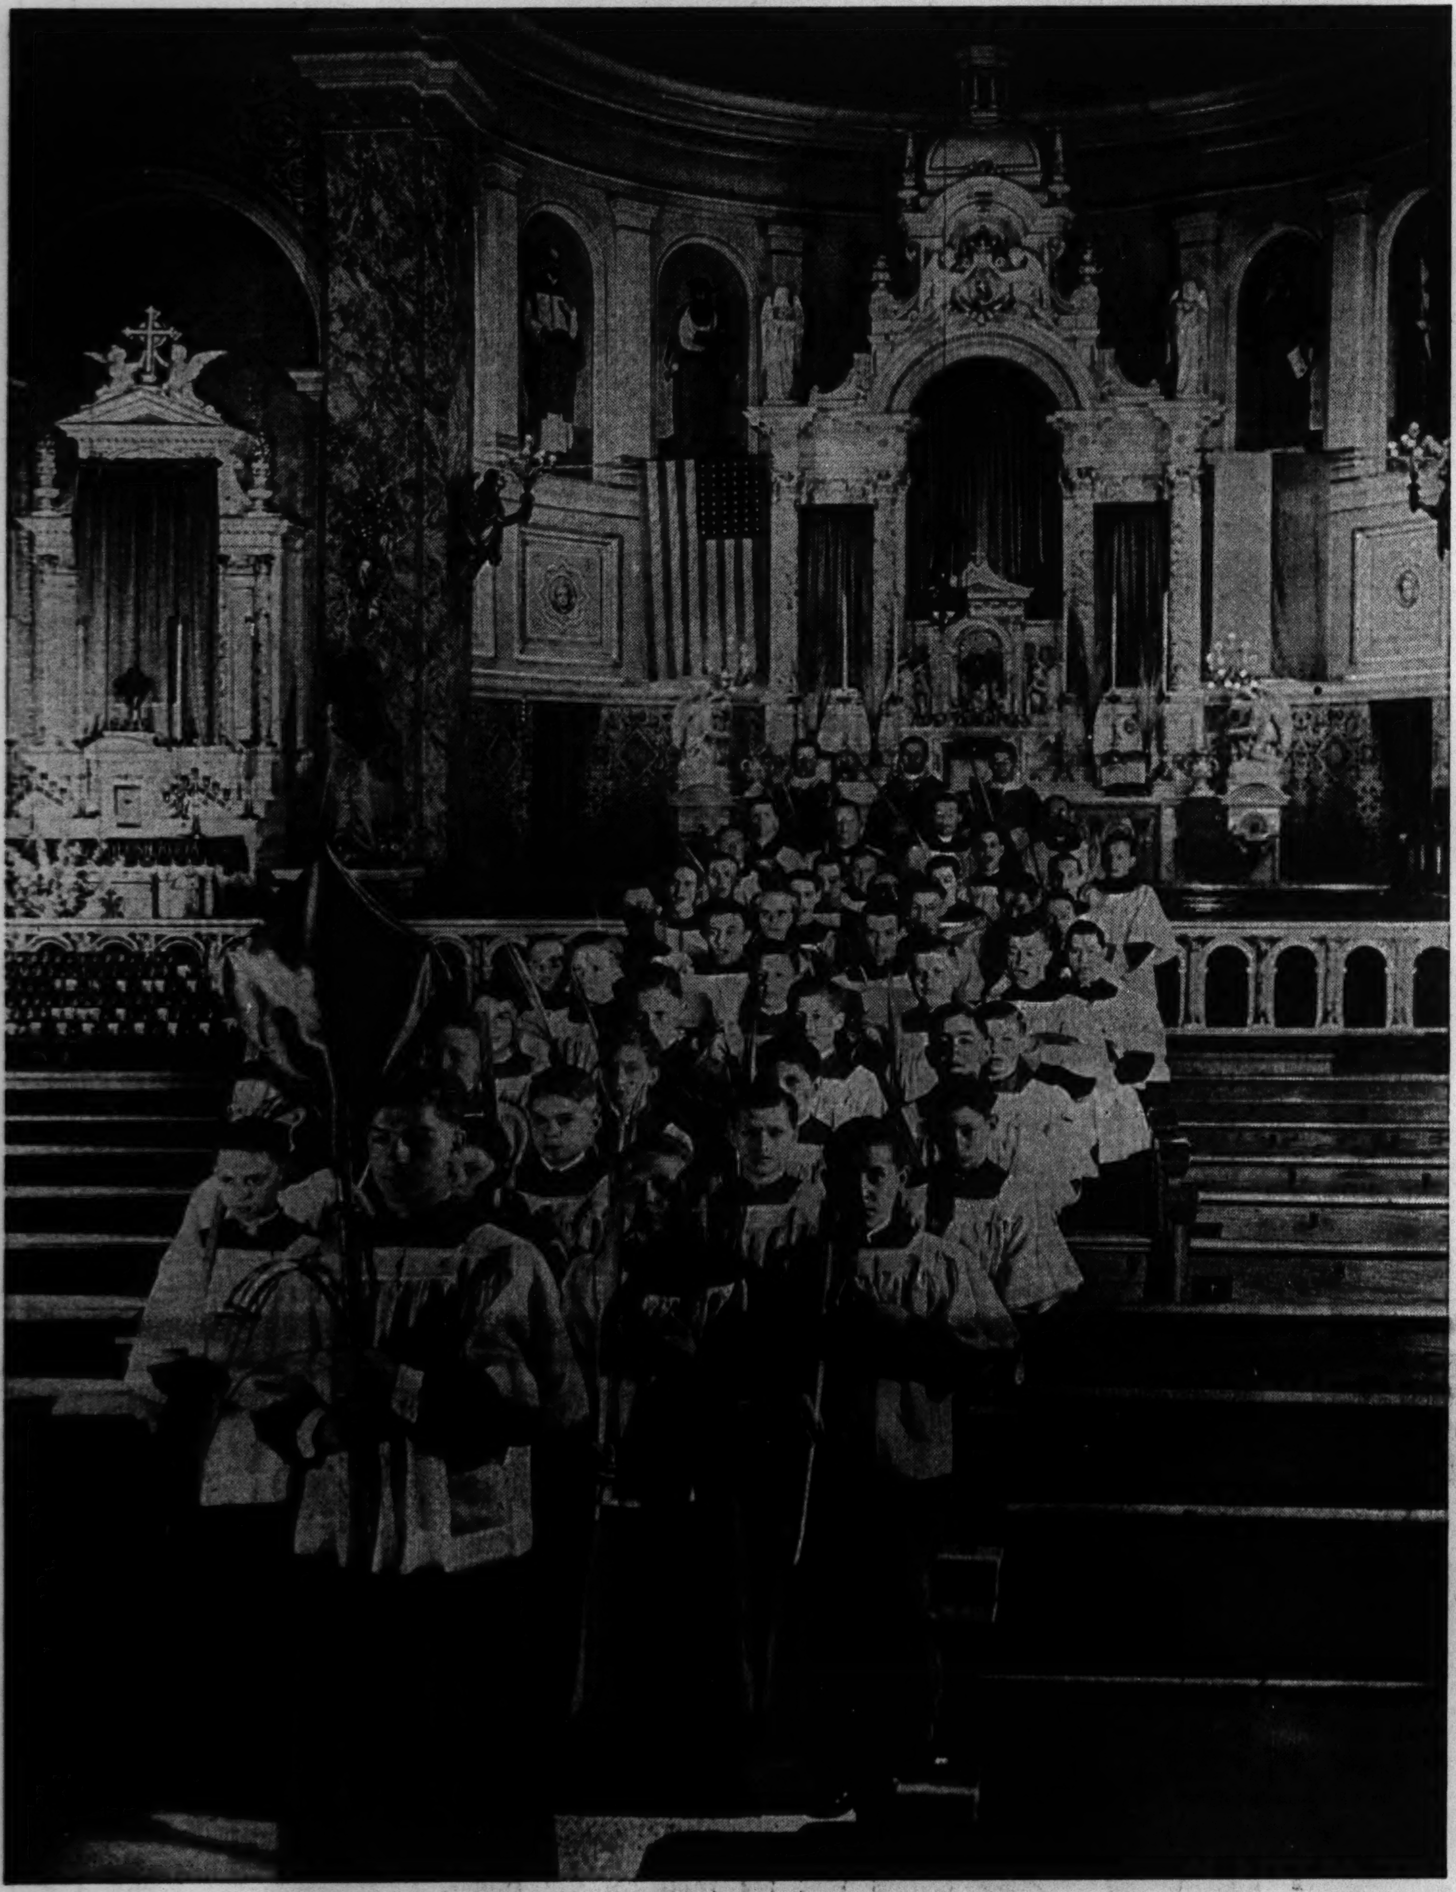
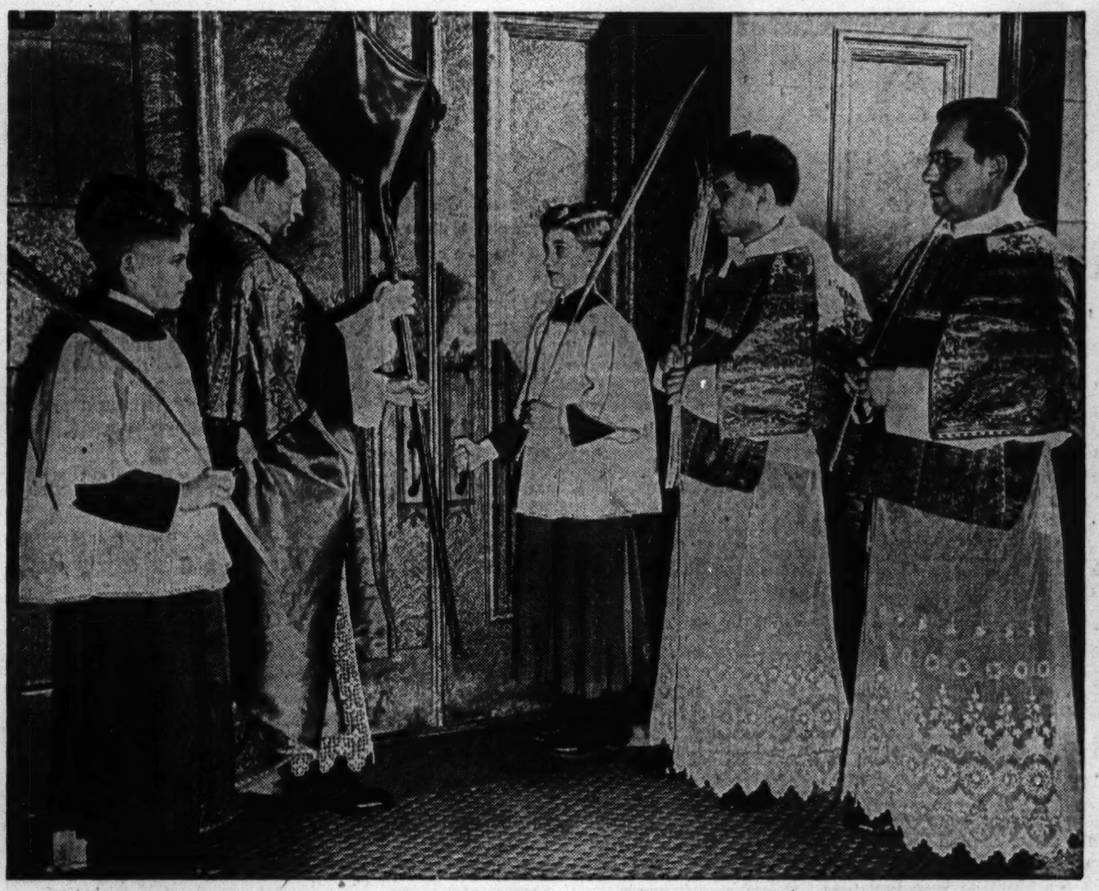
JOYOUS RITES OPEN HOLY WEEK TODAY

Impressive Ceremonies Will Mark Observance of Palm Sunday in Churches Today



The impressive ceremony of Palm Sunday—the blessing of palms, procession, and mass—is reviewed by the clergy, acolytes, and choir of St. Hyacinth's Catholic church, George street and Central Park avenue. The blessing and procession, commemorating the triumphant entry of Jesus into Jerusalem are both in a joyous mood. The mass, however, is dominated by the impending passion and death. The procession, led by the crucifer carrying the cross draped in purple, is shown leaving the church after the palms have been blessed at the altar. At the rear of the church the clergy and acolytes step into the vestibule and the door is closed between them and the choir.



Alternate verses of Bishop Theodulf of Orleans' Latin hymn "Gloria, laus et honor" (glory, praise, and honor) are sung by participants on either side of the closed door. The celebrant of the mass, the Rev. Theodore Klopotowski, C. R., then strikes the door three times with the foot of the cross, at the same time reciting the words of Psalm XXIII. The doors are then opened from the inside and the clergy and acolytes enter singing. The ceremony signifies that Jesus thru His death upon the cross reopened heaven which had been closed by sin. In the picture (left to right) are Edward Twaragowski, Father Klopotowski, Gerald Wasik, the Rev. Francis Lapinski, C. R., and the Rev. Valentine R. Lesiak, C. R. They return to the altar and the mass proceeds.

Presentation of the palms to be carried by the procession for blessing is the introductory ceremony of the Palm Sunday service. Acolytes Dennis Rachfal and Francis Ciochon kneel as they present palms to Father Klopotowski (center) and his assistants, Father Lesiak and Father Lapinski. Priests stand at the epistle or right corner of the altar. The choir meanwhile sings the antiphon, "Hosanna to the Son of David! Blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord! O King of Israel! Hosanna in the Highest!" A prayer, chanting of the epistle, and reading of the gospel, which tells of the entry of Jesus into Jerusalem, follow. The palm branches having been blessed, the celebrant of the mass gives the signal for departure and the procession begins.

Seek 500,000 to Hike Way Into Health

A half million hikers in the Chicago area by 1943. That is the goal of Lloyd A. Faxon and the action committee of the Hale America Hiking Clubs of Metropolitan Chicago, of which he is chairman.

Lloyd A. Faxon.

ASH CHARGES HIS G.O.P. OPPONENT IS A DEMOCRAT

Attack on Boyden Livens 29th District Race.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Harry Alexander Ash yesterday tossed fresh fuel on the sizzling contest in the 29th legislative district by declaring he is the Republican candidate for the senatorial nomination while William C. Boyden is the Democrats' candidate for the GOP nomination.

Harry A. Ash.

Meanwhile the 31st district struggle for the Republican senate nomination became increasingly bitter, with Lionel G. Thorsness' backers warning the voters against choosing any candidate of draft age. Legislators are exempt from the draft. The 31st is comprised of lake front wards north of the 29th to Devon avenue.

Ash in Intensive Drive.

Ash made his charge against Boyden in the midst of his intensive direct mail campaign to which he recently added billboards. He is running as an independent.

"As the campaign hastens toward its conclusion April 14, it becomes increasingly clear that the battle for senate nomination is chiefly between Boyden and me," Ash said. "There are important points which the Republican voters are entitled to know.

"I am a Republican candidate. Mr. Boyden is the candidate supported by the Democrats for the Republican nomination. To my mind his nomination would be a calamity for those true Republicans who had cast their ballots for him in the belief that he represented their own political views.

Hits at Dudley.

"My opponent's campaign manager, William Dudley, is a Democrat. He runs Mr. Boyden's campaign headquarters and currently is engaged in lining up precinct workers for his candidate. In the last election, Dudley performed these same duties with Larry Barrett, a Democrat, in behalf of John Stelle who was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor.

"My own Republican regularity dates back 27 years. In that period I have managed four successful state wide Republican campaigns. I served for eight years as first assistant attorney general under a Republican, and participated in the Republican campaigns of 1932, 1936, and 1940. In 1932 and 1936, when the outlook for a Republican victory was indeed bleak, my activity was none the less wholehearted.

Should Run on Own Ticket.

"I do not question the right of Democrat supported candidates to run for public office, but I submit that their proper place is on the Democratic ticket. When they are not so placed, our primary system fails of its purpose."

Samuel L. Workman, regular G. O. P. committeeman of the 42d ward, said that he is continuing to support Marvin J. Bas for the senate. Boyden's backers have taken away a number of the organization's precinct captains, however.

"I believe that Mr. Bas, more than any one else in the 42d ward, has carried the fight against bipartisanism and back room politics and has displayed great courage in his every move," Workman writes.

"I should also like to add that Mr. Bas is financially independent of politics in that he is capable of making a very substantial income from his law practice which is supplemented by income from a farm which he owns."

William H. Rankin.

Marvin J. Bas.

Rankin Gets Faction Support.

The organization of Charles E. Peace, who was defeated for ward committeeman by Workman in 1940, is putting its weight behind William H. Rankin for senator. Rankin is aided with top place on the ballot list and is spreading the word that Boyden lives in the 43d ward, which has only four precincts in the district.

Rankin also has the support of the National Republican Party of Cook County [Deneen group]. He is a commodities broker with J. S. Bache & Co. and a member of the Chicago Mercantile exchange.

THIRTY-FIRST DISTRICT

Automatic exemption from the draft granted to state legislators came in for considerable attention last week at the headquarters of Lionel G. Thorsness, one of the nine candidates for the Republican nomination for senator. This thrust the ages of candidates into the foreground.

Thorsness' supporters, pointing to his World War I. record, declared that a G. O. P. nominee of military age would be handicapped in the fall campaign against the Democrats. Thorsness, who is 46 years old, spent 15 of his 28 months of army service overseas.

Frank Prete Boosts Thorsness.

Frank P. Prete, past commander of the 6th division of the American Legion and possessor of the distinguished service cross, was one spokesman.

"I feel that Thorsness will be of greater help to his country by working in Springfield than many of his opponents who would be of more service in uniform," Prete stated.

Emerson C. Whitney, 48th ward committeeman, is 32 years old. The youngest candidate, Walter S. Rady, is only 29. S. E. Kramer is 34. John E. Babb is 35. John W. Bennett is 44, and Frank Haggerty is 52. Two candidates did not return questionnaires.

Because of this situation, Thorsness' supporters say that he is the only strong candidate to qualify for the office under war conditions.

Four Principal Contenders.

Thorsness, Babb, Kramer, and Whitney are the principal contenders for the nomination. Milton D. Smith, the main Democratic candidate in the primary, is 49 years old; this is said to sharpen Thorsness' point.

Homer A. Dodge, who was the Republican nominee in 1938 and 1934, released a letter he wrote Feb. 9, declining the offer of organized support if he would run again. In this letter he quotes from the selective training and service act the provision that legislators and other elected state officials are deferred from military service.

"Altho it may not be necessary to call into service a man with a wife and child to support, and who is 41 years of age, as I am, I have no intention of placing myself under a legal umbrella which would automatically exempt me," Dodge wrote.

Men 20 to 44 Should be Ready.

"I firmly believe that every man between the ages of 20 and 44, inclusively, should in this hour of national need hold himself available for his country's call to military duty."

Babb has the support of the National Republican Party of Cook County [Deneen group] and some other organized help. Kramer has the backing of Attorney General George F. Barrett.

Whitney has been accused by his opponents of having so-called pink connections. Kramer produced photostatic copies of letters to show that as supervisor of complaints for the state department of registration the ward committeeman is using state time and premises for political purposes.

Denies "Pink" Charges.

Whitney replied, in part, that all public officials carry on political business during office hours. As to the "pink" charges, Whitney said they were the bunk but added:

"I am the most liberal Republican in Illinois."

He said he has the support of the CIO and the AFL, altho the joint labor legislative board of the latter has not indorsed him.

He had a thick scrapbook of press clippings which he pointed out one by one, and said that he had six other press scrapbooks of equal size. He also sang several of his own songs for this reporter, apologizing for the fact that laryngitis spoiled the true tonal qualities of his voice.

"Everybody on the north side knows me as the singing ward committeeman," said the voluble candidate.

Admits Music Gets Votes.

From Whitney's office came a statement which reads in part:

"Emerson C. Whitney, singing 48th ward G. O. P. committeeman, is one candidate who gets a lot of fun out of a political race. In 1940 when he beat out two veteran campaigners for the position, he astonished every one by singing his compaign speeches accompanied by his pretty wife, Helen, and her guitar. Voters flocked to his meetings, and in the election gave him almost as many votes as all his opponents together received."

The candidate for state lawmaker gives his verses for a song he sings to the tune of the "Ferryboat Serenade," of which one is:

"I have never ridden on a subway,
"I have always gone the Packard-club way,
"But, if we ever really get a subway,
"I shall use the tube nearly every time."

To some the reference to "Packard-club" may be obscure, but Mr. Whitney proudly explained that his car is a Packard.

Pens Song About Opponent.

His newest song is about Thorsness, to the tune of "I Didn't Know that Loving Was So Good":

"I didn't know that running was so good [was so good]
"That was long before I understood [understood]
"Ever since I lost my master's fee,
"I've been seeking more publicity,
"Now to stop my running, no one ever could [ever could]
"I've made up my mind I'm going to run 'til the day I die ['till I die]
"I'll not wait for pie up in the sky [in the sky]
"I want a job, any job, and how!
"So I'll never stop doing what I'm doing now!
"'Cause I didn't know that running was so good!"

"Mr. Whitney comes by his talent naturally," his statement says. "His mother was on the stage and so was his only brother. His father was an artist."

The candidate said that his brother now is in the army and his father is a state paint shop foreman.

Wrote Musical Comedy, Too.

"Mr. Whitney wrote 'Sweet Land of Liberty,' a full length musical comedy produced in 1939 by the National Lawyers guild," the statement continues. "He also wrote 'Life Begins in 1940,' produced in 1940 at the Drake hotel by the Women's Bar association. Several of his songs are now being played over the air waves.

"In his calmer moments he is a trial lawyer, master in chancery, coordinator for the legal profession of the civilian morale committee of the Chicago commission on national defense, and supervisor of complaints for the state department of registration."

Whitney said he is a candidate only because the honor was forced upon him.

Says Governor Told Him to Run.

"First I told the other committeemen I wanted to run Alexander, then Pickard, then Jonas, then Friedman, but they wouldn't approve," the candidate said. "Even then I ran only because Gov. Green and Jack Dempsey [Cook county G. O. P. chairman] said that I had to.

"I would rather keep my $4,200 a year job and pick the senatorial candidate, because he'd do what I wanted him to, anyway."

Whitney's campaign slogan on his billboards, "He knows what time it is," has been causing him some annoyance. Many persons have telephoned his home late at night merely to inquire: "What time is it, Mr. Whitney?"

LIBRARY CLUB AT GLENCOE TO MARK 68TH YEAR

Historical Display to Be Seen Wednesday.

The 68th birthday of the Woman's Library club of Glencoe will be the occasion for a historical display depicting the club's seven decades at the club meeting Wednesday. The actual birthday is Friday, but the celebration will be held on the regular session day.

The Glencoe club grew from a small reading group whose members had such assignments as "looking up in Webster's dictionary 10 unusual words encountered in reading." Now the club has its own clubhouse; it is departmentalized and federated.

Because the life and growth of the club has been closely interwoven with that of the village, the Glencoe Historical society also is providing a display at the clubhouse. Mrs. John A. Grant is in charge of the Historical society exhibit.

Mrs. Harry T. Booth is arranging for the club display. The clubhouse doors will be open at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning so that members will have ample time to see the material shown before the session begins at 2 o'clock.

Donald McGibeny, radio news commentator, will be the speaker. Mrs. E. Arthur Robertson will be in charge of the social hour. Mrs. W. Albert Kemp and Mrs. Albert L. Lanphear will act for the hospitality committee.

Wilmette Woman's Club.

The verse speaking choir of New Trier High school, a group of 25 girls under direction of Louise Lambert Zeigler, will open the Wednesday program at the Woman's club of Wilmette. The girls will appear at 11 o'clock. They will give selections that include modern poetry and scriptural readings. Mrs. F. A. Cushing Smith will introduce them.

Mrs. P. J. Myalls will give a talk on cathedrals at 11:50 o'clock. Mrs. Horace A. Young, chairman of the art department, will introduce her. Luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock.

Graham Hutton, director of the British press service in Chicago, will be the afternoon speaker.

Woman's Club of Evanston.

Tuesday will be "Writers' Holiday" at the Woman's club of Evanston. The day will begin at 10:30 o'clock when there will be a reading of all of the poetry submitted in the annual competition. The audience will have ballots and will vote on the best.

Mrs. Hubert Hardy, luncheon and dinner chairman, will arrange for a luncheon at noon when Mrs. Francis M. Schieble, adviser to the creative writing class, will present the awards. Miss Mary V. Farnum, creative writing chairman, will preside. Guests will be Mrs. Edward R. Ladd, club president, Mrs. Harper Leach, instructor and critic for the poetry class, and Miss Mildred Reid, prose instructor.

The afternoon session will open at 2 o'clock. Miss Hope Summer, Evanston reader and founder and director of the Evanston Guild theater, will read "The Land Is Bright," the play by Edna Ferber and George Kaufmann. Tea will follow.

Mrs. Oliver R. Aspegren, home and social service chairman, and her department members are arranging a party for shut-ins at the clubhouse at 2 o'clock tomorrow. Members will call for the guests and take them home. Dr. Arvilla McCall and Miss Catherine McCall will entertain the guests with their colored motion pictures of travels thru western states.

Mrs. Harold M. Mattson will be party chairman and in charge of the tea afterwards.

Highland Park Woman's Club.

"Old Charleston Gardens" will be the lecture subject at the Highland Park club's meeting Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Frank Dunn will be the speaker, and she will use colored slides to illustrate her talk. The club garden group is coöperating in this program.

Mrs. Charles G. Mason, chairman of the collectors study group, will present Ruth Clarahan in a lecture at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning. The subject, "Grandmother's China Closet," will provide the background for an exhibit of old china. Luncheon will be at noon.

Talent Auditions Tomorrow.

The first of three special auditions programs sponsored by the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs will be held at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening in the Woman's Club of Evanston, Chicago avenue and Church streets. Announcement of the program comes from Mrs. Charles C. Wells, Evanston, chairman of the federation program bureau.

The second audition will be held April 13 at the Nineteenth Century club, Oak Park, and the third on April 20 at Ridge park fieldhouse on the southwest side. The auditions are arranged to aid both junior and senior club women in planning next year's programs. A variety of talent will be presented.

Tomorrow evening's program artists will include: Marie Stephenson, reader; Vera Megowen, dietitian; Everett L. Edmundson, director of aeronautics, Northwestern university Technological institute; Eugenia Smestisko, who will give an illustrated lecture on "Russia as I Knew It"; Olga Rasenova, dramatic reader; Dean and Alice McSloy, baritone and soprano; Michael Signorelli, tenor; the Merrell trio, and the drama group from the Woman's Club of Evanston under the direction of James Bradley-Griffin.

The hostesses for the evening will be: Mrs. Edward R. Ladd, president of the Woman's Club of Evanston; Mrs. James M. Massie, president of the 10th district; Mrs. Arthur L. ZIONS' PASSION PLAY FEELS WAR'S INROADS ON YOUNG MEN IN CAST

When the cast of the Zion Passion play, which opens its 1942 season at 3 o'clock Easter Sunday in the Zion auditorium, assembled for rehearsals early this year, draft classifications began to be as important in getting rôles as they have been in getting jobs.

Ten regulars are already in the armed service. Bernard Beem, Samuel Neal, and Roger Brown are in the navy. Philip Bales, David Wedekind, and John Kutz are in the army air force. James Green, Delbert Detienne, David Rooks, and Stephen La Bell are in the army. While none had a leading rôle, all had parts wherein they were "voices" in various scenes. So that those "voices" will not be further disturbed this season, the young men's places are being filled by older regulars already in the cast. They are doubling in their parts.

The play will be given at 3 o'clock every Sunday thru June 28. There will be on evening performance—April 23 at 8 o'clock. The play is three hours long. It presents the story of Jesus' ministry to men. Among the events unfolded are the Last Supper, the agony in the garden, the betrayal, trials before Caiaphas, Herod, and Pilate, the crucifixion, resurrection, and ascension. The cast is made up of members of the Christian Catholic church, Zion, and it is directed by Elder Jaber Taylor.

CHURCH RAISES $3,500 IN PAPER SALVAGE DRIVE

Volunteer workers of the Christ Episcopal Church of Waukegan for more than a year have been averaging almost a ton a day in a waste paper salvage drive and with the proceeds, totaling $3,500, are helping pay off the church debt.

Spark plug of the drive is Dean Howard Ganster, rector, who last summer escorted 20 boys and girls in groups of five on a tour of Washington, D. C., and surrounding territory as reward for their paper salvaging efforts. Each child had collected at least one ton of paper.

The paper is sold to a manufacturer of roofing paper now used extensively by the government on army and navy barracks.

PADDOCK-CHURCH SCRAP HIGHLIGHT ON NORTH SHORE

Gen. Dawes Gives Support to Incumbent.

BY HAROLD SMITH.

The Paddock-Church battle for the Republican nomination in the 10th [north shore] district continued to outshadow all other congressional contests in the north sector last week.

There was some diminution in the pointed personalities that had characterized the earlier utterances of the two principal G. O. P. candidates. Paddock, busy in Washington, continued reinforcement of his working group in regular party circles with an imposing array of prominent aid. Church, who is making his fight without regular organization backing, kept up his attacks on Paddock's house voting record.

Dawes Aids Paddock Cause.

Paddock headquarters announced that Gen. Charles Gates Dawes, former Vice President of the United States, had accepted chairmanship of the George A. Paddock Service Men's corps. The 32 others named on this committee are leaders in service men's organizational work.

Ald. Clinton Merrick of Evanston made public a letter he received recently from John C. Eberhart, assistant professor of psychology at Northwestern university, in which Congressman Paddock's labors in the nation's capital received high praise.

Eberhart reported he had spent about eight months in Washington last year studying the work of congress as a fellow of the Social Science Research council. Paddock's was one of approximately 50 congressional offices he investigated, Eberhart reported.

Paddock's Office Busy.

"Mr. Paddock's office is one of the small number having three secretaries on full time duty," the Eberhart letter said. "They handle promptly and resourcefully a volume of mail and other transactions larger than almost any other congressman's. No office among the many I observed kept longer hours or was more businesslike."

Among indorsements given Congressman Paddock was that of the Women's Republican club of New Trier township, which includes the villages of Wilmette, Kenilworth, Winnetka, and Glencoe. It is a strong political group, maintaining 41 precinct leaders and 450 individual workers who will make house-to-house visits thru the township just before the primary.

Clarifies Seniority Rule.

One release from Paddock headquarters set forth that seniority rights in congress are based on continuous service. It cited an actual instance to show that when a veteran member of the house returns after a break in his continuous service, he is ranked in seniority matters as tho he were assuming house membership for the first time.

The release stated that the seniority information was intended "to clarify an issue that may be raised in the campaign."

Church headquarters announced that several women's groups have been formed along the north shore to work for Church's nomination. In Winnetka, these women are headed by Mrs. D. Bligh Grasett and Mrs. E. A. Howard. Six members of the executive board of the Evanston Women's Republican club have relinguished those duties temporarily to work for the same cause, the announcement said.

Deneen Group Indorses Church.

The 48th ward National Republican organization, part of a group formed from remnants of the machine built up by the late Charles Deneen, announced last week its indorsement of Church for the 10th district post.

Church himself, in a speech to the Goodfellows club in Evanston, attacked Paddock's voting record and enumerated measures he, Church, had supported which are now of aid in the nation's war effort. These included the reopening of the Great Lakes naval training station and the acquisition by the navy of the old Curtiss-Reynolds airport in Glenview.

First Issue Is to Win War.

"The first issue in this campaign, as in the nation, is how soon and how best we can make an all out effort to win this war," Church said.

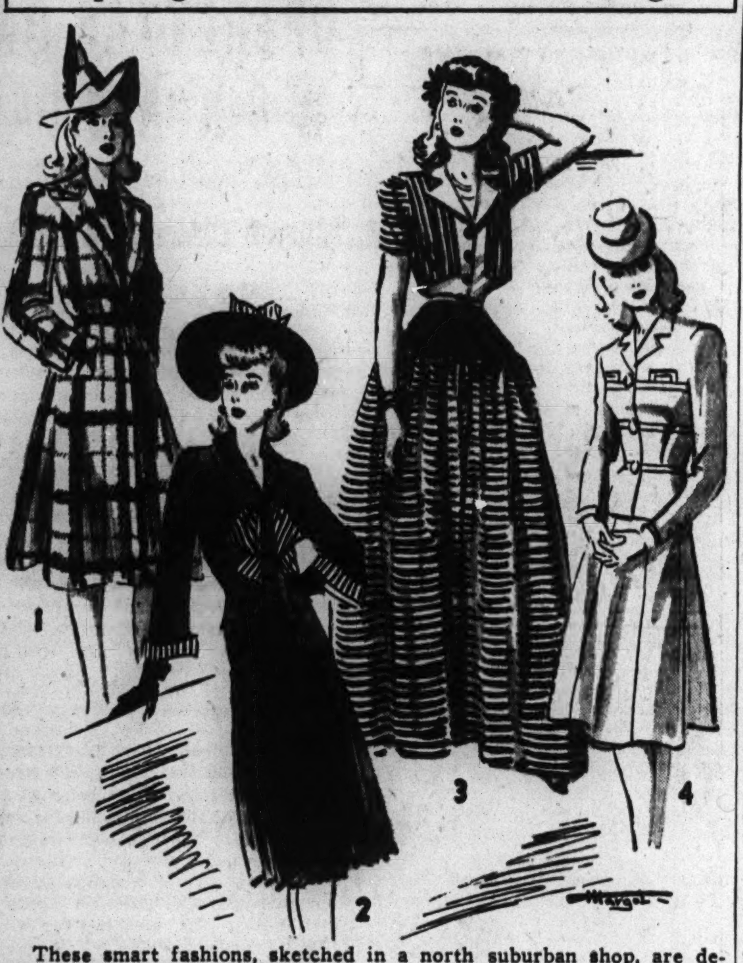
"America is fast realizing that promises will not do it, nor the leaderless, confused meanderings of a pension-minded congress primarily concerned with its own reëlection.

"The congressional record shows that during the 15 months the [10th district] incumbent has been in congress he has voted against practically every measure for defense up to the very minute the bombs fell on Pearl Harbor."

Wilson Avenue Y to Show Religious Film Tomorrow

Wilson Avenue YMCA, 1725 Wilson avenue, will present a religious film entitled "Golgotha," the story of the last days of Christ, at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening in the main gymnasium.

Spring Fashions Are Flattering



These smart fashions, sketched in a north suburban shop, are described in an adjoining column.

SUBURBAN SHOPS BOOST EASTER'S FASHION PARADE

Feminine Clothes Get 'Spring Welcome.

BY REA SEEGER.

Smart suburban shops are filled with spring fashions, from the casually cut, swanky sports and spectator sports clothes to new dinner and evening gowns. There are all kinds of bright new hats, gay costume accessories, and outstanding displays of blouses, probably the most important and popular item for any wardrobe this spring of suits and then more suits.

Designed for the dress parade hours of the afternoon and the cocktail 5 to 7 duty are the flattering, extremely feminine models in navy and black highlighted with lace, net, chiffon, and ruffle trim.

Dresses for Mature Figures.

There are many dresses with short sleeves, many pseudo suit combines that look like dresses with a choice of short or long sleeves. And the dresses and gowns for the mature figure are as abundant and as high fashion as those for the petite streamlines.

Eye filling plaid coats have a definite flair for swagger plus a most enviable quality as an all purpose coat for suburban life as well as travel. Dark dress coats of fine wool, and heavy silk are star attractions for the commuter. Hats to complement such coats are legion, from the saucy little sailors to the flowered arrangements resembling a florist's dream of an outsize corsage.

Gloves, bags, jewelry, and the blouses that include both the severely tailored versions to the brand new much be-frilled and ruffled creations complete the finds for the Easter wardrobe shopper.

Clothes of High Fashion.

You can easily assemble a distinctive wardrobe or a costume in the shops of suburban Chicago. The new collections are high fashion, colorful, and interestingly priced.

Sketched are four spring models to be found in a well known suburban shop for smart women.

1. Plaid wool top coat in a choice of three color combines. The sleeves are wide and loose, the skirt flares and there is a leather belt for contrast.

2. Clever two piece suit costume in dark color accented with a narrow striped taffeta bow collar and cuffs. The skirt is pleated to accentuate the short fitted jacket.

3. One of the smart new dinner dresses uses yards of striped taffeta for the full skirt and the brief short sleeved jacket. A band of grass green provides the color contrast in the skirt, the blouse top is of white crepe with green and white buttons.

4. One of the season's best paeudo suits, it's really a one piece costume, in fine wool, with a simulated jacket top. It comes in both street shades and vivid colors.

NEW BATHROOM FIXTURES SAVE VALUABLE SPACE

Cicero House Gets Spring Renovation.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

The arrival of spring this year reveals a wide variety of remodeling projects and various kinds of work accomplished these last months. In many instances the renovations have added space to an existing house. Sometimes this space has been gained by a new wing or a new inclosed porch, ingenious use of a wasted attic or basement, and again by the installation of new, compact plumbing fixtures and heating equipment in place of older and bulkier equipment.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Grat, 2527 61st avenue, Cicero, recently remodeled the bathroom of their home, a room which was nearly 20 years old. As Mrs. Grat said:

"We didn't alter the actual size of the room but with our new fixtures we have more space and the bathroom seems larger."

Fixtures More Compact.

Modern heating and plumbing fixtures are in most cases much more compact and space saving than those of two decades ago and this is an important factor in the remodeling of older rooms where space is at a premium.

In the Grat home a low built-in tub fits neatly into a corner, thus making available the space which formerly was wasted behind and beneath it, and at either end. By this one change alone the bathroom now has storage space—two wide, deep drawers where once the old style tub sood. The new tub also has a new convenience feature, a wide flare to its outer wall which forms a comfortable seat.

The modern lavatory is likewise a space-saver. The old protruding, slightly bulbous lavatory with stopper at end of a chain, cut off inches of space. Now in its place there's a slim little fixture with a long deep basin, a pop-up waste regulated at the spout and a nice wide shelf back for toilet accessories. [A very usable feature, this shelf, according to Mrs. Grat, as a handy place for makeup and shaving articles.]

Peach Tones Used.

The bathroom is carried out in warm peach tones. There's a tile floor in a mottled effect of peach, gray, and black. The walls, for a little more than halfway up are in peach tile with a black trim and the upper wall has been painted peach. There's a peach and silver shower curtain which all but hides the small water-saving shower head that can be adjusted to any stream, a soft gentle flood or an invigorating needle spray.

Near this tub are two grab bars—a small one combined with a soap dish is a safety gadget for the tub bather, and the slim, chromium grab bar, higher on the wall, is in easy reach of the shower bather.

Colorful Design in Rug.

The soap dish over the tub and the one near the lavatory as well as the glass holder above the lavatory are all of peach. On the floor is a peach colored rug enlivened with designs in pink and aqua and the towels are peach and black.

No shadows dim your vision in the mirror of the new medicine cabinet. It has indirect lighting, which is a comfort compared with older types of mirror lighting. And there's also an electrical outlet for the razors of the men in the family.

Traffic Police Studying Conditions in Wartime

Traffic police officers from all parts of the country are attending a special two weeks training school at the Northwestern university traffic institue. They study handling of traffic under such wartime conditions as blackouts, air raids, civilian evacuations, and disasters. Lieut. F. M. Kreml is director of the institute.

This WEEK in the GARDEN

Monday, March 30

The advancing season and the great increase in gardening make it imperative that gardeners make their plans to begin work as soon as the weather is warm enough. Think first of the things you wish to grow, whether your garden will be devoted to vegetables or a combination of flowers and vegetables or flowers alone.

Soil conditions must be considered no matter what plants are grown. Even at this time decayed manure can be procured and made ready to spade into the soil when the soil is fit, or until it is dry enough that it will not stick to the spade. A soil that forms a crust on the surface should have an abundance of humus incorporated in it.

Tuesday, March 31

Plant trees, shrubs, and hardy vines as soon as the nursery can supply them. Do not use too many trees or shrubs on the small yard. Tall shrubs should not be planted where dwarf kinds should go. Note the shrubs under some windows, how they must be cut back each year and are never satisfactory. Note, too, the yards that are overplanted with trees when half the number would suffice.

Wednesday, April 1

When laying out the shrubbery border do not use too many kinds; repeat the kinds so the effect will not be spotty. Shrubs should have good soil. In transplanting dig the holes large enough to accommodate the roots easily. Tamp the soil firmly around the roots and water well.

Too few hardy vines are used and yet they lend a pleasing effect. The wild grape is especially useful where a strong vine is wanted, and by proper pruning a considerable amount of fruit will be produced.

Thursday, April 2

Fast growing annuals can be started from seeds. If a coldframe is available the seeds do best if started in it. Uncover bulb beds and gently shake up the covering on mulch. When the buds show give an application of a complete balanced plant food and larger flowers will be obtained.

When spading the garden do not take huge spadefuls, take thin slices and break them up as the work progresses. Order roses and plant as soon as possible. When planting firm the soil around the plants and give a good watering.

Friday, April 3

The gardener who sows seeds thick must use extra care when watering. The seedlings, if left alone without thinning, are certain to grow tall and spindly, and they are difficult to establish out of doors. Sow thin and avoid this trouble.

This also is true when sowing out of doors and it is a real waste. Do not sow deep as the seeds cannot push above the surface. Watch the flats of seedlings and transplant to the coldframe or another flat as soon as the plants can be easily handled.

Saturday, April 4

If you have a gift azalea and it is thru flowering, keep it in the coolest spot you have, above freezing, and when all danger from frost has passed plunge the pot to the rim in a semisandy spot out of doors.

House plants can now be transplanted. Palms, aspidistras, sansevierias, pandans, and others of a similar type should not be transplanted into extra sized containers even tho they are large. Simply take a stick and remove as much soil as possible from the top of the pot and replace with new rich soil.

Sheridan Community Club.

Community club of Sheridan park will meet for the monthly dinner at 6:30 o'clock today at the Wilson avenue YMCA. A program will follow. Mrs. Jesse Waters is dinner chairman. Mrs. Joseph Schubert and Mrs. J. A. Larsen will be hostesses. Mrs. James Moore is program chairman. D. E. Greenlees is president of the club.

INDIAN MELODIES WILL BE HEARD AT ROGERS PARK

Native to Give Program for Club Tuesday.

Indian tribal melodies and folklore will make up the program of Ataloa, Chickasaw Indian woman, who will be at the Rogers Park Woman's club, 7077 North Ashland avenue, Tuesday afternoon. Ataloa is an alumna of the Oklahoma College for Women, and holds a master's degree from Columbia university.

The morning session, opening at 10:30 o'clock, will be in charge of Mrs. Stephen W. Doty, legislation chairman. She will introduce David A. Bridewall of the American Bar association. He will speak on "Postwar Aims."

The tunes to be presented are "Men of Steel," "Kalunah's Song," "The Game of Love," and "You Are My Dream Come True," from the first operetta; "Love Has Wings," "Virginia," "You're a Robber," "Shall I Meet My Love Tonight," and "This Love Is Ours," from the second operetta, and "All I Can Think of Is You," "Just a Little Boy's Day Dream," "When You Come to the End of a Perfect Love," and "America Loves a Melody" from the final operetta.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Listeners who tune in W-G-N to follow war and domestic developments these days are getting something extra with their news. W-G-N is following up important news breaks the world over with interviews featuring men and women who have lived and worked in the spots described in the dispatches.

On outstanding local news stories, the persons concerned are interviewed, or authorities on the subject are brought to the microphone. The W-G-N special events department is arranging and presenting these interviews.

This new series, which is called "We Were There," is attracting wide attention. Many listeners are commenting favorably on this supplement to the news.

The interviews are made integral parts of regular W-G-N news broadcasts. These programs are heard at 8 a. m. with Vern Hansen, 11:30 a. m. with John Holbrook, 6:30 p. m. with Clifton Utley [commentary], 8:15 p. m. with Holbrook, and 10:30 p. m. with Jack Brickhouse.

A File of 200 on Tap.

In addition the special events department, with the W-G-N mobile unit, is continuing full coverage of spot news and of important army, navy, and marine corps happenings in the Chicago area.

In the weeks test of giving listeners extra dividends of interest with their news, W-G-N has built up a file of nearly 200 persons familiar with people, places, and events in all parts of the globe, made arrangements with universities for broadcasts by some of their best informed faculty members, and established working agreements with consulates for putting resident officials and visiting statesmen on the air.

Many Experts Interviewed.

Among the personalities already interviewed have been:

Carroll Van Patter, former transportation adviser to the national government of China, on the Burma road.

R. R. A. Dykstra, assistant to Netherlands consul in Chicago, on the [then] Java crisis.

Henry Evans of the Chinese News service, a world traveler, on people and places in New Guinea.

Noah Van Cleef, manufacturer and expert on South American conditions, on axis riots in Rio de Janiero.

Guy Murchie, Chicago Tribune war correspondent, on his two years in England, Ireland, and Iceland.

Miss Gertrude Hull, retired school teacher, brought from Milwaukee to tell of coaching Gen. MacArthur for West Point history exams.

E. H. Scott, inventor, radio manufacturer, who served with Australian forces during World war.

Dr. Henry Simon Bloch, French economist now at the University of Chicago, on the war guilt trials at Riom.

Henry Wei, Chinese scholar from International House, University of Chicago, to tell of studies in Japan and country's vulnerability to bombing [followed story of possible United States bombing of Tokio].

"We aren't looking for analysts," a W-G-N spokesman said. "W-G-N and Mutual already have standout men in this field on the air. What we do want are the people who built the Burma road, who hunt with the New Guinea headhunters, who used to live on Main street in Melbourne or Moscow, who went to school with Gen. MacArthur."

Faxon, an attorney whose hiking enthusiasm was whetted years ago while mountain climbing in the Alps, and his committee propose to contact industrial and commercial firms, lodges, churches, unions, and other organizations thruout Chicagoland.

Several walking clubs are already in existence. Among the larger ones are the North Shore Hiking club, of which Mr. Faxon is a member; the Englewood Outdoor club, the Chicago Park District Outing club, the Prairie club, and the Fort Dearborn Hiking club.

"This idea of walking your way to health has already caught on like wildfire," says Mr. Faxon. "Many groups have quadrupled their membership during the last three months, and the movement is not limited to Chicago. There's one club in New York with 140,000 enthusiasts. There are hundreds of outing clubs in California."

No One to Give Orders.

"In the groups that have already joined in the movement you'll find millionaires, paupers, stenographers, barbers, debutantes tramping together. Age is no barrier. One member of the Prairie club is 90 years old. There'll be no one to tell you when to eat your sandwiches or when to salute."

Vice chairman of the action committee is Leonard Woods, 4525 North Paulina street, an advertising executive and member of the Prairie club. Others on the committee with their club affiliation are as follows:

NORTH SIDE HAS 3 HOT FIGHTS FOR G.O.P. COMMITTEE

Ashcraft and Slater in Evanston Contest.

Lines are forming on the north shore for three battles to determine who will represent Evanston, New Trier, and Niles townships on the Cook County Republican Central committee. Party committeemen will be elected at the primary on April 14. The committee is the administrative center of the party.

In Evanston township, State Rep. Alan E. Ashcraft Jr. and Drennan J. Slater, former assemblyman, seek the committeeman's post being vacated by Congressman George Paddock. Both candidates have strong backing. Ashcraft has been endorsed by the influential Evanston Women's Republican club and Slater has the support of Evanston's city administration, headed by Mayor S. G. Ingraham.

Predict Ticket Lineup.

Neither candidate has committed himself publicly as to which of his fellow townsmen he will support for congress—Paddock or Ralph Church. Observers expect Slater to back Church and point to the teamwork of Church and Slater in the 1940 primary. Ashcraft, it is predicted, will support Paddock. Ashcraft has been close to Paddock since 1937 when the two worked side by side to elect Henry D. Penfield mayor of Evanston.

Both candidates are expected to support the regular Republican county slate, except that Slater, in exchange for Mayor Ingraham's support, will back the mayor's choice for sheriff, William O. Freeman. Neither Ashcraft nor Slater has expressed a choice for United States senator.

In New Trier Contest.

The race for Republican committeeman in New Trier township is between the incumbent, Henry A. Gardner, and Police Magistrate Allen M. Klein, both of Winnetka.

Gardner will be supported by the New Trier Women's Republican club. Hill Blackett, former Republican national committeeman who lives in Winnetka, has put Klein in the field.

Klein has instructions to back Blackett's candidate for United States senator, Warren Wright, and to help Church beat Paddock. Klein managed the Church campaign in New Trier township in 1940. He is expected to detour from the regular Republican county slate far enough to support Freeman for sheriff.

Niles Township Battle.

The other rivalry on the north shore is in Niles township. Village President George E. Blameuser of Skokie and Attorney James M. Ballowe of the same village, are seeking the Republican committeeman's job now held by Ferdinand Baumann.

Blameuser has well organized support while Ballowe is backed by the Niles Township Regular Republican club, composed of many leading citizens of Skokie who have been after the president's scalp for several years. Ballowe has the backing of the William O. Freeman organization, which is large since Freeman made many visits to the village during his 12 years as chief of police of Skokie's big neighbor to the east, Evanston. Freeman and Blameuser have not been on friendly terms for several years.

Blameuser is regarded as a regular Republican and will go down the line for the county slate, with emphasis on Leo Carr.

Evanston Democratic Contest.

North shore Democrats see only one contest in the April elections. Deputy Sheriff Bennie G. Rubin, the acting Democratic committeeman in Evanston township, is opposed by Joseph W. Schoos Jr., a dairyman. Rubin, an Evanston alderman, is filling the unexpired term of Philip H. Treacy. Rubin has the solid support of Evanston's west side, where his constituency is located, but Schoos claims to have the east side in his pocket. The east side, however, has fewer Democrats than the west.

There are several other contests along the north shore. They are:

Harry W. Roberts of Winnetka and George F. Scherzer of Wilmette seek the Democratic post in New Trier township being vacated by Thomas J. Lynch of Glencoe.

Harold W. White, the incumbent, and George Thomas Frake, both of Glenview, are candidates for Democratic township committeeman of Northfield township.

Edwin L. Griese of Northbrook, the incumbent, and Martin A. Garrity of Glenview are the opponents for Republican committeeman in Northfield.

200 Sea Scouts to Hold Gymkhana Tuesday Night

More than 200 Sea Scouts from the north shore squadron will vie for points in the annual squadron gymkhana at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening at Independence fieldhouse, 3945 North Springfield avenue. Events scheduled include line heaving, knot tieing, signaling, piping the side, and life jacket relay.

PALM SUNDAY RITES OPEN HOLY WEEK

Impressive Ceremonies Will Mark Observance of Palm Sunday in Churches Today

The impressive ceremony of Palm Sunday—the blessing of palms, procession, and mass—is reviewed by the clergy, acolytes, and choir of St. Hyacinth's Catholic church, George street and Central Park avenue. The blessing and procession, commemorating the triumphant entry of Jesus into Jerusalem are both in a joyous mood. The mass, however, is dominated by the impending passion and death. The procession, led by the crucifer carrying the cross draped in purple, is shown leaving the church after the palms have been blessed at the altar. At the rear of the church the clergy and acolytes step into the vestibule and the door is closed between them and the choir.

Alternate verses of Bishop Theodulf of Orleans' Latin hymn "Gloria, laus et honor" (glory, praise, and honor) are sung by participants on either side of the closed door. The celebrant of the mass, the Rev. Theodore Klopotowski, C. R., then strikes the door three times with the foot of the cross, at the same time reciting the words of Psalm XXIII. The doors are then opened from the inside and the clergy and acolytes enter singing. The ceremony signifies that Jesus thru His death upon the cross reopened heaven which had been closed by sin. In the picture (left to right) are Edward Twaragowski, Father Klopotowski, Gerald Wasik, the Rev. Francis Lapinski, C. R., and the Rev. Valentine R. Lesiak, C. R. They return to the altar and the mass proceeds.

Presentation of the palms to be carried by the procession for blessing is the introductory ceremony of the Palm Sunday service. Acolytes Dennis Rachfal and Francis Ciochon kneel as they present palms to Father Klopotowski (center) and his assistants, Father Lesiak and Father Lapinski. Priests stand at the epistle or right corner of the altar. The choir meanwhile sings the antiphon, "Hosanna to the Son of David! Blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord! O King of Israel! Hosanna in the Highest!" A prayer, chanting of the epistle, and reading of the gospel, which tells of the entry of Jesus into Jerusalem, follow. The palm branches having been blessed, the celebrant of the mass gives the signal for departure and the procession begins.

JOYOUS MUSIC WILL FEATURE SERVICES TODAY

Mark Christ's Entry Into Jerusalem.

The first Palm Sunday, more than 1900 years ago, was a day of triumphant rejoicing for the followers of Christ, for on that day He rode into Jerusalem, and the multitudes strewed palms in front of Him as he passed. A week later Christ had borne the mockery and scorn of the people, had suffered on the cross, and had known the glorious climax of rebirth.

Today the events of that fateful week will be commemorated in the Palm Sunday services which mark the beginning of Holy week observances. In all Protestant and Catholic churches on the northwest side Palm Sunday will be celebrated by special musical programs, and in the Catholic churches the traditional ceremony of blessing and distribution of the palms will be held.

Holy week services in St. Bartholomew's church, at 4949 Patterson avenue, will commence at the noon mass today. The choir, under the direction of Miss Verona Garrity, will sing the "Aspergus," by Pietro A. Yon, Palm Sunday music by the Rev. William F. O'Brien, and the "Convent Mass" by Gounod. At the offertory of the mass, Miss Margaret Harrington will sing the solo. The Tre Ore, three hour service in memory of the death of our Lord, will begin at noon, on Holy Friday, conducted by the Rev. Eugene Rinella.

Polish Service Planned.

At St. Mary of the Angels, 1825 North Wood street, Good Friday will be observed with a special Polish lamentation service at 7:30 o'clock in the evening. An appropriate adoration sermon will be given by the Rev. Stanislaus J. Sokulski.

Lenten services will be conducted in the Patio theater, 6008 Irving Park road, from noon to 3 o'clock on Good Friday, with the Rev. Franklin C. Giese, pastor of Messiah Lutheran church, as host to six other Lutheran pastors, who will deliver a series of sermons on "Faces About Calvary." The speakers will be: the Rev. August Jarus of Grace church, the Rev. C. R. Matthies of Tabor church, the Rev. Louis Brotheer of First St. Paul's, the Rev. Henry Blanke of St. John's church, the Rev. A. R. Kretzmann of St. Luke's, and the Rev. Paul Roeder of Bethany church.

Four Choirs to Sing.

Surrounded by their five children and numerous friends and relatives, Mr. and Mrs. August Geweke, lifelong residents of Maine township, recently observed their golden wedding anniversary. Now retired, Mr. Geweke was for many years a leading truck farmer in the community, known among his friends as the "pickle and onion king" because of the abundance of these vegetables on his farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Geweke were married in St. John's Lutheran church at Niles in 1892. The farm on which they reside has been in the family nearly 100 years. Mr. Geweke, 79, was born there in 1862. His wife, Hulda, 72, was born on a farm on the present site of the Park Ridge Country club.

Led Fight on Ordinance.

Mr. Geweke first gained prominence as a leader among Cook county farmers when in 1902 the farmers organized to oppose a Chicago ordinance requiring a license to haul fertilizer in open loads thru the city to the farms. The result of the farmers' opposition to this ordinance was the Cook County Truck Gardeners and Farmers' association, of which Mr. Geweke since has been president.

In 1917 when trucks and passenger cars came into general use on farms, Mr. Geweke, with other directors of the truck gardeners' association, established the Cook County Farmers Mutual Insurance company.

Farmers' Institute Director.

For many years he was a director of the Illinois State Farmers' institute from the 2d district, and, thru the truck gardeners' association, of which he was president, actively supported the proposal to locate an agricultural experimental station in Cook county.

Since Mr. Geweke's retirement from active management of his farm 17 years ago the couple have resided at home with a son, Martin, who operates the farm, and a daughter, Clara. Daily automobile rides keep them well abreast of community events. Three other daughters who helped mark their golden wedding were Mrs. Henry Butzow of Wausau, Wis.; Mrs. Ehler Kath of Morton Grove, and Mrs. John Kath of Des Plaines.

HALE AMERICA CLUBS SEEKING 500,000 HIKERS

Group Offers No Rules or Restrictions.

ester; Charles G. Sauers, general superintendent, and George Pearsall, forest preserve naturalist.

"In selling mass hiking to civilians," explained Mr. Faxon, "I want to emphasize that this is no OCD project. There'll be absolutely no paternalism, no regimentation or discipline from the government. We are merely encouraging group walking as a method to build up the physical and mental morale of the country. This is a movement without rules and regulations and every group organized will maintain a strict autonomy."

Faxon, an attorney whose hiking enthusiasm was whetted years ago while mountain climbing in the Alps, and his committee propose to contact industrial and commercial firms, lodges, churches, unions, and other organizations thruout Chicagoland.

Seek One in Nine.

Several walking clubs are already in existence. Among the larger ones are the North Shore Hiking club, of which Mr. Faxon is a member; the Englewood Outdoor club, the Chicago Park District Outing club, the Prairie club, and the Fort Dearborn Hiking club. In five minute speeches at the offices and headquarters of the various organizations to be contacted, members of the action committee will extend encouragement toward formation of new clubs or invitations to join those already established.

"This idea of walking your way to health has already caught on like wildfire," says Mr. Faxon. "Many groups have quadrupled their membership during the last three months, and the movement is not limited to Chicago. There's one club in New York with 140,000 enthusiasts. There are hundreds of outing clubs in California."

The committee emphasized that informality is the keynote of Hale America campaign to take city folk off the streets and into the open country. The only requirement, Mr. Faxon points out, is an old pair of comfortable shoes.

No One to Give Orders.

"In the groups that have already joined in the movement you'll find millionaires, paupers, stenographers, barbers, debutantes tramping together. Age is no barrier. One member of the Prairie club is 90 years old. There'll be no one to tell you when to eat your sandwiches or when to salute."

Vice chairman of the action committee is Leonard Woods, 4525 North Paulina street, an advertising executive and member of the Prairie club. Others on the committee with their club affiliation are as follows:

North Shore Hiking club—Joseph L. Gluth, 2112 Grace street; Logan Kennedy, 400 West Madison street; Jasper S. King, Winnetka; Miss Judith Hayes, Winnetka.

Evanston Walking club—Raleigh Hobbs, N. J. Weston, and Miss Oliva Kahila of Evanston.

5,000 WARDENS TO AID DEFENSE SALVAGE DRIVE

Kitchen Grease Major Item to Conserve.

Five thousand conservation wardens—one for each block—will be appointed to organize and promote the defense salvage program on the northwest side, it was announced last week by Roy I. Levinson, director of the northwest civilian defense division. Levinson said the wardens would visit homes to instruct families how to conserve waste materials, adding that kitchen grease, now considered vital for defense, is an important item to conserve.

Present plans call for the grease to be sold to meat markets, when sufficient amounts have accumulated in the homes, from where it will be collected to be processed into soap and glycerin. Conservation of kitchen grease is necessary to replace the supply of vegetable oils cut off from the Philippines and the Dutch East Indies, Levinson said.

Levinson announced a farewell dinner for Imry Henry Berger, northwest director of civilian morale, who will soon report for induction into the army. The dinner will be given at 7 o'clock this evening at the Admiral hotel, 909 Foster avenue. Commanders and other civilian defense executives from the 21 communities of the northwest division will attend.

George Olsen, chairman of the physical fitness committee of the northwest division and director of physical education of North Park college, has been ordered to Washington to begin training for a physical fitness post in the navy. No successor to Olsen has been named.

GARDEN LESSONS TO STRESS USE OF SMALL AREA

Plan Settlement Class After Easter.

Plans for the opening of classes to teach community residents how to grow victory gardens are nearing completion at Northwestern University settlement, Michael Rachwalski, associate head resident, announced last week. The classes, scheduled to begin shortly after Easter, are in conjunction with other classes pertaining to civilian defense now getting under way at the settlement.

Persons attending the classes will learn the types of flowers and vegetables best suited for victory gardens and how to care for them. Emphasis will be placed on the cultivation of small plants that can be grown in a minimum amount of space. It is planned to continue garden class meetings at the settlement once each week thruout the summer.

Learn Box Gardening.

Gardeners also will learn how to build boxes in which to plant their gardens, Rachwalski said, adding that business men in the community are being asked to donate boxes and crates which will be converted into garden boxes in the settlement shop. Classes will be under the supervision of an expert gardener.

At the same time it was announced that first aid classes for men and women will be started as soon as facilities for them can be arranged. Two first aid classes for junior and senior groups of boys and girls are now in progress.

Organize Youth Chorus.

Two hundred and fifty children are now attending defense classes at the settlement, Rachwalski said. Instruction is offered in airplane model building, first aid, marching tactics and physical education.

A 75 voice chorus of boys and girls has just been organized, under the direction of Howard B. Weston, which specializes in singing patriotic songs. The chorus is expected to take part in a number of defense rallies to be staged in the Northwest Town community.

YWCA Easter Service.

The annual Easter service of the North Park college YWCA will be held at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the college chapel. Dean Leland Carlson will be the speaker and music will be furnished by members of the YWCA.

G. O. P. COMMITTEE RACE HOT ONE IN NILES TOWNSHIP

Ballowe and Blameuser Seeking Place.

The contest between James M. Ballowe and Village President George E. Blameuser of Skokie for election as Republican committeeman in Niles township is one of the hottest in Cook county's northwest suburban area.

Ferdinand Baumann is the retiring committeeman. The party leader for the township will be elected at the Illinois primary on April 14.

Ballowe, a Skokie attorney, has the backing of the Niles Township Regular Republican club and the support of the William O. Freeman group. Freeman, who was for 12 years chief of police at Evanston and has many friends in Niles, is a Republican candidate for sheriff. Observers say the feeling between Blameuser and Freeman goes back to the days when Freeman was chief at Evanston. Ballowe has pledged his organization's support of Freeman.

Blameuser Regarded as Regular.

Blameuser has a well organized following in Skokie. He is regarded as a regular Republican and will go down the line for the county slate in the primaries, with emphasis on the regular candidate for sheriff, Leo Carr.

A three way fight for Republican township committeeman in Norwood Park is on, but Walter M. Merkle, a newcomer to county politics, is said to have the inside track. In the last four years Merkle has changed his precinct from 5 to 1 Democratic to 5 to 1 Republican. The incumbent, John C. Arnold, who seeks reëlection, has been hampered in his campaign by illness.

Merkle was one of the founders of the Norwood Park township fire department and is head of the fire department's board. Arnold, a war veteran, is employed in the Cook county bureau of vital statistics.

The third candidate is Clarence R. Aubert, a painter, who has sought office a number of times.

Busse Name Appears Twice.

The name of Busse appears twice among candidates for Republican committeemen out Northwest highway. William Busse, veteran county commissioner who is a candidate for president of the county board, also is running for reëlection as his party's committeeman in the Elk Grove township. His cousin, Henry A. Busse, is the only candidate for Wheeling township Republican committeeman.

The Wheeling Democratic committeeman, Homer J. Byrd, of Arlington Heights, is unopposed.

Leyden township is the scene of a contest for the Republican committeeman's job held by Arthur N. Haugan. Haugan's opponent is Adolph J. Bochte, who is said to have some support from Democrats. Bochte is a machinist. Haugan is a real estate operator and an arbitrator for the state industrial commission.

Hanover Race Lukewarm.

Altho Hanover and Northfield townships have contests for both Democratic and Republican committeemen, the campaigns being waged are only lukewarm. Hanover Democrats will choose between John L. Krog who lives near Elgin, the present committeeman, and James J. Scheen of Bartlett. The township's Republicans will select either the incumbent, Wayne C. Alkire or Henry L. Heine. Both live in the country.

In Northfield township Harold W. White is seeking reëlection as Democratic committeeman. His opponent is George T. Frake. On the Republican side, Edwin L. Griese, the incumbent, is opposed by Martin A. Garrity. White, Frake, and Garrity live in Glenview and Griese in Northbrook.

In Palatine township neither R. L. La Londe, the Democratic committeeman, nor George W. Howes, the Republican, has opposition. Both live in the village of Palatine.

Deuell Gets Barrington Place.

Barrington township is without a contest. Thomas L. G. Deuell has been named by Democratic leaders to take the place being vacated by Rudolph F. Kocker Sr. and Albert G. Gieske, the incumbent Republican committeeman, is running without opposition.

The Democratic committeeman in Elk Grove, I. E. Besander of Mount Prospect, is unopposed, as is the Democratic committeeman in Leyden township, John A. Cullerton of Elmwood Park.

There is no contest in Maine township. Ning Eley and Fred A. Fulle, both of Des Plaines, will be reëlected to the Democratic and Republican central committees, respectively, without opposition.

In Niles township, Martin [Scotty] Krier, the incumbent of Skokie, has no contest for Democratic committeeman. In Norwood Park township, Theodore M. Sloan of Norwood Park is unopposed for the Democratic committeeman's job being vacated by Frank Trenholm.

Schaumburg township will send Raymond Nebel of Roselle to the Democratic central committee in place of Frank Sporleder of Roselle, who is retiring. Louis Redeker of Schaumburg, the incumbent Republican committeeman, is unopposed.

SAYS ATTEMPTS MADE TO COERCE BLOCK CAPTAINS

O'Keefe Claims Foes Try to Use Them in Politics.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

State Rep. Raymond T. O'Keefe yesterday charged that the regular Democratic organization which has ordered his defeat in the April 14 primary is attempting to use civilian defense block captains for political purposes. Contests for nomination for the senate and house of representatives became heated in both parties.

"Democratic machine politicians have been making attempts to interest block captains in my district, the 25th, in assisting them in their effort to defeat me by using the information and lists of persons in the possession of the block captains for checking on and obtaining votes," Rep. O'Keefe said.

Block Captain Offered Job.

"One block captain reported to me that a machine precinct worker offered to give him a job on election day if he would let the ward heeler distribute political literature and talk at the civilian defense meetings.

"Several other block captains have told of similar attempts to misuse the information they obtained for defense. I am glad to say that these men expressed indignation over these attempts.

"After using every cheap trick against me, filing dummy candidates whose petitions were replete with forgery, the machine is trying to play politics with national defense to elect its hand picked pay rollers."

August Knickels, secretary of the Chicago-Cook County Car Riders' association, announced that street car users are organizing every block in the huge district, which covers most of the northwest side, to renominate O'Keefe.

"O'Keefe is known as the father of feeder buses because of his long fight before the state commerce commission some years ago," Knickels said. "The people have not forgotten. His ability regarding transportation will be more valuable than ever when 640,000 automobiles now on Chicago streets are cut to a fraction of this number by the exigencies of war."

Headquarters of the veteran legislator also announced that he had been indorsed by the Joint Labor Legislative board of the Illinois Federation of Labor and other groups.

Regulars Have Top Ballot Spots.

The regular Democratic organization candidates are Rep. Stanley R. Kosinski and Jacob A. Mueller, 4014 North Leamington avenue, who was given top spot on the ballot. Kosinski was elected in 1940 to fill the Benjamin S. Adamowski vacancy. He was chief clerk of the secretary of state's automobile department here from 1933 until 1940.

Mueller is an elderly employé of the county treasurer's office and is a former president of the Chicago chapter of a fraternal organization.

George D. LeBrint, 3722 Wilson avenue, is an independent Democratic candidate. He is a young lawyer who writes that he was called "Let George Do It" LeBrint at Crane college because of his extracurricular activities.

There are three candidates with Irish names who O'Keefe charges were filed to confuse the voters. However, one of them, Edward W. Cleary, 3656 Cornelia avenue, returned THE TRIBUNE questionnaire briefly stating that he is general manager of the Central Transfer company. The other two are Frank L. Murray and Michael Martin Mullane. Stanley A. Lesniewski, 2314 Charleston street, is the last candidate on the Democratic house ballot.

The Republican house race is less lively thus far. Regular organization candidates are Rep. Elroy C. Sandquist, 4239 North Whipple street, and Eugene L. Nusser, 2100 North Avers avenue, 34th ward committeeman for the last 10 years.

"Formerly" Auto Salesman.

Rep. Sandquist, seeking his fifth term, is compelled by the fortunes of war to state "former occupation, automobile salesman." He was a radio operator and signal man with the marines in World war I. From 1928 to 1934 he was a River park commissioner.

Nusser is an assistant engineer for the state commerce commission. His long public record includes six years as alderman, three years as secretary to the state's attorney, and many civic activities. He has the indorsement of the Joint Labor Legislative board.

The chief threat to these two leading G. O. P. candidates comes from John. Mozart Johnson, 1623 North Humboldt boulevard, an insurance broker.

Backed by Deneen Faction.

Johnson has the backing of the National Republican Party of Cook County [Deneen group], and was one of the organizers of that faction in the 34th ward. This group is expected to instruct its followers to vote for Johnson alone, which means that each person can "plump" three votes for him, while the regular organization vote will be divided between two candidates.

Nino J. Persello, 4501 Foster avenue, a young attorney, is an independent Republican candidate who is president of the North-West Civic and Social club. Other independents are James C. Alberti, 2040 North Lawler avenue; Frank Schultz, 2116 Concord place, and George F. Witteman, 5527 Cullom avenue.

In the senate races, the Democrats also are more active, with blasts against the incumbent coming in a steady stream from Walter Frank Cebelin, whose motto is "Win with Cebelin and O'Keefe." Sen. Frank J. Huckin Jr. is seeking his fourth term.

When Huckin was up for reëlection in 1938 the Nonpartisan Legislative Voters league said: "Is ending second term in which he was quite inactive; invariably voted in accordance with the wishes of the Nash-Kelly organization, as in opposing permanent registration for Chicago; he has become a nonentity."

Cebelin a High School Teacher.

Cebelin is a high school teacher and former accountant residing at 7175 Wrightwood avenue. He was a worker with the rebel Democratic group of the 1940 campaign and claims support from the remnants of these dissidents.

"The machine senator has cluttered up the ballot with dummies to deceive the voters," Cebelin said. "Thus 'Two-Job' Huckin, who is chief deputy clerk of the Superior court, hopes to slip in again for another term as a rubber stamp."

The high school teacher has spoken before a dozen civic, social, and business organizations and is seeking invitations to address others. He also has adopted the "L station" method to become acquainted with voters and pass out his campaign cards.

Gertz Has Douglas Support.

Sol Gertz, 4647 North Lawndale avenue, who secured the favored bottom spot on the ballot, has the support of the Douglas-McAdams organization in the 33d, 34th, 35th, 36th, 38th, 39th, 40th, 41st, and 50th wards. He is a sales supervisor for Schenley Distributors, Inc.

Gertz is giving support as well as receiving it, believing that Paul H. Douglas is the logical choice for Democratic nomination for United States senator. In World war I. he took part in many of the principal battles, including Château Thierry and the Argonne, where he was wounded and gassed.

At times Gertz was in charge of army salvage work at Brest and Tours and had thousands of civilians and prisoners in his care. As a result of being in the army of occupation, he did not return to America until long after the armistice. More than 6 feet tall, he established a creditable record as a boxer in the army. Gertz says that his grandfather died recently at the age of 115.

Long Active in Politics.

Long a familiar figure in politics in the Albany Park district, Gertz was chief electrician of the Chicago sanitary district for four years and a bailiff for six years.

Also on the ballot are Adam S. Przybyszewski, 2898 Milwaukee avenue, previously described in this column, and Frank Slowinski, 4506 North Springfield avenue, who has not replied to inquiries.

Republicans have a simpler contest to consider for the senate nomination.

Frederick B. Resag, 3011 Logan boulevard, is the regular G. O. P. organization choice and is a close friend of John T. Dempsey, head of the county party committee. He is a lawyer, 39 years old, and the father of two daughters.

"I have no particular hobby or pet legislation, but I am tremendously interested in politics both theoretically and practically, and I submit the following political viewpoints to which I subscribe," Resag wrote.

"I am a Republican because I believe that the principles and policies of the Republican party are best for our country.

Praises Green Administration.

"I believe that the people are entitled to honest and able leadership from their public officials, and in this connection I believe that the present state administration is an outstanding example of competent government. I call the attention of every housewife to the fact that Gov. Green has effected a reduction in the sales tax of 33 per cent."

Opposing Resag is John A. Nordstrand, also an attorney, who has the support of the National Republican Party of Cook County [Deneen group]. In addition, Nordstrand reported that he has received the promise of assistance from several other organizations "who for obvious reasons cannot be named due to their connection with the Cook county central committee."

Wed in St. Pascal's

Before her recent marriage Mrs. Joseph De Jean was Miss Florence Karschnick. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Karschnick, 4129 North Monitor avenue. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. De Jean, 4029 North Melvina avenue. The marriage took place in St. Pascal's church.

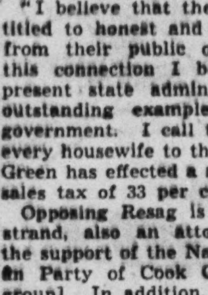
FORTY-FIRST DISTRICT

[Du Page and Will Counties.]

The slender, elegantly attired form of State Sen. Richard J. Barr of Joliet, dean of all the lawmakers in the United States, last week appeared unshaken in the turmoil of another political campaign.



Sen. Barr.

Political sages said that when the "Squire of Cherry Hill Farms" sees his orchards bloom again he probably will be well along the way toward his 11th four year term. In the United States senate "Cotton Ed" Smith began his service in 1909 and ranks No. 1 in seniority. A. J. [Rotten Borough] Sabath started in the national house of representatives in 1907. Sen. Barr was launched on his long term of continuous service in 1902.

In two other states there are legislators with 40 year records, but there have been interruptions in service, Barr's friends report.

Has Single Opponent.

This time Sen. Barr is opposed by a single strong opponent, Dr. Paul A. Isherwood of West Chicago. Not only has Dr. Isherwood been coroner for 18 years, but he is chairman of the Du Page county Republican central committee.

At the age of 76 Barr is out nearly every night addressing political meetings. He says he has his own organizations in Du Page county.

Otto J. Hruby.

Otto J. Hruby of Hinsdale, a tax auditor in business for himself, is the unopposed Democratic candidate for senatorial nomination.

Action in House Contest.

There is plenty of action in the contests for the two Republican nominations and the single Democratic nomination which are equivalent to election to the Springfield house of representatives.

Rep. Lottie Holman O'Neill of Downers Grove, Illinois' pioneer woman legislator, is running for her 10th two year term. A widowed homemaker and former school teacher, she was active in opposing this country's drift toward war during the last two years. Now her son is in the army.

Lottie H. O'Neill.

Warren L. Wood.

In the past, Mrs. O'Neill has had powerful support from church, labor, temperance, educational, and women's organizations. She is a dignified but spirited woman, with hair now nearly white, who takes her legislative duties seriously.

Wood a Veteran at 31.

Rep. Warren L. Wood of Plainfield is a youthful veteran of the house. At the age of 31 he is out for his fifth term. Like the other G. O. P. house member, he has a more serious turn of mind than most members. The nonpartisan Legislative Voters' league, before suspending normal activities, described Wood as "young, ambitious, a worker, with a good voting record."

Wood formerly was a farm manager while engaging in the insurance business at the same time. The war has changed this, and he writes: "I am actively engaged in military explosives production, thus making my services available in whatever way required during the present emergency. However, I will be able to secure leaves of absence for my legislative duties."

Banker Opposes Incumbents.

One determined opponent of the incumbents is Frank J. Bogan of Glen Ellyn, chairman of the board of directors of the Du Page Trust company. Forty years a banker, he has been a township supervisor for 12 years, eight of these years as chairman of the county board legislative committee.

Frank J. Bogan.

Bogan formerly was village treasurer of Glen Ellyn and treasurer of the Illinois Association of Supervisors. He claims the support of the DuPage county Republican central committee and favorable consideration by union labor organizations in Will and DuPage counties.

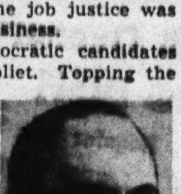
Competition on the distaff side is provided by Mrs. Irene Grewenig of Joliet, a produce saleswoman. She has three adult children, one in the army.

Anson H. Brown, of Wayne said that he will have the support of the DuPage county regular G. O. P. organization. He was president of the Wayne school board for nine years. At the age of 65, he has a record of 28 years general law practice. He has three married daughters.

Scramble for Perry's Seat.

Retirement of Joseph Sam Perry from the district's Democratic house seat opened the way for a rush of better than average candidates. Altho Democratic chairman for DuPage county, Perry held notably independent views. In refusing to run for a fourth term he said that the time and expense consumed in running for office and doing the job justice was ruining his law business.

All of the Democratic candidates are residents of Joliet. Topping the list is Thomas J. Donovan, son of former Lieut. Gov. Thomas F. Donovan. Next comes Edward V. Gorey, former city attorney, who was an assistant attorney general from 1933 to 1941.



Thomas V. Gorey.

John J. Maloney was assessor of Joliet township from 1938 until last Jan. 1 and is now employed in the title division of Secretary of State Hughes' office.

William E. Austin was Probate court judge of Will county from 1934 to 1938 and is familiar with accounting as well as the law. The remaining candidates are Joseph J. Kane and Raymond S. Stanton, who has been a candidate for several offices in recent years.

Rev. O. F. Jordan to Talk to Park Ridge Kiwanis

The Rev. Orvis F. Jordan, pastor of the Community Church of Park Ridge, will address members of the Park Ridge Kiwanis club at their noon meeting Wednesday in the Tally-Ho tearoom. His topic will be "The Kiwanis Quest of Spiritual Values."

HITS FROM PRIZE OPERETTAS ON W-G-N SATURDAY

Marion Claire and Cassel to Be Stars.

"Hits from the Prize Operettas," a musical recapitulation of the three prize winning operettas from W-G-N's $10,500 Great American Operetta Quest, will be presented from 7:30 to 8:30 p. m. next Saturday on W-G-N, W59C, and the Mutual network. Marion Claire, soprano prima donna of the Chicago Theater of the Air, Walter Cassel and Ray Charles will be featured in this special broadcast.

The last of the three prize operettas was aired last night. The broadcast will refresh the memory of the thousands of listeners who are planning to enter W-G-N's separate $2,500 contest to select the best of the three scores and give it a name. Contestants are asked to write 50 words or less giving the reasons for their choice.

The composer-author whose work is selected by the listening audience as the best of the three will receive an additional $5,000 to be added to his original $1,000 award.

The tunes to be presented are "Men of Steel," "Kalunah's Song," "The Game of Love," and "You Are My Dream Come True," from the first operetta; "Love Has Wings," "Virginia," "You're a Robber," "Shall I Meet My Love Tonight," and "This Love Is Ours," from the second operetta, and "All I Can Think of Is You," "Just a Little Boy's Day Dream," "When You Come to the End of a Perfect Love," and "America Loves a Melody" from the final operetta.

A special musical Easter tribute will be included. Miss Claire will join the chorus in Schubert's "Ave Maria."

The W-G-N Symphony orchestra under the baton of Henry Weber and the chorus directed by Robert Trendler will be heard Saturday. Kenneth MacGregor is the producer.

CALUMET CITY HIGH NEXT ON CITIZENS' HOUR

Thornton Fractional Township High school of Calumet City will be honored during the broadcast of the Citizens of Tomorrow program over W-G-N at 1:30 p. m. today. Some 600 students of the 1,200 who make up the student body were on hand Wednesday at W-G-N when this program was recorded.

The "fractional" part of the same derives from the fact that the school district embraces nine square miles, a fractional part of a congressional township.

Philip Maxwell, who conducts this youth program, will introduce Victor Lockhart, the principal, who will speak briefly. The Meistersingers, a boys' ensemble, directed by Harold Christian, and a girls' double sextet, conducted by Franklyn Kingdon, will sing. Two more students' names will be added to the roll of honor: Wilfred Kraegel of the honor school and Sally Diekema of Holland, Mich.

Verne Hansen is the new announcer. He replaces Spencer Allen, who has been called to active duty with the army. Jane Anderson is substituting for Harold Turner as pianist.

'GREAT ARTISTS' TO END SEASON WITH GALA SHOW

Dramatic incidents in the life of Paul Gauguin, noted French artist, will be presented on the final Great Artists broadcast of the season over W-G-N at 2:15 p. m. next Wednesday. This broadcast, to be held in connection with a gala program in W-G-N's studio theater, will be attended by executives of the Art institute, which coöperates in these broadcasts.

Before the broadcast Daniel Catton Rich, director of fine arts, will outline plans of the institute for the coming months to the studio audience.

Actors from the Goodman theater dramatic school will be garbed in costumes of Tahitians during Gauguin's time. Several of his paintings will be exhibited in the studio.

Janet Gaynor, March on Treasury Star Program

Janet Gaynor and Frederic March of movie fame will be the stars on W-G-N's Treasury Star Parade program at 10:30 a. m. today. A patriotic dramatization, "Report on the State of the Nation," will be the vehicle starring Miss Gaynor and March. Al Goodman will direct the orchestra and chorus.

Management and Labor in War, Subject of Forum

The subject of "Management and Labor in War Production" will be discussed on the Northwestern Reviewing Stand at 10 a. m. today over W-G-N and Mutual. S. W. Du Brul, economist and labor statistician, and Walter P. Reuther, automobile union labor leader, will be the participants.

SIX TOWNSHIPS REPORT 50% DROP IN RELIEF ROLLS

Monthly Records Show 123 Getting Aid.

A 50 per cent decrease in relief rolls and expenditures in six northwest townships for February of this year as compared to February, 1941, was reported last week by Russell L. Peters, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission.

The report showed that the six townships—Barrington, Maine, Norwood, Palatine, Wheeling, and Elk Grove—had a total of 250 persons on relief rolls in February, 1941, with expenditures amounting to $8,366, whereas in February of this year 123 persons were on the rolls and expenditures amounted to $4,007. Biggest drops were recorded in Norwood, where $361 was expended for relief this February as compared to $1,439 in February, 1941, and Elk Grove which expended $67 this February, $415 last.

Maine Decrease Small.

Of the six townships the smallest decrease was noted in Maine, which had 39 persons on the rolls this February as compared to 50 in the corresponding month last year. Expenditures for the month totaled $1,084 for this year and $1,728 in February, 1941.

Peters said the figures for the six townships were in accordance with those for the rest of the state which have shown a continuous drop since the beginning of 1941. Growth of defense industries thruout the state was given as the reason for the decrease. Communities having no defense industries are indirectly affected, Peters said.

Table Gives Comparison.

The following table gives figures for all six townships for the months of February this year and last:

	1942.		1941.
	No.	Exp.	No.	Exp.
Barrington	9	$ 311	22	$ 636
Maine	38	1,084	50	1,728
Norwood	12	361	39	1,439
Palatine	21	764	34	1,078
Wheeling	40	1,420	92	3,070
Elk Grove	3	67	13	415
Total	123	$4,007	250	$8,366

The report showed no appreciable change in relief rolls or expenditures during the first two months of this year.

GORDON'S HOPES GROW AS THIRD ENTRY DROPS OUT

Race for Congress in 8th District Narrows.

BY HAROLD SMITH.

One side of the triangular fight for the Democratic congressional nomination in the 8th district was eliminated late last week by the announcement of former Ald. Stanley Adamkewicz that he was abandoning his own campaign to work for the nomination of City Treasurer Thomas S. Gordon.

That left two principals in the struggle—Gordon, the regular organization choice, and Congressman Leo Kocialkowski, who was shelved by the Nash-Kelly forces after representing the 8th district for the last 10 years.

Adamkewicz, long a Polish leader in the district, announced that his withdrawal was prompted by failure of expected aid from his own ward committeeman to materialize. Adamkewicz lives in the 26th ward, of which Joseph T. Baran is Democratic ward committeeman.

Reason Is Discounted.

This explanation was discounted, however, because Adamkewicz did not enter the congressional race until Feb. 23, the last day, by which time the regular Democratic organization [including Baran] had already given its indorsement to Gordon.

Usually well informed observers gave credence to reports that Adamkewicz had been asked by organization representatives to throw his support to Gordon, for which he might expect some political favors in return.

The former alderman has been out of active politics for several years. Intermittently since his political retirement he has continued in the real estate business, in which he was reported to have amassed a small fortune before the depression.

Retired from Park Job.

In 1933 Adamkewicz obtained a job as timekeeper for the west parks. When all city parks were consolidated the following year he continued in the same capacity under the new setup. On July 21, 1940, he went on the old age retirement list with a small pension.

His withdrawal greatly improves Gordon's prospects in the primary. Gordon's followers had been frankly worried by the refusal of Kocialkowski to withdraw his name from the ballot list after receiving word that he would not be reslated because he had incurred labor's displeasure by supporting the Smith antistrike bill. It was felt that the presence of Adamkewicz in the race might split the vote so badly that Kocialkowski would be nominated.

Little Chance for Gadacz.

There is a third candidate for the Democratic nomination, Vincent A. Gadacz, but little weight is attached to his campaign. He ran for state representative from the 27th senatorial district in 1938, placing last in a field of six. He was a candidate for the nomination for sanitary district trustee two years ago.

The Republican primary is mainly a contest between Mrs. Rena E. Pikiel, nominee in 1938, and William W. Carron, president of William John Granata's 27th ward organization. Organization support is about evenly divided between the two. There are two other candidates: Joseph Polep and Earl C. Mertes.

Schuetz Criticism Grows.

On the Democratic side in the large 7th district, Congressman Leonard W. Schuetz pursued his custom of letting the party organization do all his campaigning for him, while the fellow Democrats who seek to block his renomination criticized the congressman's inattention to duty.

This inattention is shown, they said, by the experience of numerous residents of the district, who report that they have tried vainly to get audiences with Schuetz on important congressional matters. In some instances, it was reported, Schuetz has sent word thru his secretarial staff to waiting individuals or delegations that he was too busy to receive them.

On the Republican side in the 7th, organization strength was lining up almost solidly behind former alderman, James C. Moreland, who is opposed by three other candidates.

Fink Gives Labor Views.

One of these, Meyer Fink, an also ran in several previous primaries, outlined his views on labor last week. Fink, whose Republican opponents charge him with bipartisanism, at the same time announced his wholehearted accord with the war policies of the Democratic administration.

Fink declared that the closed shop, the wisdom of which he termed "questionable in peacetime," should be abolished during the war. He added that jurisdictional strikes should be prohibited by law, and the President should be empowered to prevent any strike he deems harmful.

"No business, farmer, or labor bloc should impose its selfish interests upon the wider national interests in peacetime, and especially in wartime," Fink declared.

Other opponents of Moreland include John W. Lorenz, a tile contractor making his first try for public office, and George T. Foster, an art dealer who has long been active in civic affairs.

Donald Dickson, young American baritone, will join Andre Kostelanetz's orchestra in a salute to Cole Porter at 8:30 p. m. today over WBBM-CBS. Dickson will sing "In the Still of the Night" and the orchestra will present a Porter medley.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Listeners who tune in W-G-N to follow war and domestic developments these days are getting something extra with their news. W-G-N is following up important news breaks the world over with interviews featuring men and women who have lived and worked in the spots described in the dispatches.

On outstanding local news stories, the persons concerned are interviewed, or authorities on the subject are brought to the microphone. The W-G-N special events department is arranging and presenting these interviews.

This new series, which is called "We Were There," is attracting wide attention. Many listeners are commenting favorably on this supplement to the news.

The interviews are made integral parts of regular W-G-N news broadcasts. These programs are heard at 8 a. m. with Vern Hansen, 11:30 a. m. with John Holbrook, 6:30 p. m. with Clifton Utley [commentary], 8:15 p. m. with Holbrook, and 10:30 p. m. with Jack Brickhouse.

A File of 200 on Tap.

In addition the special events department, with the W-G-N mobile unit, is continuing full coverage of spot news and of important army, navy, and marine corps happenings in the Chicago area.

In the weeks test of giving listeners extra dividends of interest with their news, W-G-N has built up a file of nearly 200 persons familiar with people, places, and events in all parts of the globe, made arrangements with universities for broadcasts by some of their best informed faculty members, and established working agreements with consulates for putting resident officials and visiting statesmen on the air.

Many Experts Interviewed.

Among the personalities already interviewed have been:

Carroll Van Patter, former transportation adviser to the national government of China, on the Burma road.

R. R. A. Dykstra, assistant to Netherlands consul in Chicago, on the [then] Java crisis.

Henry Evans of the Chinese News service, a world traveler, on people and places in New Guinea.

Noah Van Cleef, manufacturer and expert on South American conditions, on axis riots in Rio de Janiero.

Guy Murchie, Chicago Tribune war correspondent, on his two years in England, Ireland, and Iceland.

Miss Gertrude Hull, retired school teacher, brought from Milwaukee to tell of coaching Gen. MacArthur for West Point history exams.

E. H. Scott, inventor, radio manufacturer, who served with Australian forces during World war.

Dr. Henry Simon Bloch, French economist now at the University of Chicago, on the war guilt trials at Riom.

Henry Wei, Chinese scholar from International House, University of Chicago, to tell of studies in Japan and country's vulnerability to bombing [followed story of possible United States bombing of Tokio].

"We aren't looking for analysts," a W-G-N spokesman said. "W-G-N and Mutual already have standout men in this field on the air. What we do want are the people who built the Burma road, who hunt with the New Guinea headhunters, who used to live on Main street in Melbourne or Moscow, who went to school with Gen. MacArthur."

NEW BATHROOM FIXTURES SAVE VALUABLE SPACE

Cicero House Gets Spring Renovation.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

The arrival of spring this year reveals a wide variety of remodeling projects and various kinds of work accomplished these last months. In many instances the renovations have added space to an existing house. Sometimes this space has been gained by a new wing or a new inclosed porch, ingenious use of a wasted attic or basement, and again by the installation of new, compact plumbing fixtures and heating equipment in place of older and bulkier equipment.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Grat, 2527 61st avenue, Cicero, recently remodeled the bathroom of their home, a room which was nearly 20 years old. As Mrs. Grat said:

"We didn't alter the actual size of the room but with our new fixtures we have more space and the bathroom seems larger."

Fixtures More Compact.

Modern heating and plumbing fixtures are in most cases much more compact and space saving than those of two decades ago and this is an important factor in the remodeling of older rooms where space is at a premium.

In the Grat home a low built-in tub fits neatly into a corner, thus making available the space which formerly was wasted behind and beneath it, and at either end. By this one change alone the bathroom now has storage space—two wide, deep drawers where once the old style tub sood. The new tub also has a new convenience feature, a wide flare to its outer wall which forms a comfortable seat.

The modern lavatory is likewise a space-saver. The old protruding, slightly bulbous lavatory with stopper at end of a chain, cut off inches of space. Now in its place there's a slim little fixture with a long deep basin, a pop-up waste regulated at the spout and a nice wide shelf back for toilet accessories. [A very usable feature, this shelf, according to Mrs. Grat, as a handy place for makeup and shaving articles.]

Peach Tones Used.

The bathroom is carried out in warm peach tones. There's a tile floor in a mottled effect of peach, gray, and black. The walls, for a little more than halfway up are in peach tile with a black trim and the upper wall has been painted peach. There's a peach and silver shower curtain which all but hides the small water-saving shower head that can be adjusted to any stream, a soft gentle flood or an invigorating needle spray.

Near this tub are two grab bars—a small one combined with a soap dish is a safety gadget for the tub bather, and the slim, chromium grab bar, higher on the wall, is in easy reach of the shower bather.

Colorful Design in Rug.

The soap dish over the tub and the one near the lavatory as well as the glass holder above the lavatory are all of peach. On the floor is a peach colored rug enlivened with designs in pink and aqua and the towels are peach and black.

No shadows dim your vision in the mirror of the new medicine cabinet. It has indirect lighting, which is a comfort compared with older types of mirror lighting. And there's also an electrical outlet for the razors of the men in the family.

This WEEK in the GARDEN

Monday, March 30

The advancing season and the great increase in gardening make it imperative that gardeners make their plans to begin work as soon as the weather is warm enough. Think first of the things you wish to grow, whether your garden will be devoted to vegetables or a combination of flowers and vegetables or flowers alone.

Soil conditions must be considered no matter what plants are grown. Even at this time decayed manure can be procured and made ready to spade into the soil when the soil is fit, or until it is dry enough that it will not stick to the spade. A soil that forms a crust on the surface should have an abundance of humus incorporated in it.

Tuesday, March 31

Plant trees, shrubs, and hardy vines as soon as the nursery can supply them. Do not use too many trees or shrubs on the small yard. Tall shrubs should not be planted where dwarf kinds should go. Note the shrubs under some windows, how they must be cut back each year and are never satisfactory. Note, too, the yards that are overplanted with trees when half the number would suffice.

Wednesday, April 1

When laying out the shrubbery border do not use too many kinds; repeat the kinds so the effect will not be spotty. Shrubs should have good soil. In transplanting dig the holes large enough to accommodate the roots easily. Tamp the soil firmly around the roots and water well.

Too few hardy vines are used and yet they lend a pleasing effect. The wild grape is especially useful where a strong vine is wanted, and by proper pruning a considerable amount of fruit will be produced.

Thursday, April 2

Fast growing annuals can be started from seeds. If a coldframe is available the seeds do best if started in it. Uncover bulb beds and gently shake up the covering on mulch. When the buds show give an application of a complete balanced plant food and larger flowers will be obtained.

When spading the garden do not take huge spadefuls, take thin slices and break them up as the work progresses. Order roses and plant as soon as possible. When planting firm the soil around the plants and give a good watering.

Friday, April 3

The gardener who sows seeds thick must use extra care when watering. The seedlings, if left alone without thinning, are certain to grow tall and spindly, and they are difficult to establish out of doors. Sow thin and avoid this trouble.

This also is true when sowing out of doors and it is a real waste. Do not sow deep as the seeds cannot push above the surface. Watch the flats of seedlings and transplant to the coldframe or another flat as soon as the plants can be easily handled.

Saturday, April 4

If you have a gift azalea and it is thru flowering, keep it in the coolest spot you have, above freezing, and when all danger from frost has passed plunge the pot to the rim in a semisandy spot out of doors.

House plants can now be transplanted. Palms, aspidistras, sansevierias, pandans, and others of a similar type should not be transplanted into extra sized containers even tho they are large. Simply take a stick and remove as much soil as possible from the top of the pot and replace with new rich soil.

EDDIE AND FANNIE TO ROUND OUT 20 YEARS IN RADIO

Cavanaugh's Anniversary on W-G-N Tuesday.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Twenty years in radio as a team! That is the record Eddie and Fannie Cavanaugh will round out on their Rhymster Tyme program on W-G-N at 2:45 p. m. Tuesday. They started out on KYW, Chicago's first broadcasting station, March 31, 1922. They have been going strong ever since and look forward to 20 more years in radio.

During their 20 years on the air they have received two million letters. They are reported getting about 12,000 letters a month. And they have interviewed hundreds of movie and radio celebrities on their programs.

Their length of service is unmatched by any other husband and wife team, so far as we know, in radio. May Singhi Breen and Peter De Rose have been in radio together just as long. But they did not marry until they had been teamed on the air a half dozen years.

Other Radio Teams.

George Burns and Gracie Allen have been teamed almost as long but have been on the air less than a decade. Fred Allen and Portland Hoffa; Jack Benny and Mary Livingstone have just about a decade each in radio. Jim and Marian Jordan [Fibber McGee and Molly] started out as a vaudeville team more than two decades ago. They have been in radio together about 15 years but only about eight as Fibber McGee and Molly.

For all the times Eddie Cantor has mentioned his wife, Ida, on the air they seem almost a radio team to listeners.

Henry Weber and Marion Claire worked together in opera years before they were headlined on the Chicago Theater of the Air productions on W-G-N and Mutual.

And Many Others.

Xavier Cugat, the orchestra leader, and Carmen Castillo, his singing wife, have long been heard together on the airlanes, currently over W-G-N from the Palmer House.

Frank Crumit and Julia Sanderson, who have been working together in radio for half dozen years, worked together in other fields of entertainment earlier.

Then there are Ozzie Nelson and Harriet Hilliard, and Goodman and Jane Ace of Easy Aces. The list could be extended indefinitely. But the record of Eddie and Fannie would still remain unique.

During the span of their Radio Gossip club, from 1930 to 1941, they interviewed Jack Benny, Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Charles Laughton, Fibber McGee and Molly, Burns and Allen, Paul Whiteman, just to mention a few. Mae West and Jane Withers made their radio bows on their show.

The first time Rubinoff, world renowned violinist, ever spoke on the radio was during a Gossip club performance. The response was so lively that Rubinoff began speaking regularly on the programs on which he appeared.

Like to Reminisce.

Eddie and Fannie like to reminisce of the days when they broadcast from a room 14 by 18 feet which was then the big studio at KYW. Eddie recalls that once when a severe electrical storm burst during a broadcast the performers had to leave the air because of the weakness of the antennae, race to the roof of the building and hold up the posts supporting the wires.

"Radio has come a long way since those days," says Eddie. "In all the years of broadcasting our many interviews, we have never found a celebrity we did not sincerely admire and enjoy being on our show."

Wicker Park Lions Meet in New Quarters Thursday

The Wicker Park Lions club will meet for the first time at 12:15 o'clock next Thursday afternoon in its new headquarters at 2011 West North avenue. The Rev. Charles L. Venable, guest speaker, will address members on the subject, "Our Universal Faith."

Northwest Bride

Before her marriage Mrs. William Gallop was Miss Fern Elaine Ehret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ehret, 4510 Altgeld street. Mr. Gallop is the son of Mrs. Frieda Gallop, 4519 Altgeld street.

Northerners Will Salute Great Britain on Tuesday

The Northerners will honor Great Britain during their broadcast to be heard on W-G-N from 9:30 to 10 p. m. Tuesday. The octet will be heard in a group of songs extoling the United Kingdom. The tunes are: "English Tribute," "There'll Always Be an England," and "Rule Brittania."

REP. SKARDA IS READY TO BEAT MACHINE AGAIN

Ouster Edict Doesn't Worry Democrat.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Can State Rep. Edward Skarda do it again? In a section where it is rare to beat the machine, Skarda has turned the trick six times. Now he is once more faced by the outside edict of the regular Democratic organization in the 15th district, comprising parts of the 20th and 21st wards.

Edward Skarda.

Skarda has served six two year terms in the lawmaking body at Springfield. "His independence at times is unusual," according to the Nonpartisan Legislative Voters league. He sponsored the Skarda act, making the county receiver of income bearing properties which are tax delinquent.

Resides Near Birthplace.

Born and reared in the block where he lives, Skarda's personal acquaintance with the voters of this district is a hurdle the organization finds it difficult to get over. Now 54 years old, he is a former personal bailiff of County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, and had held that post under four former county judges.

"I don't need any magic to win," Skarda said. "The people know they can ring my door bell and come in and talk to me, while they can neither find nor talk to most of the other office holders."

Skarda is carrying on his open defiance of A. J. [Half a Congressman] Sabath by lining up with Frank Freid, Sabath's opponent for renomination, and Edward J. Zeman, for state senator.

Active Club Organizer.

Zeman, a printer for the Live Stock Press, comes from a family which has resided in the neighborhood for about 70 years. He lives at 1163 West 18th street. Zeman has been active in organizing clubs and is well regarded in the district.

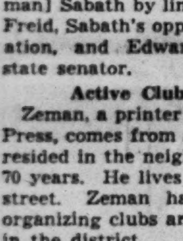
Zeman is the only opponent of Sen. Peter P. [Senator-and-a-Half] Kielminski, the third term Democratic incumbent. Since 1935 Kielminski has occupied a specially built chair in the senate. While his weight is a political secret, it has been reported at about 375 pounds. When he ran in 1938, lacking opposition, the LVL succinctly termed him "unfit."

Kielminski has been a city employé at the Bridewell for 38 years and for two decades has been assistant superintendent there. A former baseball player of note, his contribution to senate decorum on one occasion was to hurl the contents of a bushel basket of apples, piece meal, to senators and to spectators in the galleries. Congressman Sabath is registered as a voter from the basement of Kielminski's home at 1902 South Ashland avenue, Skarda said.

Candidates for the Republican senatorial nomination are Felix Kaski, 1842 West 17th street, and Jerome Vana, 1916 South Troop street.

Franz Seeks Ninth Term.

Regular Democratic organization house candidates are Rep. Matt Franz, 1720 South Halsted street, a painting contractor, who is ending his eighth term, and Samuel Kostelny, 659 West 18th street. Because of Rep. Franz's long service it appears that Skarda's battle is chiefly against Kostelny.



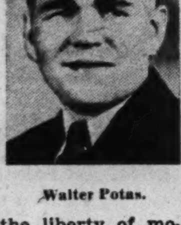
Matt Franz.

Kostelny is a funeral director who was born 45 years ago in Czecho-Slovakia. From 1932 until 1935 he was commissioner and treasurer of the west parks district, by appointment of Gov. Horner. He expects to have the support of several fraternal societies.

Anthony J. Bryce, 1505 West 19th street, is an independent candidate who has run before; he is an investigator for the city who has been a deputy sheriff and employé of the election board and the liquor control commission. He is prominent in several civic and social organizations.

Blind Law Student.

Walter Potas, 1753 Cullerton street, is a blind young insurance broker who will graduate from the John Marshall law school in June. Now 26, Potas writes that at the age of 10 he lost his sight in an accident.



Walter Potas.

"I have had a Seeing Eye guide dog for the past two and one-half years, which has made it possible for me to attain the liberty of motion and the freedom and independence I had so greatly desired," Potas said.

"It has always been my ambition to serve the people in a public office, and I will do everything in my power

GARFIELD PARK'S FLORAL EXHIBIT TO OPEN TODAY

The park district's 30th annual Easter and spring flower show opens today at the Garfield park conservatory. It will continue daily, from 8 a. m. to 10 p. m., thru April 12.

About 4,000 azaleas and rhododendrons, shading from pale pink to deep red, will be featured instead of the Easter lilies of former years. Several hundred lily plants grown in this country will be substituted for the thousands imported from Japan before the war.

Banking the formal azalea and rhododendron gardens will be some 13,000 tulips, shipped thru the Atlantic war lanes from England last fall, brilliant blue cinerarias and fragrant yellow narcissi, pale blue hydrangeas, and delicate pink bush roses, yellow calendulas, and new strains of orange marigolds, scarlet specimen nasturtiums, genista or yellow broom, and primroses.

Postmaster in Glen Ellyn to Head Trade Chamber

Postmaster N. C. Knapp recently was elected president of the Glen Ellyn Chamber of Commerce by the group's board of directors. Others elected were Emmett Malloy, vice president; A. L. Easter to See Many Added to Church Rolls

More new members are being received into the church at this Easter time than for many years, say pastors in the west suburban area. The war and unsettled conditions are said to have caused the noticeable turn to religion.

The Riverside Presbyterian church, of which Dr. Paul Turner is pastor, will receive new members at its first service at 9:30 o'clock on Easter morning. The baptism of children also will take place at the earlier service. Fifty new members will be received into the church. The second service on Easter morning, identical with the first, will be held at 11 o'clock. "I Have Seen the Lord" will be the sermon topic.

Former Seminary Aid to Speak.

Dr. George L. Robinson, formerly of the Presbyterian Theological seminary, will be the speaker Wednesday night at a preparation service. The church will conduct its traditional candlelight communion service on Holy Thursday.

The sermon topic at the Palm Sunday service this morning will be "The World Is Gone After Him." There will be special music from "Gallia" by Gounod.

At the Palm Sunday service at 10:45 o'clock this morning at First Congregational church of Western Springs, there will be music by the united choirs of 70 robed members from the intermediate choir, the high school choir, and the adult chancel choir. Sermon topic of the pastor, the Rev. Robert L. Stubbs, will be "Is God's Kingdom to Triumph?"

"Towering O'er the Wrecks of Time" will be the theme of the Maundy Thursday evening candlelight communion service at 8 o'clock, when 35 new members will be received. Again there will be music by the combined choirs.

Two Services Easter Morning.

On Easter morning, there will be identical services at 9:30 and 11 o'clock. Only the chancel choir will sing at these services. The sermon topic will be "If a Man Dies, Shall He Live Again?" The sermon will conclude a series of sermons on "Great Christian Questions" that began Feb. 22.

Easter morning at 7:30 o'clock, 120 young people will conduct a breakfast service at the church.

"The days between now and Easter are ones where the religious, ethical, and spiritual concerns of life take a large share in our thinking," the Rev. Mr. Stubbs has pointed out. "I do not wish to add to the sadness of most of us, but this Lenten time should be largely concerned with the suffering in so many parts of the world."

Give Flower Seeds.

An innovation this year at River Forest Methodist church was the sending of packages of morning glory seeds to residents of the suburb by the pastor, the Rev. Lester R. Minion. With the packages went this greeting:

"I am happy to send my Easter greetings to you in the beautiful language of flowers. Easter, with its triumphant note, needs something lovely to express its meaning. I am hoping that the blooms which come from these little seeds will smile at you all summer.

"Won't you take some of these seeds and put them in a flower pot in good soil and place it on your window sill, preferably where the morning sun shines? After the seeds come up, let them climb up the strings which can be attached to the window frame.

"When the blooms come out to smile at you, remember the church and the resurrection of our Lord Jesus Christ. May Easter be a blessed day for all of us."

Maywood Services Set.

At the First Congregational church of Maywood, the Rev. Ralphe A. Harris will have as his Palm Sunday topic this morning "Triumph and Responsibility." The choir will sing "Hosanna" by Granier, and "Jerusalem" by Parker.

Tonight, young people of the church will take part in the pageant, "He Is Risen," directed by Mrs. Vernon L. Davies. Electrical effects will include an illuminated cross. The four leading rôles will be taken by Miss Lois Mueller, Miss Beverly Wilson, George Gibson, and John Brust.

The Good Friday service at 8 p. m. will include communion and the reception of members. Royal Schmidt will sing a solo. The anthem will be "Blessed Jesus" by Rosini.

The pastor's Easter morning topic will be "Sovereignseer of Time." The choir selections will be "As It Began to Dawn," by Spence, and "King of Kings" by Simper.

To Receive Children's Class.

A class of children will be received into membership at the 11 o'clock Palm Sundaly service this morning at the First Methodist church of La Grange, of which Dr. Blair Sumner Latshaw is pastor. Both the Wesleyan children's choir and the senior choir will sing. Selections will be "Jerusalem" by Parker, and "Come Faithful People" by Voris. The sermon topic will be "Joy Everlasting."

Easter morning services at the church will be at 8 and 11 o'clock. The senior choir wil sing "Christ Our Passover" by Schilling, and "Christ Is Eternal" by Protheroe. Miss Mary Roberts will sing a contralto solo, "Alleluia." The sermon topic will be "A Hope Everlasting."

CHURCHES JOIN IN JOYFUL PALM SUNDAY RITES

Throngs to Attend Services Today.

[With tens of thousands of worshipers turning their attention to Holy week and Easter services The Tribune today prints lists of churches in the city. Names of west side churches appear on page 10.]

To the shouts and acclaim of the multitude, Jesus entered Jerusalem more than 1,900 years ago today, traveling over streets thick with palms and branches from the olive tree. In celebration of this triumphal entry, Christians thruout the world are celebrating Palm Sunday today, the opening day of Holy Week.

On Thursday, the week's activities will take on a more solemn air, with the congregations assembling to observe Maundy Thursday, and to partake of holy communion. On Friday they will hear again of the last words Christ spoke from the cross.

Easter services, always an occasion for much music and pageantry, will be more colorful than ever this year. Many churches have laid plans for cantatas, or dramatic presentations by young people's groups. In all churches there will be special Easter music, and sermons bringing the inspirational Easter message once more to the people.

Notre Dame of Chicago.

At Notre Dame of Chicago, 1335 Harrison street, there will be solemn high mass at 8 o'clock Thursday and the Gregorian chant by a priest choir. The Rev. Z. Belanger is pastor. There will be procession of the Blessed Sacrament and holy communion every half hour from 5:30 until 8. At 4 o'clock in the afternoon there will be the Rosary meditation, with a musical program by the Notre Dame school choir. At 5:15 p. m. there will be the office of "Tenebrae." An hour of prayer and a musical program by the Notre Dame boys' and mens' choir will be held at 8 o'clock, the Guard of Honor Holy hour at 10 p. m., and Nocturnal Adoration society hour at 11 p. m.

On Good Friday from noon until 3 p. m. there will be a three hour service, with the sermon by the Rev. A. H. Trudeau, the stations of the cross, and the veneration of the relic. During these ceremonies the Notre Dame choir will sing. From 8 to 9 o'clock in the evening there will be a service.

On Holy Saturday, the blessing of the Paschal candle and the font will be held at 6:30 a. m., and high mass at 8 a. m. Easter Sunday morning there will be solemn high masses at 11 a. m. and noon, with the Gregorian chant.

Oak Park First Methodist.

A special Easter sunrise service will be held at 7 o'clock next Sunday at the First Methodist church of Oak Park, Superior street and Oak Park avenue, where Dr. L. J. Radcliffe is pastor. The service will be in charge of the Rev. L. Churchill Austin, assistant minister, who will use as his topic "Seeing the Cross." An Easter breakfast will follow the service.

"Windows of Holy Week," a dramatic play of religious significance will be given at 5 o'clock Easter afternoon in the church auditorium. The play is directed by Miss Elizabeth Schwartz, and actors are members of the drama group of the church's University of Life.

Austin Congregational.

A service of meditation and communion will be held Thursday evening at the Austin Congregational church, Pine avenue and Ohio street, where the Rev. William I. Caughran is pastor. The service will open at 7:45, with a musical background by the senior choir, and communion

On Easter Sunday morning the senior choir will sing two numbers during the service, which begins at 10:30 o'clock. The Rev. Mr. Caughran will use as his sermon topic "Eastertides."

"Our Master Lives," an Easter play by Florence Barbara Ross, will be presented at noon on Easter Sunday, by the church school. This is a story of the first Easter morning as portrayed by two Roman soldiers on guard beside the tomb of Christ. Robert Govanus and Stanley Young, senior church school students, will take the parts of the soldiers. Miss Jane Cole, also a senior, will portray the Shining Presence. Junior and intermediate department children will take part in the production, which is been directed by Mrs. Fred Scott. Easter music will be under the direction of Edwin H. Neeb, with Mrs. Blanche Webber Vernon at the organ.

Fair Oaks Presbyterian.

A Good Friday service of music and communion will be held at 8 o'clock Friday evening at the Fair Oaks Presbyterian church, Fair Oaks avenue and Thomas street, Oak Park. The Rev. Herbert N. Brockway is pastor. The chorus choir will sing Dudley Buck's cantata, "The Story of the Cross." Maurice Ivins will direct, with Gertrude Baily at the organ.

Incidental solos will be sung by Mrs. S. W. Fahrney, A. I. Evenson, to fulfill any trust or confidence placed in me."

Steven Warnick, 1345 West 18th street, has not answered inquiries.

The Republican list of three candidates seeking the single G. O. P. house nomination is led by Rep. Joseph Zientek, 2001 West 18th street.

Joseph Zientek.

John R. Lamb.

In 1940 Rep. John Pelka died following his renomination, and the district senatorial committee chose Zientek to fill the ballot vacancy. Since this was a "setup" district, as it is again this year, nomination was equivalent to election.

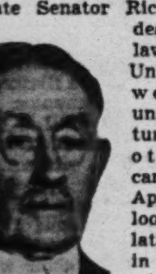
Has Regular Support.

Rep. Zientek has the regular Republican organization support in asking his first nomination from the voters. He was superintendent of the city bureau of compensation from 1927 to 1929, and assistant superintendent of the west parks from 1930 to 1931. He has run a cigar store for 33 years.

His main opponent is John R. Lamb, 1856 South Ashland avenue, a young lawyer who has been treasurer of the Pilsen Professional Men's association. Lamb also is running for congressional nomination. Lamb was runner-up to the late Rep. Pelka, and after the latter's death made a court fight to have himself declared the nominee instead of Zientek. Roy Vondriska, 1902 South Carpenter street, is the remaining candidate.

FORTY-FIRST DISTRICT

The slender, elegantly attired form of State Senator Richard J. Barr, dean of all the lawmakers in the United States, last week appeared unshaken in the turmoil of another political campaign as the April 14 primary loomed for legislative candidates in the 41st district [Du Page and Will counties].



Sen. Barr.

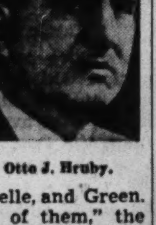
Political sages said that when the "Squire of Cherry Hill" sees his orchards bloom again, he probably will be well along the way toward his 11th four year term. In the United States senate, "Cotton Ed" Smith began his service in 1909 and ranks No. 1 in seniority. A. J. [Rotten Borough] Sabath started in the national house of representatives in 1907. Barr was launched on his long term of continuous service in 1902.

In two other states there are legislators with 40 year records, but there had been interruptions in service.

Has Single Opponent.

This time Sen. Barr is opposed by Dr. Paul A. Isherwood of West Chicago, chairman of the Du Page county Republican central committee, who has been coroner for 18 years. In any other race that would look like long service. Barr expects to get hefty support in Du Page as well as in his home county. At the age of 76, Barr is out nearly every night addressing political meetings.

Perhaps it is a tribute to Sen. Barr's political prowess that there is no fight over the Democratic nomination for state senator. Otto J. Hruby of Hinsdale, a tax auditor in business for himself, is the only candidate.



Otto J. Hruby.

Barr has served with nine governors—Yates, Deneen, Dunne, Lowden, Small, Emmerson, Horner, Stelle, and Green. "I worked with all of them," the senate dean said. "That doesn't mean I agreed with them, but that for the good of the state I tried to understand their proposals and to improve them so far as I was able."

Operates Two Farms.

Probably no politician would dare dress as well as Barr if he were unable to say he was born on a farm. Barr was born on a farm, 12 miles from Joliet, and he always has kept in his hand at farming. He operates two farms, feeding from 100 to 200 head of cattle, many of which he buys personally at the stockyards.

A remarkable thing after 40 years senatorship is that Barr is indorsed by the joint labor legislative board as well as by associated employers.

"My rule was never just to vote 'no' on a bill I was against, but to try to work it out with the sponsors and get them to improve it," he says.

Action for House Seats.

There is plenty of action in the contests for the two Republican nominations and the single Democratic nomination for the house of representatives.

Rep. Lottie Holman O'Neill of Downers Grove, Illinois' pioneer woman legislator, is running for her 10th two-year term. A widowed homemaker and former school teacher, she was active in opposing this country's drift toward war during the last two years. Now her son is in the army.

Lottie H. O'Neill.

Warren L. Wood.

In the past, she has had powerful support from church, labor, temperance, educational, and women's groups. A dignified but spirited woman with hair now nearly white, she takes her legislative duties seriously.

Veteran Legislator at 31.

Rep. Warren L. Wood of Plainfield is a youthful veteran of the house at Springfield who at the age of 31 is out for his fifth term. The nonpartisan Legislative Voters league, before suspending normal activities, described him as "young, ambitious, a worker, with a good voting record."

Wood formerly had the twin occupations of the insurance business and farm management but the war has changed this.

"I am actively engaged in military explosives production, thus making my services available in whatever way required during the present emergency," Rep. Wood said. "This will not interfere with legislative duties."

One determined opponent of the incumbents is Frank J. Bogan of Glen Ellyn, chairman of the board of directors of the Du Page Trust company. Forty years a banker, he has been a township supervisor for 12 years, 8 years as chairman of the county board legislative committee.

Frank J. Bogan.

Bogan formerly was village treasurer of Glen Ellyn and treasurer of the Illinois Association of Supervisors. He claims the support of the Du Page county Republican central committee and "favorable consideration" by Will and Du Page county labor unions.

Competition on the G. O. P. distaff side is provided by Mrs. Irene Grewenig of Joliet, who is a produce saleswoman. She has three adult children, one in the army. She is classed as an independent candidate.

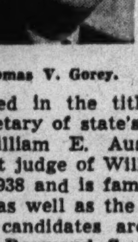
Wayne Attorney in Race.

Anson H. Brown of Wayne said that he will have the support of the Du Page county regular G. O. P. organization. He was president of the Wayne school board for nine years.

Retirement of Rep. Joseph Sam Perry from the 41st district's Democratic seat opened the way for a rush of better than average candidates.

All the Democratic house candidates are residents of Joliet.

Topping the ballot list is Thomas J. Donovan, son of former Lieut. Gov. Thomas F. Donovan. Next comes Thomas V. Gorey, former city attorney of Joliet, who was an assistant attorney general from 1933 to 1941.



Thomas V. Gorey.

John J. Maloney was assessor of Joliet township from 1938 to last Jan. 1 and is now employed in the title division of the secretary of state's office.

William E. Austin was Probate court judge of Will county from 1934 to 1938 and is familiar with accounting as well as the law. The remaining candidates are Joseph J. Kane and Raymond S. Stanton, who has been a candidate for several offices in recent years.

Mrs. Jerome Joseph was Miss Freda Bardige, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Bardige, 1213 South Avers avenue, before her recent marriage to the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Joseph, 647 Addison street.

CONGRESS RACE NARROWS TO TWO IN 8TH DISTRICT

Adamkewicz Withdrawal Aids Gordon.

BY HAROLD SMITH.

One side of the triangular fight for the Democratic congressional nomination in the 8th district was eliminated late last week by the announcement of former Ald. Stanley Adamkewicz that he was abandoning his own campaign to work for the nomination of City Treasurer Thomas S. Gordon.

That left two principals in the struggle—Gordon, the regular organization choice, and Congressman Leo Kocialkowski, who was shelved by the Nash-Kelly forces after representing the 8th district for the last 10 years.

Adamkewicz, long a Polish leader in the district, announced that his withdrawal was prompted by failure of expected aid from his own ward committeeman to materialize. Adamkewicz lives in the 26th ward, of which Joseph T. Baran is Democratic ward committeeman.

Reason Held Unlikely.

This explanation was discounted, however, because Adamkewicz did not enter the congressional race until Feb. 23, the last day, by which time the regular Democratic organization [including Baran] had already given its indorsement to Gordon.

Usually well informed observers gave credence to reports that Adamkewicz had been asked by organization representatives to throw his support to Gordon.

The former alderman has been out of active politics for several years.

In 1933 Adamkewicz obtained a job as timekeeper for the west parks. When all city parks were consolidated the following year he continued in the same capacity under the new setup. On July 21, 1940, he went on the old age retirement list with a small pension.

His withdrawal greatly improves Gordon's prospects in the primary. Gordon's followers had been frankly worried by the refusal of Kocialkowski to withdraw his name from the ballot list after receiving word that he would not be reslated because he had incurred labor's displeasure by supporting the Smith anti-strike bill. It was felt that the presence of Adamkewicz in the race might split the vote so badly that Kocialkowski would be nominated.

Little Chance for Gadacz.

There is a third candidate for the Democratic nomination, Vincent A. Gadacz, but little weight is attached to his campaign. He ran for state representative from the 27th senatorial district in 1938, placing last in a field of six. He was a candidate for the nomination for sanitary district trustee two years ago.

The Republican primary is mainly a contest between Mrs. Rena E. Pikiel, nominee in 1938, and William W. Carron, president of William John Granata's 27th ward organization. Organization support is about evenly divided between the two. There are two other candidates, Joseph Polep and Earl C. Mertes.

Weld Opposition to Sabath.

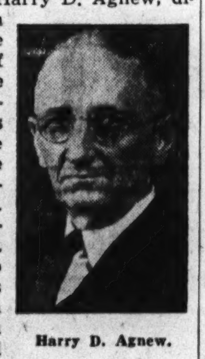
In the tiny 5th district the principal development of the week was the consolidation of forces opposed to Half a Congressman Adolph J. Sabath, incumbent since 1906 and as usual a candidate for renomination.

Frank C. Freid, Sabath's rival for the nomination, who in previous campaigns has played a lone hand, this year has teamed up with other nonorganization candidates. These include Edward J. Zeman, who is running for state senator from the 15th district against the incumbent, Peter P. Kielminski, and State Representative Edward Skarda, who without regular organization help is seeking renomination against the machine choices, Representatives Matt Franz and Samuel Kostelny.

Skarda already has demonstrated he can win elections without aid from the regular party workers. Under the new combination he may repeat this accomplishment this year, his friends believe, and in doing so aid anti-Sabath forces generally.

H. D. AGNEW, EMPLOYE OF WESTERN ELECTRIC 46 YEARS, TO RETIRE

With a record of 46 years of continuous service, Harry D. Agnew, division chief in charge of the manufacture of telephone cable and wire at Western Electric's Hawthorne works, will retire from the company Wednesday.



Harry D. Agnew.

Born in Belfast, Ireland, Mr. Agnew came to the United States in 1884 and soon after his 18th birthday obtained a job as clerk in the New York offices of the Western Electric company. Transferred to Chicago in 1910, he held important posts in the Hawthorne works personnel, employment, and manufacturing organizations.

In addition to his Western Electric activities, Mr. Agnew for many years has been a board member for the Sears, Roebuck YMCA. He resides at 604 Bonnie Brae, River Forest.

OAHU RESIDENTS ANNOYED DEC. 7 BY U. S. 'PRACTICE'

How residents of Honolulu were at first annoyed by what they thought was too vigorous practice by the United States forces on the fateful morning of the Japanese attack is told by Miss Irene Lund, 24, of Batavia, who recently returned home from the Hawaiian Islands.

"It was Sunday and the people wanted to sleep," said Miss Lund. "Eventually, we learned that Oahu had been attacked. We were told by radio to keep off the streets, but many drove down to Pearl Harbor to see what was going on." Miss Lund said she experienced a number of bombing alarms after the attack of Dec. 7. Shelter was taken in tuna fish ovens.

She returned home on a steamship that had 2,300 passengers as against a normal list of 700. Miss Lund was permitted to leave the island because of her mother's serious illness. The mother, Mrs. Augusta Lund, passed away before her daughter's arrival. Miss Lund was employed in the United States Engineering office in Honolulu.

10 MALEVOLENTS IN WORLD TODAY, TOPIC FOR CLUB

Dr. A. L. Sachar to Make Appraisal in Talk.

Dr. A. L. Sachar, professor of history at the University of Illinois, will be the speaker on the reciprocity day program of the Austin Woman's club tomorrow afternoon. There will be no morning meeting of the club. Dr. Sachar's topic will be "They Wouldn't Be Missed," and will deal with his conception of the 10 most malevolent personalities in the world today.

DRESSY CLOTHES ARE FAVORED FOR EASTER'S PARADE

Suits Are Popular on West Side.

BY ANGELA.

Merchants in the outlying neighborhoods are doing a tremendous business in coats and suits. And the Easter buying is going strong.

Clothes bought specifically for the fashion parade on Easter morning have a little dressier feeling than the usual daytime attire. Or if that can't be arranged the more simple tailored things are given a softness and femininity thru clever dressmaker touches.

1. The navy blue coat of smooth textured dressy navy blue twill [100 per cent wool, by the way] is given grace and slenderness by the full length vertical seaming in the front.

The rows of little inverted tucks are clustered closely at the waistline and from there gradually burst out to give breadth at the shoulder, and a full flare to the skirt. Spanking white piqué revers face the collar and piqué also edges the sleeve.

2. A frothy white organdy jabot bursts thru the long surplice closing of the little black faille suit dress. It is a two piece dress which looks like a suit, tho I see no reason why the jabot gilet could not be replaced with a sheer blouse so that the top part of the dress could be worn as a separate jacket. A single large jet button is the only fastener.

3. A smooth textured wool of a soft bluish gray color, much like the British air force blue, makes a tailored suit, the severity of which is softened by gathering fullness under the front shoulder yokes and a casual neckline. Simple lines and neutral color make it an ideal foil for smart accessories.

For information on these clothes call Angela, Superior 0200. Mail inquiries should be accompanied by a stamped, addressed envelope.

NEW BATHROOM FIXTURES SAVE VALUABLE SPACE

Cicero House Gets Spring Renovation.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

The arrival of spring this year reveals a wide variety of remodeling projects and various kinds of work accomplished these last months. In many instances the renovations have added space to an existing house. Sometimes this space has been gained by a new wing or a new inclosed porch, ingenious use of a wasted attic or basement, and again by the installation of new, compact plumbing fixtures and heating equipment in place of older and bulkier equipment.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Grat, 2527 61st avenue, Cicero, recently remodeled the bathroom of their home, a room which was nearly 20 years old. As Mrs. Grat said:

"We didn't alter the actual size of the room but with our new fixtures we have more space and the bathroom seems larger."

Fixtures More Compact.

Modern heating and plumbing fixtures are in most cases much more compact and space saving than those of two decades ago and this is an important factor in the remodeling of older rooms where space is at a premium.

In the Grat home a low built-in tub fits neatly into a corner, thus making available the space which formerly was wasted behind and beneath it, and at either end. By this one change alone the bathroom now has storage space—two wide, deep drawers where once the old style tub sood. The new tub also has a new convenience feature, a wide flare to its outer wall which forms a comfortable seat.

The modern lavatory is likewise a space-saver. The old protruding, slightly bulbous lavatory with stopper at end of a chain, cut off inches of space. Now in its place there's a slim little fixture with a long deep basin, a pop-up waste regulated at the spout and a nice wide shelf back for toilet accessories. [A very usable feature, this shelf, according to Mrs. Grat, as a handy place for makeup and shaving articles.]

Peach Tones Used.

The bathroom is carried out in warm peach tones. There's a tile floor in a mottled effect of peach, gray, and black. The walls, for a little more than halfway up are in peach tile with a black trim and the upper wall has been painted peach. There's a peach and silver shower curtain which all but hides the small water-saving shower head that can be adjusted to any stream, a soft gentle flood or an invigorating needle spray.

Near this tub are two grab bars—a small one combined with a soap dish is a safety gadget for the tub bather, and the slim, chromium grab bar, higher on the wall, is in easy reach of the shower bather.

Colorful Design in Rug.

The soap dish over the tub and the one near the lavatory as well as the glass holder above the lavatory are all of peach. On the floor is a peach colored rug enlivened with designs in pink and aqua and the towels are peach and black.

No shadows dim your vision in the mirror of the new medicine cabinet. It has indirect lighting, which is a comfort compared with older types of mirror lighting. And there's also an electrical outlet for the razors of the men in the family.

It is easy to clean behind the new water closet which stands an inch away from the wall and is a compact one piece fixture.

ARRANGE HOLY WEEK SERVICES AT FOREST PARK

Noon hour Lenten services for workers in the area will be held on Maundy Thursday and Good Friday at St. John's Lutheran church, 305 Circle avenue, Forest Park. The services conducted by the pastors, the Rev. Marcus Wagner and the Rev. Alvin Wagner, will start at 12:10 o'clock and continue for half an hour. There will inspirational music and prayers for America and its armed forces.

The sermon Maundy Thursday will be given by the Rev. Henry Kumnick, dean of Valparaiso university. The Rev. Alvin Wagner, junior pastor, will preach on Good Friday.

Three Palm Sunday confirmation services will be held at the church today. Groups of boys and girls will be confirmed at 9 and 10:45 o'clock. Adults will be received into membership in the service at 7:30 o'clock in the evening. Also, at the same hour, adult classes will hold their annual reunion. Other Holy week services will be held Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday at 7:30 o'clock in the evening.

COE BANDSMEN GIVE CONCERT THIS EVENING IN ORCHESTRA HALL

Cadet Lieut. Charles Okell of Oak Park is commander of the Coe College band of Cedar Rapids, Ia., which will give a Palm Sunday concert in Orchestra Hall at 7 o'clock this evening. The concert, under auspices of the Chicago Sunday Evening club, will end the annual spring concert tour of the band, part of the ROTC unit at Coe college. Okell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Okell of 630 North Kenilworth avenue, Oak Park.

Charles Okell.

Capt. Stanley Vesely, who was director of the Chicagoland Music Festival band of 1,900 pieces at Soldiers' field in 1939, is director. The college band was the official Iowa band at the Chicago World's Fair in 1933, and at the inaugurals of President Hoover and President Roosevelt.

Cadet Lieut. Okell is a senior at Coe, and has been assigned to his new post by Col. Francis M. Flanagan, head of the Coe military department. He is managing officer of the crack drill squad. He is a member of Scabbard and Blade, national honorary military fraternity, and Tau Kappa Epsilon, national social fraternity.

HALE AMERICA CLUBS SEEKING 500,000 HIKERS

Organization Operates Without Rules.

A half million hikers in the Chicago area by 1943. That is the goal of Lloyd A. Faxon and the action committee of the Hale America Hiking Clubs of Metropolitan Chicago, of which he is chairman.

Lloyd A. Faxon.

The Chicago Hale America hiking movement sprang into being six weeks ago when Mr. Faxon at the suggestion of Mayor Kelly took over chairmanship of the action committee, composed of members of six already established walking clubs thruout the metropolitan area.

They have already planned a Hale America hike on Sunday afternoon, April 19. More than 10,000 men and women, unlimited by age, color, or creed, are expected to join in the two hour five mile tramp thru Somme woods forest preserve west of Winnetka. The group will be accompanied by Clayton S. Smith, president of the board of forest preserve commissioners; Robert Mann, superintendent of maintenance for the forest preserve; Noel Wysong, chief forester; Charles G. Sauers, general superintendent, and George Pearsall, forest preserve naturalist.

No Rules, No Paternalism.

"In selling mass hiking to civilians," explained Mr. Faxon, "I want to emphasize that this is no OCD project. There'll be absolutely no paternalism, no regimentation or discipline from the government. We are merely encouraging group walking as a method to build up the physical and mental morale of the country. This is a movement without rules and regulations and every group organized will maintain a strict autonomy."

Several walking clubs are already in existence. Among the larger ones are the North Shore Hiking club, of which Mr. Faxon is a member; the Englewood Outdoor club, the Chicago Park District Outing club, the Prairie club, and the Fort Dearborn Hiking club. In five minute speeches at the offices and headquarters of the various organizations to be contacted, members of the action committee will extend encouragement toward formation of new clubs or invitations to join those already established.

Seek One in Nine.

"This idea of walking your way to health has already caught on like wildfire," says Mr. Faxon. "Many groups have quadrupled their membership during the last three months, and the movement is not limited to Chicago. There's one club in New York with 140,000 enthusiasts. There are hundreds of outing clubs in California."

FOUR IN OAK PARK SEEK REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE JOB

Berwyn and Cicero Also Have Contests.

Altho Oak Park township is the scene of a four cornered race for Republican township committeeman, two of the candidates are attracting notice because of the sharp contrast in their political techniques. The two—Clarence A. Willard Jr., prosecuting attorney of Oak Park village, and Stuart M. Williams, a newcomer to politics—are fighting each other tooth and nail and ignoring the other two men in the race.

Williams is employing old fashioned political methods in his campaign. He filed his nominating petition late enough to get last place on the ballot. Williams is the son-in-law of Eden T. Brekke, Republican committeeman from Chicago's 36th ward.

Willard is waging what he calls a modern, scientific campaign against Williams. Armed with photostatic enlargements of his rival's petition, Willard is making the rounds of Oak Park's civic organizations to have the members inspect the petitions.

Strong Support for Incumbent.

Williams has had no political experience. He is acting on advice of Mr. Brekke. Willard was the first president of Oak Park's Young Republican club and he has been president of the state organization.

Other candidates for the Oak Park place are Attorney L. A. Wescott, the incumbent, who has been Republican committeeman for six years, and Sanford F. Giles, secretary of the regular Republican organization in Oak Park since 1936. Giles has been a supporter of United States Senator Wayland Brooks in all of his campaigns. Wescott also is backing the senator. Wescott has a strong organization.

River Forest is witnessing its most bitter party fight in many years. Merle H. Potter, who operates a string of nut kitchens, opposes State Senator Arthur Bidwill, the present Republican committeeman.

Potter, the candidate of Village President John I. Brink, wants the job so that "the rank and file of local Republicans will be assured of representation free of any outside political commitment." Potter cites Bidwill's support of the "bookie" bill as proof of the senator's link with machine politics. Bidwill is expected to support the regular Republican slate. Potter is expected to support the slate except the candidate for sheriff, Leo Carr. Brink likes William O. Freeman.

Three in Berwyn Race.

Three men seek the Republican committeeman's job in Berwyn township. Edward O. Holly, the incumbent, a Berwyn alderman for six years, is conceded the inside track. He claims to be the only committeeman in the country towns to have been an original supporter of Gov. Green. He is opposed by Frank S. Bellis, a heating contractor, and Adolph J. Lentz, an automobile salesman.

The only good fight among west suburban Democrats is in Cicero. Here the battle between Village President George Stedronsky and Town Clerk Anton J. Krupicka for control of village jobs continues unabated. Krupicka is the incumbent. Only two months ago Stedronsky tied up the village pay roll by refusing to sign a blanket village pay roll check and requesting that Krupicka make out separate checks for each employé. The clerk refused to do this and, thru court action, forced the president to sign the blanket draft.

Stedronsky wanted to pass out the checks in person "to see who's working for us." Krupicka charged that Stedronsky would have withheld the pay of his political enemies until they pledged him allegiance.

Republican Fight in Cicero.

Cicero Republicans are only casually interested in the scrap between Jerry Dolezal, the present committeeman, and A. J. Zelenka, an architect. Dolezal charges that his opponent was put up by "certain members of the high school and park boards." Both boards are controled by Democrats. Dolezal, who recently became superintendent of the State Industrial Home for the Blind, boasts of having doubled the number of Republican votes in Cicero township since 1936.

Three men seek the Republican committeeman's job in Proviso township vacated by Bruce Benson. James G. Jamieson of Maywood, who works in the county recorder's office, has Benson's support, but has stiff competition from Kurt Berliner, the candidate of Proviso's Regular Republican club. Berliner was for eight years commissioner of public health and safety in Forest Park. The third man in the race is Ray Boyle of Maywood. Until recently he had been registered as a Democrat.

Frank J. Kriz, the incumbent Republican committeeman in Lyons township, faces Ernest B. Graham, Brookfield real estate man, who was a last day filer. Kriz, who lives in Western Springs, is superintendent of the shop and warehouse for the Cook county highway department.

Other West Side Candidates.

Charles F. Tourek, the incumbent, is unopposed for Democratic committeeman in Berwyn township.

Leo F. Kennedy, the Kelly-Nash organization follower and mayor of Argo and present Democratic committeeman of Lyons township, is given the edge over Mayor Irving W. Eiserman of Hodgkins.

Joseph J. Lelivelt, Maywood, the present Democratic committeeman in Proviso township, is unopposed, as is River Forest's Democratic incumbent, Roy D. O'Brien.

In Riverside township, the Republican incumbent, A. W. Komarek of Riverside, is unopposed. Frank C. Stolfa of North Riverside is unopposed for the Democratic committeeman's job being vacated by Frank F. Lopata.

The race for Democratic committeeman in Oak Park township is a toss-up between the incumbent, Joseph B. Ford, former town assessor, and the present assessor, Thomas A. Walpole.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, March 30

The advancing season and the great increase in gardening make it imperative that gardeners make their plans to begin work as soon as the weather is warm enough. Think first of the things you wish to grow, whether your garden will be devoted to vegetables or a combination of flowers and vegetables or flowers alone.

Soil conditions must be considered no matter what plants are grown. Even at this time decayed manure can be procured and made ready to spade into the soil when the soil is fit, or until it is dry enough that it will not stick to the spade. A soil that forms a crust on the surface should have an abundance of humus incorporated in it.

Tuesday, March 31

Plant trees, shrubs, and hardy vines as soon as the nursery can supply them. Do not use too many trees or shrubs on the small yard. Tall shrubs should not be planted where dwarf kinds should go. Note the shrubs under some windows, how they must be cut back each year and are never satisfactory. Note, too, the yards that are overplanted with trees when half the number would suffice.

When transplanting trees haul away débris that was used to fill in the yard, or heavy yellow or blue clay that would not sustain plant life, replace it with good, rich soil. Buy specimen trees; never be satisfied with crooked ill-shaped plants or one with a crotch.

Wednesday, April 1

When laying out the shrubbery border do not use too many kinds; repeat the kinds so the effect will not be spotty. Shrubs should have good soil. In transplanting dig the holes large enough to accommodate the roots easily. Tamp the soil firmly around the roots and water well.

Too few hardy vines are used and yet they lend a pleasing effect. The wild grape is especially useful where a strong vine is wanted, and by proper pruning a considerable amount of fruit will be produced.

Among others that are desirable is the oriental bittersweet which fruits much better than the more common kind and does well in partial shade. The fleece flower [polygonum auberti] grows easily and is covered with misty white blooms. All the climbing roses are good, altho the wood may freeze back during severe winters.

Thursday, April 2

Fast growing annuals can be started from seeds. If a coldframe is available the seeds do best if started in it. Uncover bulb beds and gently shake up the covering on mulch. When the buds show give an application of a complete balanced plant food and larger flowers will be obtained.

When spading the garden do not take huge spadefuls, take thin slices and break them up as the work progresses. Order roses and plant as soon as possible. When planting firm the soil around the plants and give a good watering.

Friday, April 3

The gardener who sows seeds thick must use extra care when watering. The seedlings, if left alone without thinning, are certain to grow tall and spindly, and they are difficult to establish out of doors. Sow thin and avoid this trouble.

This also is true when sowing out of doors and it is a real waste. Do not sow deep as the seeds cannot push above the surface. Watch the flats of seedlings and transplant to the coldframe or another flat as soon as the plants can be easily handled.

Saturday, April 4

If you have a gift azalea and it is thru flowering, keep it in the coolest spot you have, above freezing, and when all danger from frost has passed plunge the pot to the rim in a semisandy spot out of doors.

House plants can now be transplanted. Palms, aspidistras, sansevierias, pandans, and others of a similar type should not be transplanted into extra sized containers even tho they are large. Simply take a stick and remove as much soil as possible from the top of the pot and replace with new rich soil.

HITS FROM PRIZE OPERETTAS ON W-G-N SATURDAY

Marion Claire and Cassel to Be Stars.

"Hits from the Prize Operettas," a musical recapitulation of the three prize winning operettas from W-G-N's $10,500 Great American Operetta Quest, will be presented from 7:30 to 8:30 p. m. next Saturday on W-G-N, W59C, and the Mutual network. Marion Claire, soprano prima donna of the Chicago Theater of the Air, Walter Cassel and Ray Charles will be featured in this special broadcast.

The last of the three prize operettas was aired last night. The broadcast will refresh the memory of the thousands of listeners who are planning to enter W-G-N's separate $2,500 contest to select the best of the three scores and give it a name. Contestants are asked to write 50 words or less giving the reasons for their choice.

The composer-author whose work is selected by the listening audience as the best of the three will receive an additional $5,000 to be added to his original $1,000 award.

The tunes to be presented are "Men of Steel," "Kalunah's Song," "The Game of Love," and "You Are My Dream Come True," from the first operetta; "Love Has Wings," "Virginia," "You're a Robber," "Shall I Meet My Love Tonight," and "This Love Is Ours," from the second operetta, and "All I Can Think of Is You," "Just a Little Boy's Day Dream," "When You Come to the End of a Perfect Love," and "America Loves a Melody" from the final operetta.

The W-G-N Symphony orchestra under the baton of Henry Weber and the chorus directed by Robert Trendler will be heard Saturday. Kenneth MacGregor is the producer.

CALUMET CITY HIGH NEXT ON CITIZENS' HOUR

Thornton Fractional Township High school of Calumet City will be honored during the broadcast of the Citizens of Tomorrow program over W-G-N at 1:30 p. m. today. Some 600 students of the 1,200 who make up the student body were on hand Wednesday at W-G-N when this program was recorded.

The "fractional" part of the same derives from the fact that the school district embraces nine square miles, a fractional part of a congressional township.

Philip Maxwell, who conducts this youth program, will introduce Victor Lockhart, the principal, who will speak briefly. The Meistersingers, a boys' ensemble, directed by Harold Christian, and a girls' double sextet, conducted by Franklyn Kingdon, will sing. Two more students' names will be added to the roll of honor: Wilfred Kraegel of the honor school and Sally Diekema of Holland, Mich.

Verne Hansen is the new announcer. He replaces Spencer Allen, who has been called to active duty with the army. Jane Anderson is substituting for Harold Turner as pianist.

'GREAT ARTISTS' TO END SEASON WITH GALA SHOW

Dramatic incidents in the life of Paul Gauguin, noted French artist, will be presented on the final Great Artists broadcast of the season over W-G-N at 2:15 p. m. next Wednesday. This broadcast, to be held in connection with a gala program in W-G-N's studio theater, will be attended by executives of the Art institute, which coöperates in these broadcasts.

Before the broadcast Daniel Catton Rich, director of fine arts, will outline plans of the institute for the coming months to the studio audience.

Actors from the Goodman theater dramatic school will be garbed in costumes of Tahitians during Gauguin's time. Several of his paintings will be exhibited in the studio.

Management and Labor in War, Subject of Forum

The subject of "Management and Labor in War Production" will be discussed on the Northwestern Reviewing Stand at 10 a. m. today over W-G-N and Mutual. S. W. Du Brul, economist and labor statistician, and Walter P. Reuther, automobile union labor leader, will be the participants.

Bill Anson to Preside at Funny Paper Party

Bill Anson of An Hour with Elson and Anson fame will read the Chicago Tribune comics on the Funny Paper Party beginning today. The Funny Paper Party is heard on W-G-N from 11:35 to noon every Sunday.

'WE WERE THERE' INTERVIEWS GIVE FILLIP TO NEWS

W-G-N Talks Supplement Dispatches.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Listeners who tune in W-G-N to follow war and domestic developments these days are getting something extra with their news. W-G-N is following up important news breaks the world over with interviews featuring men and women who have lived and worked in the spots described in the dispatches.

On outstanding local news stories, the persons concerned are interviewed, or authorities on the subject are brought to the microphone. The W-G-N special events department is arranging and presenting these interviews.

This new series, which is called "We Were There," is attracting wide attention. Many listeners are commenting favorably on this supplement to the news.

The interviews are made integral parts of regular W-G-N news broadcasts. These programs are heard at 8 a. m. with Vern Hansen, 11:30 a. m. with John Holbrook, 6:30 p. m. with Clifton Utley [commentary], 8:15 p. m. with Holbrook, and 10:30 p. m. with Jack Brickhouse.

A File of 200 on Tap.

In addition the special events department, with the W-G-N mobile unit, is continuing full coverage of spot news and of important army, navy, and marine corps happenings in the Chicago area.

In the weeks test of giving listeners extra dividends of interest with their news, W-G-N has built up a file of nearly 200 persons familiar with people, places, and events in all parts of the globe, made arrangements with universities for broadcasts by some of their best informed faculty members, and established working agreements with consulates for putting resident officials and visiting statesmen on the air.

Many Experts Interviewed.

Among the personalities already interviewed have been:

Carroll Van Patter, former transportation adviser to the national government of China, on the Burma road.

R. R. A. Dykstra, assistant to Netherlands consul in Chicago, on the [then] Java crisis.

Henry Evans of the Chinese News service, a world traveler, on people and places in New Guinea.

Noah Van Cleef, manufacturer and expert on South American conditions, on axis riots in Rio de Janiero.

Guy Murchie, Chicago Tribune war correspondent, on his two years in England, Ireland, and Iceland.

Miss Gertrude Hull, retired school teacher, brought from Milwaukee to tell of coaching Gen. MacArthur for West Point history exams.

E. H. Scott, inventor, radio manufacturer, who served with Australian forces during World war.

Dr. Henry Simon Bloch, French economist now at the University of Chicago, on the war guilt trials at Riom.

Henry Wei, Chinese scholar from International House, University of Chicago, to tell of studies in Japan and country's vulnerability to bombing [followed story of possible United States bombing of Tokio].

"We aren't looking for analysts," a W-G-N spokesman said. "W-G-N and Mutual already have standout men in this field on the air. What we do want are the people who built the Burma road, who hunt with the New Guinea headhunters, who used to live on Main street in Melbourne or Moscow, who went to school with Gen. MacArthur."

HOLY WEEK UNITES CHRISTIAN FAITHS

SENATOR BARR FAVORED TO WIN ELEVENTH TERM

Lawmakers' Dean Is Active Campaigner.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

The slender, elegantly attired form of State Sen. Richard J. Barr, dean of lawmakers in the United States, last week appeared unshaken in the turmoil of another political campaign as the April 14 primary loomed for legislative candidates in the 41st district [Dp Page and Will counties].

Political sages said that when the "Squire of Cherry Hill" sees his orchards bloom again, he probably will be well along the way toward his eleventh four year term. In the United States senate, "Cotton Ed" Smith began his service in 1909, and ranks No. 1 in seniority. A. J. [Rotten Borough] Sabath started in the national house of representatives in 1907. Barr was launched on his long term of continuous service in 1902.

In two other states there are legislators with 40 year records, but there had been interruptions in service.

Opposed by Du Page Coroner.

This time Sen. Barr is opposed by Dr. Paul A. Isherwood of West Chicago, chairman of the Du Page county Republican central committee, who has been coroner for 18 years. Barr expects to get hefty support in Du Page as well as in his home county. At 76 years, he is out nearly every night to address political meetings.

Perhaps it is a tribute to Sen. Barr's political prowess that there is no fight over the Democratic nomination for state senator. Otto J. Hruby of Hinsdale, a tax auditor in business for himself, is the only candidate.

Barr has served with nine governors—Yates, Deneen, Dunne, Lowden, Small, Emmerson, Horner, Stelle, and Green.

"I worked with all of them," the senate dean said. "That doesn't mean I agreed with them, but that for the good of the state I tried to understand their proposals and to improve them so far as I was able."

Operates Two Farms.

Probably no politician would dare dress as well as Barr if he were unable to say he was born on a farm. Barr was born on a farm, 12 miles from Joliet, and he always has kept in his hand at farming. He operates two farms, feeding from 100 to 200 head of cattle, many of which he buys personally at the stockyards.

His father's death left his mother with eight children, the eldest 15 years old, the youngest, twins under a year. Barr attended school when he was not working. He taught four years to get money to attend the University of Illinois. He was the editor in chief of the first Illio, the student year book.

Began Law Practice in Joliet.

Later he worked his way thru the University of Michigan law school and began practice in Joliet.

In 1899 Barr was elected city attorney, and in 1901 was elected mayor. In the latter post he led the council to put thru a railroad track elevation ordinance and to have the five railroads build a union station. A segregated system of artesian wells was established, street signs were placed at every intersection, and city street cleaning was instituted.

"I guess I helped to make Joliet a modern city," Barr says.

Elected Senator While Mayor.

While still mayor, he was elected senator. He was president pro tem of the senate for "several terms," he recalls casually, once under Gov. Lowden during the World War I.

The hard roads bills to build 10,000 miles of roads which were the envy of other states, the Lockport-Utica deep waterway bill which connected the Great Lakes and the gulf, the workmen's compensation act—these belong to Barr's legislative history.

Backed by Labor and Employers.

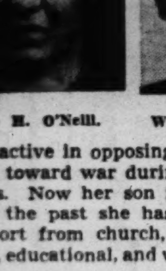
A remarkable thing after 40 years senatorship is that Barr is indorsed by the Joint Labor Legislative board, as well as associated employers.

"My rule was never just to vote 'no' on a bill I was against, but to try to work it out with the sponsors and get them to improve it," he says.

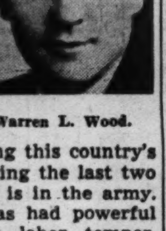
There is plenty of action in the contests for the two Republican nominations, and the single Democratic nomination, for the house of representatives.

Seeks Tenth Term.

Rep. Lottie Holman O'Neill of Downers Grove, Illinois' pioneer woman legislator, is running for her tenth two year term. A widowed homemaker and former school teacher, she was active in opposing this country's drift toward war during the last two years. Now her son is in the army.



Lottie H. O'Neill.



Warren L. Wood.

In the past she has had powerful support from church, labor, temperance, educational, and women's groups.

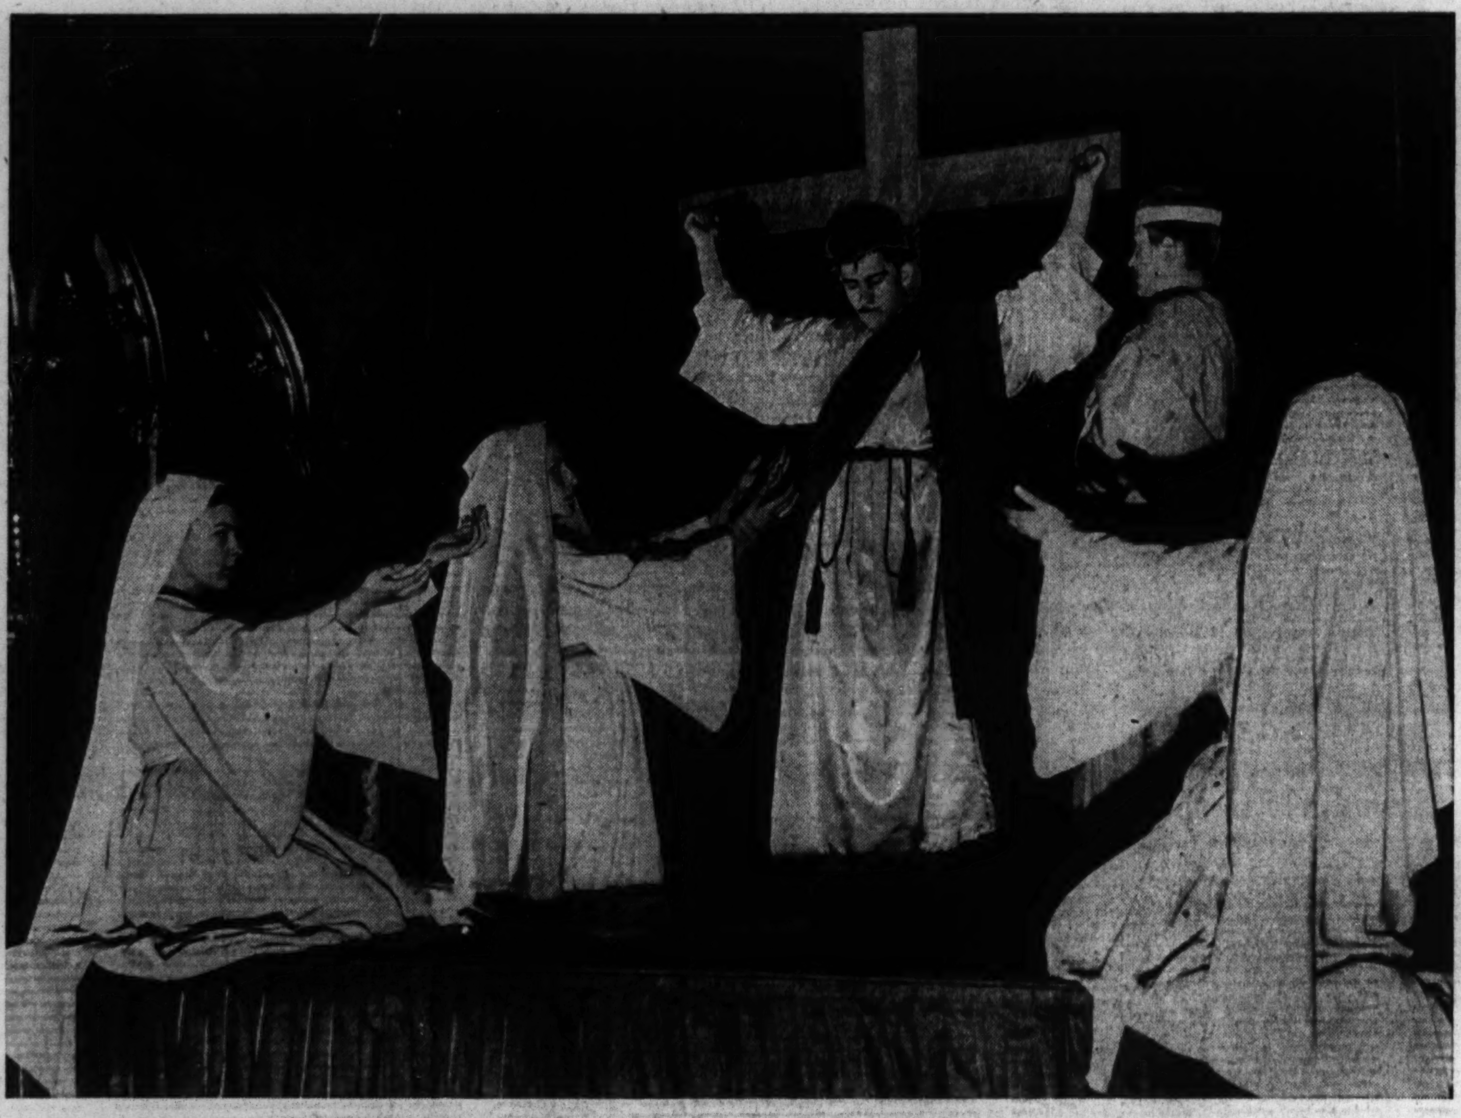
Children Enact Stations of Cross as Lenten Season Nears Climax



Christ dies on the cross. This is the 12th station of the cross, a Lenten devotional in Roman Catholic churches. The service traces the passion and death of Christ. This is the fifth Lenten season in which the devotion has been presented in pantomine at SS. Joseph and Anne church, 3836 South California avenue. Eight boys and five girls, eighth grade pupils at the parish school, enact the roles, under the direction of the pastor, the Rev. L. F. De Celle. Reading clockwise, the following pupils are enacting Mary Magdalene, Eleanore Chepulis; Blessed Virgin, Laverne Jurasin; Christ, Raymond Biederman; St. John, John Hardek; a woman of Jerusalem, Virginia Wisniewski.

Simon helps Jesus to carry His cross. This is the fifth station in the way to Christ's crucifixion. Raymond Biederman, in the role of Christ, has shouldered the cross, as William Arcand, enacting Simon, prepares to help him. The soldier is Robert Oliver. The women of the church made the garments worn in the tableaux. The cross, too, was fashioned by members of the 53 year old parish.

Jesus meets his Blessed Mother. This is the fourth step in Christ's path to Calvary. In this picture, reading from the left, are Simon, Christ, St. John, and the Blessed Virgin Mary. The presentation is enacted on a portable platform. The church is the site of the famous shrine to St. Anne, where July novenas in her honor attract hundreds from all parts of the country.

Realty Expert Envisions His City of Future

BY PAUL HEALY.

Homer Hoyt.

In addition to being Chicago's No. 1 booster, Homer Hoyt is probably the only resident who looks upon the city with the same interest a doctor feels toward an old and friendly patient. Thru years of painstaking research he has charted the city's growth and development until its face has become as familiar to him as the palm of his hand. Currently he is most concerned with its future physical setup.

As director of research for the Chicago Plan commission, Mr. Hoyt's unusual background and enthusiasm for Chicago have made him particularly valuable in that work. Beginning as a child prodigy, he has had experience as a teacher of economics in four universities and one college, as a real estate broker, a lawyer, a writer, an economist, and a consultant on land values. Today he is regarded as a leading authority on real estate and a mine of information on Chicago streets, communities, and population shifts.

For More Light and Air.

Because Chicago, and particularly Chicago real estate, is Mr. Hoyt's hobby as well as his work, he worries about it. He worries about the recent tendency of the population to move to the prairies past the city limits and he worries about the rundown areas, which, he says, "don't cure themselves." He likes nothing better than discussing Chicago's possible future but he never speaks in the sonorous and blatant manner of the professional promoter. Quietly and thoughtfully, he says:

"The task is to rebuild the city according to a better plan. Beginning with the decayed spots there must be more light and air. The old plan of horizontal blocks bounded by streets, which gave us too many thru streets, should be done away with and more dead-end streets and playgrounds substituted. In general, the plan must have a newer and broader basis with the economic, sociological, and geographic aspects taken into consideration."

"I'm always bragging about Chicago when I'm out of town and it is the best city in the world. But it can be better. By intelligent planning now it can be rebuilt in 75 or 80 years."

In Kindergarten at 3.

It is a little embarrassing for Mr. Hoyt to admit he was not born in Chicago and spent many of his earlier years in other cities. But life began for him, he says, at the age of three years, when he remembers walking down Michigan avenue on his way to kindergarten at the Art institute. It was love at first sight.

Born in St. Joseph, Mo., Mr. Hoyt passed some of his childhood in Chicago and then moved with his mother to Kansas, where he set a few awesome records which still stand. He was graduated from the University of Kansas at 16 years of age with Phi

Seek 500,000 to Hike Way Into Health

A half million hikers in the Chicago area by 1943. That is the goal of Lloyd A. Faxon and the action committee of the Hale America Hiking Clubs of Metropolitan Chicago, of which he is chairman.

Lloyd A. Faxon.

The Chicago Hale America hiking movement sprang into being six weeks ago when Mr. Faxon at the suggestion of Mayor Kelly took over chairmanship of the action committee, composed of members of six already established walking clubs thruout the metropolitan area.

They have already planned a Hale America hike on Sunday afternoon, April 19. More than 10,000 men and women, unlimited by age, color, or creed, are expected to join in the two hour five mile tramp thru Somme woods forest preserve west of Winnetka. The group will be accompanied by Clayton S. Smith, president of the board of forest preserve commissioners; Robert Mann, superintendent of maintenance for the forest preserve; Noel Wysong, chief forester; Charles G. Sauers, general superintendent, and George Pearsall, forest preserve naturalist.

No Rules, No Paternalism.

"In selling mass hiking to civilians," explained Mr. Faxon, "I want to emphasize that this is no OCD project. There'll be absolutely no paternalism, no regimentation or discipline from the government. We are merely encouraging group walking as a method to build up the physical and mental morale of the country. This is a movement without rules and regulations and every

GIRLS SET UP RULES FOR BETTER LETTERS TO BOYS IN SERVICE

The Club for Better and More Letters to Boys in Service recently elected a chairman and adopted a slogan. The chairman is Miss Ruth Swanson, 9024 South May street. The slogan is "A line a day to those away."

Ruth Swanson.

The club, which is known to members at Fox Secretarial school as the CFBAMLTBIS, hopes to provide the young men in the army with newsy bits from home. "We think," Miss Swanson said, "that few letters to men in the service accomplish their purpose. Far too many letters, especially from young people, consist of a recital of good times."

She suggested five rules to be followed in the writing of letters to soldiers. They are: [1] Write cheerful, friendly, intelligent letters; [2] don't fill your letter with news of the fine times you are having and the petty pleasures you are enjoying; [3] don't tell him about all the little family troubles—he has enough to worry about; [4] demonstrate how much you appreciate the sacrifices he is making and tell him what you are doing to win the war; [5] don't give up if he doesn't answer your letter. There are so many reasons why he can't answer immediately. How about inclosing a few postcards with each letter?"

MUSIC OF PALM SUNDAY USHERS IN OBSERVANCE

Many to Join in Good Friday Services.

The triumphal entry of Christ into Jerusalem will be marked today with Palm Sunday services in churches thruout southwest Chicago. A solemn note will be lent to the joyful observance, for it ushers in Holy week, when Christians the world over hearken to the passion and death of Christ.

Catholic churches have arranged a series of week long services to commemorate the occasions. At SS. Joseph and Anne church, 3836 South California avenue, the Loyola University Choral society will sing Maunder's "Calvary" at 7:30 o'clock tonight. On Holy Thursday, adoration of the Blessed Sacrament will continue from 10 o'clock in the morning until 8 o'clock Good Friday morning. This is one of the few southwest churches to conduct this service thruout the night.

All Catholic churches will bless and distribute palms during the final mass today. A mission, terminating Easter Sunday will continue thruout Holy week at St. Martin's, 5842 Princeton avenue, with the week's services being conducted by the diocesan missionaries. In the Polish and Slovak churches on the southwest side, the traditional blessing of food will be performed on Easter Saturday.

Procession on Saturday.

At St. John Nepomucene, 2953 South Lowe avenue, a solemn procession will be held at 7:30 o'clock Saturday night. Participants will be the school children, garbed in white and strewing flowers. St. John's is a Bohemian parish, and among the parishioners this service is known as Wzkriseni.

The Tre Ore, a three hour service commemorating the three hours Christ hung on the cross, will be conducted from noon until 3 o'clock Friday afternoon at Visitation church, 843 West Garfield boulevard. The Rev. Bernard Brogan of the Catholic university of Washington will officiate.

Protestant Chicago has made elaborate preparation to mark the week with appropriate services. Confirmation will take place at 9 o'clock today at Redeemer Lutheran church of Oak Forest. The Rev. Phillip Nash of Hope Lutheran church of Midlothian, who has been serving as pastor of Redeemer's, will preside. The Rev. Alvin A. Klein was pastor there until his recent army induction. Confirmands include Laverne Kohlmann, Loretta Ohrvall, Jean Turner, James Hawken, and Norman Booth.

Sing Cantata Tonight.

The senior choir of Grace English Lutheran church, 70th street and Union avenue, will give Maunder's "Calvary" at 7:30 o'clock tonight. Solos will be rendered by Eleanor Carlson, Lois Hanson, Myrtle Anderson, Carl Gronholm, and Rolland A. Nelson.

Their second annual Easter season cantata will be presented tonight at the McKinley Park Methodist church, 38th street and Washtenaw avenue, by the church choir. This year's presentation will be "The Triumph of the Cross." Gertrude Wisehart, Ruth Harper, Frank Hoffmann, Charles Ahlgrim, Carl Kranson, and Mrs. Ive J. Hoffman will do the solos.

"The Seven Last Words," cantata by T. H. Du Bois, will be given at 8 o'clock tonight by the choir of the Emerald Avenue Presbyterian church, 70th street and Emerald avenue. Frederic Theodore Mills is minister; Ann Gordon is choir director and organist.

Drexel Park Presbyterian.

Three services will mark Palm Sunday at the Drexel Park Presbyterian church, 64th street and South Marshfield avenue. At 8 o'clock the reception of young people into the church will be the feature of a communion service. A palm processional will be participated in by the Young People's choir of 50 voices. The pastor, the Rev. Clinton C. Cox, will speak.

The Palm Sunday sermon will be delivered at 11 o'clock by the Rev. Mr. Cox, and at 8 o'clock this evening the senior choir will present Wilson's "Our Living Lord." At 8 o'clock Wednesday evening, a preparatory service will be held for those uniting with the church on Friday.

Palm Sunday will be observed today at the Gloria Dei Evangelical Lutheran church, 53d street and South Major avenue, with services at 9:30 o'clock and at 11 o'clock.

Unite on Good Friday.

Eighty-two south area churches will participate in the 16th annual united Good Friday services to be presented under the auspices of the Southtown church-YMCA coöperation program. The coöperating churches will sponser six services in the communities Lawn, Ogden Hill, and Grand Crossing.

Two services have been planned for the Englewood community. The first of these will be held in the Emerald Avenue Presbyterian church, Marquette road and Emerald avenue.

EXPERT IN REAL ESTATE ENVISIONS CITY OF FUTURE

Homer Hoyt Sees Era of Light and Air.

Beta Kappa honors. Six months later he took a master of arts degree. Because of interruptions, it was another 22 years before he received his Ph. D. degree, but this pursuit finally changed his career since his thesis, "One Hundred Years of Land Values in Chicago," won him much attention.

In 1913 Mr. Hoyt came to the University of Chicago on a fellowship in economics. During 1913-'14 he also began the study of law. Following this, he became an economics instructor at Beloit college and left that post in 1918 when he was called to Washington, D. C., to act as an economist for the War Trade board in lumber problems.

Law and Basketball.

In the evening he went to George Washington university long enough to obtain a law degree. At the same time he satisfied an old ambition by playing on the varsity basketball team.

Mr. Hoyt spent five years in the east after the war. He was a professor of economics at the University of Delaware, statistician for the American Telephone and Telegraph in New York City, and an associate professor of economics at the University of North Carolina.

In 1923 he made another stab at finishing his Ph. D. rekuirements at the University of Chicago but soon found himself accepting another teaching job, this time at the University of Missouri. Two years later—because "getting excited about real estate is in my blood"—he returned to Chicago and plunged wholeheartedly into the hysteria of wild land speculations. By October, 1929, his fortune had come and gone. Instead of being bitter and despairing, however, he wanted to find a reason for the crash.

Looks for Answer.

"I felt that the failures of the banks and all land values could have been prevented," he says, "if we had understood real estate trends, and if they came in cycles—that is, low to high to low. Since no such work of research had been compiled, I decided to do it myself and use the topic as a thesis for my Ph. D. degree, which, I hoped, would help me get a job, too."

It was not until 1933 that he finished the thesis and took his degree. As sources, he used Olcutt's "Land Values," and thousands of editions of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, which for many years recorded every real estate transaction, and the Chicago Economist. In addition, he got a job in the county assessor's office, which gave him entry to the records, and talked to hundreds of real estate brokers thruout the city.

The thesis, which was published as a book with money from The Chicago Title and Trust company, showed there were five great cycles of Chicago real estate, with the peaks in 1836, 1856, 1973, 1892, and 1926, and that they were attributable to population growths. It also showed the danger signals for land value fluctuations, and the need for the intelligent planning of a city.

Call for the Author.

The book, which was unique for any city in the nation, was so thoro a study that its author was soon in demand. Mr. Hoyt wrote articles for Chicago newspapers and acted as an occasional consultant for real estate evaluation. He also was principal housing economist for the FHA and consultant for the Urban Land Institute in New York City before coming to the Plan commission.

Last summer Mr. Hoyt married Mrs. Gertrude McGuane, a widow and third generation Chicagoan whom he met while working in the assessor's office. One of the qualities he most admires in her, he hints, is a masculine appreciation of real estate.

To Wed in April

The marriage of Gwendolyn Jacobson to David Blum, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Blum, 1242 South Lawndale avenue, will take place Saturday, April 18, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Jacobson, 1621 South Sawyer avenue, announced.

NEW BATHROOM FIXTURES SAVE VALUABLE SPACE

Cicero House Gets Spring Renovation.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

The arrival of spring this year reveals a wide variety of remodeling projects and various kinds of work accomplished these last months. In many instances the renovations have added space to an existing house. Sometimes this space has been gained by a new wing or a new inclosed porch, ingenious use of a wasted attic or basement, and again by the installation of new, compact plumbing fixtures and heating equipment in place of older and bulkier equipment.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Grat, 2527 61st avenue, Cicero, recently remodeled the bathroom of their home, a room which was nearly 20 years old. As Mrs. Grat said:

"We didn't alter the actual size of the room but with our new fixtures we have more space and the bathroom seems larger."

Fixtures More Compact.

Modern heating and plumbing fixtures are in most cases much more compact and space saving than those of two decades ago and this is an important factor in the remodeling of older rooms where space is at a premium.

In the Grat home a low built-in tub fits neatly into a corner, thus making available the space which formerly was wasted behind and beneath it, and at either end. By this one change alone the bathroom now has storage space—two wide, deep drawers where once the old style tub sood. The new tub also has a new convenience feature, a wide flare to its outer wall which forms a comfortable seat.

The modern lavatory is likewise a space-saver. The old protruding, slightly bulbous lavatory with stopper at end of a chain, cut off inches of space. Now in its place there's a slim little fixture with a long deep basin, a pop-up waste regulated at the spout and a nice wide shelf back for toilet accessories. [A very usable feature, this shelf, according to Mrs. Grat, as a handy place for makeup and shaving articles.]

Peach Tones Used.

The bathroom is carried out in warm peach tones. There's a tile floor in a mottled effect of peach, gray, and black. The walls, for a little more than halfway up are in peach tile with a black trim and the upper wall has been painted peach. There's a peach and silver shower curtain which all but hides the small water-saving shower head that can be adjusted to any stream, a soft gentle flood or an invigorating needle spray.

Near this tub are two grab bars—a small one combined with a soap dish is a safety gadget for the tub bather, and the slim, chromium grab bar, higher on the wall, is in easy reach of the shower bather.

Colorful Design in Rug.

The soap dish over the tub and the one near the lavatory as well as the glass holder above the lavatory are all of peach. On the floor is a peach colored rug enlivened with designs in pink and aqua and the towels are peach and black.

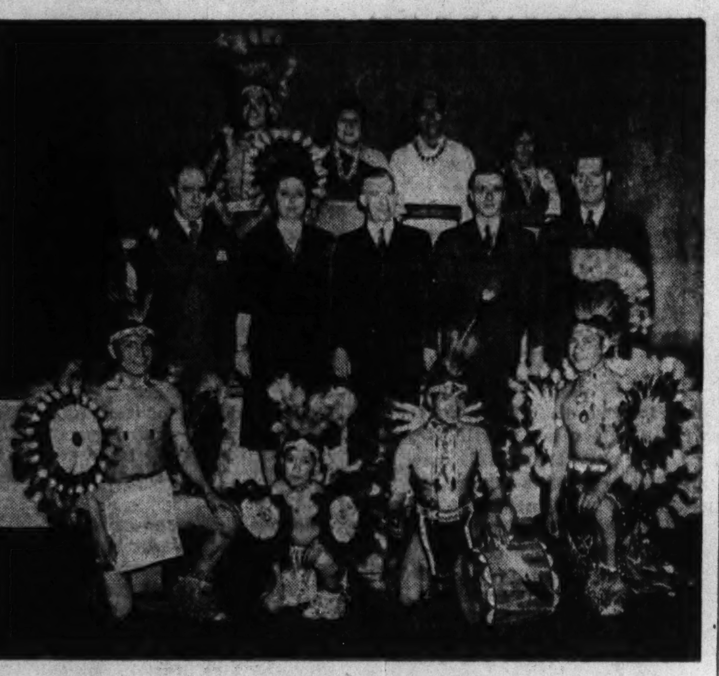
No shadows dim your vision in the mirror of the new medicine cabinet. It has indirect lighting, which is a comfort compared with older types of mirror lighting. And there's also an electrical outlet for the razors of the men in the family.

It is easy to clean behind the new water closet which stands an inch away from the wall and is a compact one piece fixture.

Two South Siders Pledged to Valparaiso Sorority

Two southwest students at Valparaiso university have been pledged to Alpha Phi Delta, social sorority. They are Roberta Ihde, daughter of H. C. Ihde, 8125 South Peoria street, and Harriet Albrecht, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Albrecht, 5422 South Christiana avenue.

Indians Whoop It Up for Bond Sales



The Jemez Indian dancers made their first appearance last week on the southwest side in the interest of the treasury department's bond and stamp selling drive. They danced a buffalo dance, a hoop dance, and a war dance before 950 persons at Brainerd's first general civilian defense meeting. It was held at Hackman's hall, 96th and Throop streets. Their leader is Tony White Cloud. From left to right in the center row, are Don D. McKiernan, chairman of special events of the treasury department's defense savings staff; Miss Margaret L. Irwin, representative of the Santa Fe railroad, in charge of Indians; Frank B. Reynolds, Brainerd community commander; Willard Wohl, chairman of the Brainerd morale committee, and James T. Mangan, member of the speakers' bureau of the defense savings staff. All spoke at the meeting. The Indians were brought here from New Mexico by the Santa Fe in cooperation with the defense savings staff.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, March 30

The advancing season and the great increase in gardening make it imperative that gardeners make their plans to begin work as soon as the weather is warm enough. Think first of the things you wish to grow, whether your garden will be devoted to vegetables or a combination of flowers and vegetables or flowers alone.

Soil conditions must be considered no matter what plants are grown. Even at this time decayed manure can be procured and made ready to spade into the soil when the soil is fit, or until it is dry enough that it will not stick to the spade. A soil that forms a crust on the surface should have an abundance of humus incorporated in it.

Tuesday, March 31

Plant trees, shrubs, and hardy vines as soon as the nursery can supply them. Do not use too many trees or shrubs on the small yard. Tall shrubs should not be planted where dwarf kinds should go. Note the shrubs under some windows, how they must be cut back each year and are never satisfactory. Note, too, the yards that are overplanted with trees when half the number would suffice.

When transplanting trees haul away débris that was used to fill in the yard, or heavy yellow or blue clay that would not sustain plant life, replace it with good, rich soil. Buy specimen trees; never be satisfied with crooked ill-shaped plants or one with a crotch.

Wednesday, April 1

When laying out the shrubbery border do not use too many kinds; repeat the kinds so the effect will not be spotty. Shrubs should have good soil. In transplanting dig the holes large enough to accommodate the roots easily. Tamp the soil firmly around the roots and water well.

Too few hardy vines are used and yet they lend a pleasing effect. The wild grape is especially useful where a strong vine is wanted, and by proper pruning a considerable amount of fruit will be produced.

Among others that are desirable is the oriental bittersweet which fruits much better than the more common kind and does well in partial shade. The fleece flower [polygonum auberti] grows easily and is covered with misty white blooms. All the climbing roses are good, altho the wood may freeze back during severe winters.

Thursday, April 2

Fast growing annuals can be started from seeds. If a coldframe is available the seeds do best if started in it. Uncover bulb beds and gently shake up the covering on mulch. When the buds show give an application of a complete balanced plant food and larger flowers will be obtained.

When spading the garden do not take huge spadefuls, take thin slices and break them up as the work progresses. Order roses and plant as soon as possible. When planting firm the soil around the plants and give a good watering.

Friday, April 3

The gardener who sows seeds thick must use extra care when watering. The seedlings, if left alone without thinning, are certain to grow tall and spindly, and they are difficult to establish out of doors. Sow thin and avoid this trouble.

This also is true when sowing out of doors and it is a real waste. Do not sow deep as the seeds cannot push above the surface. Watch the flats of seedlings and transplant to the coldframe or another flat as soon as the plants can be easily handled.

Saturday, April 4

If you have a gift azalea and it is thru flowering, keep it in the coolest spot you have, above freezing, and when all danger from frost has passed plunge the pot to the rim in a semisandy spot out of doors.

House plants can now be transplanted. Palms, aspidistras, sansevierias, pandans, and others of a similar type should not be transplanted into extra sized containers even tho they are large. Simply take a stick and remove as much soil as possible from the top of the pot and replace with new rich soil.

SENATOR BARR FAVORED TO WIN ELEVENTH TERM

Dean of Lawmakers Is an Active Campaigner.

Barr Runs Again

Sen. Richard Barr, dean of the Illinois senate with 10 terms behind him, again is a candidate for the Republican nomination in the 41st district, which includes Will and Du Page counties.

A dignified but spirited woman, with hair now nearly white, she takes her legislative duties seriously.

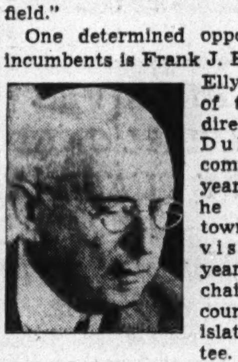
Rep. Warren L. Wood of Plainfield is a youthful veteran of the house at Springfield who, at the age of 31, is out for his fifth term. The Nonpartisan Legislative Voters league, before suspending normal activities, described his as "young, ambitious, a worker, with a good voting record."

Wood formerly had the twin occupations of the insurance business and farm management, but the war has changed this.

Engaged in Making Explosives.

"I am actively engaged in military explosives production, thus making my services available in whatever way required during the present emergency," Rep. Wood said. "This will not interfere with legislative duties if I am reëlected, since I would get leaves of absence to go to Springfield."

One determined opponent of the incumbents is Frank J. Bogan of Glen Ellyn, chairman of the board of directors of the DuPage Trust company. Forty years a banker, he has been a township supervisor for 12 years, 8 years as chairman of the county board legislative committee.



Frank J. Bogan.

Bogan formerly was village treasurer of Glen Ellyn and treasurer of the Illinois Association of Supervisors. He claims the support of the DuPage county Republican central committee and "favorable consideration" by Will and DuPage county labor unions.

Another Woman in Race.

Competition on the G. O. P. distaff side is provided by Mrs. Irene Grewenig of Joliet, who is a produce saleswoman. She has three adult children, one in the army. She is classed as an independent candidate.

Anson H. Brown of Wayne said that he will have the support of the DuPage county regular G. O. P. organization in the house race. He was president of the Wayne school board for nine years. An attorney in general practice for 28 years, he is 65 years old and has three married daughters.

Retirement of Rep. Joseph Sam Perry from the 41st district's Democratic seat opened the way for a rush of better than average candidates. Perry, altho chairman of the DuPage county Democratic committee, held independent views. In refusing to run for a fourth term Perry said: "I have enjoyed my work in Springfield but the cost of reëlection and the time required to do justice to the office is destroying my law business."

All from Joliet.

All of the Democratic house candidates are residents of Joliet. Topping the ballot list is Thomas J. Donovan, son of former Lieut. Gov. Thomas F. Donovan. Next comes Thomas V. Gorey, former city attorney of Joliet, who was an assistant attorney general from 1933 to 1941.

Thomas V. Goerr.

John J. Maloney was assessor of Joliet township from 1938 to last Jan. 1, and now is employed in the title division of the secretary of state's office.

William E. Austin was Probate court judge of Will county from 1934 to 1938, and is familiar with accounting as well as the law. The remaining candidates are Joseph J. Kane and Raymond S. Stanton, who has been a candidate for several offices in recent years.

Reports from the district picture the contest as a free-for-all among Donovan, Gorey, Maloney, and Austin.

THIRTEENTH DISTRICT

Mrs. Helene E. Johnson is making a door to door independent campaign for one of the Republican house nominations for the 13th district, which includes wards 7, 8, 9, and 10, and parts of wards 6, 17, and 19, as well as part of Calumet township.

Helene E. Johnson.

Mrs. Johnson said she was stirred to political action by the war and her belief that this country is drifting toward communism. The mother of a 21 year old son, she is indorsed by We, the Mothers Mobilize for America.

For many years Mrs. Johnson was head of cost accounting for the manufacturing division of a large State street store. She proposes to view the bills in Springfield with an accountant's eye.

Speaker Up for Reëlection.

The regular Republican organization candidates are Rep. Elmer J. Schnackenberg, speaker of the house of representatives, and Ragnar G. Nelson of Roseland.

Elmer J. Schnackenberg.

Ragnar G. Nelson.

Nelson says he has the approval of various labor groups. Rep. Schnackenberg recently received the formal indorsement of the Joint Labor Legislative board of Illinois.

John J. Donovan, Jr., 36 years old, 133 West 112th place, emerged as the candidate of the National Republican Party of Cook County [Deneen group]. A street car company employé, he is a member of an A. F. of L. union. He has the approval of the Citizens committee.

John K. Cravens, 7638 Blackstone avenue, the remaining G. O. P. candidate, has not answered inquiries about his qualifications for office.

Democrats also will nominate two candidates for the house. Bernard Goodman, 7408 Jeffery avenue, is the Douglas-McAdams faction's candidate. Rep. John Ryan, regular Democratic organization choice, last week charged one of his opponents had filed a petition of candidacy containing many irregularities. This opponent is an independent, Charles P. McKenna, 7829 Bennett avenue, an insurance broker.

Bernard Goodman.

Has Photostatic Copies.

Ryan said he would give photostatic copies of McKenna's petition to State's Attorney Courtney and ask him to "stop the common political practice of misusing the names of citizens without their knowledge."

For example, Rep. Ryan said, the petition bears the names of Michael Marrin, 1529 East 83d place, and John Nolan, 1531 East 83d place. Ryan lives at 1530 East 83d place. Both of these next door neighbors denied ever having seen the petition, Ryan said.

The other Democratic regular organization indorsement went to Rep. Adam S. Mioduski, a chiropodist.

Walker Butler.

Francis J. Loughran.

There is no contest for the senatorial nominations. Walker Butler, 1513 East 66th place, son the late Sen. Michael J. Butler, is the unopposed Republican candidate. Sen. Francis J. Loughran [Dem.] also is unopposed.

HALE AMERICA CLUBS SEEKING 500,000 HIKERS

group organized will maintain a strict autonomy."

Faxon, an attorney whose hiking enthusiasm was whetted years ago while mountain climbing in the Alps, and his committee propose to contact industrial and commercial firms, lodges, churches, unions, and other organizations thruout Chicagoland.

Several walking clubs are already in existence. Among the larger ones are the North Shore Hiking club, of which Mr. Faxon is a member; the Englewood Outdoor club, the Chicago Park District Outing club, the Prairie club, and the Fort Dearborn Hiking club. In five minute speeches at the offices and headquarters of the various organizations to be contacted, members of the action committee will extend encouragement toward formation of new clubs or invitations to join those already established.

Seek One in Nine.

"This idea of walking your way to health has already caught on like wildfire," says Mr. Faxon. "Many groups have quadrupled their membership during the last three months, and the movement is not limited to Chicago. There's one club in New York with 140,000 enthusiasts. There are hundreds of outing clubs in California."

The Hale America movement in Chicago, says Mr. Faxon, has a potential membership of four and a half million people, extends southeast to Hobart, Ind., north to the state boundary, and "no telling how far west." The committee's goal of half a million hikers means one person out of every nine.

HITS FROM PRIZE OPERETTAS ON W-G-N SATURDAY

Marion Claire and Cassel to Be Stars.

"Hits from the Prize Operettas," a musical recapitulation of the three prize winning operettas from W-G-N's $10,500 Great American Operetta Quest, will be presented from 7:30 to 8:30 p. m. next Saturday on W-G-N, W59C, and the Mutual network. Marion Claire, soprano prima donna of the Chicago Theater of the Air, Walter Cassel and Ray Charles will be featured in this special broadcast.

The last of the three prize operettas was aired last night. The broadcast will refresh the memory of the thousands of listeners who are planning to enter W-G-N's separate $2,500 contest to select the best of the three scores and give it a name. Contestants are asked to write 50 words or less giving the reasons for their choice.

The composer-author whose work is selected by the listening audience as the best of the three will receive an additional $5,000 to be added to his original $1,000 award.

The tunes to be presented are "Men of Steel," "Kalunah's Song," "The Game of Love," and "You Are My Dream Come True," from the first operetta; "Love Has Wings," "Virginia," "You're a Robber," "Shall I Meet My Love Tonight," and "This Love Is Ours," from the second operetta, and "All I Can Think of Is You," "Just a Little Boy's Day Dream," "When You Come to the End of a Perfect Love," and "America Loves a Melody" from the final operetta.

A special musical Easter tribute will be included. Miss Claire will join the chorus in Schubert's "Ave Maria."

The W-G-N Symphony orchestra under the baton of Henry Weber and the chorus directed by Robert Trendler will be heard Saturday. Kenneth MacGregor is the producer.

CALUMET CITY HIGH NEXT ON CITIZENS' HOUR

Thornton Fractional Township High school of Calumet City will be honored during the broadcast of the Citizens of Tomorrow program over W-G-N at 1:30 p. m. today. Some 600 students of the 1,200 who make up the student body were on hand Wednesday at W-G-N when this program was recorded.

The "fractional" part of the same derives from the fact that the school district embraces nine square miles, a fractional part of a congressional township.

Philip Maxwell, who conducts this youth program, will introduce Victor Lockhart, the principal, who will speak briefly. The Meistersingers, a boys' ensemble, directed by Harold Christian, and a girls' double sextet, conducted by Franklyn Kingdon, will sing. Two more students' names will be added to the roll of honor: Wilfred Kraegel of the honor school and Sally Diekema of Holland, Mich.

Verne Hansen is the new announcer. He replaces Spencer Allen, who has been called to active duty with the army. Jane Anderson is substituting for Harold Turner as pianist.

FIGHTS TO KEEP PARTY JOB HE HAS HELD FIFTY YEARS

Weber Again Candidate at Blue Island.

Two members of the Deneen National Republican party faction are livening the campaigns for Republican township committeemen in Cook county's southwest suburbs.

In Worth township, Mayor William T. Conrad of Evergreen Park threatens to end the reign of Blue Island's "grand old man," William H. Weber. Weber has been a committeeman for 50 years and is known as the dean of the Cook county Republican central committee.

Conrad, who won his job at Evergreen Park with Weber's backing, also is the Deneen faction candidate for president of the Cook county board of commissioners.

Contest in Lemont.

Lemont township is witnessing a fight between another national Republican faction member, Leroy Nelson, an official of the Corn Products Refining company, and the present Republican committeeman, Anthony J. Pechnick.

Nelson is gaining ground with his endorsement of United States Sen. Wayland Brooks for reëlection.

Thornton township is the scene of a fight for Democratic committeeman, but for the first time in many political seasons the township's largest municipalities — Calumet City and Harvey—are not represented.

Dillner may have a slight advantage because he has been the acting Democratic committeeman for four months. He was the choice of Committeeman Frank G. Ring last November when the latter was appointed postmaster at Harvey. Ring has a large following.

No G. O. P. Opposition.

James Gouwens of South Holland is unopposed for Republican township committeeman in Thornton. W. F. Propper of Dolton is retiring from his job to run for the general assembly.

Bloom and Calumet townships are without contests. Raymond T. Murphy of Chicago Heights is up for reëlection as Democratic committeeman in Bloom while David Dahl is a candidate for the Republican committeeman's job being vacated by John P. Ephgrave. Dahl and Ephgrave also live in Chicago Heights.

In Calumet township Miss Pauline Vyzral of Blue Island is a candidate for reëlection as Democratic committeewoman. Earl Kistner, also of Blue Island, is up for reëlection as the Republican committeeman.

Mayor Albert J. Brandt of Oak Lawn and Winfield T. Heckler are seeking the Democratic committeeman's job in Worth township. Brandt, a township school trustee, is being backed by the incumbent, Thomas A. Reardon of Blue Island.

Bremen Has No Contest.

The condidates for Democratic and Republican committeemen in Bremen township are unopposed. They are Harry Clarke, the Democratic incumment who lives in the heart of the township at 148th and Cicero, and Charles F. Nielsen, the Republican committeeman of Tinley Park.

The race for Democratic committeeman in Lemont township has been unexciting with Herald F. Egan, the incumbent, considered a favorite over Harry Sniegowski. Both candidates live in the village of Lemont.

Three candidates filed for Republican township committeeman in Stickney. Marvin Kurth, a regular and strong Green man, who has been committeeman for four years, is the favorite. The Kelly-Nash incumbent, William Loeffler, is expected to win the Democratic committeeman's job over James J. Mejda, a former justice.

Incumbents Are Favored.

In Lyons township the incumbents in both parties are favorites. Leo F. Kennedy, mayor of Argo, and a Kelly-Nash follower, is seeking to retain the Democratic committeeman's job. His opponent is Irving W. Eiserman, mayor of Hodgkins. Frank J. Kriz, the Republican committeeman, who is superintendent of the shop and warehouse of the Cook county highway department, expects to win over Ernest B. Graham, a real estate operator who was a last day filer. Kriz lives in Western Springs and Graham in Brookfield.

In Orland township Andrew Ludwig, Democratic committeeman, and I. A. Cleveland, Republican, are without opposition.

There is a contest in Palos township for the Democratic committeeman's job being vacated by Daniel McMahon Sr. of Palos Park. William Laatz of Willow Springs and Robert A. Doogan Jr. of 104th avenue are seeking the office. The Republican committeeman in Palos, Lester F. Mahaffay of Palos Park, is running for reëlection without opposition.

In Rich township, Noble Stibolt of Matteson and Ralph E. Schoeneman of Richton Park are seeking the Democratic committee post vacated by Paul E. Geaslin of Matteson. In the Republican column Leslie E. Salter of Flossmoor is unopposed for the job being vacated by Arthur F. Mahler of Chicago Heights.

TILDEN TECH IS NEXT SCHOOL ON CITIZENS' HOUR

Students to Be Heard on W-G-N Sunday.

The Citizens of Tomorrow spotlight will focus on Tilden Technical High school, 4747 South Union avenue, at 1:30 o'clock next Sunday afternoon on radio station W-G-N.

The program will be recorded for broadcast at 4:30 Wednesday before a group of students and honor guests. This latter group will include Henry Hagen, superintendent of high school district 4; Mrs. Charles Serig, president of the Tilden PTA; William A. Lauer, commander, American Legion post 333; Edward Bradford, president of the Kiwanis Club of Englewood, and Isabel Pifer, president of the Community Council of the Stock Yards district.

Trio of Cheer Leaders.

Charles Vander Mark, Ralph Sockrider, and Leo Kazlauskas will lead the cheers. National and school colors will be presented by a guard consisting of Meade Hanger, Melvin Kopping, William Saunders, Smith Funk, and Robert Frisk. The school chorus, directed by Mabel B. Swanstrom, will sing Speaks' "Morning," Victor Herbert's "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," and the Tilden loyalty song.

Tilden's principal, Frederick E. Price, will appear on the program. He came to Tilden in February, 1941. He's a graduate of Chicago elementary and high schools, Chicago Normal college, the old Armour Institute of Technology, and Northwestern university. Work in industry was followed by teaching in Chicago's grade schools, in high schools and continuation schools.

School Founded in 1881.

The history of Tilden goes back to 1881. The first school was organized on the present site as Lake High school in what was then Lake township.

At that time the school was co-educational and had a high school, a grammar school, and an apprentice school. In 1915 the name was changed from Lake High to Tilden High school. It was named for Edward Tilden, a former president of the board of education. Two years later, the school became the Tilden Technical High school for boys, and four years later, in 1921, the last girls were graduated.

Radio Principal Phil Maxwell will interview Tilden's honor student, Robert Scharding. He ranks first in scholarship, is secretary of the student council, co-editor of Craftsman, the Tilden annual, treasurer of the Honor society, and member of the National Honor society.

'WE WERE THERE' INTERVIEWS GIVE FILLIP TO NEWS

W-G-N Talks Supplement Dispatches.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Listeners who tune in W-G-N to follow war and domestic developments these days are getting something extra with their news. W-G-N is following up important news breaks the world over with interviews featuring men and women who have lived and worked in the spots described in the dispatches.

On outstanding local news stories, the persons concerned are interviewed, or authorities on the subject are brought to the microphone. The W-G-N special events department is arranging and presenting these interviews.

This new series, which is called "We Were There," is attracting wide attention. Many listeners are commenting favorably on this supplement to the news.

The interviews are made integral parts of regular W-G-N news broadcasts. These programs are heard at 8 a. m. with Vern Hansen, 11:30 a. m. with John Holbrook, 6:30 p. m. with Clifton Utley [commentary], 8:15 p. m. with Holbrook, and 10:30 p. m. with Jack Brickhouse.

A File of 200 on Tap.

In addition the special events department, with the W-G-N mobile unit, is continuing full coverage of spot news and of important army, navy, and marine corps happenings in the Chicago area.

In the weeks test of giving listeners extra dividends of interest with their news, W-G-N has built up a file of nearly 200 persons familiar with people, places, and events in all parts of the globe, made arrangements with universities for broadcasts by some of their best informed faculty members, and established working agreements with consulates for putting resident officials and visiting statesmen on the air.

Many Experts Interviewed.

Among the personalities already interviewed have been:

Carroll Van Patter, former transportation adviser to the national government of China, on the Burma road.

R. R. A. Dykstra, assistant to Netherlands consul in Chicago, on the [then] Java crisis.

Henry S. L. Polak, former law associate of Mahatma Gandhi, on India.

Henry Evans of the Chinese News service, a world traveler, on people and places in New Guinea.

Noah Van Cleef, manufacturer and expert on South American conditions, on axis riots in Rio de Janiero.

Guy Murchie, Chicago Tribune war correspondent, on his two years in England, Ireland, and Iceland.

Miss Gertrude Hull, retired school teacher, brought from Milwaukee to tell of coaching Gen. MacArthur for West Point history exams.

E. H. Scott, inventor, radio manufacturer, who served with Australian forces during World war.

Dr. Henry Simon Bloch, French economist now at the University of Chicago, on the war guilt trials at Riom.

Henry Wei, Chinese scholar from International House, University of Chicago, to tell of studies in Japan and country's vulnerability to bombing [followed story of possible United States bombing of Tokio].

"We aren't looking for analysts," a W-G-N spokesman said. "W-G-N and Mutual already have standout men in this field on the air. What we do want are the people who built the Burma road, who hunt with the New Guinea headhunters, who used to live on Main street in Melbourne or Moscow, who went to school with Gen. MacArthur."

WOMAN MAKING LONE CAMPAIGN FOR HOUSE SEAT

Seeks 13th District G. O. P. Votes.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Stirred to political action by the war and heo belief that this country is drifting toward communism, Mrs. Helene E. Johnson is making a door-to-door independent Republican campaign for membership in the Illinois house of representatives for the 13th district, which includes wards 7, 8, 9, and 10, and parts of wards 6, 17, and 19, as well as part of Calumet township.

Helene E. Johnson.

Having been for many years head of cost accounting for the manufacturing division of a large State street store, she proposes to view the bills in Springfield with an accountant's eye.

"Qualified Americans in the state legislature can do much to keep this state from 'going along' with a drift toward communism," she said. "I know from personal business experience that it is the small people at the small desks who can see the errors needing correction.

Wants No Inefficiency.

"When these people are not heeded, be it in business or in burocratic government, mistakes continue and multiply until an entire enterprise bogs down in inefficiency."

In warning against unqualified candidates, Mrs. Johnson was careful to say she does not mean Rep. Elmer J. Schnackenberg, veteran 13th district legislator, who is speaker of the house.

The mother of a son 21 years old, Mrs. Johnson is indorsed by We, the Mothers Mobilize for America. Her home is at 2324 West 111th street. She never has sought party or public office in the past.

Each party will nominate two candidates for the house on April 14. The regular Republican organization candidates are Mr. Schnackenberg and Ragnar G. Nelson of Roseland, who won one of the nominations against a strong field in 1940.

Elmer J. Schnackenberg.

Ragnar G. Nelson.

Has Labor Vote Approval.

Nelson says he has the approval of various labor groups, and Schnackenberg recently received the formal indorsement of the Joint Labor Leglislative Board of Illinois. The board is the medium thru which the Illinois State Federation of Labor coöperates with the railroad brotherhoods and with state-wide AFL groups.

John J. Donovan Jr., 36 years old, 133 West 112th place, emerged as the G. O. P. candidate of the National Republican Party of Cook County [Deneen group]. A street car company employé, he is a member of an AFL union. He has the approval of the Citizens' committee, which formerly was the Citizens Keep America Out of War committee.

John K. Cravens, 7638 Blackstone avenue, the remaining G. O. P. candidate, has not answered inquiries about his qualifications for office.

Charges Irregularities.

Rep. John Ryan, 1530 East 83d place, regular Democratic organization candidate for renomination, last week charged that one of his opponents had filed a petition of candidacy containing many irregularities. This opponent is an independent, Charles P. McKenna, 7829 Bennett avenue, an insurance broker with a downtown office.

Ryan declared that he would present State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney with photostatic copies of McKenna's petition and ask that "action be taken to stop the common political practice of misusing the names of citizens without their knowledge."

For example, Rep. Ryan said, the petition bears the names of Michael Marrin, 1529 East 83d place, and John Nolan, 1531 East 83d place. Both of these next door neighbors denied ever seeing the petition, Ryan said.

Bernard Goodman, 7408 Jeffery avenue, is the candidate of the Douglas-McAdams faction of the Democratic party. When he ran for one of the two party house nominations in 1940 he got 23,518 votes, compared to 160,000 for the two regular organization candidates.

Bernard Goodman.

As a salesman of air compressors, Goodman says he is better qualified than Ryan, a bailiff, and his

Traditional Hymns Will Be Heard as Chicago Celebrates Palm Sunday

Palm Sunday finds Chicagoans attending special services to celebrate the triumphal entry of Christ into Jerusalem. Robed choirs will sing traditional hymns in churches crowded with palms and flowers. At the Augustana Lutheran church, 54th street and Kimbark avenue, Holy week is opened by responsive singing from its two choirs, members of which include the solemn faced young vocalists above, John Benson, Robert Kammin, and Ralph Matson. Such scenes as this will be found in thousands of Chicagoland churches this week.

Seek 500,000 to Hike Way Into Health

A half million hikers in the Chicago area by 1943. That is the goal of Lloyd A. Faxon and the action committee of the Hale America Hiking Clubs of Metropolitan Chicago, of which he is chairman.

Lloyd A. Faxon.

The Chicago Hale America hiking movement sprang into being six weeks ago when Mr. Faxon at the suggestion of Mayor Kelly took over chairmanship of the action committee, composed of members of six already established walking clubs thruout the metropolitan area.

They have already planned a Hale America hike on Sunday afternoon, April 19. More than 10,000 men and women, unlimited by age, color, or creed, are expected to join in the two hour five mile tramp thru Somme woods forest preserve west of Winnetka. The group will be accompanied by Clayton S. Smith, president of the board of forest preserve commissioners; Robert Mann, superintendent of maintenance for the forest preserve; Noel Wysong, chief forester; Charles G. Sauers, general superintendent, and George Pearsall, forest preserve naturalist.

No Rules, No Paternalism.

"In selling mass hiking to civilians," explained Mr. Faxon, "I want to emphasize that this is no OCD project. There'll be absolutely no paternalism, no regimentation or discipline from the government. We are merely encouraging group walking as a method to build up the physical and mental morale of the country. This is a movement without rules and regulations and every group organized will maintain a strict autonomy."

Faxon, an attorney whose hiking enthusiasm was whetted years ago while mountain climbing in the Alps, and his committee propose to contact industrial and commercial firms, lodges, churches, unions, and other organizations thruout Chicagoland.

Several walking clubs are already

With AMERICA'S FIGHTERS

Two south side Chicagoans have been chosen to attend the officers' training course of the field artillery school at Fort Sill, Okla. They are Capt. Joseph S. Bochnowski, son of John Bochnowski, Capt. Bochnowski.

Lieut. A. J. Strak.

of 4229 Wegg avenue, East Chicago and First Lieut. Anthony J. Strak, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Claussen, 4400 Wells street.

Capt. Bochnowski was sent to the school from Fort Bragg, N. C., where he was on duty with the 1st field artillery observation battalion. Before starting on active duty he was employed by the Inland Steel company.

Lieut. Strak was on duty with the 124th field artillery previous to his dispatch to Fort Sill.

Private Thomas E. Dardis is now stationed in Honolulu, according to the latest word received by his mother, Mrs. M. Dardis of 816 East Marquette road. He was inducted into the army in 1941 and underwent training at Fort Eustis, Va., and Fort Bragg, N. C. He is with the coast artillery.

Recently promoted to the rank of captain with the armored forces is Lloyd Powers, 26, of 5301 Greenwood avenue. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Powers. Capt. Powers was called to active duty a year ago.

Among 2,100 Chanute field men receiving advancements recently were Anthony P. McManus, 6447 Ingleside avenue, and Gerald B. Feld, 7520 Yates avenue, both of whom now have the rank of corporal. At Fort Sill, Okla., John Sublette, son of Mrs. Rosa Bulette, 610 East 66th street, was promoted to private first class in a specialist ranking. Oscar G. Bredy of 2613 Lake Park avenue, was made corporal in orders recently issued by Col. Raymond E. O'Neill, post commandant at Chanute field.

At Chanute field, Oliver L. Hudson, 11218 Indiana avenue; Peter Follmer, 8412 Exchange avenue, and Stanley Grabarek, 8357 South Shore drive, have been promoted to corporals. Benedict J. Sukis, of 9421 South Champlain avenue, has been advanced to sergeant.

Robert J. Barbour, 8004 Phillips avenue, enlisted recently for flight training with the United States aviation reserve. He has reported for primary training at the United States naval reserve air base at Glenview, Ill. Barbour attended Morgan Park Junior college where he majored in engineering. Active in sports at school, he also was on the student council and board of governors.

Trained to use and repair weapons of the armored division, ranging from the .45 caliber pistol to the 105 mm. cannon, two men from Chicago's south side have left the armored force school at Fort Knox, Ky., and returned to teach other men in their home unit. They are First Lieut. Jean M. Hefner, son of Mrs. H. M. Hefner, 7255 Constance avenue, and Second Lieut. Victor W. Markov, son of Mrs. Ellen Markov, 6722 Artesian avenue.

"Southern hospitality is wonderful," writes Private Richard H. Beatty, 10431 Eberhart avenue, from the New Orleans air base where he is now stationed. He was taken on a sight-seeing tour with other army men, and noted that he was mainly impressed by the city's famous St. Louis cathedral.

First Lieut. Robert A. Bagley of 8108 Eberhart avenue, formerly with the 5th quartermaster battalion of Fort Custer, Mich., recently received his certificate of completion of the officers' course in tactics at Camp Lee, Va. The course is designed to fit young officers of the quartermaster corps for immediate assignment to field duty.

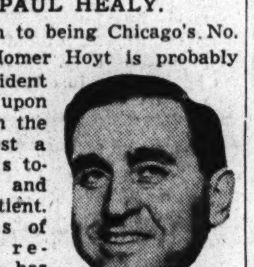
A former Culver cadet, Lawrence S. Rapport of 5120 Hyde Park boulevard, has been appointed a second lieutenant in the field artillery of the United States army. While at Culver Lieut. Rapport received commendation for his marksmanship. He is the son of David M. Rapport, president of the Rapid Roller Company of Chicago.

At Camp Tyson, Tenn., F. M. Nudo, 7630 Greenwood avenue, is now a corporal.

Realty Expert Envisions His City of Future

BY PAUL HEALY.

In addition to being Chicago's No. 1 booster, Homer Hoyt is probably the only resident who looks upon the city with the same interest a doctor feels toward an old and friendly patient. Thru years of painstaking research he has charted the city's growth and development until its face has become as familiar to him as the palm of his hand. Currently he is most concerned with its future physical setup.



Homer Hoyt.

As director of research for the Chicago Plan commission, Mr. Hoyt's unusual background and enthusiasm for Chicago have made him particularly valuable in that work. Beginning as a child prodigy, he has had experience as a teacher of economics in four universities and one college, as a real estate broker, a lawyer, a writer, an economist, and a consultant on land values. Today he is regarded as a leading authority on real estate and a mine of information on Chicago streets, communities, and population shifts.

For More Light and Air.

Because Chicago, and particularly Chicago real estate, is Mr. Hoyt's hobby as well as his work, he worries about it. He worries about the recent tendency of the population to move to the prairies past the city limits and he worries about the rundown areas, which, he says, "don't cure themselves." He likes nothing better than discussing Chicago's possible future but he never speaks in the sonorous and blatant manner of the professional promoter. Quietly and thoughtfully, he says:

"The task is to rebuild the city according to a better plan. Beginning with the decayed spots there must be more light and air. The old plan of horizontal blocks bounded by streets, which gave us too many thru streets, should be done away with and more dead-end streets and playgrounds substituted. In general, the plan must have a newer and broader basis with the economic, sociological,

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About People You May Know

GEORGE L. GRIFFIN, 7806 Bennett avenue, was admitted recently to practice law before the United States Supreme court. A trial attorney for the surface lines, Griffin is an alumnus of the De Paul university school of law. He has been active in athletics, serving as a baseball, football, and basketball official.

George L. Griffin.

The Chicago Lawn library was recently presented a book by Senior Girl Scout Troop 129 of that district, containing the autographs of presiding governors of the United States and possessions. The troop sent a trefoil to the governor of each state, asked that he autograph it, and send back some folders about the state. The autographs and the information were compiled alphabetically and are now in the reference department of the library.

In less than five years Mrs. Esther Cahill, 7234 Maplewood avenue, has made more than 75 crocheted rugs. She says it takes about a month of off-and-on work to complete one. She has exhibited them at hobby shows, and has attracted much attention. On a recent birthday her daughter presented her with a rug as a gift.

MRS. ETTA ESREY, 5515 Woodlawn avenue, celebrated her 90th birthday recently with a party at her home. Most of her guests were her "boys," recent graduates of the University of Chicago, who rented rooms in her apartment, and still think about it as home. Mrs. Esrey came to Chicago in 1924. She first had girl students staying with her, but later ousted them in favor of the boys. "The boys are less fuss and worry," she said. She was born in Bedford county, Pennsylvania, on March 25, 1852.

A pantry shower to replenish the shelves of the Illinois Protestant Children's home, 4048 Lake Park avenue, with staple goods will be held this afternoon from 2 to 5:30 o'clock. A program will be presented to guests. Any one interested in the work of the home has been invited to attend by the committee chairman, Mrs. L. W. Budd, 6715 Oglesby avenue.

Show Recalls Food Rules of World War I.

Altho World War II. has brought high speed bombers and air borne torpedoes to the fighting man, the woman who stays home and wages war against the food problem is using the same old weapons to fight the same old problem, according to material being gathered for a display by the Woodlawn branch library. Mrs. Jeanette Beltz, 6406 Stony Island avenue, who was active in war work in 1917-'18, has contributed a large part of the material.

"Dear Mrs. Beltz," wrote Peter Fleming, secretary of the Illinois State Council of Defense in 1918, in a letter in the collection, "I wish to thank you for bringing home to thousands of women the value of food conservation." How Mrs. Beltz brought home this problem is told by pamphlets and letters in the collection of World War I. mementos.

"Manual of Wheatless Recipes" is the title of one pamphlet issued by her office in 1918. It bears the then popular symbol of the sitting Liberty girl, holding a waving flag. Others issued to housewives of more than 20 years ago tell "What to Eat and How to Cook It." An official recipe book is bound in a red, white, and blue cover.

Victory Gardens Then, Too.

Even victory gardens can be found in the consumer program of those years. Included in the collection is a Tribune medal awarded to the champion war gardener of 1918, a little piece of bronze still bearing a bright ribbon. For background the display will have newspaper headlines such as "Foch Falls Back" and "Great War Ends."

Today in the same Woodlawn neighborhood where Mrs. Beltz carried on in 1917-'18, Mrs. Leslie W. Swett has been appointed chairman of the woman's coördinating committee and is leading the city with her progress in consumers' education. Pamphlets containing recipes that use little or no sugar are similar to the "wheatless recipes" of two decades ago. Books on gardening will help to develop another "champion war gardener."

95 Enroll for Nutrition Class.

In Woodlawn 95 women have signed for the first course in nutrition to be taught by Miss Frances Johnston, a University of Chicago food expert. The first session is April 7.

JOYFUL MUSIC TO MARK PALM SUNDAY TODAY

South Side Churches to Be Thronged.

[With Holy week services attracting tens of thousands of worshipers The Tribune today prints complete lists of churches. South side churches are listed on page 4.]

Men, women and children thruout the Christian world pause today to celebrate Palm Sunday, marking the triumphal entry of Christ into Jerusalem more than 1,900 years ago. In south side churches congregations will sing "Blessed Be the King Who Comes in the Name of the Lord God," similar to the ancient multitudes who shouted "Hosannah" as the simple teacher from Galilee rode into the city of Jerusalem on a path of olive leaves and palms.

South side congregations are observing Palm Sunday with special services, many churches banked with palms, and all expecting the largest crowds in several years.

St. Edmunds parish, 5831 Indiana avenue, has arranged for the blessing and distribution of palms at a solemn mass sung at 11 o'clock today. Guest soloist with the choir is Mrs. Mabel Malarcher. The choir will sing "Stabat Mater" by Rossini. The children's service will be at 9:30 o'clock.

List Easter Masses.

On Easter Sunday a mass at 5 o'clock will be followed by others at 8 and 11 o'clock. The annual festival service for children will take place at 4:30 o'clock with an Easter pageant.

Music from Stainer's "Crucifixion" will be featured at the Palm Sunday services today at St. Paul's Universalist church, 6614 Blackstone avenue. The Rev. Donald K. Evans will deliver a sermon, "Triumph." Maundy Thursday services will be held at 8 o'clock Thursday evening. On Easter Sunday a sunrise service will be conducted by the Youth Fellowship at 7 o'clock.

Holy week services at St. Mark's Episcopal church, 4427 Drexel boulevard, include holy communion on the first four mornings of the week, and on Good Friday a three hour service beginning at noon will be held. Easter day services will be at 8, 9:30 and 11 o'clock in the morning.

Lutheran Union Service.

In the Lutheran churches both united and individual church programs have been planned for Holy week. Lutheran churches on the south side will conduct a united three hour service Good Friday starting at noon in the Salem Lutheran church, 74th street and Calumet avenue. The Rev. Leman Olsenius of St. Luke's church, president of the Southern Chicago district of the Augustana synod, will preside. The opening devotions will be conducted by the pastor of Salem church, Dr. Oscar A. Benson. Short meditations on the "Seven Words from the Cross" will be given by a group of pastors.

A noon hour Good Friday service will be held at the Avalon theater, 79th street and East End avenue, under auspices of St. Paul Lutheran church, 76th street and Dorchester avenue. The Rev. Edwin H. Phlug will speak on "Christ's Love for a Hate Ridden World."

At the Augustana Lutheran church, 54th street and Kimbark avenue, an antiphonal service will be sung by the double choir at 10:45 o'clock today. The church choir also will present Stainer's "Crucifixion" on Good Friday at 8 o'clock in the evening. On Easter Spnday at 10:45 o'clock the Rev. G. Everett Arden will deliver the morning sermon.

Reunion at Windsor Park.

Palm Sunday services will be held today at the Windsor Park Lutheran church, Saginaw avenue and East 76th street, at 10:30 o'clock. A reunion service will be held at 7:45 o'clock in the evening for all who have been confirmed in the church during the last 28 years.

Three choirs will take part in the Easter services at Salem Lutheran church, Calumet avenue and 74th street. At the church school services at 9:30 o'clock the children's choir will sing, while the young people's and the senior choir will sing at 10:45 o'clock. "An Easter Antiphon," by Candlyn, will be included in the hymns sung. Today the choirs will sing the "Seven Last Words of Christ," by Heinrich Schultz.

Palm Sunday at the Bethesda Lutheran church, 105th street and Avenue J, will be the occasion for the junior and senior choirs to give their annual Lenten concert. The Rev. Oscar Mattson will give the Palm Sunday message. On Easter Sunday at 10:15 o'clock in the morning the choirs will sing at the regular service, and at 5 o'clock in the afternoon the Sunday school will give its annual Easter program for the children.

Presbyterians Plan Programs.

South side Presbyterian churches have arranged elaborate programs for today and the remainder of Holy week. At the First Presbyterian church, 6400 Kimbark avenue, "Walking with God Into the Shadow" will be the theme of the sermon by the Rev. Harold L. Bowman at 11 o'clock. The choir will sing "Ride On," by Candlyn, and "Jerusalem," from "Gallia," by Gounod. The children's choir will sing the "Palms," by

PORK CHOPS ARE FAVORITES WITH MIDWAY DINERS

Student Co-op Members Disdain Parsnips.

Breaded pork chops are the favorite food of University of Chicago students who eat their meals at Ellis student coöperative dining rooms, a recent poll revealed. Chili con carne edged into second place, while the most unpopular foods turned out to be parsnips and beet relish. Such plebian fare as frankfurter and sauerkraut, Spanish rice, and pork and beans found few champions.

One of the largest and most active student organizations at the Midway school, the members of Ellis review with pride the growth of their self-operated dining room from a somewhat impoverished group of 25 students in 1936 to their present home at 5558 Ellis avenue, across the street from Stagg field, where 190 men and women gather to eat each day.

Check Food Preferences.

It is typical of the directness and efficiency of the student operated dining room that an attempt is made to satisfy tastes of members by presenting them a list of food afforded by their income and saying, "Now check those you like and dislike." Many other problems have been overcome with equal directness and dispatch.

Two years ago the city health department told Ellis they would have to discontinue the use of bulk milk and substitute half pint bottles.

"But," protested Ellis managers, "we can't serve milk at 3 cents a glass that way."

"Nevertheless you will have to observe the sanitary laws," replied the health department.

Dispenser Solves Problem.

Ellis students were drinking several glasses of milk a day and such an increase in cost threatened to end the milk drinking program. But one of the student managers went to work on the problem, solved it by finding a company that sold a sanitary milk dispenser. Ellis installed a dispenser, invited the health department out to take bacteria counts from it. The counts were lower than those secured from individual bottles and Ellis is still drinking several glasses of milk a day—from a dispenser.

Ellis is managed by a board of 15 directors elected from the general membership. The board hires the cook, a student manager, a dietitian, and solves the problems of management as they come up. Such an issue as the purchase of a new electric refrigerator has tied up a board meeting for hours. Except for the cook, all work is done by student labor.

Anybody who wishes can join Ellis. If a person eats three meals a day at the coöperative dining room he will be charged $5.15 a week at current rates. Any surplus at the end of the year is split among the membership. Meals are wholesome and copious. Sometimes a choice of food is offered; oftener a universal menu is served to all and this has resulted in the poll of food choices.

Pay After Week's Meals.

Perhaps the most interesting feature is the credit record. Students pay at the end of each week for the number of meals they have eaten during the period. More than $27,000 changed hands in such transactions last year.

"But how much money do you lose in uncollected accounts and students who fail to pay?" Comptroller Bernard Zagorin, an economics senior, was asked.

"Last year we lost only $3.25, which can well be a lesson to some business men in credit management," he replied. The secret lies in the attitude of the students toward the "coöp," he explains. Members feel a responsibility because it is their own organization, know that if they don't pay their share they will only be cheating one of their fellow students.

Medical Society Auxiliary to Hear Defense Talks

South Chicago branch of the woman's auxiliary of the Chicago Medical society will meet at 1:30 o'clock Monday, April 6, Mrs. John W. Stanton will be hostess to the organization in her home at 7321 South Shore drive. Three guest speakers will discuss "Organization in Civilian Defense." They are Dr. Louis D. Smith, Mrs. Alfred Gareiss, and Mrs. Clarence Goodwin.

Married to Corporal

St. Barnabas church was the scene of Miss Lorraine Mary Graver's recent marriage to Corp. Joseph Bayer, a Chicagoan now stationed at Fort Houston, Va. Mrs. Bayer, a graduate of Longwood academy and formerly a student at De Paul university, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Dewey Graver, 10121 South Hoyne avenue. Corp. Bayer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bayer of 9230 South Elizabeth street.

The sixth meeting in a series studying taxation will be held by the evening section of the Hyde Park League of Women Voters at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening at International House on the University of Chicago campus. "State Finances and Taxes" will be discussed by Miss Mildred Herrod, managing editor of School and Life magazine. Two more programs dealing with defense taxation will complete the series.

HOLY ROSARY CHURCH DEDICATES WINDOW TO SERVICE MEN TODAY

The Rev. E. S. Keough.

The last stained glass window—that of Christ the King, into which have been worked the insignia of the army, navy, and marine corps—completing the rebuilding of Holy Rosary church, 113th street and South Park avenue, will be dedicated at 4:30 o'clock today. The military insignia honor members of the parish now serving in the armed forces.

The Rev. Edward S. Keough, pastor of Holy Rosary church, will officiate and deliver the sermon. The Roseland American Legion post, assisted by color guards from the Holy Rosary Boy and Girl Scout troops, will participate in the ceremony.

Following the dedication, the Holy Name society will induct new members of the Pope Pius XII. class. The Rev. Thomas P. Dennehy of St. Dorothy's church will administer the Holy Name pledge. The service will close with the benediction.

Boys of Hyde Park YMCA Plan Breakfast Meeting

Members and friends of the boys' department of the Hyde Park YMCA will meet at 8 o'clock Saturday morning for breakfast and to hear Rabbi M. M. Berman of the Temple Isaiah Israel, chairman of the council of churches and synagogues for Hyde Park, Kenwood, and Oakland communities, and Dr. Irving Lunger, pastor of the University church of the Disciples of Christ.

SOUTH AREA HAS ONE FIGHT FOR COMMITTEE JOB

Democrats Have Contest in Thornton.

Only one contest for township committeeman dots the political horizon in Cook county's south suburban townships as April 14 draws near. A township committeeman is elected by each party at the primary.

Thornton township is the scene of a fight for Democratic committeeman, but for the first time in many political seasons the township's largest municipalities—Calumet City and Harvey—are not represented.

Arthur E. Dillner, a Dolton justice of the peace, and Louis F. Kamykowski, police magistrate at Phoenix, are the principals. It is expected to be a close fight, with Harvey supporting Dillner and Calumet City lining up behind Kamykowski.

Give Edge to Dillner.

Dillner may have a slight advantage because he has been the acting Democratic committeeman for four months. He was the choice of Committeeman Frank G. Ring last November when the latter was appointed postmaster at Harvey. Ring has a large following.

James Gouwens of South Holland is unopposed for Republican township committeeman in Thornton. W. F. Propper of Dolton is retiring from his job to run for the general assembly.

Woman Asks Reëlection.

Bloom and Calumet townships are without contests. Raymond T. Murphy of Chicago Heights is up for reelection as Democratic committeeman in Bloom while David Dahl is a candidate for the Republican committeeman's job being vacated by John P. Ephgrave. Dahl and Ephgrave also live in Chicago Heights.

In Calumet township, Miss Pauline Vyzral of Blue Island is asking reelection as Democratic committeewoman. Earl Kistner, also of Blue Island, is up for reëlection as the Republican committeeman.

PROPOSE REMEDY FOR KENNEDY AV. TRAFFIC TIEUP

A report on a survey of the traffic congestion and hazards created by industrial workers on Kennedy avenue near 151st street in East Chicago was made by Chicago Motor club engineers at a recent meeting of the Lake County Area council in Hammond.

Right angle parking, which is permitted on the shoulders of a four-lane road, results in many cars backing into the heavy traffic on the road shortly after men are released from work, the engineers explained.

The club heard three recommendations: First, construction of a fence along the shoulders of the roadway which would prevent cars from entering Kennedy avenue except at designated points; second, shifting the parking of workmen's cars to a large area at the south end of the du Pont plant on Kennedy avenue, and, enlargement of present parking facilities by the company.

It was also suggested by the motor club that the plants in this area consider a program of staggered hours, which release only a portion of the workers at certain and definite intervals.

chiropodist opponent to aid the business man with his problems at Springfield.

"Two-Job Ryan and the chiropodist have given the district a poor imitation of good Democratic representation," Goodman said. "By marking their ballots for me alone, thus giving me three votes, citizens will have a chance to break the machine grip on the district's Democratic state lawmakers."

Mioduski Runs Again.

Rep. Adam S. Mioduski, 8115 South Shore drive, a chiropodist, has regular organization indorsement for the second Democratic house nomination. Mioduski, whose record the Legislative Voters' league termed "disappointing" in 1940, is seeking a third term. Both he and Ryan have the indorsement of the Joint Labor Legislative board.

There is no contest for the state senatorial nominations. Walker Butler, 1513 East 66th place, son of the late State Senator Michael J. Butler, is unopposed for the Republican nomination, and Francis J. Loughran, the Democratic incumbent, has no opponents on the Democratic side.

Thomason will be in direct charge of garden chairmen in each of the blocks in the community. This includes the territory between 71st and 79th streets from Stony Island avenue to the lake shore, and the triangle between 79th street and South Chicago avenue.

YWCA PREPARES SPORTS IN STEP WITH PRIORITIES

With motoring gone as the major recreation of Chicagoans because of the need to conserve tires and gasoline, the south side center of the YWCA at 1230 East 63d street has prepared a substitute program of entertainment and more exercise.

"Watching scenery roll by is out for most of us," says Ethel Koehler, health education secretary of the branch, "but the country looks just as pleasant when viewed on bicycle or horseback or even on foot—and it may be pleasanter. There's health to be built up by the latter means."

Registrations for classes in golf, tennis, horseback riding, and folk dancing will be accepted until April 11. The center is open from 9 o'clock in the morning until 9 o'clock in the evening, Monday thru Friday. On Saturdays the center closes at 4 o'clock.

Group bicycling has also been planned. Gym classes are scheduled for Monday and Wednesday evenings, and Tuesday and Thursday mornings.

In one of the outstanding art meetings of the club season, members of the Woodshore Woman's club and guests will gather at 3 o'clock today in the Windermere hotel. Members of the South Side Artists' association are exhibiting paintings at the 2d district meeting and they will be present to discuss their work with the audience.

It is the club's eighth annual art exhibit and tea. This year arrangements are being handled by Mrs. R. C. Wolf, art and literature chairman. Assisting Mrs. Wolf to decorate the scene, the Victorian room of the hotel, with spring flowers and candles for the event were Mrs. Duane K. Watts, co-chairman; Miss Ethelyn Ahern, Mrs. Ruth Jurgensen, and Mrs. Herbert K. Westerman.

While tea is being served to the gathering, Miss June Fletcher, soloist, and Miss Rena Webb, accompanist, will entertain with original musical compositions. HALE AMERICA CLUBS SEEKING 500,000 HIKERS in existence. Among the larger ones are the North Shore Hiking club, of which Mr. Faxon is a member; the Englewood Outdoor club, the Chicago Park District Outing club, the Prairie club, and the Fort Dearborn Hiking club. In five minute speeches at the offices and headquarters of the various organizations to be contacted, members of the action committee will extend encouragement toward formation of new clubs or invitations to join those already established.

Seek One in Nine.

"This idea of walking your way to health has already caught on like wildfire," says Mr. Faxon. "Many groups have quadrupled their membership during the last three months, and the movement is not limited to Chicago. There's one club in New York with 140,000 enthusiasts. There are hundreds of outing clubs in California."

The Hale America movement in Chicago, says Mr. Faxon, has a potential membership of four and a half million people, extends southeast to Hobart, Ind., north to the state boundary, and "no telling how far west." The committee's goal of half a million hikers means one person out of every nine, which Mr. Faxon considers a conservative percentage.

The committee emphasized that informality is the keynote of Hale America campaign to take city folk off the streets and into the open country. The only requirement, Mr. Faxon points out, is an old pair of comfortable shoes.

No One to Give Orders.

"In the groups that have already joined in the movement you'll find millionaires, paupers, stenographers, barbers, debutantes tramping together. Age is no barrier. One member of the Prairie club is 90 years old. There'll be no one to tell you when to eat your sandwiches or when to salute."

Vice chairman of the action committee is Leonard Woods, 4525 North Paulina street, an advertising executive and member of the Prairie club. Others on the committee with their club affiliation are as follows:

PASSOVER RITES OPEN FOR JEWS ON WEDNESDAY

Commemorate Freedom from Bondage.

Traditional Seder services will be held in thousands of Jewish homes and in Chicago synagogues this week as the passover ceremonies commemorating the deliverance of the Jewish people from the land of Egypt three thousand years ago are celebrated. Roasted lamb bones, symbolic of the food eaten, and the marking of doorways in blood at the time of flight, and bitter herbs, manifesting the bitter period of Jewish history, will be brought forth as part of the annual services.

The passover week begins Wednesday evening at sunset—the 14th day of Nisan on the Jewish calendar in the year 5702—and ends on Thursday evening, eight days later. Community Seder services will be held in most congregations Wednesday evening.

◆

At the South Side Hebrew congregation, 74th street and Chappel avenue, the first of the passover services will begin Wednesday morning at 7:30 o'clock. Brief services will be held at 6:45 o'clock in the evening also. Passover services with a sermon will be at 8:30 o'clock Thursday morning.

◆

Passover vesper services will be help at the Temple Isaiah Israel, 1100 Hyde Park boulevard, at 5:30 o'clock Wednesday evening. Rabbi Morton M. Berman will conduct the services. A passover morning service will be held at 10:15 o'clock Thursday morning. At 6:30 o'clock that evening Rabbi Berman will conduct the Seder services.

◆

At the Congregation Rodfei Sedek, 250 children will conduct their own passover services at 10 o'clock today. The sisterhood and the PTA will be hostesses to the children. Rabbi Benjamin Daskal will be a guest. On Erev Pesach, which is Wednesday, Rabbi Daskal will preside at the Siyum for the first born at 7 and 8 o'clock. Passover services will be held at 9 o'clock Thursday and Friday mornings.

◆

The south side youth division of the American Jewish congress will conduct a Seder at the Isaiah community house this evening. Passover ceremony will be reënacted under the direction of Rabbi Leo L. Hoffman, former vice president of the Chicago youth division.

◆

This afternoon the David M. Grodsky Junior Aid will hold its monthly dance reception at the Chicago Beach hotel. Dr. Eugene Kops is the dance chairman and Miss Hazel Sheffner is social director.

◆

The seventh annual dance of Congregation Am Echod and its affiliates will be held this evening at the Shoreland hotel. Lew Jacobs and his orchestra will play. Irving E. Glickman is in charge of the dance, and Irving F. Amstadter is chairman of the program.

CLUB GETS 200 PER CENT RETURN ON DOLLAR LOANS

Miss Virginia Parker.

Miss Virginia Parker, ways and means chairman of the Woodshore Junior Woman's club, has adopted a "rolling dollars" system for raising funds for the club. Each member is given $1 from the club treasury which she is expected to triple and return to the club. Each member is allowed to use her own initiative in raising money, but the conventional methods are by making candy or cookies and selling them, or by giving small parties with participation charges. Miss Parker lives at 6204 Dorchester avenue. The deadline for her current contest is April 6.

EXPERT IN REAL ESTATE VISIONS CITY OF FUTURE

Homer Hoyt Is Grown Up Child Prodigy.

and geographic aspects taken into consideration."

"I'm always bragging about Chicago when I'm out of town and it is the best city in the world. But it can be better. By intelligent planning now it can be rebuilt in 75 or 80 years."

In Kindergarten at 3.

It is a little embarrassing for Mr. Hoyt to admit he was not born in Chicago and spent many of his earlier years in other cities. But life began for him, he says, at the age of three years, when he remembers walking down Michigan avenue on his way to kindergarten at the Art institute. It was love at first sight.

Born in St. Joseph, Mo., Mr. Hoyt passed some of his childhood in Chicago and then moved with his mother to Kansas, where he set a few awesome records which still stand. He was graduated from the University of Kansas at 16 years of age with Phi Beta Kappa honors. Six months later he took a master of arts degree. Because of interruptions, it was another 22 years before he received his Ph. D. degree, but this pursuit finally changed his career since his thesis, "One Hundred Years of Land Values in Chicago," won him much attention.

In 1913 Mr. Hoyt came to the University of Chicago on a fellowship in economics. During 1913-'14 he also began the study of law. Following this, he became an economics instructor at Beloit college and left that post in 1918 when he was called to Washington, D. C., to act as an economist for the War Trade board in lumber problems. One of the crucial problems at that time, he recalls, was getting the right wood for airplane propellors.

Law and Basketball.

In the evening he went to George Washington university long enough to obtain a law degree. At the same time he satisfied an old ambition by playing on the varsity basketball team.

Mr. Hoyt spent five years in the east after the war. He was a professor of economics at the University of Delaware, statistician for the American Telephone and Telegraph in New York City, and an associate professor of economics at the University of North Carolina.

In 1923 he made another stab at finishing his Ph. D. rekuirements at the University of Chicago but soon found himself accepting another teaching job, this time at the University of Missouri. Two years later—because "getting excited about real estate is in my blood"—he returned to Chicago and plunged wholeheartedly into the hysteria of wild land speculations. By October, 1929, his fortune had come and gone. Instead of being bitter and despairing, however, he wanted to find a reason for the crash.

Looks for Answer.

"I felt that the failures of the banks and all land values could have been prevented," he says, "if we had understood real estate trends, and if they came in cycles—that is, low to high to low. Since no such work of research had been compiled, I decided to do it myself and use the topic as a thesis for my Ph. D. degree, which, I hoped, would help me get a job, too."

It was not until 1933 that he finished the thesis and took his degree. As sources, he used Olcutt's "Land Values," and thousands of editions of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, which for many years recorded every real estate transaction, and the Chicago Economist. In addition, he got a job in the county assessor's office, which gave him entry to the records, and talked to hundreds of real estate brokers thruout the city. To improve his writing style, he digested classic novels.

The thesis, which was published as a book with money from The Chicago Title and Trust company, showed there were five great cycles of Chicago real estate, with the peaks in 1836, 1856, 1973, 1892, and 1926, and that they were attributable to population growths. It also showed the danger signals for land value fluctuations, and the need for the intelligent planning of a city.

Call for the Author.

The book, which was unique for any city in the nation, was so thoro a study that its author was soon in demand. Mr. Hoyt wrote articles for Chicago newspapers and acted as an occasional consultant for real estate evaluation. He also was principal housing economist for the FHA and consultant for the Urban Land Institute in New York City before coming to the Plan commission.

Last summer Mr. Hoyt married Mrs. Gertrude McGuane, a widow and third generation Chicagoan whom he met while working in the assessor's office. One of the qualities he most admires in her, he hints, is a masculine appreciation of real estate. They reside at 6145 Woodlawn avenue, where Mr. Hoyt likes to relax with histories and novels relating to life in Chicago. He admits he envies novelists their ability to describe Chicago's personality.

HITS FROM PRIZE OPERETTAS ON W-G-N SATURDAY

Marion Claire and Cassel to Be Stars.

"Hits from the Prize Operettas," a musical recapitulation of the three prize winning operettas from W-G-N's $10,500 Great American Operetta Quest, will be presented from 7:30 to 8:30 p. m. next Saturday on W-G-N, W59C, and the Mutual network. Marion Claire, soprano prima donna of the Chicago Theater of the Air, Walter Cassel and Ray Charles will be featured in this special broadcast.

The last of the three prize operattas was aired last night. The broadcast will refresh the memory of the thousands of listeners who are planning to enter W-G-N's separate $2,500 contest to select the best of the three scores and give it a name. Contestants are asked to write 50 words or less giving the reasons for their choice.

The composer-author whose work is selected by the listening audience as the best of the three will receive an additional $5,000 to be added to his original $1,000 award.

The tunes to be presented are "Men of Steel," "Kalunah's Song," "The Game of Love," and "You Are My Dream Come True," from the first operetta; "Love Has Wings," "Virginia," "You're a Robber," "Shall I Meet My Love Tonight," and "This Love Is Ours," from the second operetta, and "All I Can Think of Is You," "Just a Little Boy's Day Dream," "When You Come to the End of a Perfect Love," and "America Loves a Melody" from the final operetta.

A special musical Easter tribute will be included. Miss Claire will join the chorus in Schubert's "Ave Maria."

The W-G-N Symphony orchestra under the baton of Henry Weber and the chorus directed by Robert Trendler will be heard Saturday. Kenneth MacGregor is the producer.

Management and Labor in War, Subject of Forum

The subject of "Management and Labor in War Production" will be discussed on the Northwestern Reviewing Stand at 10 a. m. today over W-G-N and Mutual. S. W. Du Brul, economist and labor statistician, and Walter P. Reuther, automobile union labor leader, will be the participants.

Bill Anson to Preside at Funny Paper Party

Bill Anson of An Hour with Elson and Anson fame will read the Chicago Tribune comics on the Funny Paper Party beginning today. The Funny Paper Party is heard on W-G-N from 11:35 to noon every Sunday.

Cole Porter Salute.

Donald Dickson, young American baritone, will join Andre Kostelanetz's orchestra in a salute to Cole Porter at 3:30 p. m. today over WBBM-CBS. Dickson will sing "In the Still of the Night" and the orchestra will present a Porter medley.

EDDIE AND FANNIE TO ROUND OUT 20 YEARS IN RADIO

Cavanaugh's Anniversary on W-G-N Tuesday.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Twenty years in radio as a team! That is the record Eddie and Fannie Cavanaugh will round out on their Rhymster Tyme program on W-G-N at 2:45 p. m. Tuesday. They started out on KYW, Chicago's first broadcasting station, March 31, 1922. They have been going strong ever since and look forward to 20 more years in radio.

During their 20 years on the air they have received two million letters. They are reported getting about 12,000 letters a month. And they have interviewed hundreds of movie and radio celebrities on their programs.

Their length of service is unmatched by any other husband and wife team, so far as we know, in radio. May Singhi Breen and Peter De Rose have been in radio together just as long. But they did not marry until they had been teamed on the air a half dozen years.

Other Radio Teams.

George Burns and Gracie Allen have been teamed almost as long but have been on the air less than a decade. Fred Allen and Portland Hoffa; Jack Benny and Mary Livingstone have just about a decade each in radio. Jim and Marian Jordan [Fibber McGee and Molly] started out as a vaudeville team more than two decades ago. They have been in radio together about 15 years but only about eight as Fibber McGee and Molly.

For all the times Eddie Cantor has mentioned his wife, Ida, on the air they seem almost a radio team to listeners.

Henry Weber and Marion Claire worked together in opera years before they were headlined on the Chicago Theater of the Air productions on W-G-N and Mutual.

And Many Others.

Xavier Cugat, the orchestra leader, and Carmen Castillo, his singing wife, have long been heard together on the airlanes, currently over W-G-N from the Palmer House.

Frank Crumit and Julia Sanderson, who have been working together in radio for half dozen years, worked together in other fields of entertainment earlier.

Then there are Ozzie Nelson and Harriet Hilliard, and Goodman and Jane Ace of Easy Aces. The list could be extended indefinitely. But the record of Eddie and Fannie would still remain unique.

During the span of their Radio Gossip club, from 1930 to 1941, they interviewed Jack Benny, Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Charles Laughton, Fibber McGee and Molly, Burns and Allen, Paul Whiteman, just to mention a few. Mae West and Jane Withers made their radio bows on their show.

The first time Rubinoff, world renowned violinist, ever spoke on the radio was during a Gossip club performance. The response was so lively that Rubinoff began speaking regularly on the programs on which he appeared.

Like to Reminisce.

Eddie and Fannie like to reminisce of the days when they broadcast from a room 14 by 18 feet which was then the big studio at KYW. Eddie recalls that once when a severe electrical storm burst during a broadcast the performers had to leave the air because of the weakness of the antennae, race to the roof of the building and hold up the posts supporting the wires.

"Radio has come a long way since those days," says Eddie. "In all the years of broadcasting our many interviews, we have never found a celebrity we did not sincerely admire and enjoy being on our show."

Woodlawn Clubs to Hear Discussion About Schools

Schools in relation to their communities will be the topic of the next meeting of the Associated Clubs of Woodlawn Monday, April 13, in the Woodlawn branch library, 6247 Kimbark avenue. Miss Mary L. Patrick, principal of the Wadsworth school; and Marx E. Holt, principal of the Fiske school, will lead the discussion, which will include delinquency, after school recreation, psychological attitudes in relation to war propaganda and the school's part in defense work.

Dramatics for Children to Be Bryn Mawr Topic

Sara Cameron Hancher, teacher of music and dramatics at the Chicago School of Expression and Dramatic Arts, will speak on "Music and Dramatics for the Modern Child" when the Young Mothers' club of the Bryn Mawr Community church meets at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening. Mrs. J. C. Kernchen is chairman for the evening.

On Citizens Program Today

Cheerleaders John Yonke, Betty Rentner, Virginia Fedosky, and Elizabeth Hesselbarth raise a wave of applause for Thornton Fractional High school, which will be spotlighted on W-G-N's Citizens of Tomorrow program at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon. They appeared with classmates and faculty at the W-G-N studio last Wednesday afternoon when the program was recorded. The school is at Calumet City.

Also appearing on the studio platform Wednesday were school officials and suburban leaders. Left to right are John W. Jaranowski, mayor of Calumet City; William H. Winterhoff, Thornton township supervisor; George Jones, mayor of Lansing; O. I. Lewis, attorney for the high school board; Miss Anna Schmidt, dean of girls; James F. Kelly, president of the school board, and Lester Kelly, president of the Calumet Memorial park district. Albert Lockhart is principal of Thornton Fractional High school, which has an enrollment of 1,175.

'WE WERE THERE' INTERVIEWS GIVE FILLIP TO NEWS

Dispatches by W-G-N Supplement Talks.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Listeners who tune in W-G-N to follow war and domestic developments these days are getting something extra with their news. W-G-N is following up important news breaks the world over with interviews featuring men and women who have lived and worked in the spots described in the dispatches.

On outstanding local news stories, the persons concerned are interviewed, or authorities on the subject are brought to the microphone. The W-G-N special events department is arranging and presenting these interviews.

This new series, which is called "We Were There," is attracting wide attention. Many listeners are commenting favorably on this supplement to the news.

The interviews are made integral parts of regular W-G-N news broadcasts. These programs are heard at 8 a. m. with Vern Hansen, 11:30 a. m. with John Holbrook, 6:30 p. m. with Clifton Utley [commentary], 8:15 p. m. with Holbrook, and 10:30 p. m. with Jack Brickhouse.

A File of 200 on Tap.

In addition the special events department, with the W-G-N mobile unit, is continuing full coverage of spot news and of important army, navy, and marine corps happenings in the Chicago area.

In the weeks test of giving listeners extra dividends of interest with their news, W-G-N has built up a file of nearly 200 persons familiar with people, places, and events in all parts of the globe, made arrangements with universities for broadcasts by some of their best informed faculty members, and established working agreements with consulates for putting resident officials and visiting statesmen on the air.

Many Experts Interviewed.

Among the personalities already interviewed have been:

Carroll Van Patter, former transportation adviser to the national government of China, on the Burma road.

R. R. A. Dykstra, assistant to Netherlands consul in Chicago, on the [then] Java crisis.

Henry S. L. Polak, former law associate of Mahatma Gandhi, on India.

Henry Evans of the Chinese News service, a world traveler, on people and places in New Guinea.

Noah Van Cleef, manufacturer and expert on South American conditions, on axis riots in Rio de Janiero.

Guy Murchie, Chicago Tribune war correspondent, on his two years in England, Ireland, and Iceland.

Miss Gertrude Hull, retired school teacher, brought from Milwaukee to tell of coaching Gen. MacArthur for West Point history exams.

E. H. Scott, inventor, radio manufacturer, who served with Australian forces during World war.

Dr. Henry Simon Bloch, French economist now at the University of Chicago, on the war guilt trials at Riom.

Henry Wei, Chinese scholar from International House, University of Chicago, to tell of studies in Japan and country's vulnerability to bombing [followed story of possible United States bombing of Tokio].

"We aren't looking for analysts," a W-G-N spokesman said. "W-G-N and Mutual already have standout men in this field on the air. What we do want are the people who built the Burma road, who hunt with the New Guinea headhunters, who used to live on Main street in Melbourne or Moscow, who went to school with Gen. MacArthur."

NEW BATHROOM FIXTURES SAVE VALUABLE SPACE

Cicero House Gets Spring Renovation.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

The arrival of spring this year reveals a wide variety of remodeling projects and various kinds of work accomplished these last months. In many instances the renovations have added space to an existing house. Sometimes this space has been gained by a new wing or a new inclosed porch, ingenious use of a wasted attic or basement, and again by the installation of new, compact plumbing fixtures and heating equipment in place of older and bulkier equipment.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Grat, 2527 61st avenue, Cicero, recently remodeled the bathroom of their home, a room which was nearly 20 years old. As Mrs. Grat said:

"We didn't alter the actual size of the room but with our new fixtures we have more space and the bathroom seems larger."

Fixtures More Compact.

Modern heating and plumbing fixtures are in most cases much more compact and space saving than those of two decades ago and this is an important factor in the remodeling of older rooms where space is at a premium.

In the Grat home a low built-in tub fits neatly into a corner, thus making available the space which formerly was wasted behind and beneath it, and at either end. By this one change alone the bathroom now has storage space—two wide, deep drawers where once the old style tub sood. The new tub also has a new convenience feature, a wide flare to its outer wall which forms a comfortable seat.

The modern lavatory is likewise a space-saver. The old protruding, slightly bulbous lavatory with stopper at end of a chain, cut off inches of space. Now in its place there's a slim little fixture with a long deep basin, a pop-up waste regulated at the spout and a nice wide shelf back for toilet accessories. [A very usable feature, this shelf, according to Mrs. Grat, as a handy place for makeup and shaving articles.]

Peach Tones Used.

The bathroom is carried out in warm peach tones. There's a tile floor in a mottled effect of peach, gray, and black. The walls, for a little more than halfway up are in peach tile with a black trim and the upper wall has been painted peach. There's a peach and silver shower curtain which all but hides the small water-saving shower head that can be adjusted to any stream, a soft gentle flood or an invigorating needle spray.

Near this tub are two grab bars—a small one combined with a soap dish is a safety gadget for the tub bather, and the slim, chromium grab bar, higher on the wall, is in easy reach of the shower bather.

Colorful Design in Rug.

The soap dish over the tub and the one near the lavatory as well as the glass holder above the lavatory are all of peach. On the floor is a peach colored rug enlivened with designs in pink and aqua and the towels are peach and black.

No shadows dim your vision in the mirror of the new medicine cabinet. It has indirect lighting, which is a comfort compared with older types of mirror lighting. And there's also an electrical outlet for the razors of the men in the family.

It is easy to clean behind the new water closet which stands an inch away from the wall and is a compact one piece fixture.

Woodlawn Mothers Plan Fete for New Members

A reception for new members will be combined with the annual business meeting of the Woodlawn Mothers' Round Table at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday at the First Presbyterian church, 64th street and Kimbark avenue. Dr. V. O. Graham, president of the Chicago Academy of Sciences, will give a word picture of Illinois, followed by a short musical program.

This WEEK in the GARDEN

Monday, March 30

The advancing season and the great increase in gardening make it imperative that gardeners make their plans to begin work as soon as the weather is warm enough. Think first of the things you wish to grow, whether your garden will be devoted to vegetables or a combination of flowers and vegetables or flowers alone.

Soil conditions must be considered no matter what plants are grown. Even at this time decayed manure can be procured and made ready to spade into the soil when the soil is fit, or until it is dry enough that it will not stick to the spade. A soil that forms a crust on the surface should have an abundance of humus incorporated in it.

Tuesday, March 31

Plant trees, shrubs, and hardy vines as soon as the nursery can supply them. Do not use too many trees or shrubs on the small yard. Tall shrubs should not be planted where dwarf kinds should go. Note the shrubs under some windows, how they must be cut back each year and are never satisfactory. Note, too, the yards that are overplanted with trees when half the number would suffice.

When transplanting trees haul away débris that was used to fill in the yard, or heavy yellow or blue clay that would not sustain plant life, replace it with good, rich soil. Buy specimen trees; never be satisfied with crooked ill-shaped plants or one with a crotch.

Wednesday, April 1

When laying out the shrubbery border do not use too many kinds; repeat the kinds so the effect will not be spotty. Shrubs should have good soil. In transplanting dig the holes large enough to accommodate the roots easily. Tamp the soil firmly around the roots and water well.

Too few hardy vines are used and yet they lend a pleasing effect. The wild grape is especially useful where a strong vine is wanted, and by proper pruning a considerable amount of fruit will be produced.

Among others that are desirable is the oriental bittersweet which fruits much better than the more common kind and does well in partial shade. The fleece flower [polygonum auberti] grows easily and is covered with misty white blooms. All the climbing roses are good, altho the wood may freeze back during severe winters.

Thursday, April 2

Fast growing annuals can be started from seeds. If a coldframe is available the seeds do best if started in it. Uncover bulb beds and gently shake up the covering on mulch. When the buds show give an application of a complete balanced plant food and larger flowers will be obtained.

When spading the garden do not take huge spadefuls, take thin slices and break them up as the work progresses. Order roses and plant as soon as possible. When planting firm the soil around the plants and give a good watering.

Friday, April 3

The gardener who sows seeds thick must use extra care when watering. The seedlings, if left alone without thinning, are certain to grow tall and spindly, and they are difficult to establish out of doors. Sow thin and avoid this trouble.

This also is true when sowing out of doors and it is a real waste. Do not sow deep as the seeds cannot push above the surface. Watch the flats of seedlings and transplant to the coldframe or another flat as soon as the plants can be easily handled.

Saturday, April 4

If you have a gift azalea and it is thru flowering, keep it in the coolest spot you have, above freezing, and when all danger from frost has passed plunge the pot to the rim in a semisandy spot out of doors.

House plants can now be transplanted. Palms, aspidistras, sansevierias, pandans, and others of a similar type should not be transplanted into extra sized containers even tho they are large. Simply take a stick and remove as much soil as possible from the top of the pot and replace with new rich soil.

Prepared in coöperation with Garfield park conservatory.

TILDEN TECH IS NEXT SCHOOL ON CITIZENS' HOUR

Students to Be Heard on W-G-N Next Sunday.

The Citizens of Tomorrow spotlight will focus on Tilden Technical High school, 4747 South Union avenue, at 1:30 o'clock next Sunday afternoon on radio station W-G-N.

The program will be recorded for broadcast at 4:30 Wednesday before a group of students and honor guests. This latter group will include Henry Hagen, superintendent of high school district 4; Mrs. Charles Serig, president of the Tilden PTA; William A. Lauer, commander, American Legion post 333; Edward Bradford, president of the Kiwanis Club of Englewood, and Isabel Pifer, president of the Community Council of the Stock Yards district.

Trio of Cheer Leaders.

Charles Vander Mark, Ralph Sockrider, and Leo Kazlauskas will lead the cheers. National and school colors will be presented by a guard consisting of Meade Hanger, Melvin Kopping, William Saunders, Smith Funk, and Robert Frisk. The school chorus, directed by Mabel B. Swanstrom, will sing Speaks' "Morning," Victor Herbert's "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," and the Tilden loyalty song. Tom Davis will give a baritone solo in the choral presentation of the second number.

Tilden's principal, Frederick E. Price, will appear on the program. He came to Tilden in February, 1941. He's a graduate of Chicago elementary and high schools, Chicago Normal college, the old Armour Institute of Technology, and Northwestern university. Work in industry was followed by teaching in Chicago's grade schools, in high schools and continuation schools.

Under the Smith-Hughes act, he taught teachers' training classes for the University of Illinois. He served for a time as acting principal of continuation schools. Price is credited with the organization of the Hoyne Continuation school, and was principal of the McLaren and Barton elementary schools prior to his Tilden assignment.

School Founded in 1881.

The history of Tilden goes back to 1881. The first school was organized on the present site as Lake High school in what was then Lake township. In 1905, after the township's annexation to Chicago, an addition with shops and drawing rooms was added and a technical course introduced.

At that time the school was co-educational and had a high school, a grammar school, and an apprentice school. In 1915 the name was changed from Lake High to Tilden High school. It was named for Edward Tilden, a former president of the board of education. Two years later, the school became the Tilden Technical High school for boys, and four years later, in 1921, the last girls were graduated.

Radio Principal Phil Maxwell will interview Tilden's honor student, Robert Scharding. He ranks first in scholarship, is secretary of the student council, co-editor of Craftsman, the Tilden annual, treasurer of the Honor society, and member of the National Honor society. A salute also will be given to Winifred Cartier, 14, a student at Green Bay West High school, Green Bay, Wis.

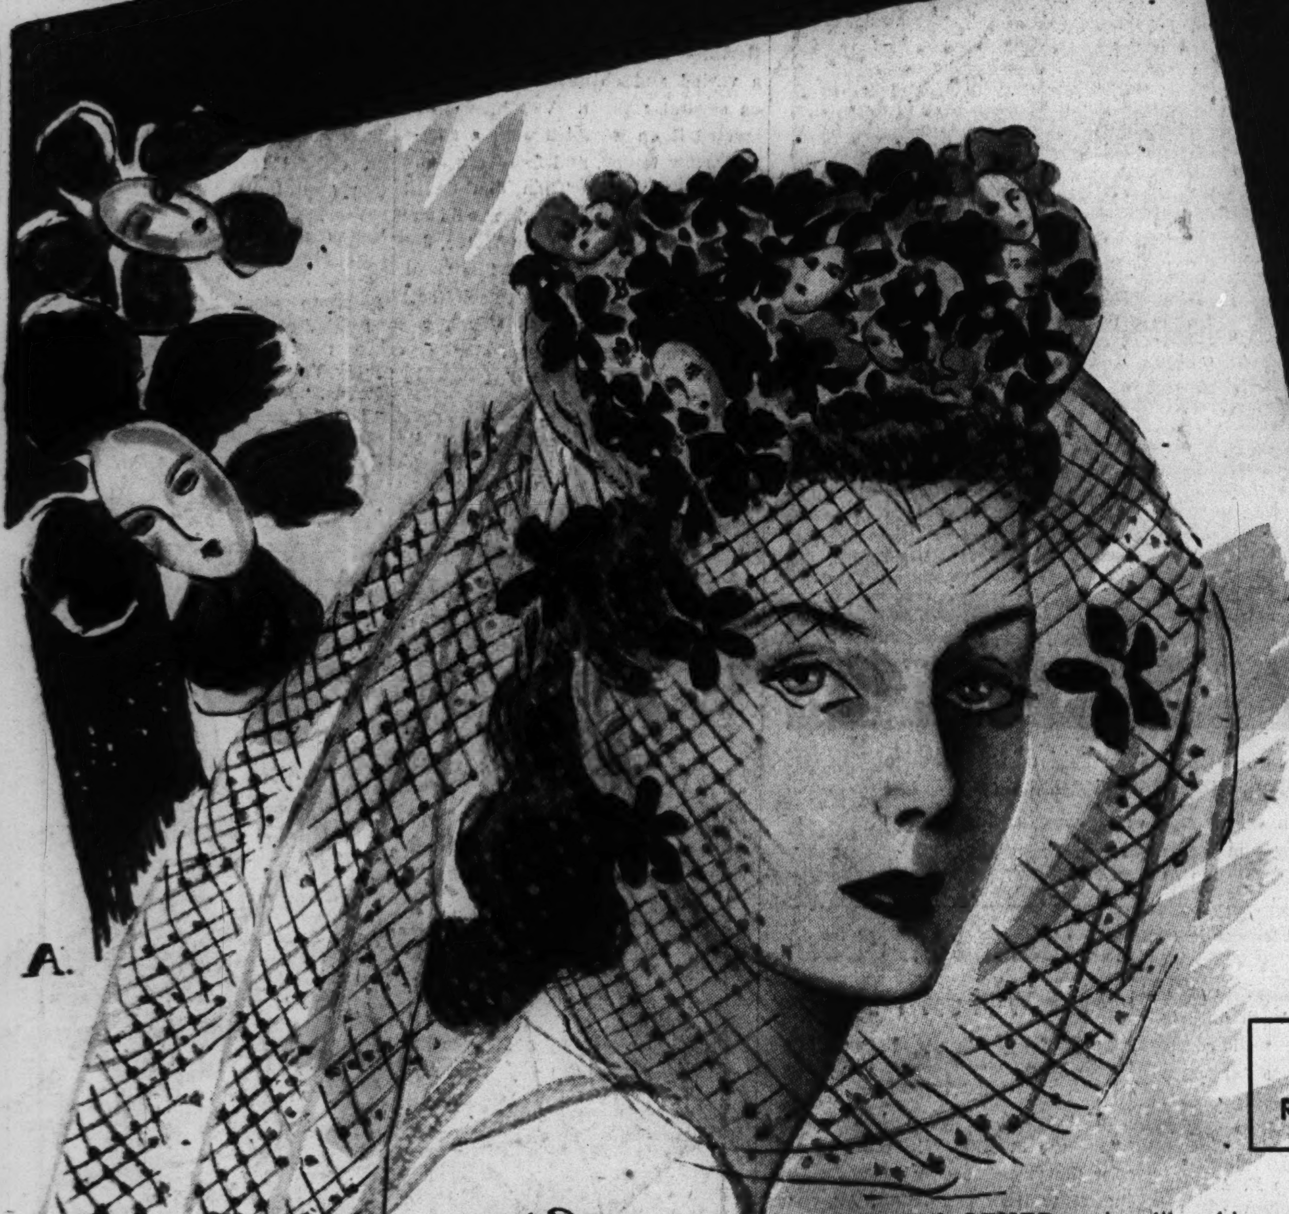
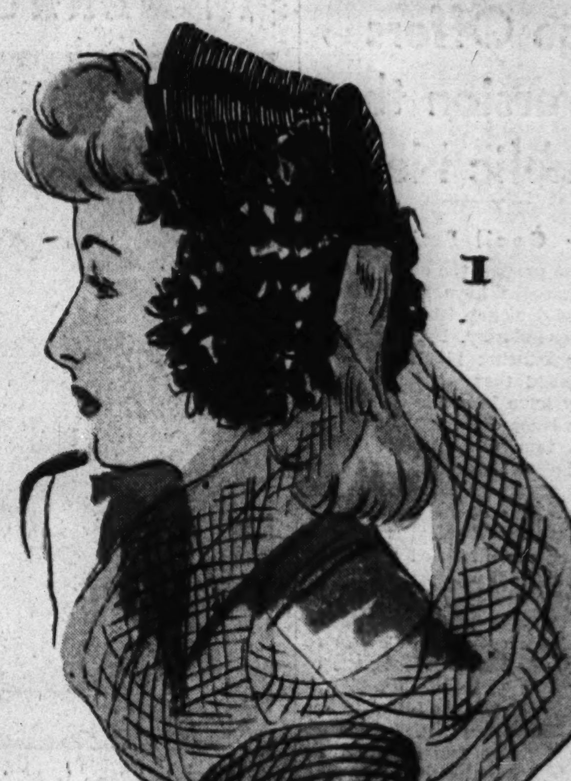
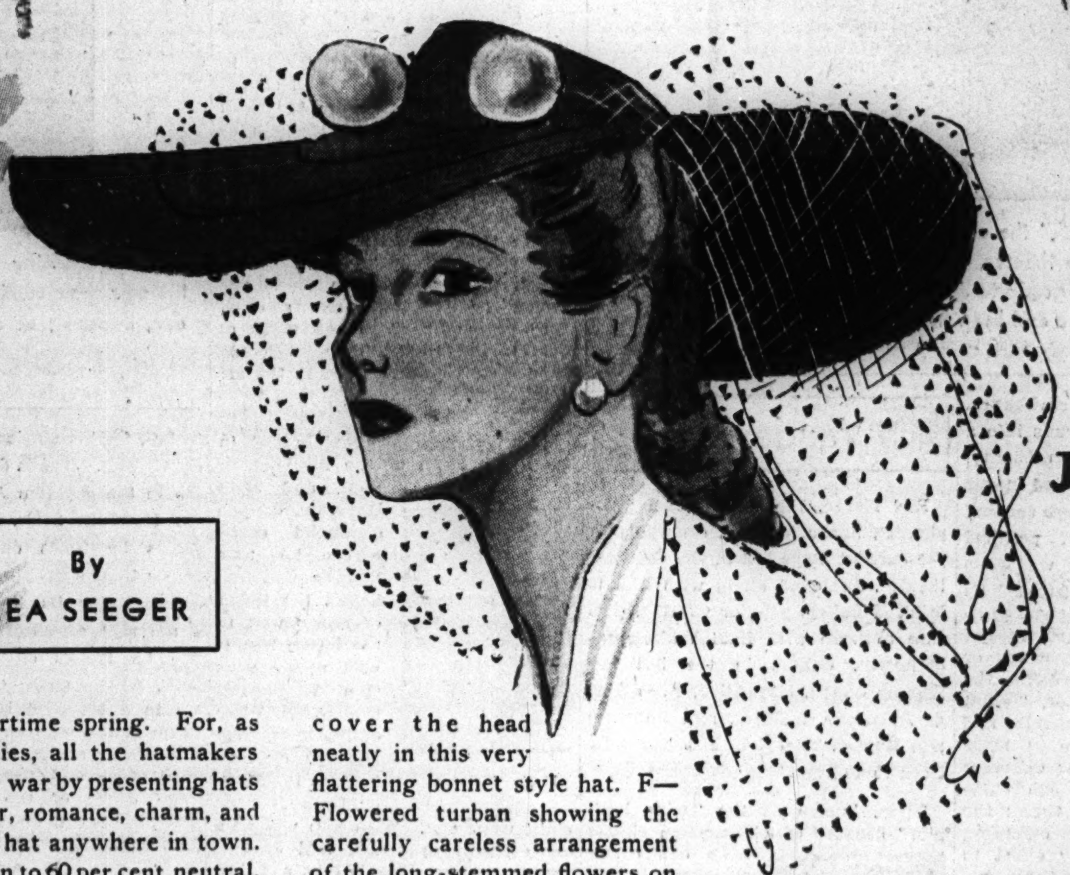
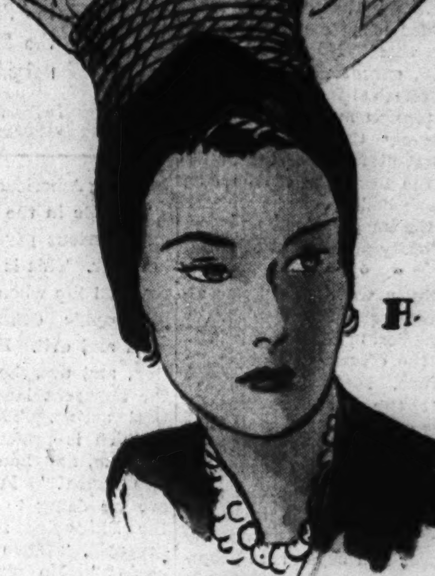
SPRING HATS OUTMANEUVERING WAR DOLDRUMS

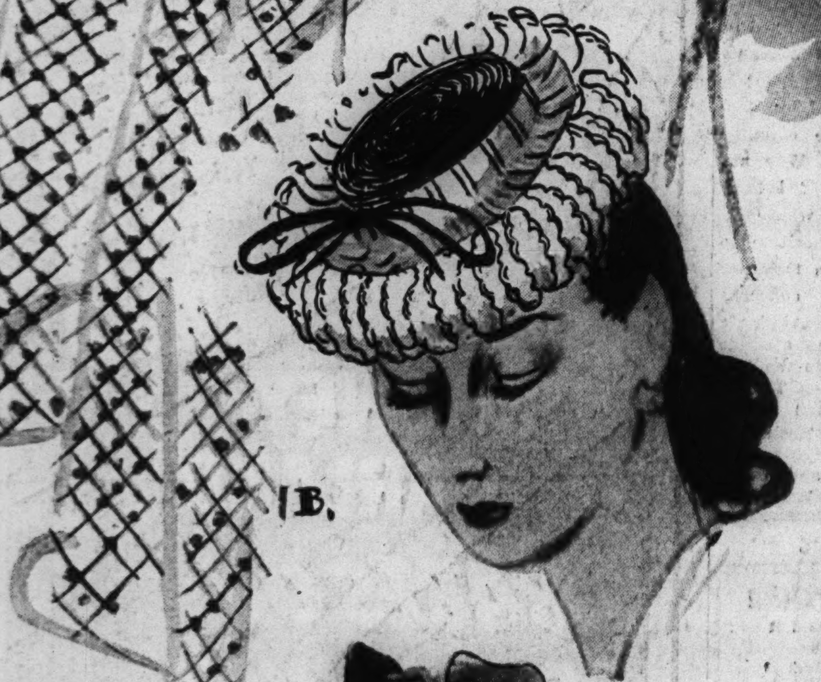
By
REA SEEGER











NO OTHER spring like this wartime spring. For, as if to make up for grim realities, all the hatmakers have outmaneuvered the god of war by presenting hats that are the last word in gayety, color, romance, charm, and beauty. You can't find a dull, listless hat anywhere in town. True, suits and clothes are keyed down to 60 per cent neutral, even alternating with stuff that looks suspiciously like feminine versions of regimental uniforms, but this is not apparent in the hat collections.

Roses, camellias, freesias, lilies, buttercups, violets, mimosa, daisies, yards of net, lace, tulle, ruched ribbons, and veiling, combine with chiffon, lacy braids, soft felts, and crisp straws to form these confections to make us all forget, at least for a moment. If ever there was a time that every woman could be pretty under a hat, this is the spring. The colors are flattering, the brims shadowy.

Sketched, from one Chicago collection of new Easter hats, are representative creations of what the hat-hungry women will select to sustain tranquility despite the wave of wartime gloom. A—Provocatively feminine hat made of many flowers, some with tiny hand-painted faces. B—Small suit hat of straw, edged with a crisp double ruching of organdy. C—Picture hat in dark straw with a huge chou of pastel chiffon dramatically placed in the center of the dipped, upturned brim. D—Smart, small pillbox of shiny straw trimmed with a bright-edged organdy pompon pierced with a quill of bright patent leather. E—Layers of malines worked in huge shell-like curves surround the face and cover the head neatly in this very flattering bonnet style hat. F—Flowered turban showing the carefully careless arrangement of the long-stemmed flowers on the head like a garland.

G—The dual-purpose hat. The tiny felt mob cap effect may be worn alone as a suit hat. Fasten on the multicolored, lace-frilled snood effect and the hat goes dress parade. H—Stunning high turban of braided straw with deftly managed swathings of chiffon around the forehead line. I—Victorian bonnet of straw with large loops of geraniums over each ear, much like the coiffures of that period. J—The indispensable cartwheel hat of shiny straw, dipping gracefully to shade the eyes. Yards of veiling are used for the languorous, drifting accent over the crown and deep down the back in a graceful loop.

All of the representative models sketched will be found in a Chicago shop. They are the newest spring models designed by a top-flight designer. New spring hats, bags, and gloves, as well as decorative and unusual costume jewelry to complement the season's suits and frocks, are featured in the same showing.

American Theater Industry Thriving in Spite of War

Stage Offers Diversion the Public Needs

By Cecil Smith.

Up to the present the events of the last few months have not wrought any serious damage within the American theater industry. Producers have kept on producing plays, audiences have attended them enthusiastically when they have been any good, and companies large and small have continued to tour the country. Even the income tax deadline failed to cause any significant decline at the box offices. The stable and healthy condition of theater business generally has long since refuted the many prophets of gloom who predicted that the bottom would drop out of the nation's entire amusement enterprise as soon as people everywhere began to understand the immense demands of our war effort.

What these defeatists failed to see is that hard working people need periods of relaxation much more than lazy folk do. The theater becomes a morale builder of prime importance in times like these. No other agency in the world, except perhaps music, can abolish physical fatigue and banish mental tension more quickly and more effectively than the theater. From the first dimming of the house lights and the first rise of the curtain, the make believe of the theater seizes upon the imagination, and cares are automatically pushed out of mind.

• • •

This is why a wartime theater always becomes primarily a place of escape. Comedies, mysteries, musicals—these are the diversions the people need and want. Plays which mirror or interpret the headlines usually merely carry coals to Newcastle; they fail to contribute the relaxation preoccupied people naturally require of the theater, unless, as in some such exceptional play as "Watch on the Rhine," the play itself is completely absorbing over and beyond its propaganda content.

In New York 22 plays are now running, and not a single one deals with the war or world problems, except for the oblique comic references of "Let's Face It" and a couple of other musicals. Twenty-five touring companies are dotted here and there across the country, and only two—"Candle in the Wind" at the Erlanger theater here and "Watch on the Rhine" in Boston—are concerned with dramas inspired by current international considerations. Both of these were written and put on the stage in pre-Pearl Harbor days. Not a single topical drama has succeeded on Broadway since Dec. 7.

• • •

Some of our thoughtful literati bemoan the hundred per cent escapism of our wartime stage. It is the business of the theater, they believe, to keep in tune with the times and to interpret current events on a high moral plane. The theater loses much of its dignity, they feel, when it devotes its entire energy to light and escapist entertainment.

• • •

While I share to some extent the fear that the theater may temporarily cease to be a place where important and idealistic subjects are presented, I cannot see that the objection to the present state of the theater is realistic or practical. Playwrights simply do not write good war plays in wartime. Both outward circumstances and inward emotions change too fast. A subject which sounds reasonable may be out of date next week. A locale or group of characters which arouses sympathy today may give offense next month.

Robert Sherwood's experience with "There Shall Be No Night" offers a typical example of the impracticability of presenting topical plays in such times as these. Before last June we had good reason to admire the Finns, who had always paid their debts and who seemed to possess an attractive and progressive democracy. When the war in Russia began the Finns joined the wrong side. The ideas expounded by Dr. Valkonen had not changed a bit, nor had their application to the welfare of the United States. But it was no longer palatable to have them expressed by a Finn, and the play had to be taken off the boards.

• • •

In "Candle in the Wind" the details of the plot already seem quite remote, for it is hard to work up more than a historical interest in the problems of an American actress who is trying to outwit the Gestapo in occupied Paris. There aren't any American actresses in Paris now, I hope, and the situation is one which lost its immediacy when boats stopped bringing Americans back from France.

"Candle in the Wind" runs into a more serious psychological difficulty, however. This is not a period in our national life when people are seeking philosophic definitions of political good and evil. Everybody wants action, and everybody is frustrated by the apparent lack of sufficient practical action. The question is not "Which is preferable, democracy or Fascism, and how do you define the two terms?" It is, rather, "What are we doing to save Australia and the Philippines?" Or, even more urgently, "When does our offensive begin?" No playwright can write plays about subjects like these; the immensity of the world enfolding human drama dwarfs any effort to condense its essentials into three acts on the stage.

I cast my vote along with the huge controling majority, therefore, in favor of a wartime theater dedicated to diversion, escape, humor, and relaxation. How could I honestly do otherwise, when I myself found more profit and refreshment in the froth of "Blithe Spirit" than in the resounding periods of "Candle in the Wind"?

Howards on Stage 32 Years.

Willie and Eugene Howard started their joint theatrical career 32 years ago. In celebration of their anniversary not long ago, the brothers revived and presented in the course of their current New York show "Priorities of 1942," a sketch called "After the Opera," in which they appeared together at the Winter Garden in 1914.

IN MENNONITE COMEDY

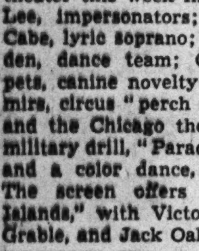
Vaudeville

Red Norvo, the well known xylophonist, heads his own orchestra in the current stage bill at the Oriental theater. Featured along with him is Mildred Bailey, popular vocalist, who rose to fame with Paul Whiteman's orchestra. Others in the bill are Sammy Cohen, Kay Allen, Fran Snyder, Darlene Walders, and Radcliffe and Rogers. The picture is "Blondie Goes to College."



Tirza.

Tirza, known as the "wine bath girl" because of a Dionysian classic wine dance she performs, is the Rialto theater's headliner this week. The dance allegedly employs 50 gallons of champagne. Since the necessary equipment often gets out of order, Tirza has made many friends in the plumbers' union, and recently she herself has joined the union, so that, by virtue of her union card, she can repair the plumbing herself in case of extremity. The featured comics at the Rialto are Harry Clexx and Happy Hyatt. Others in the cast are Mervin Harmon, Russell Trent, Marie Voe, Melanie Le Beau, and Jean Mode. The picture is "Ball of Fire."

Stage performers at the Chicago theater this week include Chick and Lee, impersonators; Sara Ann McCabe, lyric soprano; Cabot and Dresden, dance team; Carl Emmy and pets, canine novelty act; the Walkamirs, circus "perch act" performers, and the Chicago theater ballet in a military drill, "Parade of the Cadets," and a color dance, "Kaleidoscope." The screen offers "Song of the Islands," with Victor Mature, Betty Grable, and Jack Oakie.

S. N. Behrman at Work on 2 New Productions

S. N. Behrman, who has not had a new play since the short lived "The Talley Method," is working on two new plays. One is almost finished, and is called "The Pirate." It is derived from an old play by Fulda, with its locale in Santo Domingo and its time the early 19th century. There is a possibility that Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne may be interested in the finished product. The second play is a contemporary comedy. It is untitled and uncompleted, and it will not be ready for production this season. "The Pirate," on the other hand, may be staged before summer.

Wessons Offer Some Hilarious Impersonations

By Will Davidson.

'Go Wesson, young man—and young woman—for a hilarious good time.

The Rhumba Casino is now sporting one of the most amusing teams on the boards—Gene and Dick Wesson. They are a sort of schizophrenic satirist—one impersonating the voices of well known persons, while the other handles the visual side. They combine the best features of impersonation and ventriloquism.

Charlie McCarthy is a natural for them. So are Jekyl and Hyde. But probably the most hilarious of all is their friendly and entirely zany caricature of President and Mrs. Roosevelt. I think it is a high tribute to their sense of good taste and sincerity, and to the democratic American sense of humor that this satire is so well received. There is no malice, and it would take a terribly straitlaced professional patriot to resent the sight of those two caricatures doing a shag while singing the "Hut Sut" song.

Dick Wesson does two grand singles—Wendell Willkie and a dime store demonstrator. I can think of several impersonators who could stand a couple of Wessons in the art of mimicry.

Matty Malneck.

With Matty Malneck safely back in the Pump room of the Ambassador East, and John Hoysradt doing a command comeback in the Drake's Camellia house, the influx of new talent to the bistro belt is well under way. On Wednesday that matinée idol of the keys, Eddy Duchin, comes back to the Palmer House for an eight week run. With him will be a show featuring Gower and Jeanne, young dancers; Jimmie Rae, a frighteningly talented acrobatic dancer; June Robbins, Lew Sherwood, Johnny Drake, and Tony Leonard, Duchin's vocalists, and the Abbott dancers in some clever new routines. Pedro De Leon also will return as the intermission maestro.

Friday night is another of those triple opening affairs. Top interest is in the new Chez Paree show, which brings the French Bing Crosby, Jean Sablon, to Chicago for the first time. M. Sablon has been shattering hearts in the east, the south, and in South America for some time, and is said to be quite the nuts. In the practically all-debut show, Estellita, a cute and very fiery little singer, will have a featured spot. Her only previous Chicago appearance, to my knowledge, was as vocalist with Sacassas at the Colony club some time ago. One of the newer satirical dance teams, Mata and Hari, will make their local club bow, and Jackie Miles, a comedian, will be saying hello, too. Buddy Franklin brings together a band for this show. He's been around before, they tell me, under another name.

Also on Friday the Bismarck hotel brings Jimmy Joy back into the Walnut room. And the Rhumba Casino will introduce a new band, Daryl Harpa—a 10 piece outfit with an accent on the violins—Dora Luz, singer, and some dancers. The wonderful Wessons hold over. Juan Makaia will provide alternate music.

Then on Easter Sunday Lawrence Welk returns to the Trianon ballroom where he has established himself as one of those long term favorites. Orrin Tucker replaces Dick Jurgens at the Aragon on the 12th.

April 8 is a day for jive fans to circle in red. It's the day Cab Calloway comes into the Panther room of Hotel Sherman.

• • •

If there's anything José Manzanares prefers to do than talk, it may possibly be playing very high quality Latin music. In fact, José combines the two in his familiar demonstration of how the rhumba was born. I'll take his word for it that the tempo was derived from the drip of a waterfall, for his musical lecture is most convincing. José is doing a very neat job in the gay Pan American café of the Hotel La Salle. With only four pieces he turns out well rounded music that is inviting to dancers and pleasant for its listening qualities. I am still convinced, however, that the La Salle's electrician is stone deaf, for he keeps the P. A. system up to a modified bellow, when the room is intimate enough to need no amplifying system at all. That surplus noise and the distracting bird cage effect of the trellised dance floor are my only two regrets about this engaging room.

• • •

Boswelling the Bistros:

Even if you are a confirmed animal act hater, treat yourself to Jack Lane's performing love birds at Helsing's Vodvil lounge. They are delightful. . . . Just in case you think some one is taking a slap at a famous dance teacher when Jane Froman sings "Arthur Murray Taught Me Dancing in a Hurry," you should hear the Arthur Murray envoys making sure every one has heard the song.

Acerbic note after chewing and eschewing a hot spot "de luxe" steak: Sometimes de luxe are deceiving.

FRENCH STAR FOR CHEZ

France's crooning matinee idol, Jean Sablon, will headline the new show coming to Chez Paree Friday night. He's just one, however, of an entire cast of newcomers to be seen in the revue
[De Bellis Photo.]

Katharine Hepburn Enlists in Drive for Equal Rights

Katharine Hepburn has enlisted "for the duration" in the campaign for the proposed equal rights amendment to the constitution. Announcement of her support was contained in a message to the national woman's party.

"In the theater," wrote Miss Hepburn, "there is complete equality between men and women. Why not for all other walks of life? I have just heard that hospitals where interns have gone to war hesitate to take women doctors, altho they are available; and industrial concerns that need doctors still discriminate against women doctors. This attitude toward women goes back to the fundamental law of our country. That is why I support the equal rights amendment, which reads 'men and women shall have equal rights thruout the United States and every place subject to its jurisdiction.'"

POPULAR RECORDINGS

A very smart new song by Irving Berlin—"Me and My Melinda"—gets a varied and enthusiastic treatment on several records. Vaughn Monroe started it on Bluebird with a sparkling, slow tempo, and featuring John Turnbull's vocal. Then Jan Savitt followed with a suave, medium bounce tempo version for Victor. Joe Martin comes thru with a fine vocal. Columbia came up with the solid sort of treatment only Gene Krupa can give a tune. It is tricky, strong in the brass, and naturally paced by Krupa's drumming.

• • •

Bluebird is very excited about its record B-11487, and quite understandably. It combines the tremendous talents of Dinah Shore and Freddy Martin, who are now co-starring in a New York hotel, in a really stupendous platter. "A" side, of course, is Grieg's piano concerto in A minor, turned into a modified pop called "I Look at Heaven." The backer up is an eternal favorite, "I Can't Give You Anything but Love."

Victor's current album features the Victor mixed chorus under Emile Coté, singing eight of Sigmund Romberg's best songs. "Lover, Come Back to Me," "One Alone," and "Softly, as in a Morning Sunrise," are tops. The infrequently heard Rudy Vallee comes out with two requests, "A Letter from London" and "I Just Couldn't Say It Before." Not sensational, but pleasant. And Art Kassel gives Bluebird a neat package with two musical tales, "One Dozen Roses" and "I Hung My Head and Cried."

Lily Pons to Give Recital in Civic Opera House Today

Coloratura to Present Varied Types of Music

By Edward Barry.

Lily Pons appears here fairly regularly in opera and as soloist with orchestra, but full length Pons recitals are extremely rare. One of them is scheduled for the Civic Opera house this afternoon, as the closing event of the History and Enjoyment of Music series, and concertgoers will be offered an opportunity to hear the famous French coloratura in a full length program of several different types of music.

Altho the names of Mary Garden and Lily Pons have probably never, until this instant, been coupled, the fact remains that they have one outstanding trait in common—a genius for keeping their names in the newspapers. During the last 10 years the Frenchwoman probably has been the subject of as much copy as the Scotch-American was during her active career.

By this it is not meant to imply that either singer has resorted to shabby tricks. People like Miss Garden and Miss Pons do not have to be kidnaped or have their pearls stolen in order to keep the clippings flowing in. Their personalities are so unusual and arresting and their accomplishments so great that almost anything they say or do qualifies as news.

• • •

Miss Pons' fame has been helped by the fact that the newspaper picture is used more freely now than it was in Miss Garden's day. The French coloratura who burst on the American scene 11 years ago quickly became the dream and the delight of photographers. She was, and is, small and girlish. She was, and is, fantastically pretty. She was, and is, a person of many moods and facial expressions—all of them attractive.

She has become a type and figure of smartness and fragile beauty. Pictures of her and stories about her are good for the feature sections of the newspapers as well as for their music and news columns.

All of this has obscured somewhat the fact that Miss Pons is primarily a musician, and an extraordinarily capable one. She has distinguished herself in the major American opera houses in such rôles as Lakmé and Lucia. She has won a huge concert hall following, too.

• • •

Miss Pons was born in Cannes, on the French Riviera, in the early years of the century. She first applied herself to the piano, and at the age of 15 she was entertaining wounded soldiers in Paris hospitals with her playing. A little later she began to cultivate her voice and to study the operatic répertoire. She made her debut in the Alsatian city of Mulhaus, in Delibes' "Lakmé," and followed this with appearances in many French opera houses. However, neither of the great Paris houses was among these, and when Miss Pons came to America in 1930 she had not yet sung in any theater which compared even remotely with New York's Metropolitan.

But it was this citadel which she had undertaken to reduce. She secured the privilege of auditioning before Giulio Gatti-Casazza, Tullio Serafin and Otto H. Kahn, and was promptly offered a contract. Her American debut took place on Jan. 3, 1931, in a Metropolitan performance of Donizetti's "Lucia di Lammermoor."

Olin Downes, reviewing this first appearance of Miss Pons in the new world, penetratingly called attention to a quality of her art which sets her off from mine run coloratura sopranos. "When possible, she subjected technical display to musical expression," he said.

Miss Pons made her Chicago operatic debut in the Civic Opera house on Nov. 28, 1936, in "Lakmé." The most sensational of her Chicago appearances was on July 24, 1939, when she drew a crowd estimated at more than 100,000 to Grant park.

She has been active not only in opera and concert but in movies and radio as well. She is one of the four or five most widely known singers of our day.

Miss Pons married Andre Kostelanetz, the Russian conductor, on June 2, 1938. They have made numberless appearances together in concert.

David Ewen has assembled in his book, "Living Musicians," a great many interesting personal facts about Miss Pons. She is 5 feet 1, and weighs 104 pounds. She is a great water drinker and vegetable and fruit eater, she loves exercise, and she is possessed of amazing vitality. She avoids cigarets, liquor, and late hours. She is an autograph collector, a lover of lentil soup and swing music, and a believer in the good luck qualities of the number 13.

Her program today consists of two Mozart arias and a set of variations by the same composer in a Frank La Forge arrangement, a group of old English songs which includes the charming "Have You Seen But a Whyte Lily Grow?," the Bishop-La Forge "Echo Song," works by Fauré, Huë, Debussy, Alabieff, Poldini, and La Forge, and the aria, "Caro Nome," from Verdi's "Rigoletto." Frank La Forge will be at the piano and Frank Versaci plays the flute obbligatos.

Frederick Stock will conduct the Chicago Symphony orchestra in Orchestra hall next Thursday night and Friday afternoon in a Holy week program which reads as follows:

Three Organ Preludes [Orchestrated by Juan José Castro.]	Bach
Symphony No. 4, E Flat Major ["Romantic"]	Bruckner
Excerpts from "Parsifal"	Wagner

Dr. Stock will conduct next Saturday evening's popular concert as well. He will present the young American pianist, Louise Meiszner, as soloist. The program:

Overture, "Carnaval"	Glazounoff
Symphony No. 1, G Minor	Kalinnikoff
Concerto No. 1, B Flat Minor. Louise Meiszner.	Tschaikowsky
Polovetzian Dances from "Prince Igor"	Borodin

GIVES RECITAL TODAY

Ellen Ballon, Canadian pianist, will be heard in Orchestra hall this afternoon.

Notes of Music and Musicians

Musical Arts series. At Orchestra hall next Tuesday evening four pianists will compete for the honor of an appearance in recital in the Musical Arts series next season. They are Jacobeth Kerr, Jeanne Panot, Dorothy Crost, and Henri Rose, and they are the survivors of a series of preliminary contests conducted by the Adult Education council and the Society of American Musicians. Tuesday's competition is open to the public at a nominal admission price.

The council has already named the five other artists engaged for the season of 1942-'43. They are Claudio Arrau [Nov. 3], Artur Schnabel [Dec. 1], Rosalyn Tureck [Feb. 2], Guiomar Novaes [March 2], and Rudolf Serkin [March 16]. Particular interest attaches to the second and third. Schnabel, the renowned Beethoven specialist, has been virtually a stranger in Chicago these last several years. Miss Tureck, a native of Chicago, has not been heard here—in a downtown public appearance, at least—since she played with the Chicago Symphony orchestra at a Tuesday subscription concert in 1937.

Rosalyn Tureck.

Ellen Ballon, Canadian pianist, comes to Orchestra hall today to play the recital which she had scheduled for Feb. 15, but which illness forced her to postpone. Her program consists of two Bach transcriptions, Schumann's G Minor Sonata, a Chopin scherzo and nocturne, a Mendelssohn scherzo, Liszt's Eleventh Hungarian Rhapsody, and miscellaneous pieces by Medtner, Jonas, and Sternberg. Miss Ballon already has to her credit a successful appearance with the Civic orchestra here.

Ataloa, a Chickasaw Indian contralto, will be featured in the benefit program of the Indian Council Fire to be given in Curtiss hall this afternoon.

The free concert of recorded music in the assembly hall of the Chicago public library [downtown] next Saturday afternoon will consist of excerpts from Mozart's "Don Giovanni." Giovanni Cardelli will be the guest speaker.

New Music Group. An unusual concert is in prospect for a week from Wednesday evening, when Louis Krasner, violinist, and Jacques de Menasce, pianist-composer, present a program of three sonatas by contemporary composers in Fullerton hall under the auspices of the New Music Group of Chicago.

The Cincinnati Summer opera announces a nationwide search for talented American opera singers. Four artists will be chosen for rôles in the forthcoming season. Auditions will be thru radio stations exclusively. For details write to the Cincinnati Summer Opera association, Times-Star tower, Cincinnati, O.

The Juilliard Summer school, New York, this year will offer courses in band instruments, band conducting, and band music arranging.

The Coe College band, which has been the official state band of Iowa at the last four Presidential inaugurals, will play at the 7 o'clock meeting of the Sunday Evening club in Orchestra hall tonight. The band's director is Capt. Stanley Vesely. At the 8 o'clock meeting the Sunday Evening club choir, under Edgar Nelson's direction, will sing a group of seasonal selections. Soloists will be Charles Sears, tenor, and Mark Love, bass.

Fray and Braggiotti. Among Bertha Ott's forthcoming attractions is a recital by the duo-pianists, Jacques Fray and Mario Braggiotti, to be given at the Eighth Street theater Sunday afternoon, April 12.

Illinois WPA Symphony orchestra. Every concertgoer is familiar with the glorious Smetana symphonic poem, "The Moldau," which takes its name from the river which flows past the Czech capital of Prague, but only a person who has taken the trouble to look the matter up knows that the "Moldau" is part of a cycle of six similar pieces called "Ma Vlast" ["My Country"]. The entire series will be presented at the Eighth Street theater tomorrow evening by the Illinois WPA Symphony orchestra under Izler Solomon's direction. So far as is known this will be only the second complete performance of the cycle in Chicago's history. The other was given by the Chicago Symphony orchestra in 1931.

The Free "Victory" concert in Fullerton hall of the Art institute next Wednesday will be given, as usual, by Illinois WPA Symphonic ensemble under Izler Solomon's direction. The program will consist of Mozart's "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik" and Stutely's "Salt o' the Sea." The latter is the work of an Englishman who died in 1938. It has never before been performed locally. These "Victory" concerts, which are presented between 12:30 and 1 and attract a great many loop workers out on their noon hour, are sponsored by the Art institute as a contribution to civilian morale.

Special musical observances of Holy week in Chicago's churches are far too numerous to list. Following are extracts from a few announcements which have come to the attention of this department.

Heinrich Schuetz' passion oratorio, "The Seven Last Words on the Cross" [an early 17th century work], will be presented Good Friday afternoon, beginning at 5:15, in the Kenwood church, 46th street and Greenwood avenue. The performance will be under the direction of Gavin Williamson, organist. Soloists are to be Olive Lacey Dickson, soprano; Ethel Jones, contralto; William Miller, tenor, and Reinhold Schmidt, bass. Philip Manuel will provide harpsichord accompaniments. . . . The choir of old St. Peter's church, Polk and Clark streets, will give a Palm Sunday concert under Vivian Abell's direction beginning at 4:30 this afternoon. . . . Leo Sowerby's Lenten cantata, "Forsaken of Man," will be presented at St. James' church, Wabash avenue and Huron street, Good Friday evening starting at 8:15. The composer will direct.

The Russian trio will present at the Arts club a week from Tuesday morning a program consisting of the Brahms C Major Trio, Opus 87, and the Mendelssohn C Minor Trio, Opus 66. The Russian trio consists of Nina Mesirow-Minchin, pianist; Michael Wilkomirski, violinist, and Ennio Bolognini, cellist.

Edith Montlack, pianist, will be heard in recital at the Civic theater Sunday afternoon, April 19.

The Chicago and North Western Railway Choral club, Harry Slater, director, will give a program of Easter music in the North Western station next Saturday afternoon.

The National Folk festival will be held in Washington, D. C., May 6 to 9, a week later than had been planned.

Teachers Study Role of Music as Morale Aid

By Cecil Smith.

To the general public, the name of the Music Educators National conference must sound quite remote, and perhaps very forbidding. Not many people outside the membership of the conference are aware that the entire program of American music education in the public schools is given a thoro airing and overhauling every two years at a series of meetings, lectures, clinics, and public programs, which continue morning, noon, and night for a week, and which are attended by thousands of music teachers, scholars, and administrators.

The 1942 biennial conference is now in progress in Milwaukee. The members, who come from every branch of school music, began to pour into our neighbor city to the north last Friday morning, and those who remain for the entire conference will not be ready to go home until after the final group meetings next Thursday afternoon. During this packed week of activity, at large and small gatherings, nearly every conceivable phase of music education will be discussed, from preschool and kindergarten methods to problems of college and university curricula.

• • •

Times being what they are, the present conference is focused importantly upon the rôle of music in the war—the part properly guided musical activity can play in building morale.

Charles A. Thomson, chief of the division of cultural relations in the department of state, will deliver the keynote address of the biennial conference, on the subject "Music in the National Effort." He will indicate how music in the schools, as well as music in general, can play its full share in the morale necessary for victory, and how music will continue to play an important rôle in the post-war reconstruction period. He will also stress the importance of maintaining musical relations, by way of cultural exchange, among the united nations, as a factor making for solidarity and mutual understanding.

At an outstandingly significant meeting this afternoon, members of the conference will gather to discuss with representatives of the war department the mobilization of musical resources toward the total national effort. From Washington will come Maj. Howard C. Bronson, music officer in the special services division [formerly known as the morale branch], and Maj. Harold Kent, educational liaison officer. As a result of these discussions the schools will be enabled to gear their musical programs more successfully into the entire national morale program.

• • •

Of equally timely interest is tomorrow evening's program, "Music and American Youth," which will be broadcast. Three celebrated Latin American musicians will participate—Dr. Domingo Santa Cruz of Chile and Francesco Mignone and Antonio Sa Pereira of Brazil.

Another climactic event of the conference, scheduled for Wednesday evening, will be the première of "Free Men: The Drama of American Democracy." A dramatized adaptation of the educational policies commission's book, "The Education of Free Men in American Democracy," this great pageant will employ a cast of 1,480 young people from the Milwaukee schools. The culminating feature of the pageant will be a massed performance of the Robinson-Latouche "Ballad for Americans."

• • •

The library of congress, in coöperation with the Pan-American union, has arranged a program entitled "Our Folk Songs," to be presented tomorrow morning. The result primarily of the expert planning of Dr. Harold Spivacke, chief of the music division of the library of congress, the program will include typical United States folk songs sung in their original versions by Alan Lomax, as well as songs from other North and South American lands. Coöperating in the arrangement of the program are Charles Seeger, chief of the music division of the Pan-American union, and Glenn Gildersleeve, chairman of the committee on American Unity Thru Music.

The national theme also will be pursued Wednesday morning in a meeting entitled "Living Music for Living People." Rudolph Ganz, noted Chicago educator, pianist, and composer, and Aaron Copland, New York composer, will urge more extensive use of American music in the schools, and offer practical suggestions as to materials and methods.

Other speakers at the conference include Marshall Bartholomew, director of the Yale Glee club; Dr. William D. Berrien, chief of the advisory committee on music of the department of state; Dr. William G. Carr, secretary of the educational policies commission, and Dr. Roy Smith, editor of the Christian Advocate.

• • •

Thousands of student singers and instrumentalists are participating in the concerts, clinics, and forums of the conference. Among the events scheduled for the remaining days of the conference are the Midwest College Choir festival, conducted by Noble Cain; the Church Choir festival, sponsored by the Milwaukee County Council of Churches, and the Chicago Catholic High Schools Festival chorus, conducted by David Nyvall.

N. Y. Plays Give 10 Cent Matinees for Children

Five New York plays have given 10 cent matinées for school children this year. The project has been made possible by the coöperation of all the theatrical unions and the management of the various plays and theaters involved. The five plays shown at these remarkable prices were "Life with Father," "Arsenic and Old Lace," "My Sister Eileen," "Junior Miss," and "A Kiss for Cinderella."

Colleges Will Provide 8,500 New Officers

By the Rev. John Evans.

The American college and university campus has become a primary line of defense, especially since Pearl Harbor. By commencement time this spring, the country's campuses will provide 8,500 newly commissioned combat officers. But equally important—because modern warfare has more technological aspects than any previous conflict—are the contributions of higher education to the laboratories and other services back of a streamlined war.

Next Sunday this column will outline the intricate pattern of subjects integral to the new warfare but which, being in many cases no less classed as nonfighting services.

As for the ROTC, there are 208,741 student cadets enrolled in 275 regular and junior units. The 8,500 new officers to be commissioned this June will add to the pool of nearly 110,000 reserve officers now enrolled, more than half of whom were commissioned thru the ROTC. More than 80,000 of this number will be in active service by June, 1942.

The accompanying table shows all ROTC colleges and universities in 5th, 6th, and 7th corps areas of the United States army. Junior units in high schools and military academies are omitted. These corps areas cover the general central west areas. Persons desiring information on ROTC units in colleges or universities elsewhere in the country may obtain it by writing to the editor of this column, in care of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

"War and Peace" Opera.

Serge Prokofieff, the eminent Russian composer, is completing an opera based on Tolstoy's "War and Peace." Undoubtedly the work will carry indirect comment on the current conflict.

Child Labor Laws Bar Plays in Washington, D. C.

Because of the stringent child labor laws in Washington, D. C., the brief spring tour scheduled for "Lady in the Dark" has been canceled, and the musical play starring Gertrude Lawrence will remain in New York until time to shut up shop for the summer vacation Miss Lawrence always requires. The District of Columbia does not allow child players on the stage, and since there are 10 indispensable youngsters in "Lady in the Dark," the two week engagement planned for Washington was not feasible. A three week stand in Philadelphia also was canceled. The attraction is scheduled to tour as far as Chicago next fall.

Composer from Venezuela in U. S. for Study

The name of Juan Beautista Plaza of Venezuela should be added to the list of Latin American composers who have visited this country, for he is here for a three month stay at the invitation of the Pan-American union. He will study our methods of teaching music and lecture on the colonial music of his country in New York and other cities.

The composer is choirmaster of the cathedral of Caracas and professor of music history, bibliographer and archivist of the Escuela Nacional de Música, which was founded about 60 years ago and has 500 students.

The popular music of other lands has played such a large rôle in Venezuela in recent years that the government took measures to preserve the country's own music, he reports. Composers have adapted rhythms foreign to the country, he says, and to lessen foreign influences the government has instituted musical education in the larger elementary schools and issued the order that a certain amount of national music must be played each day over radio stations. It is particularly interested in preserving the "joropo," the national dance.

The most important development in the concert field in Caracas, he says, is the formation of a concert association which now has 700 members. Their monthly dues are used to stage concerts and to guarantee six performances a year of the Caracas Symphony orchestra, which is conducted by Vincente Sojo, the director of the Escuela Nacional.

Most of the artists on the association's programs are Venezuelans, but recently it brought down Leah Effenbach, young American pianist.

Maurice Cartier Hopes to Stage "Rachel" Next Fall

Maurice Cartier, who has just formed Maurice Cartier Productions, Inc., with a reported capital of $25,000, hopes to sponsor "Rachel," a play by Mme. Evelyn Randhole, next autumn. The play deals with the famous actress Rachel, in the Napoleonic period. Cartier is reported to favor Luise Rainer, now playing in "A Kiss for Cinderella," for the part. Since "Rachel" would require a huge cast and an elaborate production, some $65,000 will have to be raised before the first curtain can rise.

Good Morning!

Ever think you'd like to spend a nice, cosy hour with the mildly insane?

An hour with "Obliging Young Lady" will give you the same reaction.

Red's an ex-reporter who has been abroad gathering material for a book he hopes to write. . . . On the train he meets and falls in love with the heroine, Linda Norton, who's secretary to Attorney Markham, who's interested in the case of the warring Potters—a man and wife who are recurrently incompatible and are always suing for sole custody of their problem child, Bridget.

• • •

Hineymanush, hineymanush—Red has everybody including the heroine hineymanushing before he leaves the train—to pursue, from then on, heroine who hates him [at first] like the devil hates holy water. . . . Then enters Bridget, a horrid little girl, smart as the tacks she so surreptitiously plants in chairs about to be sat on. . . .

And enters a blond man who hopes to wed the charming Linda. . . . AND assorted detectives, lawyers, domestic help, motorcycle cops, and a newspaper girl who wants a story AND "Red."

When I started out I really meant to tell you something of the plot, but, as I attempt to do so, I'm dazed. . . . Too zany! . . . Besides, dialog and other noises that I feel sure you'll love in the movie, you'd certainly hate to see translated into print. . . .

• • •

The action starts on the train and gallops to a mountain lodge in which occur and from which emerge much and many that are most pe-cul-iar.

"I wish," says a country justice of the peace despairingly, "that somebody would tell me who all these people are and what this is all about!" You'n me both, brother. . . .

For in "Obliging Young Lady" you gaze at the nuttiest opus since "Hellzapoppin." . . . So, I guess I go home now.

See you tomorrow.

Miss Farrell to Return in "The Life of Reilly"

Glenda Farrell, last seen in Chicago in "Thanks for My Wife" [subsequently titled "Separate Rooms"], is scheduled to return to the stage soon in "The Life of Reilly," a new play by William Roose. Miss Farrell has just finished an assignment in the film version of "Three's a Crowd."

LET IT RIDE

set some wild-oat-sowing admirer back $20,000] held her superblonde hair in bondage. She caressed a large glass of milk with slender white fingers. [They were down to their last $30,000 worth of star rubies.]

Duggen and Diggs went into an opening number with their usual informal charm. Pete's twinkling blue eyes covered the room with a blanket of good humor. Joe's expressive brown ones concentrated on his personal public—Vivian Lester.

Her expression did not change, nor did she look at her companion, Abe Stern, as she said: "I asked you to come here with me, Abe, because I value your opinion—and also, I thought he might be a good bet for you to handle. What do you think of him?"

Abe Stern was slow in answering—"He's a good looking egg all right, but . . ."

"Well, wait until you hear his solo. I think these topical duets are out of his line."

Abe had not been Vivian Lester's agent and adviser ever since the not-so-good days when she, herself, was glad to sing in cabarets, without knowing that if she talked business—pleasure was usually right around a corner in her mind.

Joe Duggen began his solo—"You Alone." His voice was good and his manner of delivery adequate, but as he sang the song directly at Vivian, and Abe saw her dreamy violet eyes running up another dream, he knew he was there as an alibi and "yes man."

"I'll tell you, Abe," Vivian sipped her milk, whispering into it, "between Hollywood and the draft, leading men are very scarce. This boy can become a fine one with my grooming."

"Grooming" is a new word for it, Abe thought. "He has possibilities," was what he said.

Joe finished the song—every woman in the place was applauding.

"See how the women go for him? That's what I like!" Vivian all but smacked her lips.

Vivian Asks to Be Left Alone with Joe

Abe chuckled to himself, remembering so well what always happened to any woman who "went for" Vivian's current "affair."

"When they finish their act he'll join us, Abe—and I wish you would go telephone or something. I've never had a chance to find out what his ambitions are—I've always been here with a party——"

"A jealous party, no doubt?" Abe smiled. "This is Abe, dear—I'll phone a lot of people."

"Thanks, Abe." She patted his hand.

"But I won't have to phone the gossip columns if you do much of this, my pet," he added.

Abe was right, as usual—for, an hour later, the writer of a super-snooper column dropped in-to see who was where in night life—and got not only an eyeful, but half a column, which went as follows:

"It must be more than the excellent Conga orchestra at our most popular night spot that makes our most popular revue lovely go there, night after night, and remain for the second show. Maybe it's the company she has between shows—or it might even be the voice of one of the entertainers, which makes her lovely eyes dreamier than usual as she listens while sipping her ever-present glass of milk."

The last line left no doubt of identity, for Vivian Lester never drank anything but milk—in public. Stimulating drinks should be saved for moments which needed them—was her theory. She always kept a quart of vintage wine on ice at her duplex-de luxe—just in case she came home tired from a dull evening of "gayety."

A few days later Joe Duggen could have told the world just what vintage the wine was—in fact, he could have told a great many things Vivian Lester's adorers would have loved to know . . . how her beautiful penthouse, overlooking Central park, had its own terrace where she dined now that June had arrived—dined and watched the late afternoon sun disappear and the soft twilight creep over the treetops below, while she talked softly of life and its problems and what a chap ought to do about it—decide what he wanted and go after it! Of course, as she explained, she didn't talk like that to her smart whoopee-loving friends, but when she was interested in some one—well!

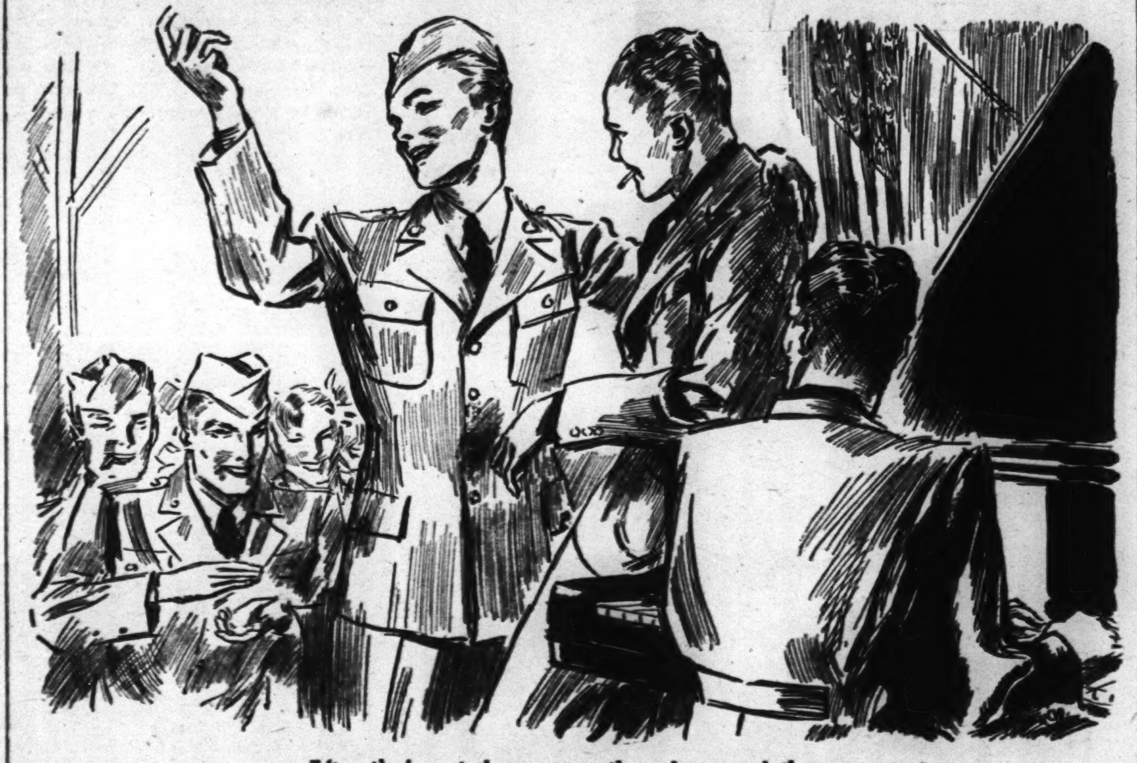
Yes, Joe could have told a lot, but he was still the nice son of the same mother, and he knew it wasn't nice to talk about the woman you love—and he did love her. He had read about Helen of Troy and Cleopatra, and other so called fascinators but, just as the guys in those day had never heard a radio—just so had they never really known how fascinating a woman can be . . . Joe thought.

And so, he walked around, singing to himself and resenting the fact that he had to snap out of his trance twice a night and sing for the customers, who were still packing the night club, in spite of weather that was made for lovers.

"I've got to have a rest, Pete—my throat's tired and—" Joe hesitated.

"—and the blonde boss has some new plan for you?" Pete leaned across the table in the Astor Grill where they had met for dinner—the first meal they had eaten together in two weeks. "Isn't that so? O, listen, Joe, you're slipping fast. I never knew you to duck the truth until you went into this lovelorn tailspin. Be yourself! Am I right?"

"Well—in a way—I'm tired, tho, and we haven't had a week off for months."



After their act the men gathered around them.

"You seem to forget how you squawked when we had so many weeks off that we quit eating."

"Why must you always drag up the past?"

"You call five months ago—the past? Boy! It's apt to catch up with you again any minute. However, we'll cancel next week. The blonde's big baritone has to rest. Don't tell me where!" Pete smiled but his eyes did not coöperate with his lips.

"I don't mind telling you where, at all. Vivian's taking a week off—she wants to give her understudy a chance, anyway—and some one's lending her a yacht—so—"

"So she wants to 'groom you' for the navy?" Pete cut in.

"O! cut it out! I'm nuts about her, Pete, and—well, could you refuse a chance to be with her for a week?—on a yacht?" he added.

"Probably I couldn't—even on a bus—and remember me?—Old Peter 'Judge-Not?' O. K., fellow! Hey! Wait a minute, tho. What about the show we've promised to do for the men at Camp Dix? That's next Monday!"

"Be your age!" Joe laughed, "with my draft number coming up in four months, you think I'm going to let the army interfere with my life? They'll do that soon enough. You just tell 'em I'm A. W. O. L. . . . I'm rehearsing for when I have to be down there. No kidding, Pete, you'll square it, won't you?"

"Sure! I did a single before I ever hitched my wagon to a star's boy friend. I'll square you but you'll have to handle your conscience from now on in."

They finished dinner and Joe rushed away to pick up Vivian and take her to the theater.

Despite the squawks of their agent over losing his 10 per cent of their thousand, they canceled the next week—"Duggen's voice was worn out," Pete explained.

"If he'd stick to his own job instead of another guy's dame, he'd do better," the agent said. "Her big limousine and ruby guy is in South America now, working on friendly relations, but I'm sorry for Duggen if the big boy returns unexpectedly, 'cause Mr. J. B. Hennesey didn't make his millions being friendly. He got that way since repeal—and Joe Duggen stands to lose more than his voice."

As they were being discussed, Joe and Pete were finishing up their engagement at the club, and Vivian was saying good-by for a week, to her company. It was arranged she would pick Joe up Monday morning at his place in her car, so Pete could have Joe's car to go to Camp Dix. Pete hadn't bought a car—he preferred baby bonds. "They won't take you places—but they'll keep you in one"—was his crack on that subject.

Sunday morning, Pete suggested mass at the cathedral. Pete was always suggesting mass, and sometimes he got Joe to go because his mother would like to know he did—sometimes. This morning, Joe wasn't having any, so Pete went off, whistling "Lead, Kindly Light," and left Joe still packing the suitcases, he had been packing ever since they came in the night before.

Joe was feeling jumpy. The line of Pete's—about his conscience—would not leave his mind tho Vivian's whole being was shoving it around. Why not take a walk? . . . Get some air and just drop in to say hello!? . . . Get her some lilacs? . . . Yeah!—just hand them to her, grab a little kiss, and beat it. . . . She said she had dates all day—but she'd be just getting up.

He was in the street and walking uptown now. What a day! . . . June! . . . What's the date? . . . the 10th? . . . that's funny . . . tomorrow's mother's birthday . . . first time I ever forgot it. . . .

His thoughts were racing but his pace was slowing down. He stopped at the flower stand on the corner. "I want some lilacs, please."

"Right here, sir!" It was a woman who answered him . . . an elderly woman . . . just about the age mother would be tomorrow. "Do you want the lavender or white, son?" Her voice was soft . . . it even sounded like mother's.

Flower Vender Proud of Her Son in Camp

"White, I guess," Joe said. . . .

"I love the white ones," the soft voice was saying. "I used to grow them years ago." She was wrapping paper around the stems tenderly. "Taking them to your sweetheart?" she smiled. "She'll love them."

Joe was staring at her now. "Have you a son?" he said.

"Indeed, I have—and he is in the army. He's at Camp Dix—and I'm so proud of him! He's going to be a captain, at least. I know—because I have faith in him."

Joe felt his throat tightening. "Then he will be, I'm sure," he said.

"Of course, he will!" She smiled. "You know what the good book says: 'According to your faith be it unto you.'"

"Yes, I know." Joe took his change and the lilacs. "My mother used to say that," he said. "Well, thanks, and good-by." He walked away quickly.

At the corner, he looked back. She was waving at him. "Mother's man" . . . it was his own mother's voice . . . he heard her now. . . . "Be good and strong. . . . I'll be watching you."

Something snapped inside the heart that Joe thought belonged to Vivian Lester. What a heel he had been to Pete! . . . What a selfish so-and-so, to let him down on the date at Camp Dix! . . . Vivian would have to wait a day so he could keep the date. . . . That's it! He would explain to her how much Pete had done for him. . . . Vivian would understand . . . and if she didn't—— Well! to hell with the yacht!

He reached the apartment house, out of breath from talking sense to himself. As had become his custom and was his privilege, he went right up to the apartment without announcing himself. As he stepped from the lift, a man's voice, raised in anger, greeted him. The elevator boy closed the door quickly. Vivian's apartment faced the elevator, and thru the transom, Joe heard himself being paged:

"Joe Duggen! Joe Duggen!! Why not Joe Doake? Well! Are you going to explain—or do I choke it out of you?"

"Darling, I actually believe you are serious!" Vivian was laughing.

"You know I'm serious! You can't laugh me out of the reports I've had. Didn't expect me back for weeks, did ya? You forgot you can't count on distance any more—airplanes are just as good at dropping unexpected guests as they are at droppin' bombs!"

"Why, Jim!" Her voice was caressing now. [Joe clutched his lilacs fiercely.] "My darling, you're acting like a bad little boy." [Joe could feel her arms going around his neck.] "Jim! Look at me! That's better. This Joe Duggen is a young ham with a good voice, that Max Merwyn is handling, and he asked me to take an interest in the boy and try to get him in the next show."

"What show? You don't do another one till fall." He was yelling again.

"Of course, darling, but we have to plan ahead for any male talent on account of the draft. We figured this boy would never get in the army. He's good looking—in a sort of weak way—and if I had found he was a good bet—"

"I don't believe you, but what's the use?" His voice was softening.

"Darling, forget all about it. The boat's waiting at the yacht club . . . I was going off for a rest tomorrow . . . I'm simply worn out . . . I wanted to be alone . . . but now. . . ."

Joe didn't wait to ring for the elevator. He ran down the stairs at the end of the hall. About four flights down, he rang the bell and waited, still clutching his white lilacs. The elevator boy showed no surprise at Joe's change of floors.

In the street, Joe hailed a cab. He sat back and buried his face in the lilacs. When he raised his head, he was smiling.

Pete, back from church, was listening to the radio—some string quartet was playing "Mother o' Mine." Pete sat smoking his pipe and he was smiling. The smile turned to a grin when Joe walked in with lilacs. "What's the matter, Romeo? Juliet not at home?"

"No—but Joe's home—to stay!" He stuck the lilacs into a water pitcher on the table. "The trip's off, Pete!"

"I knew that," Pete smiled.

"I'm going to Camp Dix with you!"

"I knew that, too."

"What the hell are you talking about?"

"Less profanity, son. You forget—I've just come from mass. And when I go to mass to get results—I get them! Remember, I told you once—it isn't seeing is believing—it's believing is seeing. I was working on you, my lad, and I've got a pull with the saints that watch over baritones. I'm glad, fellah!"

"I'm glad, too!" Joe grinned, "and boy! have I got the luck of the Irish?"

At Camp Dix, the next night, they were a riot. "Come on! All together!" Pete yelled, and Joe led the gang as they sang "You're in the Army Now."

After their act, the men gathered around them. They both wondered how they could have thought any other audience was important. This was the real thing! No blasé, half-cockeyed night-clubbers, yelling thru a smoky haze of unreality! Two thousand swell American kids yelling because they really liked them. This was it!

"Say! Can't you guys stay down overnight? We can have another show tomorrow night," a big blond kid asked Pete.

"Where'd we sleep? Is there a hotel?"

"We can fix it up if you want to stay, Mr. Diggs."

"This must be what they call a hostess," Pete whispered to Joe.

"It's might pretty, whatever they call it," Joe answered.

"Well, Miss—er——" He turned to the smartly uniformed young woman.

"Mrs. Young," she said. "I'm one of the post hostesses, and I just asked Capt. Smithers where you could stay. He says leave it to him—I think you can safely do so."

"What do you say, Joe?" Pete was obviously keen about staying.

"O. K. by me! In fact, I think this would be a swell place to rest my voice."

Lieutenants Praise Boys for Their Show

Later, in the officers' quarters, Joe and Pete sat talking with a couple of second lieutenants. "That was a great show, you guys gave. Best we've ever had!" one of them said.

"That was a great audience. Best we've ever had!" Joe answered.

"Are these guys mostly drafted men?" Pete asked.

"O! No! We've got a percentage of volunteers. Most of us were in before the draft. There's quite a difference in the spirit here, they tell us—I mean, the folks that give shows here. Well! We've got to turn in now. Come on, we'll show you your quarters."

Later, as they sat on their respective bunks, Pete looked at Joe and grinned. "What do you say if we grab a year's solid booking here? I'd sort of like settling down for a while—sleeping at night for a change."

"Well! You've always handled the business—I'm in, if you are!"

"Then we're in, old timer! I'll talk terms with Uncle Sam tomorrow. Shake!"

They shook hands solemnly.

"Now that that's settled, I'll give you your mail. I was afraid it might spoil your performance. Here——" Pete handed him a mauve envelope. "It came by messenger just as we were leaving."

"Thanks!" Joe opened it slowly—and almost too calmly. Pete turned away. Joe began to laugh.

"Get a load of this——" and handed his letter to Pete who laughed, too, as he read:

"Dear Joe: I'm desperately disappointed but the doctor has said that I really must have a rest. It seems I've been overdoing things a bit so I'm afraid our little trip will have to wait until later in the summer. I know you will understand, dear, and I'll get in touch with you as soon as I get back from my complete rest. I'll be thinking of you, out there under a June moon, floating around all by my lonesome. Think of me. Vivian."

"We'll think of you all right, sweetie," Pete said, "but we'll keep what we think to ourselves."

"Well! That's that!" Joe was tearing up the letter. "What a complete fool I've been!" He threw himself on his bunk.

Pete followed his example before he spoke, and switched out the light. "Not a complete fool, Sonny Boy. You're going to be that when you start trying to make your own bed—so you can lie in it!"

"Good night, fellah!" Joe's voice was husky—"and thanks for everything."

"Don't thank me," Pete was chuckling. "You're off on a new route, son. Lots of hope—and beans! Let it ride!"

"It's his mamma he looks like, not me. His mamma, she died."

INSTALMENT I.

IN the Dangerous Isles of the Southern Pacific ocean the natives of Tuamotu will tell you, if you want to go so far for so little misinformation, that Eve was not lured out of Eden by a serpent, as the missionaries say, but by a devil of more familiarity to them, the lithe and ferocious sea-eel.

This is not a story of those Dangerous Isles; it is a story about a certain man of the more Dangerous Islands of Manhattan and Long Island; and of a certain girl who lived on those two islands; and of a certain other girl who lived near the opposite ocean, in what some call the "Paradise" of Southern California. There are Eves everywhere.

By an odd but quite meaningless coincidence, the young man came to be known as "Grongo" because he was so sleek and so fierce, so merciless and so graceful that the Italian friends of his father changed his given name, "Gregory," into their word for the vicious sea-eel, "Grongo," the conger, hard to hold and unsafe to touch.

When Eve is discontented in Eden, the devil may keep her waiting, since he is very busy; but he puts her name on file and will get round to her in due course of time, or send a delegate. And so he began to make Grongo ready while the Californian Eve—whose name was Ann Mallison—fretted and did not know her luck.

She dwelt in San Bernardino county, known to its own people as "San Berdoo," the largest county in the nation. Eight of the states cover less territory. It is a county of mountain peaks, deserts, gold mines, orange groves.

Eve was in Eden, but her motto was, "I want out!"

Only Shabbier Cars Stop at Ann's Stand

Thru all the four seasons, Ann stood behind the counter of a little roadside stand where she sold what she could of the products her father and the neighbors raised on their ranchos and rancheritas. According to the season, she peered out between mounds of peaches in their crimson and yellow velvet roundabouts, heaps of figs in their black silk purses, baskets of crinkly new almonds, or intricately carven walnut meats, palm-ripened dates, white pistachio nuts with green kernels, cactus candy, the blood-red jewelry of cherries, scarlet bottles of cherry cider, carboys of orange juice, heaps of apricots, tamarinds, lemons, avocados, nectarines, and jars of honey distilled by far-flown bees that fed on wild desert sage.

Only the shabbier cars stopped as a rule, and only dull people priced her wares. Even while she made the sales and change, her eyes were on the more gleaming motors shuttling by. She could not escape the desperate feeling that the next one, or the next—well, surely the next—would pause long enough for a dark and handsome prince of mystery to lean out and call to her softly, "Come away with me to danger, danger and love, if you love love—but anyway to danger."

She had a long wait and it did not turn out at all as she dreamed it, but near enough to prove that paradise is paradise only when seen from outside.

On a certain day when the calendar called it winter—and it was bitter winter nearly everywhere else, but serene summer there in San Berdoo—Ann's pretty head had wagged from side to side as usual all day long; and her short, sun-blanched curls had swung against her sun-burnt cheeks as her great brooding eyes followed the cars that flashed past when suddenly——

"In the name o' God, will you quit wagging your fool head at every good-looking car that zooms past!"

The familiar protest from over-shoulder did not even startle her. Her head swayed as she answered:

"But, Walter, they all zoom past."

"Let 'em zoom! They're only taking idiots from where they were of no use to where they'll be of less. It's all I can do to keep from giving your pretty head one extra twist and letting it come off in my hands. It's no use to you anyway."

She laughed a little at that, and turned her back on the road, set her elbows on the edge of the counter behind her, and unconsciously [perhaps] deployed her beautifully rounded body before the young man as she gave him her eyes and her amused, tolerant smile.

"Well, here I am, and I'm all ears, waiting for some wisdom from the big, fat head that's so much use to you. Pour it, Mr. Locke, pour it."

Her beauty silenced him. His eyes found her tantalizingly pretty and capable of repaying the desire she inspired if he could only awaken it and direct it to himself. It fairly maddened him to know that she liked him immensely but did not love him at all. His temper was of the instantly inflammable kind usually allowed to red-headed people, but not permissible to one of his blond aspect, his tall, rugged frame, his scholarly dignity, and his lean features that had somehow the look of having been carved hardwood varnished by the sun.

Walter Locke lived on Ann's father's ranch as something between a superior hired man and an inferior superintendent. "Superintendent" was a pretty big word for so small an establishment; but he was trying to build it into a great one. He was a graduate of an agricultural college; and the raising of crops, the care of the soil, and the marketing of the products were all sciences and arts, poetry and drama to him.

But Ann was, to him, far the finest product of the ranch, and he both loved and hated her. He stared at her now a long while, and his eyes fed well on her before he finally answered her already forgotten invitation to pour his wisdom over her.

"Wisdom would be wasted on you, Ann. You're stone-deaf to it, color-blind. Here you live in a world of such beauty and comfort that people from outside come thousands of miles just to peek at it. You have a comfortable home, a doting father and mother, and idiot lover; and all you can think of is how to get out.

"You're keeping your soul in escrow for some imaginary man who doesn't exist; and you're hoping he will take you away from what ought to be heaven to what would certainly be hell. Tens of thousands of girls are out in those hells envying you; but you are unhappier than they are. It doesn't make sense, Ann. It just doesn't make sense."

"What does, Walt? Since when did human beings make sense? Where would the world be if everybody was content with what he had? Wasn't this whole west built by senseless fools who left comfortable homes and farms to cross the desert in order to get to a wilderness and make a garden of it? Well, I'm in the garden, and I want to move on, just as they did.

"Boys don't run away any more. But girls do. Because girls are what boys used to be. If I were living in New York I'd probably dream of just such a place as this. But I live here. So I dream of big cities, and snow, and excitement."

"Isn't there excitement here?" he broke in. "The frosts, the floods, the drouths, the chance that a whole year's labor may be swept away in a night? Life here is adventure every hour."

"For you, yes," she said. "But you didn't stick at home; you left and worked your way thru college; you settled down here because this is your idea of adventure. I'm a 20th century girl. I want to learn a little about what goes on behind the horizon. I do my work, don't I? I make my own clothes, help with the housework, and the gardening, and tend the store here. But I can dream, can't I? That's no novelty. They made a song about it."

Girl Rebukes Walt and Denies Flirtations

"I suppose you'll grab the first cheap Willie-with-a-sportcar that crooks his finger at you and says, 'Come hither!'"

She rebuked him calmly.

"Once in a while a good-looking man in a good-looking car has stopped here and made eyes at me. Have you ever seen me make eyes at him?"

"I never see your eyes. All I get is the back of your wagging head."

"Well, try some more of it!"

She whirled round so that once more what he saw was the swish-swish of her curls across the nape of her neck.

It was only 9 o'clock of a dazzling bright morning in California, but it was dark and snowy noon in New York, and another girl—a quite other girl, whose name was Mary McGarvin, tho everybody called her "Puff"—stood by a snow-pelted window in a 20th story Manhattan apartment and longed to be in California.

Young Gregory Williams, who was really Gregory Zivotti, had been telling her about it, for he had gone to a college out there, and then to a law school in Los Angeles. He had left it to come east when his American-born mother fell into a lingering, a fatal illness. Her year-long delay in dying had afforded him leisure to learn New York, to love it for its least admirable aspects, and to display a genius for slippery, audacious and ruthless dealings that alarmed even the other young racketeers and won him his title, "Grongo."

Gregory was tall and handsome, of an insolent mirth and a strangely sinuous and sinister grace. But he was only a fugitive from law school, and as "Grongo" he was hardly a year old.

His father was short, swart, fat, toadishly ugly, but long since famous as "Brute" Zivotti—not because he was openly brutal, but because he had once played Brutus and knifed to death his best friend, Cesare Caffaro, the man who had started him on the road to ruinous wealth and incredible, malign power. After that his Italian acquaintances had called him Bruto, smothering the final "o" till it sounded to American ears like "Brute."

That was good enough and the nickname stuck, tho Zivotti was sly and soft and never brutal except when he went into one of his lethal black rages. He was none of your old-time gangsters who would kill for a few dollars. His necessary or convenient killing was done for him by his punks and parasites. He had his rise in the golden age of the big bootleg racket, just before the great attack was made upon it with the ruin and imprisonment of many spectacular criminals.

The Brute had escaped the penitentiary by the skin of his teeth and by the sacrifice of his chief lieutenant, who had been languishing in Sing Sing since. The easy pickings and fat profits that almost perfect security of those rotten years were gone, but there were still many golden crumbs to be picked up, and outside New York and New Jersey cities that really made part of it, there were still golden rewards for the unscrupulous who were also cautious.

Zivotti still kept his residence in Manhattan and many big business men still trembled before his menaces. He was enveloped in an aura of crafty murder and of vast illicit moneys.

It was one of these that Puff McGarvin was thinking and for their sake finding the toady little man beautiful. She had won her pet name, "Puff," at a time when she was powdered and pink, a platinum blonde, fluffy and artificial. Now she aped the young lady of the moment.

You could not be sure at a glance whether she might be a young duchess, an advertiser's model or a saleslady. Her hair no longer looked as if a stringy welsh rabbit had been poured over her head; it was a cascade of pageboy ringlets of a color that looked natural. Her skin was carefully made up to appear as if it had not been made up. She had eyebrows again, but her little gray foxy eyes tried to be cavernous and mystic in surroundings of artificial shadow.

They were enhanced with leaded and impossibly long extra eyelashes, which she took off at night, if alone. Her tight little undershot mercantile mouth was lost under great passionate red lips that she kept repainting. Her nails were gory with the same crimson. Her native odor, if any, was smothered in a scent that came from some crazy-shaped phial with a provocatively erotic name in perfume French. Her dress was chastely simple, but her body was always trying to sell itself with a voluptuous statuesqueness that was really hardly more than auctioneering.

Young Gregory Zivotti had picked Puff up somewhere and found her interesting because she seemed to know so much that she ought not to know and he wanted to know. He despised her amiably as he amiably despised everybody, including his father—and himself. He lied to Puff and Puff lied to him, because there was not a trace of truth or honor in either of them. When Greg had let it slip that his real name was not Williams, but Zivotti, and he was the son of the Brute, Puff's mockery of unbelief had made him prove it. He invited her up to take luncheon with his father. But the Brute carefully avoided the subject of food, tho it was already past the hour.

It amused Grongo to see how the little idiot Puff was falling for his old man, who had never fallen for any woman, but his one mother and his one wife, both of whom Brute put among the saints.

To have met Brute Zivotti in his home was a spine-chilling triumph for Puff. Her brother Sandy, a sort of messenger boy of criminals, was one of the cheap nobodies in Zivotti's secret army. He had served time for numerous horrible little misdemeanors, but he wanted to be promoted and entrusted with a felony.

What wouldn't Sandy say when Puff told him that she had actually been in Brute Zivotti's home? He'd call her a liar, but believe her. She'd prove her visit by describing the grand piano [which had never been played on], the library of books [$4,000 worth and not one of them ever opened], the hand paintings on the wall, the seemingly solid gold furniture, the rugs ankle deep on patent leather floors.

Brute Tells Puff Grongo Looks Like His Mother

As Puff stared at the Zivottis she laughed like a woman at a horror movie, and faltered:

"Who'd ever rate you two for father and son?"

Brute's bright batrachian eyes were suddenly wet. He pointed to a gold-framed, greatly enlarged photograph of a young, a saint-faced woman, and stared up at his tall son in doting pride, and he answered Puff without glancing her way.

"It's his mamma he looks like, not me. His mamma, she died. She come from Collifornia. She wants to go back. Tomorrow—next day maybe, my son and me we take her back to sleep by her papa and mamma. My son he stays in Collifornia. He goes again to the law collegio to finish. It was his mamma's last wish."

"I'm satisfied with New York," Greg answered quietly. His father shouted back:

"O! You're sottisfied? But who's you if mamma is not sottisfied? Your mamma wants you to finish at your Collifornia Ooniversita. You finish!"

Greg's young eyes froze against his father and Puff felt a pleasant chill along her spine in the hope of a battle. But Grongo said sternly:

"Babbo, come in the other room a minute."

He did not waste a glance on Puff when he led the way into the next room and closed the door, leaving Puff in a new thrill. Nothing interested her much unless it were poisonous with risk, and she longed to put one of her ears to the door to learn what was going on back of it. But if Zivotti suddenly opened it—no, thank you! She had heard her brother Sandy tell some of the things that Zivotti was reputed to have done to people who displeased him.

He had cut off the ear of one poor fool and slapped his face with it. That was in one of his lighter moods. Puff rather liked her ears. She could not spare either of them. To escape temptation she went to the window and stared out. Even the white and icy view was expensive. Nice river, the Hudson! Swell alley, Riverside drive!

In the other room, Greg was saying:

"Babbo, I don't want to go back to law school."

"Wha' w' I care for your don't-wants? What your mamma wanted is what I want and what you goin' do."

"Speaking of mamma," sair Grongo, "it's funny she never left me any money. She must have had a lot. She was always saving it. Dad, are you holding out on me?"

A startled guardian muscle in Brute's great right arm pressed against a bloated wallet inside his waistcoat. The movement did not escape Grongo's quick eye. He put out his hand:

"Give down, Babbo. Give down!"

His hand was slapped aside with a quick violence. Then Zivotti Seniore stared up at Zivotti Iuniore and tried to look pathetic. "If your mamma lef' you something, would your Babbo keep it off you?"

Grongo laughed in his face. "Of course you would! Money never leaves those flypaper hands of yours without being torn off."

"If I give you my parola d'onore she di'n'——"

"I wouldn't believe you for a minute. I might, tho, if—I once heard mamma say there was only one swear that ever meant anything to you. Do you swear on your mother's grave that mamma didn't leave me any money?"

Brute spread his hands helplessly: "To think soch a fine woman should have soch a grateless child!"

"Now I know mamma left me a lot of money," said George. "I want it. I'm going to have it, or——"

The cub was snarling at the lion, but he fell back before the sudden frightful green ice in the old lion's eyes and the sudden belching roar.

"How you dare bring soch a girl like that into your mamma's home?"

"Do I get the money mamma left me?"

"I ain't said she lef' you any. You said it. While I live I can give you all the cash is good for you."

"While you live! But how long will that be?" Death was always so imminent that they treated it with the contempt of familiarity, and Grongo was grinning as he said: "From what I can pick up around town, you're a mighty bad insurance risk. They said you promised Wolf Jaegel $100,000 for taking the rap for you. You promised to hand it to him when he came out of the pen. It won't be long now, because he gets time off for good behavior. But what will his behavior be with you?"

The Brute shrugged the thought away with his leaping shoulders.

"How he behaves to me? Poh! How I behave to him?"

"But they say you're broke. They say you haven't got the 100 grand and can't get it. They're making books on it."

"You been talking with people who try to borrow money off me. I tell such people I'm broke, It don't cost so much if you play poor. But when Jaegel comes out, I can stuff his money down his big mout'. If he talks too much I won't give him nothing."

Grongo was stubborn: "Maybe you're going to give him the money mamma left to me. Is that it?"

"You talk too much, too. You take this money and get out, and get that girl out! Be home for dinner. Maybe by dinner I know jost when we start for Collifornia."

"When we start for California? When you start. I'm not going to California, Babbo. And you're not going either till you give me my own money."

In the Brute's blood ran the ancient fatherly power of the Romans, who could kill a son more easily than endure his disobedience. The Brute's voice put on the black cap of death as he felt for his knife.

"W'at I give you is not money, but ——"

An inner door swung open with a crash and a man in a wheel chair shot across the room at such speed that father and son stepped back. The chair came to a short stop between them and the emaciated passenger crackled:

"Boys! Boys! Such growling you make like a couple lions in the zoo! You want the neighbors to know you ain't friends?"

The two men looked down at him with irritated affection and that helplessness the strong feel when they are bullied by the weak. The man in the wheel chair looked very old, but they knew it was not years that had hollowed his cheeks and whitened his hair. He was not deep in his forties, and it was only 20 years since he had beeh a young immigrant of the most honest and amiable inclinations; but he had drifted into Zivotti's mob from ignorance and need. Even the Brute had almost forgotten that his name originally was Guido Guidi.

Because Zivotti had fed and clothed him and given him money, young Guidi had glowed with adoration. He had only begun to realize what company he kept, what ugly businesses they practiced when Zivotti was attacked one night by rival mobsters eager to rub him out.

Guidi wrapped his arms about the Brute and made of himself a living shield behind which the Brute drove off his assailants. But Guidi, besides several clean wounds that healed with little trouble, had his spine cracked by one bullet, and never walked again.

The Brute carried him off before the police arrived and gave him care that was nothing less than motherly. Owing his life to Guidi, the Brute took the young man into his home and kept him there. Guidi's time thenceforth was spent in his bed or in his rolling chair. He had become an omnivorous reader, and by talking to himself had rid himself of his native accent. Once somebody called him "Wheely," and the name stuck. It became his only name.

Ann was, to him, far the finest product of the ranch, and he both loved and hated her.

Wheely acquired such skill that he was almost as swift and agile in his chair as a dancer. To help him in turning doorknobs and in picking up things, he had devised a kind of scepter with a claw and a clutch at the end. Its heavy metal head would have served as an ugly weapon, but he had never used it so beyond an occasional prod or tap.

From his boyhood, Grongo had felt that tap now and then, but he had come to be as fond of Wheely as he seemed able to be of any one.

Wheely thought of Grongo as what he might be, not what he was plainly going to be. Wheely thought of him as a living weapon with a power for good that must somehow be gradually turned from the uses of evil. But he was always baffled by that cynical ridicule Grongo expressed for everything decent and exalted.

The Brute loved Wheely more tenderly than he loved Grongo, and had from him utter devotion. If, at the very height of their fury, any other interloper had broken in on that conflict, both would have attacked him.

But when that familiar little chariot of Wheely's intervened, the two warriors felt only disappointment, not resentment. Wheely always seemed to know so well what went on that the superstitious Brute accepted him as a mind reader and rarely made any effort to keep anything secret from him. Even Grongo was not surprised when Wheely said:

"Gorio, what's that young lady of yours in there going to think of you talking up to your father like you do? And Jivi, when you gonna learn about your son here being an American boy, and don't know how to take orders from nobody?"

Both started to expostulate, but Wheely's uplifted scepter silenced them as if it were royal.

"Gorio, your papa's mighty good to you. You got no right to accuse him of a holdout. Jivi, give the kid some money and don't make him keep his girl waiting. We'll talk this California trip over quiet when he comes home."

Rumbling like distant thunder, the Brute pulled a wad of bills from his pocket and peeled off a big one. Wheely reached out and peeled off two more. He caught Grongo's right hand and closed it on the money, saying:

"Never quarrel with cash in the fist, Gorio. But don't let that girl know how easy you got it. Remember the old saying, 'Bella femmina che ride'—but what you know about Italiano?—it says, 'when the pretty lady laughs it means your wallet's gonna weep.' But go on now and make a fool of yourself and try to make a fool of her. Now kiss your papa good-by and get the hell out of here."

As embarrassed as two children the two men embraced and touched lips to cheeks.

"Be back for dinner," said the Brute, still surly. But Grongo just laughed, flung open the door, called, "Come on, Puff!" and hurried away, leaving her to scurry after him.

Turning to Wheely, the Brute gave his shoulders a mighty shrug and groaned:

"I loave the dirty crook. I hope I don't have to kill him to prove it."

"Leave him to me, Jivi," said Wheely. "I'll bring him round to that California trip. But he'll never be a lawyer. He ought to be a soldier. I wish to God I could make him one—seeing I can never be one myself."

In a world filled with war it was the keenest of Wheely's agonies that he could do nothing to help his new country or to save his old from the usurper. He shook off his gloom with a sharp command to the Brute: "You'd better get back to that statue you're workin' on."

He wheeled his chair back to his own room, while Zivotti leaned out of the window and stared into the street until he saw Greg appear far below, whistle down a taxicab slashing thru the little blizzard, help the girl into it, and vanish. Only then Brute left the window, took from his inside pocket the bulging wallet and examined the $200,000 in it, stuffed it back, buttoned it in and flung on an operatic overcoat lined, collared and cuffed with fur. Forgetting that he was omitting his luncheon, he went down to his own car for the last of his secret visits to that marble yard in the upper reaches of New York.

The car the Brute rode in was a military tank disguised as a banker's limousine. The glossy surfaces concealed the armor plate; the shining glass was bulletproof. The chauffeur and his companion looked as if they might have killed people, and liked it. But they felt uncomfortable in their shoulder blades with Zivotti back of them. They were afraid of him; and he was afraid of them. As he always said:

"That the trobble wit' men—and women—you can buy. They won't stay boughtened."

Suddenly an automobile swept past Zivotti's limousine. Instinctively he shrank into a corner. He was almost surprised that his car was not sprayed with bullets. He cursed himself for his nervousness. But it had upset him to have his son growing so defiant, so demanding. And he was irritated by the town talk that he would be unable to keep his pledge to Jaegel. Unwilling, was one thing; but unable!

Wolfgang Jaegel had always been a torment to the Brute. For one thing, he was tall and handsome and a little too elegant. He had been a waiter; before that, a valet—so he had no heroes. He had become a head waiter in a big hotel, and was always an uncanny mixture of contempt and deference. He was cruel to the waiters under him and a menial to the rich. Because Zivotti was both rich and plebeian, Jaegel treated him now like a plutocrat, now like a beggar.

They had met when Jaegel horned into the team of Zivotti and his cronies, "Bow-tie" Bogardus, so-called because he wore little ready made ties that were always dropping off into his hands and being shoved back into place briefly; and "Burps" Maxon, so-called because of his everlasting need of bicarbonate of soda. The Brute did not mind his belching, but he always followed each eructation with a "Par'n me!" and that drove Zovitti wild.

The Brute, Bow-tie, and Burps had taken over two unions of waiters, busboys, and helpers, capturing them thru the ballot box by threats of murder, then collecting dues and promising benefits never received. They would threaten restaurant owners with strikes, pickets, death, and what was worse than death for a restaurant owner, a stink bomb.

When the innocent waiters were called out on strike, Zivotti would keep them out until the restaurant owner came across with heavy money; then the waiters would be ordered back at the old scale of pay and hours while Zivotti and his cronies pocketed the bribery.

As a head waiter Wolf Jaegel had soon learned the game and demanded in. He hated all restaurant owners because he had worked for them and cheated them, and knew how easy they were to scare. He had proposed to organize them also into a kind of union for easier blackmailing. The Brute and his crowd enthusiastically agreed. The owners had to pay a big initiation fee and heavy dues in advance and as many assessments as the traffic would bear. Before long, nearly all the restaurants and cafeterias in town were under control, except a dozen of the very biggest.

Still, with astonishing speed the combination cleaned up a sum that would have been unbelievable if it had not been so commonplace among the grander rackets of the time. The costs of doing business and buying protection were enormous, too. Yet Zivotti and Jaegel were going gaily along toward the million mark and the subjugation of the last independents when—click!—they stepped into a legal trap from which even their criminal lawyers could find no escape.

They tried to bribe the judge, but he was the wrong one. There seemed to be nothing that could save both the Brute and the Wolf from a long visit to the penitentiary. It meant to Zivotti a sickening confession of failure and a plunge into bankruptcy. He called on Jaegel and said to him:

"Jaegel, I got a idee. For w'y should two of us go up to Sing Sing for one job? What if one of us makes a confession, signs it, says, 'Only me is guilty; my friend he didn't know nothing about the business, he is innocente — assolutamente innocente.' What if?"

"Brute, I owe you an apology. I never thought you had it in you to do an old friend such a good turn."

Brute Finally Comes to Terms with Jaegel

The Brute decided to play him a little: "If I do such a turn, wa't you do for me?"

"Why, anything in reason, of course. I'll still consider you a partner—a very silent partner, but I'll put aside a fair share in the profits; and when you come out there'll be money waiting for you."

"How moch money is money?"

"Well, you'd be away for five years or so. With time off for good conduct it would be only four years or so. But call it five. At 5,000 a year it would amount to 25—with interest, of course. And a nice little nest egg to begin all over with."

"You think twenty-fi' grand is enough?"

"I think it's right liberal. But, hell, I want to be as generous as you are to me. I'll make it $30,000."

The Brute smiled: "Thass all I want to know. You get $30,000."

"I get? You get!"

"You get. W'at is good for me is good for you. A nize leetle nes' egg. You said it.

"You go up river, or you go to Woodlawn Chimiterio in box." The Brute made an upward slash of his knife that Jaegel could almost feel in his belly. He was helpless, but he put up a battle for more money. He insisted on $100,000 as his final minimum.

"I swear to God, Brute," he said, "you guarantee me the 100 grand or you can put me on ice and yourself in the hot chair."

It was easier for the Brute to promise the $100,000, or $1,000,000 than to face the living grave of the penitentiary. But Jaegel insisted on the one guarantee that the Brute would respect, and made him swear on his mother's grave that he would fulfill his pledge. Then Jaegel took all the blame, made full confession, and went to Sing Sing while the suspicious but helpless district attorney withdrew the case against Zivotti.

As the Brute lolled on the cushions of his limousine the whole thing seemed remote as ancient history. And now suddenly Jaegel's term was drawing to a close. Visitors to Sing Sing who had talked to him reported that the long imprisonment had turned him into a fiend of impatience. He sent a string of messages to the Brute describing in minute detail just what would be done to him if the money were not forthcoming.

LET IT RIDE

By

ELSIE JANIS

(Copyright: 1942: By Elsie Janis Wilson.)

"BUT what about next week's rent?" Joe Duggen sat on the edge of the bed and gazed about the shabby room hopelessly.

"Well! What about it?" Pete Diggs threw a few more crumbs to the sparrows on the window sill—as long as he had a hot dog, they would get their cut of the roll. "We're eating today—and so are my birds!"

The sparrows chorused—"You said it!"

"Yeah! The birds get fed—and I get pneumonia!" Joe pulled a blanket over his sagging shoulders and glared at the open window.

"At least you've got your shawl, Grandma! It's folks like you make it tough for these little guys when the wintry winds blow." He threw the last of his bird rations and closed the window. "Come on, Joe, snap out of it and let's get going!"

"Going where? That's what's worrying me!" For a pleasing baritone, Joe was edging too close to a whining tenor to please his partner.

Duggen and Diggs were just two more mourners at the bier of vaudeville—at least, Duggen's mind was swathed in crêpe. Pete Diggs didn't believe in death.

"Listen, Joe," he sat down beside him and threw an arm around the shoulders which all women thought were so broad and manly. "You can't just sit there, asking where are we going. When you come to a wall you can't get over is plenty of time for that! I'm going to get to a piano somewhere—my fingers think the rest of me is paralyzed!"

"And where are you going to find a piano? I guess my voice must think my throat's cut!" Joe's fingers wandered to his Adam's apple, as if to reassure himself.

"Well! Now! There's how to snap out of this 'down'! Just be glad your throat isn't cut, and I'm not paralyzed. We're lucky, see?"

Joe started to laugh in the Pagliacci manner. "O! Yes! I see! I've got a quarter and you've got a dime. What lucky guys we are! Ha-ha!" He rushed to the window and threw it open. He sang in a raucous tone. . . . "Let's all sing like the birdies sing! Tweet-tweet-tweet!"

The birds, expecting their friend, swarmed down—took one look at Joe's unhappy face—and went into the "Sparrow's Scram."

"Get a load of that!" Pete laughed. "They won't even sing with a small time quitter. I'm going, Joe. Remember what I always tell you—pin your hope on today—and let it ride!" He started for the door.

Pete Stalks Out After Lecturing Joe

Joe turned on him. "'Let it ride! Let it ride!' That's what I get for ever teaming up with a damn fatalist!"

"Pipe down, you blaspheming baritone! If I was a fatalist I'd be cockeyed like you'll be the first time any one will buy you drinks. If I said to you—'Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof'—you wouldn't recognize the lyric. Every time I say—'Mind your own business and business will be good'—you've got no way of knowing I'm saying—'Judge not that ye be not judged.' I've got to translate for you, but I don't mind. Now, get this thru that open space, you call a mind—'According to your faith be it unto you'—means that if you believe the rent is going to be paid next week, it will be! I'm taking an awful chance, sharing a room with a guy like you—but I'm still saying—'Pin your hope on today and let it ride.'"

The door slammed, and Joe stood gazing into space . . . seemingly empty space, but slowly a picture formed. . . . A bedroom with cream colored decoration—lilacs on a table beside the bed—the odor he had never been able to find again—as a child—as he had always called it "Mother's smell." . . . She was smiling just as she had that day. He hadn't dreamed it was her way of saying "good-by." Now, she was speaking—no other voice had ever touched the same chord in all the years between.

"Mother's man," she was saying—how soft her hand was, as it covered his, lying on that beautiful lavender quilt—"Mother's man, be good and strong. Mother will be watching you. Believe that—never stop believing!" She had smiled, and looked up at the ceiling with the cherubs floating around the corners—"Believe! and according to your faith be it unto you." She had sighed and settled down against her pillow, and he was led away to supper—because "Mother had gone to sleep." That is what they told him. They had lied to him, and killed the faith his mother wanted him to keep.

Slowly the vision faded—but her voice still lingered. . . . "Believe! Believe! Mother's man!" Joe walked to the window and raised it—strange that the air seemed warmer. His mother's voice drifted away as Pete's took its place. . . . "Pin your hope on today—and let it ride!"

The sparrows approached warily, and stood waiting for crumbs. The man was talking to some one, murmuring, "I believe! I believe!" Well that must mean he had some crumbs somewhere. The sparrows waited patiently. Joe began to sing:

"If I were hanged on the highest hill.

"'Mother o' mine . . .'"

Mrs. Brady, the landlady, stopped on the first landing to listen, then continued climbing.

"Mr. Duggen!" . . . Joe continued to sing. . . . "Mr. Duggen!" . . . She knocked on the door sharply. . . . "I'm sorry to interrupt your practicing." She stepped into the room as he opened the door, and shivered as the draft from the open window struck her. "Mr. Diggs phoned to say: 'Will you please come over to the Atlas Music company offices at once? They got some new numbers they want you to hear.'"

"New numbers?" Joe stared at her. She was smiling optimistically. His own smile broke in a reflection of hers. "O, yes! Of course! Thanks! I'll go right over."

He rushed down the stairs in nothing flat, and out into the February sunshine. The air felt absolutely balmy. Joe was yet to learn that spring is always in the heart, just waiting to spring.

He found Pete seated at the piano, in the best rehearsal room at the Atlas Music company. Song writers surrounded him. He was playing their latest songs. "Here's Big Bari now," he said. "You fellows know my partner, Joe Duggen?"

There was a general acknowledgment of introduction all around.

"If you think I can play them O. K., wait until Joe spreads his voluminous vocal over them. Listen to this one, Joe! It's a honey!"

Joe, still in a fog, but smiling, stepped over to the piano. The door opened and Max Merwyn, head of Atlas, stepped in. "How are you, Duggen?" They shook hands. "I can't tell you how I appreciate what you and Pete are doing!"

He turned to the others. "Get back to your jobs, boys! They can't do all the numbers, and I know the ones I want done, so——" The song writers had gone before he had finished talking.

"As I was saying," he turned to Joe Duggen, "You don't know——."

Pete cut in, "You're right there—he don't know, but Joe's always glad to help out, and——"

Pete Runs Fingers Over Keys Caressingly

"Talk about Godsends! When Pete walked in, I could have hugged him! You see, Larry Dennis was to sing the numbers . . . he's in the hospital . . . taken there this morning. George Rankin was going to play for him . . . his mother died and he had to leave town. I had tried to get every song and piano team I could think of, and this music publishers' dinner tonight is the most important thing of the year. Of course, I never hoped to get anything like you two. Ain't it funny—the way these things happen?"

Joe didn't speak—he was looking at Pete, who was running his fingers over the keys, caressingly. "Yeah! It's funny," he chuckled. "Funny—I should have just strolled in and asked 'What's new?'"

"It's swell! I wish I could pay you what you rate, but even a couple of hundred bucks can come in mighty handy—and you never know what it may lead to. Lots of big shots from radio and pictures will be there."

"Well! I better get busy on the songs, I think." Joe wanted to talk to Pete.

"You're right, of course," Max Merwyn started for the door. "Still something may come of it! Call it fate—the breaks—or anything you like, but I never saw it fail—when you help somebody, without thinking about yourself, there is a reward. My mother always called it 'The Great Management'."

"Never mind what comes of it, Max"—Pete started the introduction of one of the new songs. "Come on, Joe, bite into this. The thing to do is make good tonight. Isn't that so, Joe?

Max Merwyn looked at Joe for a sign of reassurance.

"Yes, indeed! 'Pin your hope on today—and let it ride!' I always say." Joe grinned at Pete—"Don't I, Brother Diggs?"

"Yeah! Verily! Brother Duggen."

Max Merwyn could hear them laughing like kids after he closed the door.

Duggen and Diggs "wowed 'em" that night at the music publishers' dinner and inside of a week it became obvious that "The Great Management" had put them back in the green light area. "Manna from heaven," which some folks call "the breaks," deluged them and the signal was definitely "GO!" Moving picture houses, night clubs, and private parties put them in the money. Inside of three months they were on the crest of popularity's wave.

Joe Duggen, resplendent in new clothes and a new car, was more inclined to "ride" success—than "let it ride," and, as naturally as income tax follows income, Joe's bank account began to pay off in "love interest."

"She's here again!" Joe was talking to Pete, but his own handsome image held his attention in the mirror on the dressing room shelf.

"Yeah! Looks like the toast of the town was searching for a new hunk of 'ham'!" Pete walked over and stood behind him. Their eyes met in the mirror. "You're taking it kind of big, aren't you?"

Joe dodged Pete's steady gaze. "Well! wouldn't you? Every big shot in town, lined up at the stage door waiting for her, and she walks thru the line and comes here to see me—and hear me. She says I'd make a swell leading man."

Pete smiled a slightly crooked smile. "Well, she's the lady who should know what would 'make' a leading man! Go to it, old timer, but don't lose your sense of humor until you get a contract."

"Contract! You don't think I'd let a girl break up the act, do you?" Joe rose in all his six feet of what the well dressed baritone will wear.

"I don't think, my lad," Pete answered, "I play piano. And remember me—old George 'Let-it-ride'."

"You're on, gents!" An assistant headwaiter rapped at the door as he spoke. "Swell crowd tonight—lots of soup and fish and beaucoup champagne——" His voice faded as he returned to his job of seating the right people at the right tables in the smartest night club of the season.

"I'd like to sing 'You Alone' instead of 'The Glory Road' tonight, Pete. O. K. with you?" They were walking along the narrow hall, leading to the crowded dance floor.

"O. K. with me, Romeo. Here we go! Hold your hat checks, customers!" Pete stepped ahead of Joe and they walked onto the dance floor where a round of applause greeted them.

Seated at her usual ringside table, Vivian Lester did not join in the applause, but her dreamy violet eyes [for which she was duly famous] were as drenched in appraisal as they had ever been when looking over one of her $2,000-a-week contracts. Dressed in a simple black and conspicuously inconspicuous model, she leaned forward attentively. A black turban with no ornament except an equally inconspicuous star ruby [which had

Tradition Is Big Factor in Menus for Easter

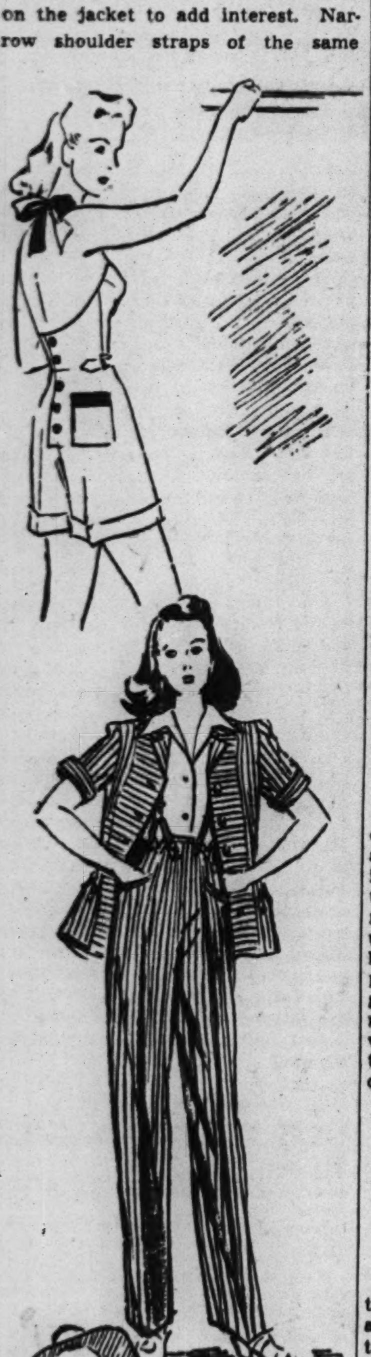
Interchangeable denims! Mix 'em up in any combination!

The playsuit at the top of the sketch is a one-piece affair with a halter tie. The bra and the hip pocket are lined with bright red polka dotted material, and little buckled straps at each side at the waistline may be adjusted to make it fit smoothly.

The overall and short sleeved jacket on the second figure are examples of what the red and white striped denim looks like. The stripes are used both vertically and horizontally on the jacket to add interest. Narrow shoulder straps of the same denim hold up the long, slimming trousers. Each piece under $3.



The denim dirndl will see you thru active or spectator sports events, days in the country, and neighborhood shopping. It buttons all up and down the front, and a narrow, red suede belt glows at the waistline. Under $4.

The "little boy" shorts have turned up cuffs, fly front closing, and plaits at the waistline to allow plenty of fullness where it is most needed.

Tailored enough and good looking enough to wear downtown to the office, as well as on jaunts to the country, is the suit made by combining the separate skirt and jacket.

Leg o' Lamb Is Customary as Main Dish

By Mary Meade.

[Copyright: 1942: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Spring doesn't come before Easter, no matter what the calendar says. Easter Sunday long has been the signal for new spring clothing and lighter weight, springlike menus.

The Easter morning breakfast calls for hot cross buns and scrambled eggs, or perhaps a fluffy omelet.

Leg o' lamb is the traditional Easter dinner meat. And mint sauce or jelly must accompany it this once, even if you don't want it more often. What better vegetable could you choose than tender, young carrots, and what more luscious dessert than strawberries on honey cake?

EASTER SUNDAY BREAKFAST.
Apple and Grapefruit Cup
Scrambled Eggs or Parsley Omelet
Little Sausage Cakes
Hot Cross Buns Peach Jam
Coffee

EASTER SUNDAY DINNER.
Spring Salad
Leg of Lamb, Mint Jelly.
Creamed New Potatoes
Whole Buttered Carrots
Parkerhouse Rolls
Honey Angel Cake or Two-Egg Honey Cake with Crushed Strawberries [Honey Sweetened]
Coffee or Tea

SPRING SALAD.

Combine crisp, well washed watercress with sliced radishes, thinly sliced cucumber [skin left on] and one or two thinly sliced, young green onions, tops included. Toss lightly with a French dressing made with tarragon vinegar. Tarragon vinegar, oil, salt, and pepper may be the only dressing ingredients. Use two parts oil to one of vinegar.

LEG OF LAMB.

Have the dealer leave the "fell," or outer thin, papery skin, on the meat, as it will keep the leg in shape during cooking and reduce the cooking time. Place on a rack in an open roasting pan and roast at 300 degrees until your meat thermometer [which has been inserted into the fleshiest part of the leg] registers 175-180 degrees. The first temperature is for medium cooked lamb, the latter for well done meat. Thirty to 35 minutes to the pound is the usual time required.

Honey Angel Food.
[Small cake.]

- ½ cup sugar
- ½ cup sifted cake flour
- 1 teaspoon cream of tartar
- ¼ cup honey
- ¾ cup egg whites [six or seven]
- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon flavoring

Sift sugar and flour together five times. Beat egg whites until frothy and add salt and cream of tartar. Continue beating until stiff, but not dry. Add honey slowly, beating constantly with rotary beater or whip. Fold in flour and sugar mixture, adding about a fourth of it at one time. Add flavoring. Bake in ungreased tube pan in a 325 degree oven for about 50 minutes. Invert pan to cool.

Maple angel food is another sirup-made cake which doesn't require sugar. It may be served as Easter dessert, too.

Maple Angel Food.
[Standard size.]

- 1¼ cups egg whites [9 or 10 eggs]
- 1 teaspoon cream of tartar
- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- 1½ cups maple sirup
- 1¼ cups sifted cake flour

Heat maple sirup to boiling point and set aside to cool slightly. Beat egg whites to a foam and add salt and cream of tartar. Continue beating whites until stiff, but still glossy. Pour warm sirup in a thin stream over egg whites, beating constantly, and continuing until all of the sirup has been added and until the mixture is almost cool. Fold in flour which has been sifted four times after measuring, sifting it a little at a time over egg and sirup mixture. Pour into ungreased tube pan and bake at 325 degrees for 1 hour. Invert pan to cool for an hour. Remove cake carefully from pan.

Two Egg Honey Cake.
[8 inch square loaf.]

- ½ cup vegetable shortening
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon vanilla
- ½ cup sugar
- 2 eggs, unbeaten
- 2 cups sifted cake flour
- 2½ teaspoons baking powder
- ½ cup evaporated milk
- ½ cup honey

Combine shortening, salt, and vanilla. Add sugar gradually and cream until light and fluffy. Beat in eggs, one at a time, very thoroly. Sift flour and baking powder three or four times. Combine milk and honey. Add alternate portions of flour and the milk-honey combination, beating after each addition until batter is smooth. Pour into greased 8 inch pan and bake at 350 degrees for 50 to 60 minutes. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar.

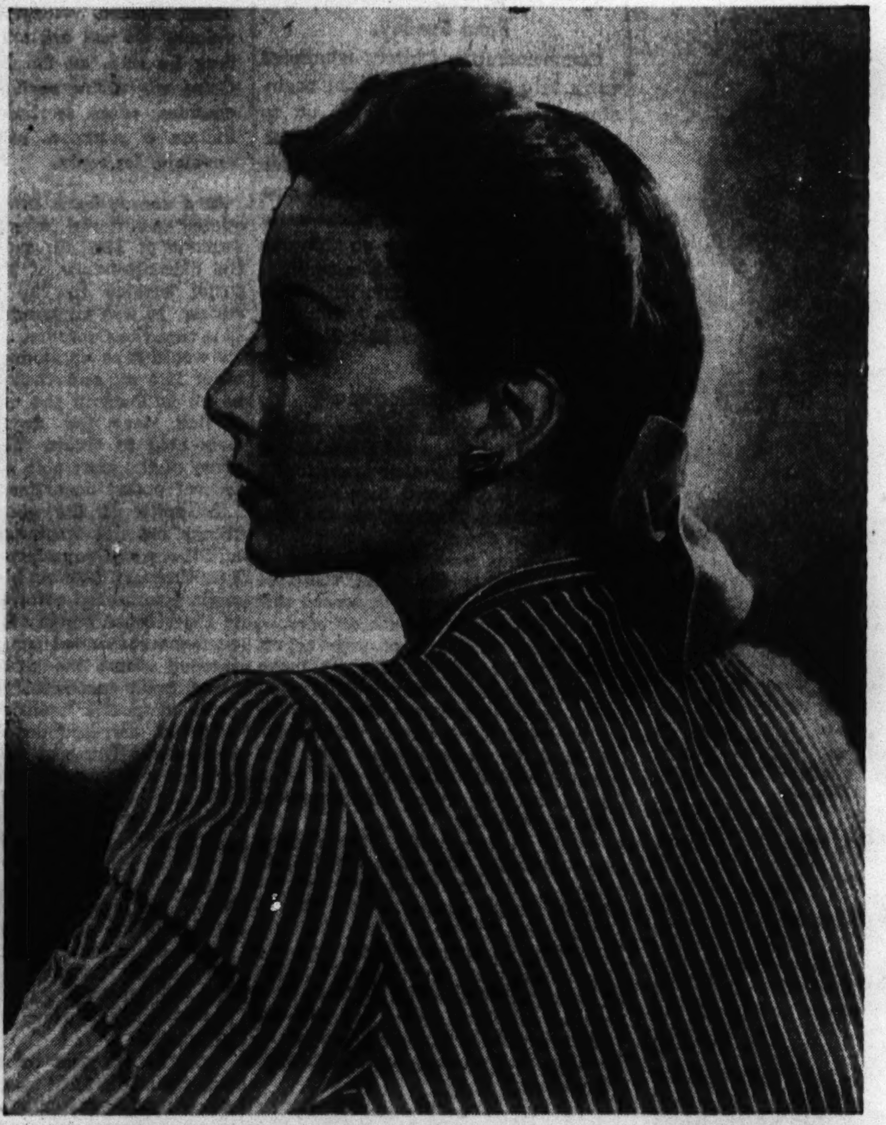
Thru the Looking Glass

By Eleanor Nangle



What started as a college hair fashion has turned out to be a humdinger for the business girl. With hair rolled softly in front, brushed down in back, and fastened there with a tailored hair bow, you have a pretty, practical coiffure as acceptable for the office as it is for the campus.

One hairdress for young women that is pretty, practical and entirely suitable for daytime wear is the simple pompadour for the front, with back hair gathered and held flat with a tailored bow. The college girls started it, business girls are adopting it, and we think it is a peach.

It has the advantage of being attractive and feminine without being fussy. There are no dreary little curls, no ragged looking ends, no hodge-podge of bobby pins and combs to make the head look untidy. It's not too dressy for the office, and the bow in the back, which may be in any color you like, isn't too frivolous with the most tailored clothes.

• • •

Another reason we like this is that it necessitates brushing. The line is so wonderfully simple that the hair itself must be clean and shiny, and those are the two words that effectively convey "beauty" in describing hair of any color or texture.

Of course, no hair style can, or should, be universal. There are many who can't wear this, and shouldn't. But girls whose hair now hangs limply, or is arranged much too fussily, might try this to see how it looks. They'll know that it is in good taste and easy to take care of. Those who can wear it daily are in luck.

• • •

The simplest arrangement of it is to part the hair across the top of the head from ear to ear. Then part this top section on the right side. Roll up the two sides, severely or softly, as your own features and the curl in your hair will dictate, and pin the roll down securely but unobtrusively. The back hair is brushed straight down from the crown of the head, with ends either rolled under or curling loosely. The tailored bow, on a barrette, will hold these fast.

The advantage of this is that girls who just plain don't like short hair can wear their hair long for evening or "dress-up." But by day they can look crisp and trim, and pretty.

"Oil for Troubled Faces" is the title of Miss Nangle's Graphic section article today.

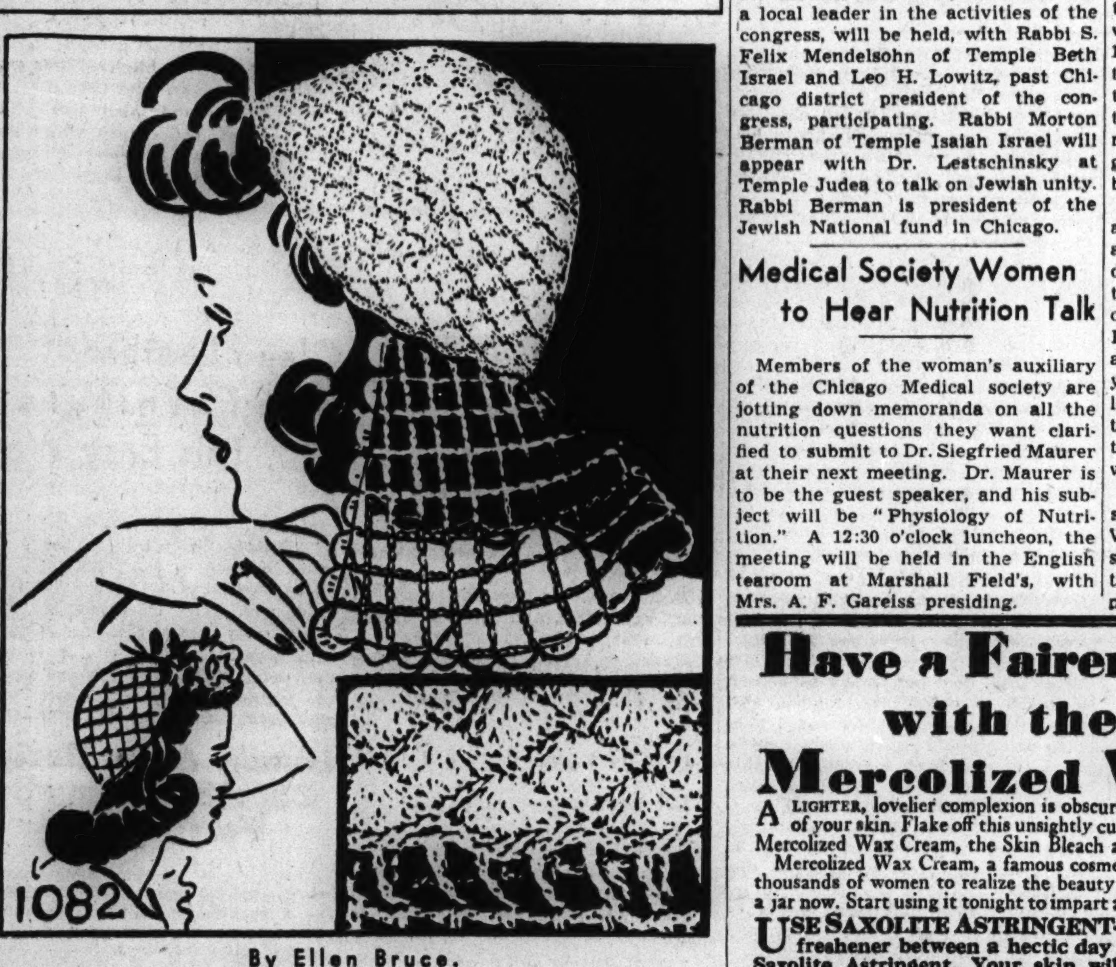
Crocheted Snood Hat



By Ellen Bruce.

Crocheted hats are enjoying a most popular season this year, and this cunning hat with a snood is among the newest crochet designs. It may be created from carpet warp or straw thread, and either is effective. It is not difficult to make, and is inexpensive. Linen thread is an effective medium for those who want to make just the crown of the hat, omitting the snood, and trimming the hat with gay spring flowers.

For instructions in crocheting the shell stitch hat with snood, No. 1082, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

At the meeting in the Masonic temple, a special memorial ceremony for the late Jacob Sol, who had been a local leader in the activities of the congress, will be held, with Rabbi S. Felix Mendelsohn of Temple Beth Israel and Leo H. Lowitz, past Chicago district president of the congress, participating. War Marriage a Duty, Says Correspondent

By Doris Blake.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Readers, we heartily recommend for your perusal the following argument for marriage, with the man in uniform the leading figure.

"If I should start on the dramatic note," writes Mrs. A. W. Stahre of Gloucester, Mass., "and accuse you of cutting off unborn members of the next generation with one stroke of your mightier-than-the-sword pen, you'd decide that I must be a crank. So I won't do that. I'll take a more realistic point of view, and ask you to review your friends and acquaintances aged 23 and 24. In an average group of that age there are two or three at least, whose fathers died in France or of the flu after a 'war wedding' leaving their mothers to bring them up. They aren't sorry to be alive, are they? And among that crop of lives salvaged by rash and romantic young women in 1917-'18 there are many whose lives are of value to us all because of contributions they can make to science, art, literature, or just plain kindness.

"Why do you discourage young lovers from braving the future together? Courage is much in demand at a time such as this, and not the least is the kind of courage that prompts a girl in love to demand a forfeit from death by giving her man the chance to become a parent on the eve of danger. If he must go, he can leave something infinitely valuable behind, something of his very self to go on living and cheat death, if, that is, some woman loves him enough to take a big chance when only insecurity lies ahead.

"Women have done that since the beginning, and not all of them for the mere selfish joy of a day or a week. They know, or sense, that it is within their power to give something beyond all price to the men who are about to offer their lives.

"My father was a clergyman during the last war, and I 'stood up with' many couples who came to him to be married. I was proud of those girls, thrilled by the light that shone on their faces, touched by the humble gratitude on the faces of the soldiers they married. It's what I'd want for my daughter if she were old enough to love a man who faces the perils of war. It's what I'd pray might be given to my son by some girl if he is called to go and fight.

"'A millstone around my neck' would be the feeling I'd have if I ever thought that, by any word of mine, a young couple decided to wait for security before planting the seed that may be snatched from them any day. You say 'marriage means many things' and you listed parenthood among them. To me marriage means many things, but most of all it means parenthood. If it could mean no more than that, by reason of circumstances and sudden death, it would still be richly worth while.

• • •

"I hope you have decided by now, that I'm not a crank, for I have to say something very strongly: If a girl loves a man ALMOST enough to brave insecurity for the sake of giving his child a mother and a chance to live, yet decides to wait until things are safe, I hope some other girl takes him over and does for him what his best beloved should have done! Talk about HER waiting! He's the one who hasn't much time! It may be later than he thinks, and he must trust his descendants to the best mother he can find for them. If not the girl he left behind, then let it be some one else, and more power to her! She's the one who deserves the glory!

"I began by asking you to review your acquaintances of 23 and 24. Now think about the women you know who were girls of marrying age in 1917-'18. Is there a war widow among them who regrets her marriage? Is there a spinster who does not bitterly regret her caution? Is there a mother who is not honored for the gift she gave her child and her husband?

"This is a time to learn caution about shattered windows, about fire and poison gas, about every sort of death, but let's not be so cautious that we refuse LIFE a chance to come forth. That would indeed be Pandora's mistake, letting evil loose and keeping hope shut up! If our young men are to lay down their lives, let our young women follow their hearts and redeem a life for the life that may be lost. That is woman's noblest courage!"

And that is one woman's opinion, strongly felt and nobly expressed. What is your feeling, reader, on the subject that is of such deep importance to so many of our young people today?

Draperies for Summer Bright with Sharper Hues

High Colors Succeed the Pastel Tints

By Claire Winslow.

The news in the spring fabric world is that all colors are sharper and brighter than they have been in some time. The grayed pastels: Gray-rose known as wool rose, gray-pink, gray-beige, gray-blue, dull gray-green—all these are giving way to clear tones and in most cases to much deeper and more vibrant ones.

You'll see a lot of vivid greens. Empire green, hunter's green, Kelly green are much more in evidence than are pale hues of the same color.

A bright lime yellow will be seen in many draperies of the thin, diaphnous type. Vivid watermelon pink also will be popular.

Chinese or lacquer red is abundant as accent in a room scheme. Indeed, red and green are now replacing the erstwhile favorites, rose and blue. That is, in prestige lines. Rose and blue are still dominant in the volume field.

Brown is coming back, and grays continue to be in evidence.

• • •

Some of the best looking new fabrics we've seen are gabardines in six or seven bright, clear tones. They have a lot of texture interest, are rugged and practical, and make excellent tailored slip covers and draperies. There are plain, solid tones of Kelly green, blue, rose, beige, etc. Prices are most reasonable.

Then there are the lighter hued, solid toned rayon and cotton weaves that look exactly like challis for women's dresses. These drape perfectly and come in such lovely colors as flesh pink, light blue, ivory, and white. They are a dream of a fabric.

Celanese voiles were never prettier. Choose from a variety of gay floral prints and stripes. One especially charming one, ideal for a summer bedroom has large, shadowy white flowers on a delicate pink ground. Another displays brilliant blossoms against chartreuse and is very French in feeling.

• • •

Printed chintzes and sateens continue to be in demand. One pretty display showed a window hung in crisp white ruffled, eyelet embroidered muslin curtains under a stiff valance of blue and white pencil striped chintz. The chintz was used to slip covers a bedroom chair near by and also to make a very feminine, full skirted slip cover for a little table, the top of which was done in a matching plain blue chintz.

Slip covers are made so cleverly and so well, these days, that you see them on everything from beds, radiators, and bookcases to tables and hassocks. And the variety of materials is extensive: Cretonnes, chintzes, chambrays, bed ticking, felt, sateens, sail cloth, gabardines, and cotton taffetas being a few.

It's getting difficult to find the old, tried-and-true Osnaberg cloth, the poor man's delight for slip covers. But if you scout around you'll discover some stores still have a little in stock.

It is 36 inches wide and is an interesting off-white with a tiny brown fleck in it. Have it preshrunk before you make it up into slip covers. It wears like iron, always looks well and costs about the least of any material we've ever encountered.

On the House

We are all vitally interested in keeping up the appearance of our kitchen and bathroom equipment. . . . And to repair small scratches, dents, nicks, and defacements on the porcelain surfaces of sinks and tubs, refrigerators, washing machines, ranges, etc., comes a handy little kit with the needed lacquer, tinting colors, glazing compound, sandpaper, solvent, and spatula, for just this type of work. . . . If you have a dent on an enamel finish the glazing compound should do the work. . . . This kit is not expensive; cost, $2.50.

This may be the spring when you are making plans for a shuffleboard court in your yard or a checkerboard game on your concrete floor. . . . There are construction details and printed rules for building such boards in or around your house. . . . Shuffleboard, because of the space required to play it, is more an outdoor game than an indoor one. . . . Nor is it any new game, either, since it was played as early as the 15th century in England, under the name of slide-groat, shovel penny, and shove-groat.

There are ingenious ways of refinishing old grass and fibre rugs with paint and then decorating them with gay painted stripes. . . . Attractive effects can be obtained by painting the stripes a different color from the ground coat. . . . The colored stripes can vary from 3 to 4 inches in width and considerable variety in decorative effects can be achieved.

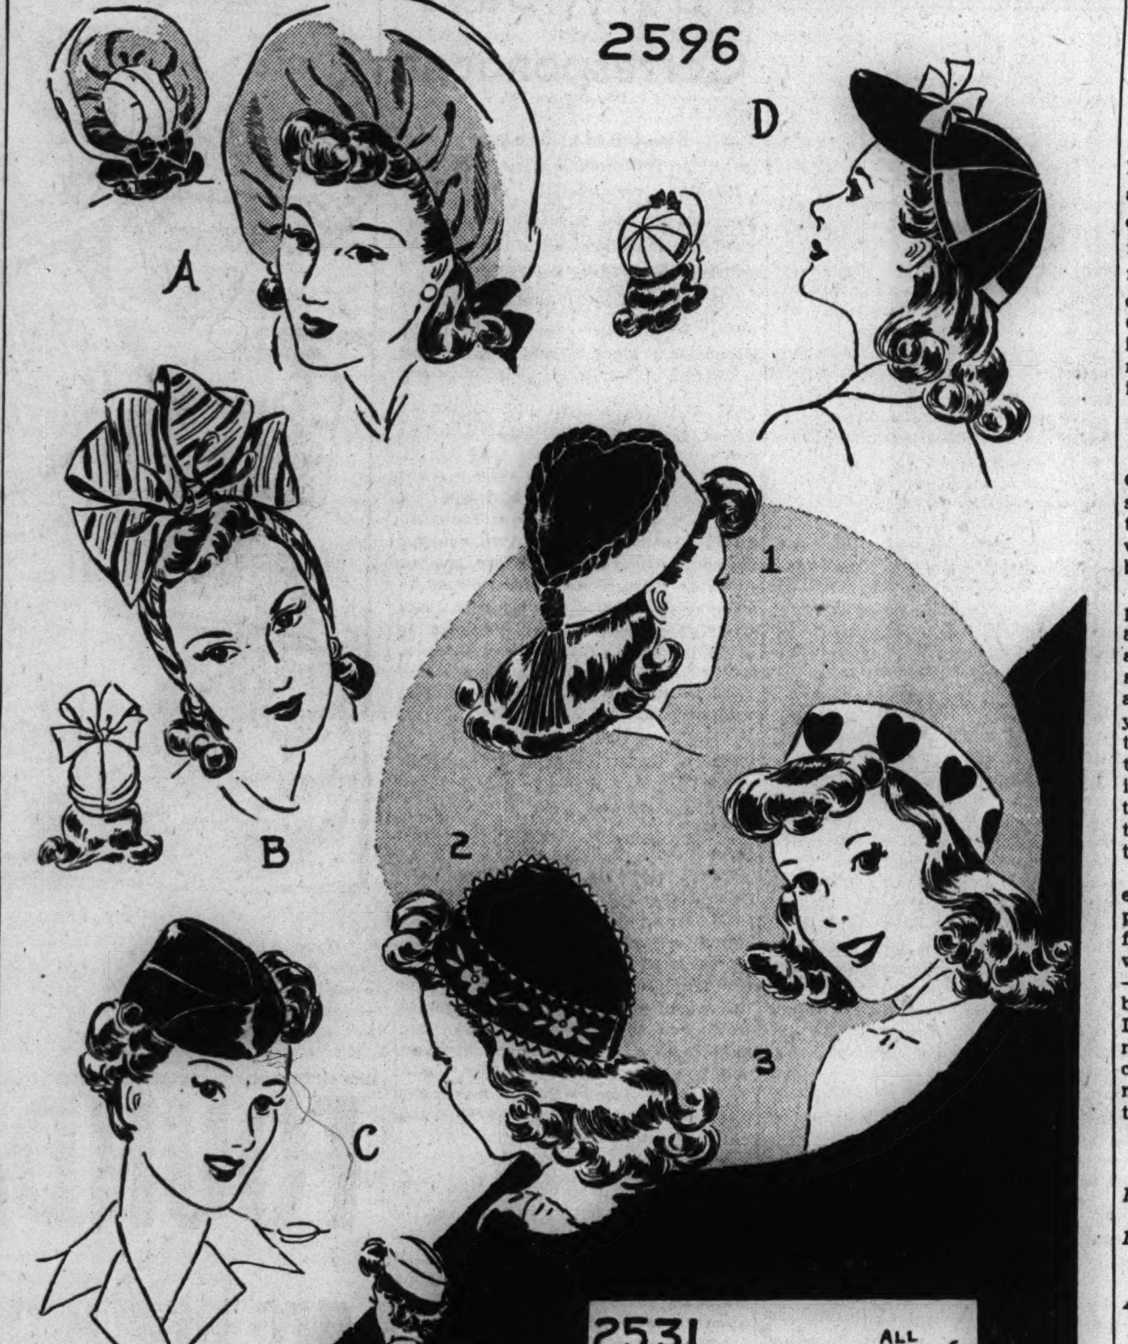
Patterns by Clotilde



Your Easter hat won't serve you all season, and it won't "go with" everything in your wardrobe, either. You have to have simply scads of hats, and the economical way to do it is to make them yourself. These two patterns make a wide variety. For the low price of these designs you can have a great assortment to change with your mood and your frocks.

No. 2596 creates four chapeau versions, A, B, C, and D. The visor hat is smart with tailored things and sports clothes. The wide brimmed model is soft looking and pretty with both dressy suits and with dresses. Candy-striped ribbon or taffeta makes a grand turban with huge bow atop your curls, and for your precisely tailored clothes, you might make the overseas cap.

No. 2531 uses the heart motif for all three versions of that favorite "small hat." In one model the heart is found in the shape of the crown. In another, the hearts are appliqued around the rim. In the third the heart-shaped form of the hat is embellished with contrasting applique and edging.

Style No. 2596 is designed for one size, adaptable to any headsize. For fabric requirements consult pattern envelope. Design includes versions A, B, C, and D.

Style No. 2531 is designed for sizes 2, 4, 6, 8, and 10 years. For fabric requirements consult pattern envelope. Pattern includes views 1, 2, and 3.

Each pattern costs 12 cents.

Panhellenic Association to Have Benefit Bridge

The annual spring benefit bridge and fashion show of the Oak Park and River Forest Panhellenic association is set for Saturday afternoon, April 18, at the Oak Park club in that suburb. Proceeds from the spring party are placed in a fund for college scholarships. Last year nine girls graduated from the Oak Park-River Forest High school were able to continue their education on Panhellenic awards. One of the local merchants, who is contributing a prize for this year's party, has volunteered to outfit two of the scholarship winners for their first year on a college campus.

Contract According to Culbertson

By Ely Culbertson.

[Copyright: 1942: By Ely Culbertson.]

The redouble is one of the most powerful bidding weapons in the game, and perhaps for that reason, it should be used with discretion. There are a great many players whose bridge temperaments are not equal to the additional strain placed on them when they are faced with a redoubled contract. The terrible thought of what might happen sends them into a panic and keeps them from playing with whatever degree of skill they may normally possess. I can think of no reason for declarer's downfall on the following hand, except that he was panicked by his partner's redouble.

South, dealer.
North-South, vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ 7 5 4
♥ 10 7 6 3 2
♦ none
♣ A 10 6 4 3

WEST
♠ 8 6
♥ K J 9 8
♦ Q 8 5 4 2
♣ Q J

EAST
♠ A K Q J 10 9 3 2
♥ none
♦ 10 7 6 3
♣ 9

SOUTH
♠ none
♥ A Q 5 4
♦ A K J 9
♣ K 8 7 5 2

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	1 heart	3 spades
4 hearts	Double	5 clubs	5 spades
6 clubs	Double	Redouble	Pass
Pass	Pass

I am not applauding North's redouble—far from it. If anybody had a redouble, it was South.

West opened his top spade. Declarer ruffed and drew the outstanding trumps. He then embarked on a straight cross-ruff, first cashing the ace and king of diamonds, and discarding two hearts from dummy. He then ruffed a diamond, and ruffed a spade, ruffed another diamond, and ruffed the last spade with his own last trump.

But, now, with nothing left but hearts in his own hand and three in dummy, he could not avoid giving West two heart tricks for the defeat of the contract.

Winning play was simplicity itself. After ruffing the opening spade lead, a low club should be led to the ace, and another spade ruffed voluntarily. The club king would then draw the one outstanding trump. Next, to make sure that West was "bailed out" of spades, a low diamond should be ruffed, and dummy's last spade ruffed with declarer's last trump. West, undoubtedly, would discard a diamond. This would leave the following situation:

NORTH
♠ none
♥ 10 7 6 3 2
♦ none
♣ 10 6

WEST
♠ none
♥ K J 9 8
♦ Q 8 5
♣ none

EAST
♠ A K Q J
♥ none
♦ 10 7 6
♣ none

SOUTH
♠ none
♥ A Q 5 4
♦ A K J
♣ none

West's double of four hearts could certainly be taken as evidence that he held the king and jack. A low heart lead away from the ace-queen would now insure the contract. If West won he would have to return a heart to declarer's tenance, and the ace-king of diamonds would take care of dummy's other losing hearts. If West returned a diamond, this would take care of three of dummy's hearts. If West ducked, dummy's 10 would hold and three of dummy's remaining hearts would go on the heart ace and the ace-king of diamonds.

Another road to success would be for South to lead the ace, king, and jack of diamonds, making West a present of the diamond queen, and thus forcing a lead up to the ace-queen of hearts. But this would go wrong if West had started with only three hearts and six diamonds.

An article by Mr. Culbertson appears in the feature section of The Tribune each weekday.

Bridge Problem.

♣ Q 9 6

WEST

♣ A 10 8

EAST
♠ Q 8
♥ none
♦ Q 8 5
♣ 7 5

SOUTH
♠ K 7
♥ none
♦ A 7 4
♣ K J

There are no trumps and South leads. North and South are to win five tricks against any defense.

Solution: South leads the diamond seven. West plays the king. North sheds a spade. West leads the club ace and South gives up the king. If West follows with the eight, North plays the queen and leads the jack of hearts, forcing a discard from East.

If West leads the small diamond instead of the second club, North discards the nine of hearts. South wins the diamond and leads the jack of clubs, which North overtakes so as to force East to discard on the heart jack.

If West prefers to return the diamond at trick two, South wins it, North discarding the heart nine. Now South leads the club king. If West wins it, it is all over. If West passes, South follows with the jack.

Legend of the Dogwood.

It is told that at the time of the Crucifixion the dogwood attained the size of the oak and other great forest trees. So strong and firm was the wood that it was chosen as the timber for the Cross.

To be thus used for such a cruel purpose greatly distressed the tree and Jesus, nailed upon it, sensed this and in His gentle pity for all sorrow, said to it: "Because of your regret and pity for My suffering, I make you this promise: Never again shall the Dogwood Tree grow large enough to be used for a cross. Henceforth it shall be slender and bent and twisted, and its blossoms shall be in the form of a cross—two long and two short petals.

"And in the center of the outer edge of each petal, there will be nail prints. And in the center of the flower, brown with rust and stained with blood, will be a crown of thorns—so that all who see it will remember it was upon a dogwood tree that I was crucified, and this tree shall not be mutilated nor destroyed, but cherished and protected as a reminder of My agony and death upon the cross."

March Rain.

Rain drops falling swiftly—
Rain drops pelting hard—
Little streaks of wet on windows—
Puddles in the yard . . .

And now the wind is dying—
And now the rain is done—
And all the sky is blue and white,
And laughing, comes the sun!

Is Mother Nature out of sorts,
That she's so slyly arch?
What else could be the matter?
O, now I know! IT'S MARCH!

Magic Snow.

The swirling snow came tumbling down
And quickly covered all the town.
The houses were dressed up anew,
Some chimneys had high top hats, too;
High billows on each roof, and trees
Had caught the snowflakes in the breeze.
The latticed arbors with their posts
White capped, like funny looking ghosts.
Dwarf pines and shrubs with branches low
Were under coverlets of snow;
And over tangled, trailing vines
Were lacy, intricate designs.
It was a lovely, dazzling sight
With everything all sparkling white.

And when on scenes like this we look,
We think of some old fairy book;
We see the wave of magic hand
And lo! a winter wonderland!
The swirling snow came tumbling down
And made a gleaming, glistening town.

Grace French DeLong.

The Lady of Our House.

Our lady is as busy as can be
Baking tasty cookies for the army.
The enameled oven has lost its shine
As cakes fast roll off her assembly line;
Her production these days is in full swing,
And the pans are piled high, and kettles sing.

Our lady's in her kitchen kneading dough
For those who rely on the USO.
She's gaily singing, "O, say can you see . . ."
And shaping some cookies into a V.
From the early morn until late at night
She is aiding the soldiers in their fight;
With doughnuts and tarts she bolsters morale—
To the men in the service she's a "pal;"
For her baked goods contain V vitamin,
Which gives them the strength they need to win.

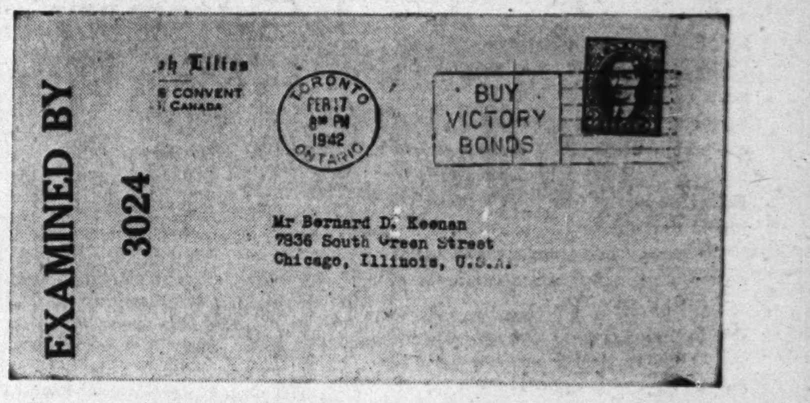
The Stamp Collector

By Richard McP. Cabeen

Mr. Cabeen will answer questions about stamps, except concerning values. Do not ask where stamps may be sold, as the Stamps and Coins advertising section adjoining contains offers to buy and sell. Inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.



This cover from Canada to the United States shows that censorship is being performed on letters passing between these allied countries. The cover was lent by Bernard Keenan.

In a recent issue this department quoted an editorial from THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE of May 31, 1861, regarding the discontinuance of United States postal service in the Confederate states. It was suggested in that article that the Confederate postal service would take up at once where the other left off and that there would be no letdown in the quality of the service since the department had been able to secure the services of many of the most able officers in the federal postal department.

In spite of the good intentions things did not work out very well and there was considerable criticism. THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE of July 3, 1861, again commented editorially: "Mails in the seceded states. Since the government suspended the mails in the seceded states the rebels have suffered great inconvenience from the want of postal facilities. The difficulty of correspondence is greatly increased. The cost of mail matter is largely enhanced," etc., etc. "The secession postmaster, Reagan, pretended that he had arrangements so perfected that all the mails would be continued just the same as when conducted under the auspices of Uncle Sam. He issued a pompous proclamation continuing all of the old contractors and inspectors, and pledged the people that the mails would move on steadily as clockwork, but a few weeks has thrown the whole into confusion."

The article goes on to state that the mails on most routes had been discontinued, but that the southern express companies and mail boats still gave service for which a bonus was paid in addition to the 5 cent and 10 cent letter rate postage. Some states were practically without service, for Arkansas, Florida, and Texas had hardly a mile of railroads, and stages which had been able to operate in sparsely settled regions thru the bounty of the federal government were forced to abandon the lines.

The writer goes on to say that prior to the outbreak of the rebellion the United States had extended the postal service to every hamlet in the south. He mentions that the postoffice department had always been dominated by the south and that the cost of service in the region exceeded the income by about three million dollars annually. In Texas alone the loss to the department amounted to over 600,000 dollars.

This article closes with the remark that the last act of the "Conthieveracy" before the mails were stopped, was to steal all the postage stamps, mailbags, wrapping paper, blanks, twine, scales, and other government property connected with the postal service.

The failure of the Confederate postmasters to return the postage stamps to Washington was responsible for the new issue of stamps and stamped envelopes during the following August. The introduction of this issue will be the subject of a story in some future issue of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. While the proclamation which discontinued the service certainly decreased communication between the southern and northern sympathizers it was found that information was being carried back and forth by express companies. On Aug. 26, 1861, a new proclamation dealing with trading with the enemy was promulgated which cut off express shipments to the south and after this date all communications across the Mason and Dixon line were handled by the military authorities and were sent under a flag of truce.

New fields are suggested for specialists, and information is presented for collectors of all kinds of covers in the "1942 Cover Collecting Guide," issued recently. This is the fourth in a series of handbooks for collectors of first day, first flight, naval, early United States, and foreign covers.

Twelve main classifications of covers are provided in this handbook ranging, as the editor states, "from ponies to planes." A compilation of firsts during 1941 lists 137 first day and first flight covers and gives the quantities, dates and current values for each. The Cover Collecting Guide is priced at 25c and may be obtained from The Cover Exchange, Scranton, Pa.

At the annual meeting of the Association for Stamp Exhibitions it was news to most members that the treasury of the organization contained almost $10,000. Since there appeared to be no immediate need for this sum it was voted to invest the major portion of it in defense bonds. Albert F. Lichtenstein is the new president of the association and Theodore E. Steinway is treasurer.

Jacques Minkus, manager of the stamp department of Gimbels, New York, has coined the stamp collectors' slogan for the duration of the war. It is "Be Calm, Cool, and Collect."

Cancellations, the monthly publication of the International Postal Slogan society, is filled with interesting material for the collector of these postal markings. There are articles on "Metals, Atlantic Bases, United States of America Slogans, Flag Cancellations, Norwegian Slogans, Domestic Military Cancels, Naval Cancels, and R. M. S. Markings." In addition there is an article on mounting covers and a bibliography of recent articles about cancellations in the philatelic press. Collectors who are interested in this phase of collecting may obtain a sample copy of the magazine for a three cent stamp. Address Arthur W. Lee, secretary, 1259 Jackson avenue, Lakewood, O.

The Jack Knight Air Mail society will give an award for a suitable title for its cartoon. A copy of the cartoon will be sent upon receipt of a stamped, addressed envelope. Address Earl H. Wellman, 3532 Oak avenue, Brookfield, Ill.

The third edition of the United States Stampless Cover catalog has just been published by Stephen G. Rich of Verona, N. J. The text and illustrations fill 208 pages of larger size than formerly used and include chapters on "Markings Explained, Postoffice Markings, United States Postoffice Lists, Hand Stamps on Stampless Covers, American Colonial Rates, United States Domestic Rates, Mississippi River Packets, Inland Ship Markings, United States Ship Marks, Railroad Markings, Confederate States Markings," as well as listings with descriptions and prices for all known covers from the states and territories of the United States. This catalog is an indispensable guide for the collector of these items. It may be obtained from the publisher for $1.50.

[Have you some favorite household help, something that lightens labor and gets results? Is there some comfort or convenience you could enjoy? We'll be glad to pass on your ideas to our readers. Address Louise Bargelt, The Chicago Tribune.]

Grace Thompson, Chicago—Last summer I went on a camping trip for the first time in my life and couldn't help wondering why vacation tents weren't made with half transparent tops. In this way you could have a better view of the sky and trees when inside the tent.

* *

Mable C., Detroit, Mich.—When canning fruit I have found that if I use a wax crayon and label jars while they are hot, the crayon won't rub off. When I want to remove crayon marks, however, I can wash them off with hot water.

* *

Adela Jones, Chicago—If you want the reflector and lens of your flashlight to give a blue, white light, heat a carbon paper and rub reflector and lens with it.

* *

Mrs. Bert T., Chicago—I save flour sacks which my husband and boys use for washing the car. They use a coarser cloth and sometimes a little washing soda to remove insect stains that are stubborn and always keep a small wheel spoke brush handy for cleaning the radiator grill.

* *

Mrs. Thomas Grady, Chicago—If you have ever had trouble removing a sticky stopper from a mucilage or paste bottle, try using a piece of candle in place of the regular cork or cap. If you want to taper candle so it will slip in bottle easily, dip it in hot water before slipping it into bottle mouth.

* *

Elsie G., Chicago—I cut discs from empty milk containers and use them to renew seals in my small jar lids. These make fine seals as they are waxed and smooth and the right thickness and really a lot better than layers of waxed paper which I formerly used.

* *

Mrs. Henry S., Chicago—My husband uses dampened sandpaper to remove fine lint, dog hair, etc., from our auto seats. Hair will mat and roll as sandpaper is moved across upholstery and can be easily picked up.

Your Daughter Has a Right to Know

It is every mother's duty to tell her daughter physical facts. How much better that she learn them from you, rather than from girls her own age. In feminine hygiene, facts may be distorted, or wholly untrue. As a result, many brides use over-strong solutions of acids for feminine hygiene which can actually burn, scar and harm delicate tissue.

Today such risks are needless. Science has given womankind Zonite. So powerful, it kills instantly all germs and bacteria with which it comes in contact. Deodorizes—by actually destroying odors. Protects personal daintiness. Yet! Zonite is non-caustic, non-poisonous, safe for delicate tissues. Over 20,000,000 bottles bought. Get Zonite at your druggist today.

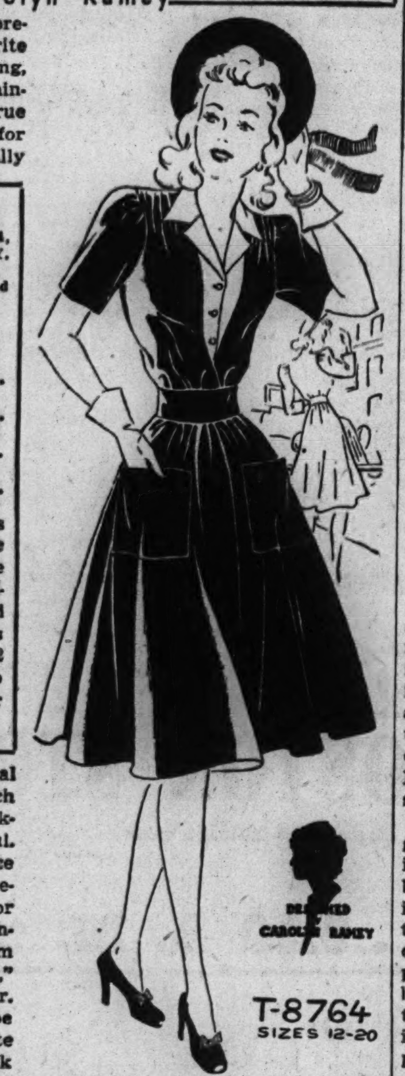
Child's Intelligence Grows in the Right Setting

Campus Modes by a Co-ed

By Carolyn Ramey



This is a fashion find you'll appreciate in your busy life, the favorite jumper frock all revised for spring, 1942. While looking up to the minute, this model has the tried-and-true features you have come to love for general daytime wear and especially for the classroom and informal "dates." There's the full skirt which spells comfort. The large patch pockets are both decorative and useful. The usual V neckline in the bodice is lowered to the least common denominator to show that white or candy striped dickey to best advantage. Soft fullness emanates from the shoulders, the sleeves are "easy," and the waistline is the smallest ever.

I made my outfit of navy blue crêpe and the dickey of spanking white pique. If you're as smart as we think you are, you'll be using this pattern for summer things, too, and doing it soon.

Style No. T-8764 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. Size 16 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material for jumper, and ¾ yard of 39 inch contrasting for dickey.

A FRIEND IN NEED

By Sally Joy Brown.

If you are in need, perhaps I can help you. If you have household articles or clothing you no longer need, please let me place them with needy families. Address correspondence to Sally Joy Brown, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago. Activities of this department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

Many of the elderly persons who turn to this department for aid are tragically alone and helpless. In most instances they are handicapped, not only by advancing age, but by physical disabilities, failing eyesight or hearing, or chronic illnesses which weaken and disable them.

Mrs. B., who lives on the west side of the city, is on relief because, in her own words: "I am 64 years old and cannot get work." Her allowance covers food and lodging, but there are other small comforts which would mean a great deal to her, but which cannot possibly be supplied by the agency assisting her. If any reader can supply her with an electric toaster or a carpet sweeper, she would be most appreciative.

• • •

Mrs. H., who lives in a suburb west of Chicago, explains her situation in her letter:

"Dear Miss Brown: I would like to get a light wheel chair, something which could be used outdoors as well as inside the house. I am a cripple, and also have a severe throat ailment which the doctors tell me is incurable. Altho I am receiving an old age pension, I cannot possibly eke out enough to either rent or purchase such a chair."

Mrs. H. is more than 65 years old, and her disability is such that she is unable to walk. However, she states that she will be able to arrange transportation of a chair if one is available.

• • •

Perhaps some reader has a discarded magnifying glass which could be sent to elderly Mrs. T. She is 75 years of age, and feels that such a glass would help her to read more easily. The address will be supplied to any person interested in filling this need.

Readers who have saved their discarded silk stockings can assist Mrs. M. if they will mail them to her. She is able to earn a little very badly-needed money by making rugs of old silk hosiery, and would appreciate your help. Because she is elderly and lives on the far south side of the city, she will be unable to call for offers.

Bettina Bedwell Says:

The coming styles will be tuned to priorities and rationing, but I haven't the slightest doubt they'll be more inventive, more suitable, and more desirable than what we have thought of as the top thing in the past. Proof is on hand, right now in the better shops all over the country. It is to be found in the new Molyneux collection for spring and summer. It's a collection bounded on all four sides by the conditions of war, and it's a knockout.

Molyneux, with his superb sense of timing, sets as the theme of his spring, 1942, collection the United Nations, and calls it his ABCD collection. America, Britain, China, and the Dutch influence his clothes, but the influence is kept within the confines of his own impeccable taste, his sense of modern women and what they like to wear.

Illinois Colony Club Plans Luncheon Meeting

Gossip Is a Menace to the War Effort

By Helen Bartlett.

Etiquet writers have long been crusading against gossipers and all the members of the same family. These persons who love to carry tales about others [usually of an unfriendly nature] and exaggerate all the details, have always been a social menace. But this hanging over the back fence seems to be a common human frailty from which both men and women suffer. The jibes and barbs of society in general have had little success in correcting it. Even the cruel sarcasm of cartoonists does not sufficiently dent the toughness of these offenders. Either they don't know they're gossipers, or they don't care.

• • •

But now, since the war, gossiping and idle chatter of a sort has grown from a social menace to one affecting our war effort. So prevalent is it, and so important, that those who are guiding our national defense warn us about it frequently in newspaper columns, radio addresses, posters, etc. It is no longer just a problem of social etiquet, but a defense problem.

Just casual, careless chatter can give information to the enemy. The items may seem small in themselves, but there always is the chance that if any conversations about persons in the army, locations, troop movements, etc., are overheard and eventually reported to the enemy camp, they may be the missing link of information that fits into the rest of their snooping and eventually makes a complete picture.

Be careful of what you say and to whom you say it.

• • •

An easy way to avoid gossip when friends get together is for the hostess to start conversation of interest and of an innocent sort to at least a couple of the guests. They'll help her along until somebody picks up an idea from the conversation to click smoothly another way. And should chatter descend again to the depths of gossip and derogatory remarks, the hostess can rescue it before it has gone too far by skilfully steering the conversation to less dangerous subjects.

What is the proper way to lay silverware? Helen Bartlett, Tribune etiquet editor, answers this and other questions about good table manners in her booklet, "Table Manners." On sale at Tribune Public Service offices, 1 S. Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 3 cents; by postpaid mail, 5 cents.

YWCA to Open Health Education Courses

New health education courses will open tomorrow in three YWCA centers in the city: Loop center, 59 East Monroe street; west side, 101 South Ashland boulevard, and south side, 1230 East 63d street. The accent will be on cycling, golf, tennis, riding, and other sports that are likely to have an important place in gasoline and tire restricted vacations. At loop center, instruction will be given in badminton, roller skating, archery, and bowling, and the west side and south side "Ys" will add, to these, extensive swimming schedules. Gym classes and dancing for the slimming down of figures that have expanded during the sedentary winter months are included on the programs at all three of the centers.

Republican Club Will Be Meeting Hostess

Candidates of the party seeking nomination at the April primaries will be the guests of the Woman's Republican Club of Illinois at a meeting of members and guests, Wednesday afternoon in the Lincoln room of the Hotel La Salle. Each is to be introduced and will have a few minutes to express his views on issues involved in the forthcoming elections.

Fashions as I See Them

By Judith Cass

Mrs. F. A. Lagorio.

A bouquet of pink roses in back of a high chestnut pompadour, pink gloves, a black frock, simple but stunning as to line, a white frill at her neck with a wisp of a sky blue bow in the middle of the frothy white . . . this was Jane Froman at a cocktail party given for her recently by Arnold Kirkeby in his apartment at the Drake. A lovely afternoon outfit and one that was especially becoming to Miss Froman, who has a rich, warm suntan as the result of a recent engagement in Miami. As a matter of fact, she has the nicest suntan we've seen this season, here or in Florida. . . . Also stunning with her glowing skin is a turquoise, tulle evening gown the beautiful young singer wears sometimes when she appears in the Mayfair room at the Blackstone. It's extremely décolleté—so the audience gets the full effect of her marvelous suntan. There is a bit of silver trimming on the bodice and there are narrow silver shoulder straps. The skirt is bouffant, of course. Pink roses must be Miss Froman's favorite flowers, at least for adornment, for with this beautiful blue dress she wears several large, full blown pink roses in her hair. . . . Every woman knows that a new spring bonnet is a psychological "shot in the arm." Mrs. Frank A. Lagorio's confection of green and white, worn to luncheon recently at the Key club, is like a breath of a southern garden. Full blown gardenia blossoms and shiny green leaves are piled high atop her little white toque, the back of which is a square white flap. Mrs. John A. McGuire, who was having luncheon with her mother, wore an olive wool dress with short sleeves, and a pill box of gold, green, and orange parrot feathers, with a sheaf of long gold quills swooping along the left side.

• • •

Another spring hat was Mrs. James E. Bennett's small black one with a crescent of token roses across the tiny brim. The dress which Miss Joan Littlefield was wearing played a dual rôle that day at the Key club, for one of the young mannequins modeled an exact copy in a fashion show in progress there. The bodice was of black silk jersey, snugly fitted, with a dropped waistline and elbow length sleeves. The full, circular skirt was printed all over with chartreuse orchids, and a single orchid was appliqued to one shoulder. . . . At Mr. and Mrs. Fredrik A. Chramer's dinner party—recently at the Kungsholm to open their new miniature theater of puppet operas—Mrs. Wayne Wills was wearing an unusual and interesting gown, a black crêpe dinner dress with puffed sleeves of honey colored summer ermine. The soft fur followed the outline of the neckline, which dipped slightly in the back, and formed two fur panels running down the back of the skirt from waistline to hem. More strips of fur were twisted into a large, flat rosette which topped Mrs. Wills' pompadour. The hostess' gown for the gala party was a handsome one of French blue brocade with wide shoulder straps, to which she pinned purple orchids.

• • •

Quaintness is the theme of a costume which is particularly becoming to Miss Lucy Keeler. The dress, of cinnamon red velvet, is cut on medieval lines, square necked, and with a full skirt that sweeps the floor. With it Miss Keeler wears a short, boxy topper of gray squirrel and tucks her hands into a round squirrel muff. . . . Miss Betty Bennett often wears a lovely silver lamé gown with a tracery resembling frost. The full, gathered skirt billows beneath a short fur jacket, to which she pinned magenta orchids one night recently. Another orchid rode high in her blonde hair.

• • •

Miss Frances Amberg.

It's hard to tell which is the most attractive of Miss Patricia Cathcart's evening gowns. One of victory red taffeta has cartwheels of self-ruching looped over the full skirt. Another is of changeable rose taffeta dusted with silvery blue. With this gown she sometimes wears a brief, brown fur jacket and pink cabbage roses. . . . Lynx jackets, ever popular with the younger set, are particularly effective when worn with evening dresses. For gala evenings with her college friends, Miss Mary Cornelia Aldis sometimes combines hers with a champagne net gown. Miss Frances Amberg's lynx jacket, which also does double duty as an evening wrap, goes well with a stunning gold brocade gown. . . . Cloud gray is a shade flattering to most women, but if one has a willowy figure and flame red hair it's especially becoming. Since Mrs. Herbert C. De Young has both, she wears a soft gray crêpe dinner dress with particular success. The bodice of the dress, crossed in surplice style, is stitched down in dozens of little tucks, and the skirt is sewn in the same vertical tucks, breaking into plaits around the hem. The slim midriff is of plain gray crêpe. . . . The combination of turquoise and peach, the latter represented by two token roses tucked in her hair, brings roses to Mrs. George A. Kelly's cheeks. She has a svelte, long sleeved dinner dress of turquoise crêpe, unadorned except for a flat crêpe bow which lays flat across the neckline. The skirt flares slightly at the back, for there's a narrow panel of plaits extending from waistline to hem. Her necklace with this costume usually is a triple strand choker of pearls.

• • •

Mrs. John D. Richardson II.

If there are any who say a small woman cannot wear a large hat, let Janet Gaynor refute them. This little film star appeared at a recent benefit, in which the clothes shown were designed by her husband, Adrian, wearing a straw cartwheel. Mrs. Howard F. Gillette Jr.'s fragile prettiness was enhanced by a sky blue double pouff of taffeta, worn far back on the head. She was sitting with Mrs. Walter Cobb Coleman, whose feather skull cap was ultrasophisticated, depending on a mottled pheasant coloring and two tiny wings at the forehead for interest. . . . For her 19th birthday party Mrs. John D. Richardson II., who has been married for nearly a year, wore an ultrasophisticated gown of black and white and fragile white orchids pinned to one shoulder. The dress, on the shirtwaist type, consisted of a long sleeved white blouse and a slim black skirt, belted in patent leather. "She'll never change," said Helen Hayes of her hostess at that party. "I might come back in 20 years and Bee Cee [Mrs. Richardson] will look as young as ever. She's a perennial 22." Miss Hayes looked youthful and pretty herself in a flattering cream colored turban that she draped high on her head and pinned with gold combs. Her dress was one of the new after dark ones of black, heavily trimmed with jet. . . . Mr. Richardson's sisters contributed their share of good looks to the party. Mrs. Walter W. Crawford was hatless, a fringe of feathery blonde curls outlining her head. Mrs. Frederick Spencer topped her blonde hair with a delicate little sailor of starched white embroidery trimmed with black veiling.

Adviser Tells How Interest Develops Him

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Kitty was sleek and black as the ace of spades, cunning as could be, quite new in the family, and wild as a little bobcat.

MacGregor was new in the family, black, too, but a rough wiry black, as Scotties are. He was a kennel bred pup, intriguing to the eye but utterly distrustful of the human race. Because of this he would sometimes stay out on the porch all night in the bitter cold, wilder in this and other ways than Kitty.

This is the stage at which these two began their life with us—and I won't say we didn't get pretty discouraged. Kitty responded best to our affection and gentleness and few attempts at training. She was housebroken in no time and was soon watching at the window for her young master, recognizing his footsteps and even distinguishing the sound of the family car from that of others.

• • •

She acquired several little tricks by herself, such as opening the ice box door when hungry, and standing up on her hind legs and scratching at the knob of the kitchen door when we went in the kitchen to raid the ice box for a midnight snack. How she loved the tidbits of chicken or ham, or the saucer of warm milk that came her way on those occasions!

One member of our household was a great lover of animals. She had ideas on the subject of raising them. "You can make an animal intelligent," she used to say. "If you watch them and try to understand what they want and then act on it, you can almost make them intelligent. If you give them attention, talk to them, and try to make clear to them what you want of them, they become very different animals from those who are just treated as part of the landscape." And we found that to be true of Mac as well as Kitty, altho it was long before we had our reward with him.

• • •

People come to the house now who haven't seen Mac since he was 6 months old, and they really exclaim over him. "That can't be the wild little Scot I saw before!"

He was the most undomesticated little creature we ever had had. He was like some little wild denizen of the woods. And he gave no sign of intelligence, at least as far as a human conception of intelligence goes, as far as responding to anything we did or said. We began to be sure he was stupid. And if he had stayed on in a kennel or been sold into the wrong home I am sure his really fine intelligence would never have developed. For we found he was not stupid at all.

Little by little, persistently, over a period of four or five months, we worked over that pup. We loved him and talked to him. We were patient with him [except once in a while when we'd stand for an hour in zero weather calling him in!], we said hello when we came in and good-by when we left, we played ball with him and played white rubber rat with him, we gentled him to the touch of our hand, we won his trust. In fact, much more than all this we did.

And how he has blossomed! You should see him now. He's about the most engaging, loving, alert, intelligent, cocky, healthy Scotch terrier you can imagine. In a way, we've made him intelligent.

• • •

Now such a result can be brought about with children, and such a statement made. It can be said, within bounds, that you can make a child intelligent. Social workers who place neglected, apathetic, dull appearing children with intelligent foster parents would indorse that statement. Frequently, they say, what looks like a miracle is achieved. This is in contradiction, incidentally, to the ideas which prevailed [and still do] that a child's intelligence never changes, that it can't change. That was during the "vogue of the I. Q."

Those I. Q.'s were responsible for much of this belief. Don't you remember the beginning of those intelligence tests? And do you remember how, for years, principals and teachers used to announce to discouraged and trembling parents that their child's I. Q. [intelligence quotient] never could be raised? "If it was 88 it would be forever 88," they said. "It would be the same at 14 as at 4; their child might learn more facts, but his working intelligence remained absolutely static."

• • •

I've seen children saddled with a low I. Q. that neither they nor their parents ever lived down. Yet, at the present time, educators who held tightly to those ideas and gauged children entirely by the tests, are confounded because more elaborate and scientific experiments have proved that a child's intelligence can grow! An I. Q. of 88 doesn't necessarily remain an I. Q. of 88 for always. Studies have proved that a normal child in a favorable environment can actually become more intelligent. What a relief! Altho some of us, let me whisper, suspected it long ago.

This doesn't mean, of course, that intelligence and aptitude tests aren't extremely valuable when skilfully contrived and given and interpreted, nor that they aren't being improved constantly. But it does mean that what has been a mistaken and very hampering concept about intelligence has been dispelled. Just as with Mac, we can actually make our child more intelligent if we give him an enriching, developing interest and responsiveness.

What causes tantrums? How may a child be encouraged to be neat? What two things help the nervous child? For advice on these and other related topics read "You and Your Young Child." Mrs. Gladys Bevans' latest booklet, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 15 cents; postpaid, 18 cents.

Modern warfare offers women opportunities and makes demands upon them never before envisioned. Naturally, these varied activities tax a woman's endurance and it becomes increasingly necessary that she guard her health and looks. And of all her features, it is a woman's eyes that most quickly and surely reveal that she is tired. No matter what phase of war work you're doing, eyes need special care and makeup to keep them looking and feeling their best.

First step in proper care of the eyes is an examination by a specialist, to determine just what kind, and how much, work they should be asked to do. That angle settled, set to work to make the eyes up attractively. Correct eye makeup begins with deftly applied eyeshadow. Next, the subtle use of eyebrow pencil. Third, mascara, which may be used a bit more obviously than shadow or pencil, but still must be only an accent, not an exaggeration.

New Play in New York Is a Hollywood Product

"Johnny 2x4" Is Dated as Entertainment

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK [Special].—Another play drifted in from Hollywood last week to prove the point we were making a couple of weeks back, that the motion picture colony is spoiling more playwrights than it is creating. "Johnny 2x4" is the title, the prohibition era the setting, and Rowland Brown the author. Brown, I am told, has had considerable success writing gangster pictures for those who like gangster pictures.

Johnny gets his title from his skill as a pianist. On one of those 2x4 pianos that were wheeled into, out of, and around thru the aisles between tables in speakeasy days, Johnny performs marvelously.

The night club in which he plays is situated in Greenwich Village, having had its opening in 1926 and its closing ten years later. While it was running Johnny had his difficulties with the beer racketeers, the muscle men, the authorities, and the gayer citizens.

• • •

His standard of ethics permitted him to make friends with gunmen and their "molls." Because his friend, Coaly, who was wanted by the police most of the time, asked him to give Mary Collins a job, Johnny made a cigaret girl of Mary and didn't insist that she sit at table and help entertain the customers. Didn't insist on anything, in fact, except that Mary sell her cigarets and cigars, keep no more than a fair share of the change, and oblige with a song when asked.

Mary kept to her part of the bargain, singing "Close Your Eyes" so sweetly that often she set the customers drowsing. Then she gave way to "Butch," the hat check girl, who woke the crowd up with "Down by the O-Hi-O," or to Leonard Sues, who blows a sweet horn, specializing in the "Blue Prelude" and a variety of imitations, human and animal, with the assistance of a metal bell.

The atmosphere of Johnny's place is so realistic, and so reminiscent of the good old bathtub gin days, that it seemed to me the audience was depressed rather than enlivened. There were a dozen patron dancers on one of those postage stamp dancing floors, and a half dozen chorus girls to dash in frequently with "hot" numbers.

• • •

There was a small, circular bar with a tough looking bartender continuously swabbing the mahogany with a wet bar towel that, it was easy to imagine, reeked of stale beer. And every now and then there was a murder, or a threat of murder. Few of them were love murders. Mostly they were inspired by the beer gangs, the Al Capones and Dutch Schultzes of the period.

"Johnny 2x4" offers plenty of entertainment of a kind, but it is dated entertainment. As melodrama it is not as good as the best, which probably was the piece called "Broadway" that Phil Dunning and George Abbott wrote in 1926. And as a memory of speakeasy days it is, as said, depressing rather than cheering.

Jack Arthur and Evelyn Wyckoff, two who have had success in radio work, play the leads. Leonard Sues is an authentic young man with a horn and a quartet that came thru the prohibition period as the Yacht Club Boys help with the songs.

Eddie Cantor. [NBC Photo.]

It has been a week for reminiscence. Eddie Cantor discovered an anniversary date, that of March 24, when he was brought back from the Pacific coast, where he was singing in a vaudeville act with Bedini and Arthur, to take a job with Florenz Ziegfeld, who had recently started a "Midnight Frolic" on the roof of the New Amsterdam theater in New York. That was in 1917, a month before we joined up with the first World war.

Cantor, who was just starting his career as a blackfaced singer of songs with banjo eyes and white spectacle frames, did so well on the roof that he was asked to take a part in the next "Follies," produced the following June. For the next 10 years he was a "Follies" feature, making his debut in fast company such as that of Will Rogers, Fannie Brice, W. C. Fields, and Bert Williams, the famed colored comedian.

Tuesday night Cantor stopped the proceedings of his current "Banjo Eyes" long enough to remind the audience of his nervous beginnings on Broadway a quarter of a century back, and then swung easily into a revival of the old songs. He still is singing the best of them with the same old jiggling enthusiasm and, I think, a shade less abandon. Which is an improvement. In the years that have flown he has amassed a large family and a comfortable fortune.

• • •

There also was a touch of reminiscence in a court fight organized by the burlesque theaters to have their licenses restored. Periodically Mayor La Guardia and his license commissioner, Paul Moss, decide that the burlesquers, who are thicker than thieves in the 42d street district, and have been for the last 10 years, are going too far and close them up.

For a few days the strip teasers and the tough comedians are out of jobs and there is a hue and cry about the evils of censorship and the rights of the individual in a democracy. Then the burlesquers agree that they will keep their dancing ladies decently covered, or at least covered, and fumigate their comedians' humor. There are conferences, the licenses are restored, and the old order is resumed.

• • •

This time, however, a more spectacular fight than usual developed. The burlesquers hired Morris Ernst, a battling defender of the oppressed, to go to court for them and prove to a judge that Shakespeare wrote dialog into "The Taming of the Shrew," for instance, that was far worse than anything spoken in burlesque.

Organizations that specialize in protecting the civil rights of citizens passed resolutions, and even the drama critics' circle, which up to this time has taken little part in such debates, called a special meeting to protest that if Commissioner Moss wanted to hale the offending showfolk into court that was one thing, but if he was just taking their licenses away from them because neither he nor the mayor liked their shows, that was something else and should be looked into.

Meantime, the stripping ladies have been loafing and, probably, catching cold by getting overheated with their clothes on.

Ezra Stone.

The soldier shows seem to be settling down to a more or less satisfactory routine. The USO-CampShows, Inc., group, in charge of the professional units touring the camp, now are giving their entertainments free to the men, having cut off the 20 cent admission charge originally assessed. There still is a considerable number who feel that the men would rather pay their way and feel independent, but there is a larger crowd that insists that as long as the funds supporting the shows are raised by popular subscription the service men should be favored with free seats.

I have fine reports, too, from those shows that have been staged independently by the morale divisions of the various camps. In this second corps area, Ezra [Henry Aldrich] Stone has had great success with his all-soldier casts and personally staged productions of comedies such as "Three Men on a Horse" and "Brother Rat."

Friends stationed at Fort Leonard Wood, near St. Louis, write me that they have had quite as much success with a recent production of "Personal Appearance" as they had with an earlier production of "Petticoat Fever," which played to capacity audiences in their small theater for weeks. They fill out their casts with volunteer actresses from the city, their Officers' club underwrites their expenses, and they are by way of making a fine record. Recently they opened against the traveling camp shows unit playing "Out of the Frying Pan" and still played to standees.

Kaufman to Write, Produce and Direct Hollywood Movies

George Kaufman, author of numerous successful plays, a number of which were written in collaboration with either Moss Hart or Edna Ferber, has disclosed his recent acceptance of an offer from Hollywood. Under a three year contract he will work for Warner Brothers as producer, director, and writer. His contract stipulates that he will have complete authority over the pictures he makes.

His duties in Hollywood will not put an end to his association with the legitimate stage, however. His movie contract does not bind him to any specific dates for delivering his pictures! Altho Warner Brothers seem to expect him on the coast by late spring, Kaufman states that it will more probably be "the middle of next winter" before he is ready to start work on his first film. This will be an original story, the first of three required by the contract.

Altho he has written and adapted many plays for the screen, this will be the first time he has tried his hand at directing and producing for the films. Warner Brothers are currently filming the Kaufman-Hart stage success, "George Washington Slept Here."

Notes of the Theater

Buddy Ebsen.

"Good Night, Ladies," a farce by Cyrus Wood, is the latest addition to the spring list of plays. With Buddy Ebsen and Skeets Gallagher as its stars, the farce follows "Papa Is All" into the Blackstone theater on Sunday, April 12. To some extent the plot is derived from "Ladies' Night in a Turkish Bath," by Avery Hopwood and Charleton Andrews, which enjoyed great popularity a generation ago. The present farce is said to be brand new in its treatment, however, retaining only one important scene from the story of its predecessor. "Good Night, Ladies" was produced on the west coast by Howard Lang and Al Rosen, and comes here direct from a profitable engagement of several weeks at the Curran theater in San Francisco. The cast of 14 includes Bernadene Hayes, Vivian Austin, Anthony Blair, Marlo Dwyer, and Dora Clement.

Evidently "Papa Is All" is making a good thing of it down at the Blackstone, for the Pennsylvania Dutch comedy will be held in town for another fortnight, for a return engagement totaling five weeks. The easy humor and amusing local color of the play have caught the fancy of Chicago playgoers, as they did in its too short first engagement of two weeks at Christmas time.

The cast of "Candle in the Wind," the Maxwell Anderson drama now entering its final week at the Erlanger theater, includes several admirable actors who either are appearing in Chicago for the first time or have played here so little as to be virtual newcomers. Louis Borell, who is cast as Raoul St. Cloud, Miss Hayes' lover, was born in Amsterdam, Holland, of French Huguenot lineage. In Holland he had great experience, from 1922 on, as a repertory player, appearing in Dutch versions of Shakespeare, Ibsen, Moliere, and modern plays. In 1930-'31 he toured the Dutch East Indies. Between 1936 and 1940 he was active on the London stage.

John Wengraf, a Viennese, began his stage career at the age of 18. The rôle of the harsh Nazi colonel in "Candle in the Wind" is his first in America. In Vienna he acted in plays by Shaw, Molnar, Schnitzler, and Wilde, as well as nearly 200 others in the last 12 years. He played the part of Francis Bacon in the first Viennese performances of Maxwell Anderson's "Elizabeth and Essex."

Lotte Lenya, currently seen as Cissie, the maid, is the wife of Kurt Weill, composer of "Lady in the Dark" and "Knickerbocker Holiday." Like Mr. Wengraf, she is a native of Vienna. Her first acting experience, however, was in Zurich. Later on in Berlin she achieved great success in two of her husband's works, "Dreigroschen Oper" [a modernized version of "The Beggar's Opera"] and "Mahagonny." Mr. and Mrs. Weill have just built a new home in the country an hour outside of New York, and are eagerly looking forward to the impending privilege of American citizenship.

When Maurice Evans selected "Macbeth" as his next production he explained that he felt this particular Shapespeare tragedy to be especially timely, because it deals with a dictator and his bloody purges. From all box office reports, both in New York and in the first weeks of the road tour which will bring it to the Erlanger theater here on April 27, its timeliness and its excitement are fully apparent to every audience. Long decades ago "Macbeth" used to be one of the prime Shakespearean favorites, but in more recent times it has received short shrift.

Stirred by Mr. Evans' and Judith Anderson's record of 131 performances on Broadway—almost double the longest previous engagement—John Gielgud has decided that "Macbeth" is the proper vehicle for him in England. He has already embarked on a tour of the provinces which will lead shortly to a London presentation. In England, however, "Macbeth" is not quite so much of a novelty, for last year Sybil Thorndike and Lewis Casson took the play to many remote districts, and enjoyed great success in it, especially among the Welsh coal miners.

"High Kickers," the musical comedy starring George Jessel and Sophie Tucker, closed in New York last night. After a Holy week lay-off the tour will begin with a fortnight's engagement in Boston. On May 11 the Chicago engagement begins at the Erlanger theater, with the hope and expectation of a prosperous summer run. According to present indications, "High Kickers" will be our only spring and summer musical, except for the Yiddish "What a Life," starring Molly Picon, at the Civic Opera house, beginning April 22.

"Everyman," the famous 15th century morality play, will be given a special performance tonight in Scott hall on the Evanston campus of Northwestern university. The presentation will honor Dean Ralph Dennis of the university's school of speech, who will retire this summer. Albert Hachmeister of Des Plaines plays the central rôle of Everyman, and Patricia Lewis of Evanston appears as Good Deeds.

The Jewish People's Institute is in the midst of five lectures by J. Bradley Griffin, entitled "A Call to the Theater." Today's lecture, the second in the series, is on the subject, "What Shall Be the Credo of Little Theaters?" For next Sunday Mr. Griffin announces the title, "Director vs. Actor." The course is endowed by the M. L. Ottenheimer Foundation.

Martinez Sierra's comedy, "The Romantic Young Lady," continues for one more week, thru Saturday evening, at the Goodman theater. The next major production at the Goodman, opening April 16, will be Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet." Meanwhile the Children's theater of the Goodman, directed by Charlotte Chorpenning, is offering Saturday performances of "The Squire's Bride," with a star known as Cloverleaf, the wonder horse. The children's play will be given every Saturday afternoon in April, with an additional morning performance on April 11.

Noel Coward Plays Established Many Favorites on Stage

The plays of Noel Coward have had an important place in the establishing of many favorite performers with American audiences. After her initial American tour in "Charlot's Revue," Gertrude Lawrence greatly enhanced her reputation by her performances in Coward's "Private Lives" and "Tonight at 8:30," in both of which she was co-starred with the author himself.

Beatrice Lillie added greatly to her popularity by her appearances in "This Year of Grace" and "Set to Music," both of which were authored and composed by Coward. Evelyn Laye made her American debut in "Bittersweet." Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne spent one of their gayest seasons together in "Design for Living." Laurence Olivier appeared in "Private Lives" several years before his success in S. N. Behrman's "No Time for Comedy."

In the current Selwyn theater company of "Blithe Spirit" Annabella, the French wife of Tyrone Power, undertakes her first long-term acting assignment on the American stage; her only previous stage appearance in the United States was a fortnight's summer engagement in "Liliom."

And Estelle Winwood, the amusing medium of "Blithe Spirit," has appeared in three previous Noel Coward plays, "Fallen Angels," "The Vortex," and "Tonight at 8:30."

Eddie Dowling's Illness Cancels One Act Plays

Eddie Dowling's continuing illness has canceled the scheduled Broadway presentation of the triptych entitled "Life, Laughter, and Tears," in which he was to have appeared in three one act plays, two by William Saroyan and one by Sean O'Casey. Mr. Dowling fell ill after two or three tryout performances in New England.

George Rasely Added to Faculty at Music Camp

George Rasely, former tenor of the Metropolitan opera, is being added to the faculty roster of the National Music camp at Interlochen, Mich., this summer. "The high school and college musicians who will attend the National Music camp this summer will find Mr. Rasely an inspiring leader," Joseph E. Maddy, president and musical director of the camp, said. Rasely was soloist for 10 years at the Fifth Avenue Baptist church in New York. Joining the Metropolitan opera, he made an outstanding success in the stuttering comic tenor rôle in Smetana's "The Bartered Bride."

"Salute to Negro Troops."

"Salute to Negro Troops," a pageant tracing the history of the American Negro, was recently presented in New York under the auspices of the Harlem Victory council, "In the service of unity and morale."

Service Men's Center a Very Sociable Place

By Cousin Eve.

The Chicago Service Men's center is the most sociable place ever. Life is a series of parties there all day and every day in the week. Dance music booms from one floor, choral singing bursts from another. You hear the tat tat of pingpong on one level, the rattle of dishes on another, where there is a marvelous canteen. Then there is the library sector, with lounges and hangings in gay chintz, a librarian, current magazines, all the new books, writing desks. The great room has flowering plants and ferns, reading lamps, and comparative quiet. It couldn't be nicer.

Mrs. Clark J. Lawrence, chairman of the woman's committee of the center, thought midweek a better time for my incursion than a week-end, when 8 or 9 thousand men are stowed inside, with a vast overflow on the pavement awaiting a break.

On ordinary nights attendance runs a couple of thousand service men, with 900 young dance partners, each with her special photograph passport.

We found a bustling Traveler's Aid counter in the lobby run by women of that active group. They distribute 9,000 tickets a week to theaters, movies, and concerts, plus information on travel, lodging, and private entertaining.

• • •

Mrs. William Waller Jr. is head of the home hospitality section for people who wish to lunch or dine men of our fighting forces, and the lobby has bulletins of special club parties, dancing, and amusements on the outside. All these activities are investigated beforehand by the FBI.

Mrs. Sartelle Brooks is chairman of the 84 hostesses on active duty at the center. The Junior league has taken over the job of ushering, for nobody gets anywhere in the teeming beehive without a guide with a red satin sash.

We took an elevator to the eighth floor ballroom and worked down from that elevation. Here in the half light the densest dancing was going forward. Mostly the men were bluejackets, tall and husky, the music was WPA, and the dancing girls were of many nationalities and employed downtown all day. There is an organ in this ballroom and the men prefer it to the more splendid assembly hall on the fifth floor, with polished parquet.

The hostesses have their hands full on the dance floors. What with shy sailors and wallflowers who haven't the courage to ask men to dance, the women of Mrs. Brook's committee are busy as bees. Among the printed rules for these ladies are the following: "Relax. Smile often, and make each boy feel welcome and at home. Move about and be casual. Boys don't enjoy being stared at. Don't introduce boys and girls unless you feel that the boy would welcome it."

A few of the hostesses are: Mrs. Clark Lawrence, Mrs. Percy Brooks, Mrs. James Field, Mrs. Roger Faherty, Mrs. Ralph Hamill, Mrs. Byrd Henderson, Mrs. Dudley Mudge, Mrs. A. O. Plamondon Jr., Mrs. Ernest Von Ammon, Mrs. Byron Webster, and Mrs. Henry C. Woods.

• • •

The floor with the canteen is the most popular. The food flowing in from Chicago's ace chefs and fanciest cooks is sensational. Day after day and week after week the supply of magnificent cakes, sandwiches, and pies never lessens. Mrs. Edward J. Kelly, wife of Chicago's mayor, is head of the canteen and, until her recent illness, was often on duty 12 hours a day.

There are scores of tables in the canteen, as well as counter seats, and a WPA revue was going on at the far end. Mrs. Walter Heller is vice chairman of the woman's committee, Mrs. Daniel Leonard heads the reception group, and Mrs. Gordon Lang is chairman of entertainment. Other of the women's committee are Mrs. Frank Hixon, Mrs. James Barker, Miss Marjorie Kimball, Mrs. William A. Ryan, Mrs. Harry Watkins, and Miss Katharine Trees.

The volunteer work at the Service Men's center is so interesting that waiting for a job on one of the major committees is like waiting for some diplomat's post. Few diplomats die and none ever resign. The instant we left the former Elk's club I wanted to be back again. It was so full of life and purposeful inside—so dark and quiet in the street.

A general in full war regalia had this to say of the Chicago Service center: "It's the finest thing of the kind in the country—or the wide world," he amended.

St. James Cathedral church, scene of a thousand weddings, had one of its loveliest Wednesday afternoon at 5. Mary, the Joseph Ryersons' eldest girl, became the bride of Dr. and Mrs. Edward V. L. Brown's youngest boy, Donald A. Ko who is soon to be sent to some fighting front.

The church was very full; there was a program of organ music; there were high standards of huge callas in the chancel, where hung the American flag and that of the Episcopal church. There were callas on the altar, and there was the usual hush of expectancy for the bridal cortège. The bride had designed her own white satin wedding dress and the cut of her tulle bridal veil—she is a competent young bride. Soon after Mrs. Ryerson had arrived in the left front pew escorted by her son, Joseph Jr., came the good old Wagnerian bridal chant and the padded tread of the ushers. Then the bevy of lovely young attendants in turquoise tulle bouffant skirts, long waisted bodices with delicate fichus and veils of blue tulle. Each girl carried a huge bouquet of the reddest roses, and one and all had a long curl bob on her fair young shoulders, and they were as chic and beautiful as crisply frocked French dolls.

The bride's maid of honor was her sister, Annie Lawrie Ryerson, another radiantly pretty creature, and young Ellen Ryerson, Grace Shumway, Mrs. Clarence Jones, Mrs. Anthony Ryerson, and Mrs. Matthew Rockwell were the other attendants. The bride's mother wore a pale blue silk frock with a scarf of sable and a small flower hat. Several smart print dresses in large design under fur wraps caught the eye outside.

Mrs. Edward Brown's costume was beige with a large hat, and Mrs. Paul Welling's white flower hat was the prettiest white one on my horizon. Being both Lent and wartime, the tenor of the occasion was somewhat subdued—but it was a beautiful wedding nevertheless, and followed by a small reception at the Astor street house.

• • •

Isabel McBirney Stimson came on from Rye with her husband, Henry Stimson, and her son, Henry III., who was badly smashed in a motor accident in December, but is now mended again. Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson walked out in the long parade of bridal relatives, the delightful Nora very chic in gray costume, hat and furs. Also in the pews reserved for relatives were Mr. and Mrs. Morris L. Johnston and the younger Hugh Johnston family and Mr. and Mrs. I. Newton Perry.

The sight of Newton treking smartly down the aisle reminded me of a story current about him, who happens to be one of the few Chicago men who wear a mustache. It's a dark mustache and somewhat curly and has a foreign air. Lately a foursome of women were playing bridge when one of them sat as if petrified holding a king of clubs suspended in midair. Gazing at the card with a look of surprise she continued to hold it out in front of her until admonished by the other to "play ball—what's wrong with that king of clubs, anyway?" "I never noticed until this minute," said she, "that it looks just like Newton Perry."

Finding the idea a bit intriguing one took time off to run thru several packs of cards, and none of my kinds of kings or jacks either looked a bit like Newt. If he be a card at all, why not an ace, say I?

Mrs. Alva Myrdal was certainly one of the prettiest pale blondes who ever flew out of Sweden by plane. She is a noted economist and in her honor the Scandinavian Foundation of Chicago and the League of Swedish Women collaborated for a reception Wednesday afternoon at the Arts club. Both dining rooms were crowded with handsome Nordics. The women of the north are especially beautiful, with fine features and great sad eyes the color of sea water. Mostly they are blondes with ashen hair and tall, straight figures.

The late Ira Nelson Morris set up the Scandinavian Foundation in Chicago and his widow sat on Mrs. Myrdal's right at the high table during tea. Mrs. Jacob Baur figured at the samovar and others seated with the honored traveler were the Swedish consul, Goesta Oldenburg, and his wife; Hjalmar Forsberg, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Q. Johnson, Mrs. John Sartelle, Mrs. Sartelle Brooks, Miss Florence Bartlett, Mrs. Arthur Bissell, and Mrs. Clarence Englund, a charming matron born in Norway.

Mrs. Myrdal's husband, a scientist, was at Princeton university on an exchange professorship when Germany and Russia clashed last summer. After that goings and comings from Stockholm were impossible and only after an infinity of planning and waiting did the beautiful young economist reach Scotland by plane via Norway. From there to Canada was much easier traveling. All this Mrs. Myrdal told in flawless English and well chosen words to which were added a Nordic ideal of union among the northern states, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Finland, Iceland, and Greenland.

For the time both Prof. and Mrs. Myrdal are lecturers at Princeton, where there is a rare society of intellectuals, many of them refugees. Among the people there are Mr. and Mrs. Serge Cheremetieff, who left their farmstead on the heights above Monte Carlo to providence and chose to settle at Princeton. Mme. Cheremetieff is the former Stella Webber of Chicago, and her husband is a descendant of a great and wealthy Russian family now scattered wide and dying out.

Cheremetieff became an antiquaire in Paris for the 20 years or so following the last war and met many Americans at that time, among them the girl he later married. The history of his branch of the Cheremetieffs is dashed with tremendous romance. His great-grandfather, lost in the Russian forest while on a boar hunt, met up with a beautiful peasant girl who led him safely out. He fell in love, married the lovely peasant and set up a course of study in Paris and London for his wife that ended in her becoming the toast of the town when they returned to St. Petersburg, the Russian capital at that time. The Cheremetieffs are supposed to inherit their large, rugged frames from the strong peasant strain of their beautiful ancestress.

Capt. Jack Gade has finally written a book which is piled up in the book stores. It looks fascinating and has a title that captivates the roving eye, "All My Born Days," by John Gade, captain of naval intelligence of the United States navy.

The Gades were born in Norway, which you soon discover on arriving in Oslo, where taximen at once show you the fine old stone mansion not far from the royal palace where they all were born. However, the Gade men have always been divided in politics. Herman Gade, after being for years mayor of Lake Forest, became an ambassador of the king of Norway and lived for 11 years in Brazil. Horace Gade settled in Boston and is a thorobred Bostonian, and John Gade, the present autobiographist, entered the United States navy and has been naval attaché at many a brilliant capital. His daughter, Peggy, married Richard M. Delafield, younger son of Gen. Delafield, head of the old Hudson river family of that name, and is a sister-in-law of Mrs. Jack Cohane, chairman of "Bundles" in Chicago.

St. Albans, Vt., quite near the Canadian border, is the town where Lawrence and Kitty Meeker are about to set up their household goods and leave us flat. Mrs. Meeker and Mrs. James Forgan, her sister-in-law, are just back from a 10 day trip of inspection of the town of St. Albans and its available dwellings. The place is an amusing jumble of new and old with a few remaining early day houses. On one of these the Meekers have an option—the owners are going away on war duty. Lawrence Meeker has become interested in the cheese industry and its ramifications and has settled in a dairy center—very lovely country, by the way. The James Forgans have had their Vermont farm for three years now, and are more and more delighted with the ancient place. Margaret Forgan found the old house and fell in love with it. And Jim Forgan bought it and added a cellar, plumbing, floors, heat, windows, chimneys, electricity, closets, and a dozen or so minor gadgets like refrigerator and baths. The garden and farmyard were left "as is" with all their early day charm of pristine simplicity.

When Chicago Was Young

By Herma Clark

Somewhere in Florida,
March 16, 1942.

Dear Chicagoland friends: As you will observe, this letter does not bear the date 1894, which you usually find at the head of this column. Your editor is in Florida, and instead of writing of the happenings of the Notable Nineties she will tell you of events of the Furious Forties, if you like that alliterative designation for the present decade.

The main objective of her pilgrimage is St. Petersburg, where "Albums and Antimacassars," a program of monologs of the Elegant Eighties, is to be offered to the woman's club of that west coast resort. But first we spend two nights in Tampa, not often thought of as a winter resort. Tampa, a busy commercial city, has never before tried to impress on the world the fact that it is a pleasant place to spend the cold months, but this year it has made an effort to attract tourists.

Tampa is a young city. Not until 1885 did a railroad reach it, a village of 900 inhabitants. Today its population is 108,000.

The many uniforms seen on the street recall the days when, during the Spanish-American war, it was the chief point of embarkation for Cuba. The insignia on many of the uniforms of today denote some form of air service, for the army's southeastern air base is here. Besides MacDill field, the army has taken over Drew field, one of Tampa's municipal airports.

An air of seriousness pervades the city, as is the case in most coast towns. A siren wails its warning, not that an air raid is imminent, but that all may know what its sound is like.

The hotels are well filled, even tho it is late in the season, for there is a shortage of rooms, with so many of the military in town. The Mirasol, in which we find a haven, is quiet and not unduly expensive. It is out on Davis Island, and would be peaceful if everywhere there were not airplanes patrolling the coast. Guardians of the sky! We are glad to find that today in the hymnal of the Congregational denomination there is a hymn written for the aviator supplementing the ones which used to be sung, "for those in peril on the deep." Modern inventions bring changes, even in church hymnals, one finds.

Mrs. A. H. Peterson, who hails from your scribe's beloved little home town, Princeton, Ill., is staying at the Tampa Terrace, and suggests a trip to the Dupree gardens, 17 miles north of the city. Always agreeable to seeing flowers, we drove out with her to this charming spot, so new that it is not well known to tourists, but destined to become more popular year by year with garden lovers. William Dupree, its owner, is a Tampa lawyer, who started several years ago to develop into a dream garden the 900 acres he owned. He has turned his hobby into a beauty spot which visitors gladly pay to see. From foreign lands as well as from different parts of America he has brought plants, trees, flowers which can be raised in south Florida. He has built bird houses, bridges, rest houses. Music sounds softly from concealed boxes in the trees, and to the air of "Trees" one inspects the tropical growth of all kinds. The place was opened to the public two seasons ago, and the first year brought 35,000 visitors.

In the tearoom of the gardens we find Mrs. Irma Walters, ex-Chicagoan. In Chicago she was connected with the School of Domestic Science on Belden avenue, and for many years she was a saleswoman of books in one of our great stores. Now she is co-hostess with Mrs. Martha Jarvis at the Dupree gardens tearoom, where we eat spice cake made from a recipe of Mrs. Walters' grandmother. Leaving, we dine at a restaurant in Ybor City, the Spanish section of Tampa, where food is delicious and the waiters are picturesque in fancy costumes suggesting that of the toreador.

Tampa is hospitable to the trailer traveler, and its trailer park has room for 1,300 of these homes on wheels. In tribute to the city's interest in their welfare, the Tin Can Tourists of the World delight to hold their annual conventions here. The organization was founded in Tampa in 1920.

Mrs. Peterson drives us across the Gandy bridge to St. Petersburg next day. The woman's club of this west coast resort has a charming building free of debt on Snell Isle, the fine residence section of the city. Here, on March 13, we find among other Chicagoland friends Mrs. Wirt Humphrey, a past president of the Evanston Woman's club. Mrs. Fred S. White of Lake Shore drive, Chicago, is another friend who has spent several weeks in St. Petersburg, as is Mrs. Elizabeth Bowie of St. Charles.

Mrs. R. W. Roberts, formerly of Milwaukee, now of Florida, is program chairman of the St. Petersburg Woman's club and is a pleasing picture in an old blue gown with which is worn a dull red jacket. Her costume expresses her vivid personality, for she is one of the most forceful and interesting women in St. Petersburg. Besides being program chairman of the woman's club, she is president of the Carreno Music club, a director of the Florida Federation of Woman's Clubs, and chairman of the committee on the sale of defense stamps and bonds for south Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Roberts, whose hospitality knows no bounds, entertain most of those who appear on the city's club programs, and thus it is the happy fortune of your correspondent to be domiciled in a guest room of their beautiful house overlooking Tampa bay, with a view unrivaled in the state, we think. Osa Johnson recently occupied this room on a visit to St. Petersburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Roberts have a delightful summer home in Oconomowoc, Wis.

"Hoping you are the same," as the old-fashioned letter writer was careful to say, I am, your friend,

HERMA CLARK.

Clubwomen to Dedicate Wooded Area

By Irene Steyskal.

There was a time, in the good days of peace, when conservation had, for most, but one connotation, and that, serene and redolent of beauty, the protection of the forests of the land. The old meaning will be uppermost in the mind of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs next Thursday when scores of its members will gather in the state woodlands of Mason county to dedicate the memorial plantation planted in coöperation with the state conservation department.

Gathering at 10 o'clock at the CCC camp near Forest City, the women will be met by A. J. Tomasek, state forester, who will serve as guide along the woodland trails.

• • •

The acres to be dedicated are submarginal land planted with an experimental tree crop. Forest markers setting them off are to be in place for the ceremonies, which will be held in the morning. Mrs. Preston L. Wettaw, president, and Mrs. S. R. Johnson, conservation chairman, are participating in the name of the federation, with Livingston E. Osborne, director of conservation, and Tomasek representing the state.

Mrs. Johnson has arranged a full day's program.

At noon the party will leave the newly dedicated Illinois Federation forest and drive to the natural history survey laboratory near Havana, where they will be provided with box lunches and hot coffee. After refreshments the clubwomen will board the laboratory boat, Anax, for a trip around Lake Chautauqua, set in the national wildlife refuge, in the course of which Dr. T. H. Frison, chief of the state survey, will explain the waterfowl, fisheries, and game management work in progress.

• • •

After the trip on the lake the party will drive to the United States fish and wildlife service headquarters for a final survey of the area from the observation tower.

In planning the dedication Mrs. Johnson has emphasized to the clubs of the federation the importance of continuing their efforts toward reforestation.

"While the conservation department is doing everything possible to promote the conservation of defense products," she says, "clubs must not lose sight of the fact that reforestation is even more important now than in peacetime. Europeans say that to be without wood in time of war is almost as bad as being without bread. Trees must be planted now to replace the thousands which are cut daily for the national defense program.

"Keep reforestation in your budget." Mrs. Johnson urges the clubs. "Plant at least one acre of trees this year, either in Mason county, with the state, or in Pope county, with the federal forest service. To bring trees to Illinois prairies is to promote state and national welfare."

Mrs. Charles C. Wells. [Ray Photo.]

Of immediate interest to clubwomen of the federation in the Chicago area is a plan completed by Mrs. Charles C. Wells, program bureau chairman, for tion programs in addition to the regular monthly auditions.

Mrs. Wells has arranged these three special audiauditions to aid both senior and junior clubs in planning their programs for next year.

The first will be held tomorrow night at the Woman's club in Evanston. The north metropolitan section of today's paper carries full information on the talent to be presented.

The second program will be given Monday, April 13, at the 19th Century club in Oak Park, and the third, on the following Monday night in the Ridge Park fieldhouse.

Many Students in Palm Beach for Vacations

By Helen Van Hoy Smith.

Palm Beach, like the world, is so full of a number of things at this time that it is difficult to single out just a few for mention.

PALM BEACH, FLA.

Spring sales are blossoming in swank Worth avenue and County road shops, and society is launching violent "counter attacks" in search of bargains.

Then there's the little matter of hoarding. One merchant is said to have sold $50 worth of fine French soap to one customer and $250 worth of perfume to another. Other little items being laid away for future reference include razor blades — $25 worth at a time—powder and lipstick. Moreover, on many a Palm Beach pantry shelf there is said to be enough sugar to sweeten the bitter tea of Gen. Yen.

Palm Beach makes its own rules as to what to wear to cocktail parties. Is a lady on the golf course? And does time slip up on her? In that case, she goes right on as is. A Palm Beach cocktail party is the melting pot of the fashion world; anything goes from trailing chiffon to tailored slacks. Hats are high, wide, and handsome, or tiny, tipsy, and turbulent—many leave them at home. There is a style of hairdress seen frequently that features an intricate bird's nest arrangement. Many a middle aged woman who in her home town would be wearing black satin with point lace collars blossoms out in brick dust pants with yellow overblouse when she comes to Palm Beach.

• • •

College students here for the Easter vacation are taking the resort by storm. Among those seen under these palms and pines are Naomi Donnelley, Kathryn Bimm Lyon, Charles Clarke Jelke, and John F. Jelke III. Miss Lana Jelke and Minot Frasier Jelke also are here. Joan Metzger, accompanied by a classmate, Carmel Snow of New York, has joined her mother, Mrs. Edward F. Hutton, and Mr. Hutton at Four Winds.

A recent party in the younger set was that given by Mr. and Mrs. Thorne Donnelley for Naomi aboard the houseboat Silver Wedding. Some 40 of the school set enjoyed dancing beneath a silver moon.

The annual party of the Animal Rescue league was held at Concha Marina, home of Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane, a great lover of dogs and owner of several champions. Most benefit parties are rather raucous affairs with much scraping of chairs and echoing of high pitched feminine voices, but this party was decorous and dignified.

Concha Marina is built around not one patio but two. One contains a swimming pool reflecting gracefully leaning palm trees, and the other has a fountain as its central decoration. The house is on Ocean boulevard and huge square windows frame the view into a series of gorgeous seascapes. Mrs. George Neumann was general chairman of the party. Mrs. W. H. Gardner, a year round resident of Palm Beach and a former Kentuckian, is president of the league.

Hugh Dillman has been reëlected president of the Everglades club. The Everglades club is the heart and center of social life in Palm Beach. Its 1,200 members comprise practically all the who's who of the estates and cottage colony augmented by many of the hotel dwellers. There is a move on foot to prolong the season at the Everglades Golf club until May 15, tho the club itself closes March 31. Last Wednesday's Tombola was the final one of the season. The "Till We Meet Again" dinner-dance is scheduled for next Tuesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Miller will be back in Chicago by April 1. They have had guests recently from Oak Park. Mr. and Mrs. Sigurd Olsen are at Whitehall. Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Davis Jr. are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Davis at their lake front villa. Charles S. Davis was among the guests at a stag luncheon given by John Holliday Perry at the Bath and Tennis club in honor of Frank K. Houston, New York banker. Other guests included Joseph E. Davies, Atwater Kent, Charles Francis Coe, Jules Bache, and Ernest G. Howes.

Margaret Sittig, violinist, will appear in recital this afternoon at the Ross J. Beatty home on North Ocean boulevard.

Mrs. Lawrence Townsend of Washington, D. C., is in Palm Beach and has already sponsored one of her famous musicals. Mrs. Townsend is the guest of Mrs. John H. Gibbons of Washington and is being widely fêted.

Dutch Painting Is Masterpiece of the Month

By Eleanor Jewett.

The "Portrait of a Lady," by Antonio Moro, a Dutch artist who was born in 1517 and died some 60 years later, has been chosen by the Art institute as the Masterpiece of the Month for April. The portrait of this unknown lady probably was painted at Antwerp in 1568. It is a beautiful canvas and the sitter is revealed as an interesting subject. At the moment she is relaxed, a little curious, and definitely at her ease, probably waiting for the visitor to open the conversation. The canvas hangs in gallery 5, near the front entrance of the Art institute, and will be on view thru April 30.

On Wednesday from 2 to 2:30 o'clock, in studio one of W-G-N, a free broadcast will be given on "Paul Gauguin, the Man Who Makes Human Beings." It is the final presentation of a series in the lives of famous artists, sponsored by the Art institute. In spite of the title, which might make one think Gauguin a mystery man or wonder doctor when in reality he was a stockbroker who in middle age left his wife and family for the adventure of painting in the South seas [and did very badly at it, financially speaking, tho well if considered in the terms of modern art], the story will be realistic rather than gruesome. Players of the Goodman theater will present the sketch. Those who care to be present for the little play may receive tickets by writing to W-G-N.

The Art institute school is issuing a news letter to all those now in government service who have been associated in any way in past years with the school or the Goodman theater, the Burnham or the Ryerson libraries, or with the Art institute itself.

For its part the museum, coördinating with the OCD, has worked out a complete system of defense and evacuation to safety areas in the event of an air raid. Air raid wardens have been chosen from its staff and members, and the first drills have already been held. The Red Cross is instructing a class in first aid and emergency treatment in the clubroom on Thursdays from 3 to 6 o'clock. The course is conducted by Dr. Reznick, assisted by Mrs. Grace Scott, and extends over a 15 week period.

A great deal of excitement has been aroused by the fact that Annabella [Mrs. Tyrone Power], who is now playing in Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit," and three other members of the cast come regularly to the class. Norman Rice, dean of the Art institute school, has proved himself a satisfying actor when it comes to playing "patient" for a bandaging demonstration.

Saturday afternoon is Children's theater at the Goodman theater. The current play for children is "The Squire's Bride" and the title does not do justice in the least to the humor and gayety that fill the stage from start to finish of the delightful drama. The origin of the play is a Norwegian folk tale; it is one of the most amusing and colorful plays the Goodman has offered to the children of Chicago. It will run thru May 9.

The Florence Dibell Bartlett public lectures, which are given each Thursday at 6:30 p. m. in Fullerton hall, Art institute, and are free, will have Miss Helen Parker for speaker this week and next. Her subject on April 2 will be "Art in Mexico Before the Spaniards Came"; on April 9 her topic is "Our Country as Seen by the Artists."

Dudley Crafts Watson has an interesting schedule of tours planned for the next few weeks, full details of which one may have by writing to Mary A. Danforth, tour manager for Dr. Watson, the Art institute. On Thursday from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. the plan is to visit the churches of Chicago, with luncheon at one of Chicago's famous clubs.

The next tour, "Our Colonial Southeast," will start Wednesday April 15, and run thru Tuesday, April 28. A beautiful stretch of country will be covered by de luxe motor coach, including the Great Smokies, Charleston, Williamsburg, and Washington, D. C.

"Chicago's Countryside: A Garden Tour to Our Western Suburbs" is planned for Saturday, May 16, from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. It will include the 16th annual Chicago flower show to be held this year at Thornhill farm, the Morton arboretum, the Tribune Experimental farm, and a number of private homes and gardens. Luncheon and dinner will be served at two very unusual country places.

Chicago's Tower Town will be the trip on Wednesday, May 6, from 9 to 9, and it will include visits to the studios of several noted Chicago artists and the seeing of several of Chicago's most brilliant interiors, with lunch and dinner at two popular Chicago clubs.

The All-Illinois Society of Fine Arts opened its annual water color exhibition yesterday at the Stevens hotel. The show is unusually fine. Deepening its interest is the addition this year of a notable group of self-portraits for which the artists have sacrificed personal vanity in their search for truth.

The Chicago Woman's Aid, 185 North Wabash avenue, opened last Tuesday an exhibit of the work of five foreign artists who, because of war conditions, have been forced to flee from Europe. Ernest Dreyfuss is showing character portraits in oil; Theodore Aleysha, landscapes of mountains and Chicago scenes, in pastel and oil; Aron Dejez, landscapes in water color and oil; Frank Durbon, water colors, posters, and book illustrations, and Margaret Irangott, jewelry and sketches of silvercraft.

The Ridge Art association has an attractive exhibit of work by artist members at the Club Woman's bureau, Mandel Brothers, to April 4. Among the exhibitors are Claude Buck, Leslie Buck, William H. Mosby, Nan Rice, and Tunis Ponsen. It is practically a professional show and a number of brilliant canvases are hung.

A one man show of cartoons and paintings by William Gropper is on view at the Benjamin galleries, 154 East Superior street, to April 26. A charge of 28 cents will be made to see the exhibit [10 cents for students and men in uniform of the armed forces], the proceeds to go to aid anti-Fascist refugees in Vichy concentration camps.

"HIS HONOR, THE MAYOR"

John Doctoroff, well known Chicago portrait painter, has recently completed this portrait of Mayor Edward J. Kelly for the mayor's cabinet, who will present it to the mayor. The artist is shown with his painting.

Slogan Gives Key to PTA Convention

As a slogan epitomizing the wartime purposes and aspirations of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, the national president, Mrs. William Kletzer of Portland, Ore., announced last week thru headquarters here that the 46th convention of the organization would have as its theme, "America strong, with spirit free." Delegates from the 28,000 affiliated Parent-Teacher associations, representing a membership of 2,500,000, will gather on Sunday, May 3, in San Antonio, Tex., for the meeting, which will continue thru five days.

Two forums, it was stated by Mrs. Warren L. Mabrey of Cape Girardeau, Mo., vice president and convention arangements chairman, would be held on specific problems of the times, one on education in wartime, the other on conservation. Noted educators and youth leaders will speak.

• • •

The war program of the congress, Mrs. Mabrey said, would serve as the basis upon which the entire program of the convention would be built. She enumerated as the chief elements: The conservation of human and natural resources; the registration and identification of all children; the promotion of health thru good nutrition; the prevention of epidemics by immunization; the creation of a vigorous public opinion to meet the educational emergency, and the upbuilding of character and morale.

Women in War Work

By India Moffett

[The Women in War Work department reports on women's activities in war and defense work and will answer questions of women wishing to take part in these activities.]

Mrs. H. S. Writes: "I read in your column that the aviation plant of the Buick company in Melrose Park interviews women for jobs every weekday from 8:15 until 9:30 a. m. and from 1:15 to 2:30 p. m. This is not true. I know about it from personal experience and I think it is unfortunate that you should publish such information which would send many women on an expensive wild goose chase.

"I set out on the street car one morning, after I had received over the telephone the same information you published, and rode nearly two hours before I reached the plant. There I was sent from one gate to another, but never allowed to put my foot inside, and finally a young boy pulled an application blank out of his pocket and told me to mail it in instead of returning it in person. There was no interview, no one even looked at me.

"The most important thing on the application blank was 'please do not fold' which was repeated many times. You could check the years of school training, but only one short line was left for other education. Types of jobs listed on the back of the application were mainly for men—at least women have not been trained for many of these jobs yet.

"I returned here from Mexico City because my friends were crticizing me for being unpatriotic. They felt that my education and years of experience should be used to help this country win the war and I am only too glad to do my share, but I'm wondering 'what's the use?' I have inquired at many factories in this area, but none of them seems to need willing, healthy workers."

This letter is typical of many we have received. It is true, we have published that applicants are interviewed at those hours for that is the information that was given on the telephone. An investigation revealed, however, that this is incorrect, for only application blanks are handed out at those times. It would be more considerate and fair if those who telephone for information about how to apply for work would be told to write in for application blanks, for interviews are arranged only by appointment after the applications have been mailed to the plant. The day I drove the 15 miles to the plant was a lovely, sunny spring day, but many of the women who have written to us had made the trip in bad weather, on street cars and buses, and we cannot wonder that they are discouraged and disgruntled.

I prepared for my excursion by wearing my most sensible looking clothes, exactly the sort a woman applying for work in a war industry should wear, I thought. None of these preparations mattered at all, for I never saw any one except a young clerk who handed out the application blanks at a gate, and a guard who consoled me for my disappointment at not being interviewed by saying, "Mail it in and you'll get an appointment card, maybe." The only part of my preparations that did matter was that I had worn a warm coat and low heeled shoes, for which I was thankful, for I had to stand in a nonmoving line for 30 minutes. When the line of about 150 started moving, it went at lightning speed for it only doubled back. No one was admitted thru the gate; each one was just handed a card.

The muttered comments made by some as they walked away were about like this: "Gosh, the run-around again"—"I've filled out three of these already and nothing's happened"—"I tried to get a card for my sister, too, but the guy wouldn't give me but one"—"Gee, and I spent my day off doing this!"

Emily Boskovich is one of the thousands of women working in industries in the Chicago area making war materials.

There were only two other women applying when I was there, both high class and intelligent looking but not the typical factory type. The men were interestingly varied as to type and they were of all ages. Apparently young and old, fairly prosperous and far from prosperous, men and women, all are anxious to find work in a war industry. "It pays swell," said one of my neighbors as we chatted, "and it's kinda nice to feel you're doing something worthwhile. That's why I'd like to give up the job I've got and do this."

Good luck, all of you who feel the same. The only advice we can give you is to persevere and keep trying. Fill out an application for every plant in this area engaged in war work and hope that before long you'll have a chance to go to work. But, inquire on the telephone whether you have to call in person for an application card, or whether you can secure it by writing. That is where those who have written to me, and I, made our mistake.

Two large plants that employ women are the Western Electric company and the Stewart-Warner corporation, but neither of these has taken women in as a wartime measure. They have increased the number of women in their employ, tho, for Western Electric now has 5,478 women in its Hawthorne plant as against 3,614 before Pearl Harbor. The Stewart-Warner plant now has over 3,000 women and it had only about 1,700 before the war started. This corporation reports that the number of its women employés increases every week and that it gives whatever training is necessary for work on the assembly line, inspection, or machine work. It is anticipated that eventually every man except a skilled mechanic whose place cannot be taken by any one who has not had many years of training will be replaced for the duration by a woman.

The Western Electric company also expects that the percentage of feminine workers will increase steadily. This company gives tests to would-be employés to determine dexterity, etc., and then gives whatever technical training is necessary right in its own plant. "Women who have been working in luxury industries will be looking for other employment soon," said the personnel manager the other day, "and," he continued, "housewives are an untapped source for war industry and a source we are sure is a good one."

Housewives may be an untapped source but they are not as a group unaware of the fact that they are going to be needed to produce the ammunition and machines their men need to win this war, and all housewives who are in a position to do so are "rarin' to go."

A. Ford Hinrichs, acting commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics of the United States department of labor, recently said that the nation's 30 million housewives rather than the 9 million lads who have not completed their schooling should contribute the millions who will be needed by labor for our all-out war effort. Speakers and writers with national audiences keep saying that 2,000,000 women must be engaged in war industries by the end of 1942, but the year is slipping by and very little is being done, at least in this part of the country, to insure the accomplishment of this aim.

An untrained woman cannot step into factory work on a day's notice; she must have some sort of preliminary training, either in a school or in a plant, in order to be efficient from the start. And efficiency is something this nation must have in its plants that are producing war materials. Labor leaders and others who worry for fear a woman will not want to give up the place she takes during wartime had better stop this sort of worrying, for that is a contingency that can be dealt with later. Today our problem is to win the war, and whatever a woman can do to help, she should be allowed and helped to do.

Tucson to See Cubs and Sox in Two Games

TUCSON, ARIZ. In the spring, of course, a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of baseball. So, for that matter, does that of all the rest of the family. 7specially this week, for the Cubs and Sox are coming to town. On Friday and Saturday there will be a preseason "city series" at the Tucson ball park. And on Wednesday and Thursday the Cubs will play with the Philadelphia Athletics. Chicagoans will be out in force. Tucsonians will be there, too, but they will take the matter more calmly, for their hero is no longer a Cub. Hank Leiber, an Arizonian, married to the daughter of the Pioneer's Jack Proctor, has been sold to the Giants. He trained in the Santa Rita gym all winter and flew down to the Giants' training camp in Florida a few weeks ago.

Tucson used to be a Cincinnati farm in the Arizona-Texas league. This year the team is no more, but a city league will furnish entertainment. Local baseball interest is on the ascendancy and several local prophets predict that Tucson will some day be the winter baseball capital of the United States.

• • •

Altho Tucson is not exactly a proletarian community, it presents an interesting cross-section of America. We have Mexicans, Indians, Frenchmen, Germans, and a few orientals, O, yes, and Englishmen, like Neil Carr. Mr. Carr came out here soon after the first World war, his entire fortune of $800 in his jeans. He put the money in a bank in the northern part of the state and proceeded to found a ranch. The bank went broke and so did the ranch dream. Mr. Carr got a job milking cows, 20 of them, morning and evening, at a farm which the map says was in Arizona but which Mr. Carr is sure was within the Arctic Circle. He is still a champion cow milker, but he doesn't keep his hand in these days, for he is busy being one of the most popular guest ranch operators hereabouts.

The proprietor of the Hacienda Los Encinos, Mr. Carr is host to a number of Chicagoans these days. Among them are Dr. Mary Sherman, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn A. Williams of Evanston, Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. McCaleb and their two sons, Eric and Michael, of Evanston, Miss Gertrude Schneider, Mrs. Leslie Harbison, and Miss Elizabeth Harbison, all of Evanston.

Mrs. Isabella Greenway King, former congresswoman from Arizona, is currently inspecting civilian defense organizations in Tucson. Mrs. King, who gives her entire time to the organization of women's volunteer services, is owner of the beautiful Arizona Inn. A feeling of complete isolation from the rest of the world is the lot of those who sojourn within the inn's adobe walls, walk in its spacious gardens, and swim in its tiled pool. Maillard Bennett, manager of the inn, renowned as a hotelier here and at Lake Tahoe, is host this week to a full house. Among his Chicago guests are Mrs. Stuyvesant Peabody, Mrs. Ernest W. Pardridge, Mrs. Bert White, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond F. DeLong, Mr. and Mrs. Max G. Paulus, and Stephen Hord. Mrs. Frederic W. Chamberlain, formerly of Evanston and now a resident at Lakeside, Mich., her daughter, Mrs. Joseph Daniels Kerby, and Mrs. Kerby's son, Bill, are all making a brief sojourn at the inn.

Many of the inn's guests have been taking trips down to Nogales, or to various ranches in and about the Old Pueblo. Mr. Hord has recently spent a few days down at Bill Allen's Kenyon ranch at Tubac. Miss Virginia Cardona and Miss Vivienne Carson are among recent arrivals.

Two Chicagoans well known in broadcasting circles, Miss Marylin Bealer and Alan Scott, are putting their boots beneath the spacious board at Silver Bell ranch this week. Miss Marion Carey of Chicago recently arrived at the Wild Horse ranch, where she will remain until after Easter. Other Chicagoans who have recently arrived there are Miss Lilian du Frane, Miss Mary Liggett, and Miss Lila K. Lennon, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Osten of Chicago, wintering in Tucson, were recent dinner guests at the Sign of the Wild Horse.

The El Conquistador is as stately as a mosque and as friendly as a taproom during an ex-service men's convention. A lively social program goes on there under the direction of Miss Norma Fischer, formerly of the Miramar. Recent Chicago arrivals enjoying activities at "El Con" include Mrs. William D. Goodson, Miss Salome Dyson, Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Engel, and Maurice A. Smoler. Evanstonians there include Mrs. James H. Winston and her daughter, Mrs. Herbert de Young. Mr. Fred W. Fairman of Winnetka has recently joined Mrs. Fairman, who has been at the resort since mid-February.

The Pioneer, as ever, is the hub of downtown Tucson activity, near the banks and large department stores; it also houses an air lines office and a brokerage office. Recent registrants there include Mrs. Sherman Charles of Evanston, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Mark of Chicago, Mrs. Warren H. Haile, Edward F. McDonough, and Charles C. Fuller, the latter returning to Tucson for the second time this season. Recent arrivals at the Santa Rita, two blocks away, include Mrs. Anna Jackson of Chicago, Ernest Meyer of Glencoe, Dr. Howard E. Strange of Chicago, currently attending the Charles H. Tweed dental clinic, Harold Turner of Chicago, and Mrs. Isabelle Qualman of Peoria.

Eugene Brennen of Chicago came to the Pepper Tree Inn on Tuesday. Leaving the inn this morning, after an extended visit here, are Mr. and Mrs. J. Tracey Bunker of La Grange.

Phoenix Guests Help Cowboys with Roundup

PHOENIX, ARIZ. Before the coming of the white man the Indians of the southwest were peaceful, simple folk, tilling their soil and getting along in their own fashion very well. Then along came the white man and decided that the land was his and took it. It is little wonder that the bewildered Indian went on the warpath in retaliation and the early history of the southwest is written in blood.

It has only been in the last 75 years that Castle Hot Springs was even known to the white man. For many centuries prior to that it was the "happy hunting ground" of Apache Indians. From time immemorial the Apache had made his home in the vicinity of the springs until 1867, when two troops of cavalrymen from Fort Whipple in Prescott, hearing of the miraculous healing springs, decided to make it theirs in the name of the United States of America and so descended upon the unsuspecting Apaches, killing all except three who escaped.

The Indians showed excellent judgment in their choice of their sacred ground, for it is a veritable oasis in the desert with stately palms on each side of the road leading into the inn, and the grounds studded with orange, lemon, and grapefruit trees. Among the early guests at the inn were Mr. and Mrs. Alfred James, formerly of Lake Forest, now of Milwaukee. Mr. and Mrs. James first came to the inn about 25 years ago when they were met at the train by stagecoach drawn by six horses and it took a day to make the 23 mile drive to the inn from the station. They have returned this week from a short vacation. While the inn has been modernized along with the times, it still retains its tradition of hospitality and charm.

• • •

It's time for the spring roundup and the guests from Castle Hot Springs are riding with the cowboys rounding up the calves and working the "squeeze" for branding and dehorning and "scattering the bulls." The roundup ended with a rodeo Sunday at the Champie ranch. Lawton Champie is a former world champion bull dogger. Before the rodeo the Donald Rogers of Glencoe gave a barbecue for their various friends at the inn at which a prize steer was barbecued. Incidentally, on a roundup it takes the cowboys by actual timing about 12 minutes to rope and throw a calf, slit the throat, cut off the skin, throw the ribs on the fire and be eating it—and strange to say, it is delicious.

The night before the rodeo was the rodeo dance in the little red school house and the George Gillespies from Phoenix came up with a party of friends for it. Other Chicagoans at the rodeo were Mrs. Ward Wheeler and Mrs. Mary Lill Laflin, and from Milwaukee Mrs. Frederic Thwaits, the Edwin Bartletts, and Col. and Mrs. Henry Seaman.

One of the gay spots of Phoenix on Saturday evenings is the Continental room at the Hotel Westward-Ho. On Saturday evening the Samuel Hastings celebrated their 17th wedding anniversary with a dinner party for a group of their friends. Mr. and Mrs. Ward Willets and "Billy" Anderson were among the invited guests. Mr. and Mrs. Hastings plan to return to Chicago at the end of the week after a prolonged stay at the Westward-Ho.

Mrs. Frances Neilson, former Metropolitan opera star, arrives on the 28th for a month's visit at the Westward-Ho.

Kiami Lodge, a most delightful inn in Paradise valley, is becoming increasingly popular with Chicagoans. Among the recent arrivals are Mrs. Andrew MacLeish and her daughter, Mrs. Alexander Campbell.

One of the finest all-grass golf courses in the state is at the Wigwam, at Litchfield park. Every day a group of Chicagoans from the Wigwam can be found on the links. Among them are Frank Gibbons, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Conrad, Mr. and Mrs. Quitan Dorschel, the John Martins, and Thorborg Swenson.

RECENT BRIDE

Life Is Lonely, but Cheap, on Upper Amazon

[This is the 35th article of a series on South America. The next will appear in an early issue.]

By Mason Warner.

MANAOS, BRAZIL. The Victoria steamed down the Madeira river five days from Porto Velho before we reached the Amazon. The voyage was not monotonous, and time never hung heavy. We stopped four or five times every day to take on wood, and the Indian longshoremen presented a different picture at every woodyard.

There was jungle all the way between Porto Velho and Manaos. The sparse population was emphasized by the distances between human habitations along the river. The only industry was the cutting of wood for the river boats. No freight was picked up on the way, altho wild rubber trees here and there stood higher than the jungle.

• • •

At one woodyard a carrier, stooping for a stick, suddenly started back, threw down the wood from his shoulder, tossed his hooded sack from his head as he grabbed a heavy stick—and then punched furiously into the wood pile.

BOLIVIA
400 MILES

Another carrier rushed up, grabbed another stick of wood, and punched with vim and vigor. When they stopped, one took a long, thin bunch, fished in among the corded wood and raised up a dead snake.

It was evidently of a deadly venomous species, judging from the gingerly way it was handled. The dead serpent was about three feet long. It was tossed into the river, and the wood carrying was resumed.

We were told that some of the isolated dwellers in the wilderness kept 8 and 10 foot boa constrictors about the house, not exactly as pets, but because the snakes kept the premises clear of rats and mice. We were told the Indian children like to play with them.

I do not doubt the story, but regret to report that neither young Mason nor I saw any of the domesticated boas, and of course we went ashore and looked for them whenever possible.

• • •

At 9 of 10 stops there were only 2 or 3 thatched huts and a woodyard, for the Indian carriers lived far back in the jungle and reported for work when the boat's whistle sounded as a call.

The inhabitants of the Amazon basin in western Brazil lead lonely lives. Game from the jungle, including monkeys, fish from the river, and wild growing fruits, provide food.

A thatched hut can be contrived in a few hours with a machete. Clothing can be provided at a cash outlay of $2 to $5 a year. Yet one wonders how they live—and why.

It rained a few hours every day. Mist hid the sun all thru daylight hours. The air was damp and humid, and yet the nights were cool and comfortable. Sleep was possible. There were two bathrooms—showers only—on the boat. Mason and I patronized the one for men two or three times a day for the first four days on the river.

Just as we entered the Amazon we found on the floor of the shower two giant turtles about 18 x 24 inches in shell surface. They really covered the floor of the shower room.

After serious consultation we decided to wait until the early morning hours and sneak into the women's bath for our ablutions.

That was a good idea. It worked for about 24 hours. When we, after waiting until no passengers were wandering around the boat, entered the women's bath we found the floor occupied by three big turtles. We decided a sponge bath in our little stateroom would answer our demands for the remainder of the voyage.

• • •

We stopped at Manicore for wood. It was a neat village, perched on a 20 foot high embankment, safe from the rising waters of the river. We stopped again at 2:30 a. m. to take on more wood.

Our fourth day on the Madeira river was marked by only two stops. One at 11:30 a. m., and another from 1:30 to 4 p. m., while native Indians worked to carry corded wood from the shore to our lower deck.

At 6:30 p. m. we met a steamer coming up stream. It was the first boat to be sighted on the voyage. She sounded her whistle, and anchored 100 yards from shore. The Victoria steered a half circle and came alongside. Lines were thrown from one to the other, and there we were, cozily moored side by side.

The stop was made to afford the pilots an opportunity to exchange information as to the stage of the river and the changing channels cut by the high water in the territory they had just come thru.

• • •

Always a tricky assignment, piloting a boat on the Amazon or its principal tributaries at high water is a job that calls not only for science and skill, but for that sixth sense outlined in Mark Twain's "Life on the Mississippi."

New cutoffs are made overnight. Familiar landmarks change character or disappear completely. Hours may be saved by turning to the left or right and steaming today over what yesterday was low marshland.

Passengers and crew visited cordially and noisily while the two boats were anchored in midstream. After a two hour wait, during which the pilots evidently told each other all they knew of changing river conditions, the Victoria proceeded down the Madeira to the Amazon, while the other boat patiently chugged up stream against the swift current.

What can you tell me about Wakulla Springs, in Florida? —C. L. O'F.

It is said to be the world's largest single spring. Boasting a virtually constant temperature of 72 degree, it is more than 185 feet deep and has a flow of more than 200,000 gallons a minute.

Local legend has it that Ponce de Leon visited the springs about 1520 in search of the Fountain of Youth, and that it was there that he received the Indian arrow wound which later caused his death in Cuba. Archaelogical excavations of old mounds have revealed the existence of some prehistoric civilizations. Hernando De Soto visited there to repair his ships with cypress wood and established bases for subsequent visits to the interior. Thousands of years ago mastodons frequented the Wakulla region. The fossil skeleton of one of them, 12 feet high and 17 feet long, has been unearthed and is on exhibition in the State Geological museum at Tallahassee.

Dense foliage, including cypress, moss festooned oaks, magnolia, and pine surrounds the springs, and the entire area is a game and bird sanctuary. Altho swimming is the leading sport there, many visitors take the glass bottom boat trips over submarine gardens and cruises thru jungles along the river.

The Voice of the Traveler

Letters regarding travel conditions and experiences are welcomed. Address: Travel Editor, Chicago Tribune.

LEFT BY THE GLACIER.

Chicago, March 22.—To the Travel Editor: In reply to Miss Kathleen M. Hempel's letter in today's "Voice of the Traveler":

The Blue Mound she referred to is a familiar object to me, as it is practically in the front yard of my father's farm about three miles from the little town of Willard, Wis.

Many is the time I have climbed over its boulders to gaze down upon the rolling fields and to look out—rather wistfully—at the distant towns that could be seen on a clear day.

It is just one of the many glacial formations in that vicinity. Distance certainly lends enchantment to the mound, for, far from being 2,000 feet high, it is only about 400 feet.

Due to the general elevation of the land and the atmospheric condition, it looms above the horizon in a deep blue haze that changes with the sun.

It can be seen at a distance of 80 miles and is known as the Blue Mound to every one except the folks who have always lived around it. To them it is simply "The Mound."

It is about one mile long and one-quarter of a mile wide and covered with a few trees and many large boulders and deep crevices.

There is no state park there. Perhaps Miss Hempel was referring to the game preserve and bird sanctuary and the large artificial lake about seven miles away. That is becoming quite a week-end vacation spot.

Owing to the large amount of Indian arrow heads and pottery that have been found on and around the mound, many folks think it may have been formed by the Indians who once roamed and hunted there, but I'm sure it is merely one of the many hills left behind by the great glacier.

Until recently the formation was used as a lookout station by the forest rangers. Now their tower is stationed on another mound—one that is quite a bit higher, but not quite as glamorous—about three miles farther north.

I hope my description hasn't taken away any of the glamor of the Blue Mound. FRANCES P. EVANS.

Chicago, March 22.—To the Travel Editor: The delicate tint of the Blue Mound in Wisconsin is due to the setting, just as there is sometimes a particular blueness of the sky over water. This is not due to the water, since its color is often green to our eye. In fact, the workings of complementary colors cause the illusion that the particular mound you see in Wisconsin is blue. Being earth instead of rock, the formation could not be called a real mountain. It is grass bearing, and therefore out of the class of mountains. E. C.

California Plans Summer Events

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.—More than 125 fairs, fiestas, and special celebrations have been scheduled for central and northern California between April and December.

In addition to the customary events, which include grape and wine festivals and flower shows, there will be two turkey shows, many golf tournaments, aquatic events, music festivals, and even a lamb derby.

The program has been approved by both military and state officials. Celebrations near large population centers will allow defense workers to attend without loss of working time.

Easter services on April 5 will find thousands of persons making a sunrise pilgrimage to the top of Mt. Davidson, highest point in San Francisco.

Maine Fishing to Begin on April 1

AUGUSTA, Me. — Maine sporting camp proprietors in the lake regions are refurnishing their places in anticipation of the opening of the fishing season on April 1. Indications point to a large patronage of anglers this year. Not as large as usual, perhaps, because so many are unable to get away for the annual trip.

French Canada Unchanged in Time of War

By Alden Powell.

French Canada embattled, French Canada in khaki and blue, is still French Canada the entrancing.

QUEBEC. The border of La Province de Quebec is wide open; no passports are required. United States exchange is pegged; the American dollar is worth $1.10. The King's highway knows no barrier, tolls on all government owned bridges have been abolished, and everywhere traffic rolls with peacetime ease.

Trains, planes, buses and cruise ships operate on normal schedules. Hotels, inns, boarding houses, and restaurants offer the same service as before. Food is used carefully, but for the visitor there is no rationing. Britain delivers the goods and stores display choice woolens and porcelains. And prices of everything are reasonable, little changed, held down by "ceilings" set by official decree.

• • •

Here and there great war plants hum night and day, forging weapons for the united nations. Long files of singing lads in khaki swing along the roads. The air force blue of Canada, Australia and New Zealand, the trim field brown of Canada's women's army, add piquancy to the atmosphere of old France.

But war does not intrude unduly. The province remains a real playground. And—important for the tire troubled—most of the historic points, the play and beauty spots are handy to train, bus, or steamship.

Up thru Maine, along the Valley de la Chaudiere, where Benedict Arnold's "rabble in arms" staggered on their march to Quebec, is the path to North America's only walled city, Quebec. Its spires and ramparts, atop a titanic rock bastion, gaze upon a panorama of gleaming river and blue-hazed mountain.

• • •

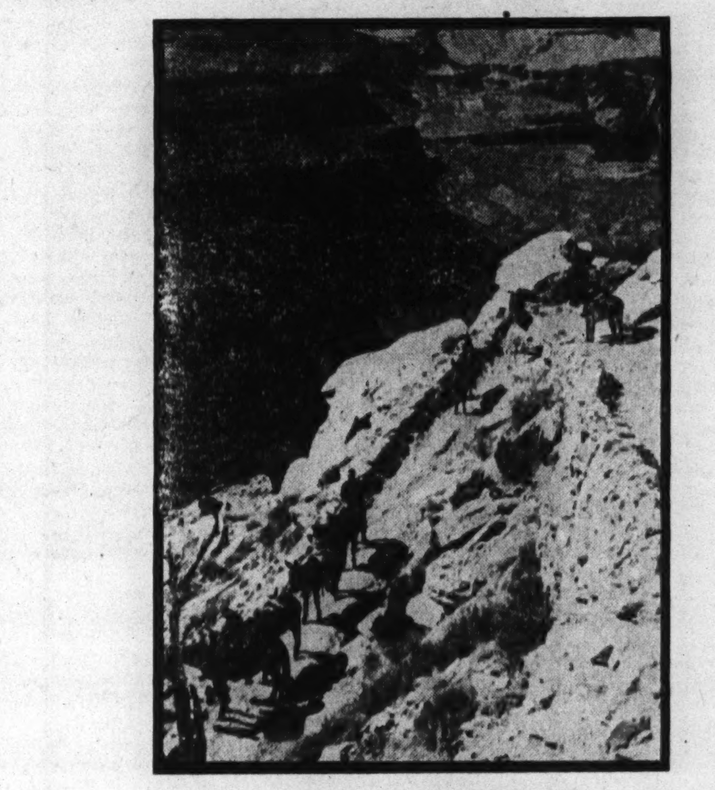
This city is the bub of many delights. Here starts the route to the Gaspe, where sea and crag mingle. For a thousand miles the road switchbacks from cliff top to surf level in breathtaking leaps.

North of the Saint Laurent, past the shrine of Sainte Anne de Beaupre, lies the canyon of La Riviere Saguenay, its waters, 900 feet deep, flowing between tree-clad mountains. North, in another direction, is Laurentides park—a vast, unspoiled game reserve and home of the battling red trout. By park or canyon is the way to lofty Lac Saint Jean—a region of forest, rugged country, and cold water lakes.

The Montreal portal serves the eastern townships—a land of slopes and streams, flanked by the region of hardwoods, Les Bois Francs.

East of the big city, on the north shore, is La Mauricie, with its Riviere Saint Maurice.

Northward from Montreal lie the lake and stream dotted Laurentians. They lead thru the new Mont Laurier-Senneterre game reserve to the northern mining fields where gold for Uncle Sam and other war metals sustain the population.



DOWNWARD BOUND

Indians Aiding in Defense Effort

PEMBROKE, N. C.—The small band of Croatan Indians—mostly farmers—living near here, is collecting scrap materials for defense needs.

The Croatans are members of the mysterious tribe which some believe is the answer to the mystery of what happened to Sir Walter Raleigh's "Lost Colony." The word "Croaton," carved on a tree, was the only clue found on Roanoke Island by the relief expedition to the site of the first English colony.

There is a legend that the white settlers fled their coastal settlement and found the Indians, then encamped nearby. Names identified with the first colony are common among the Croatans living near Pembroke.

Easter Service at Hot Springs

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. — For the eighth consecutive year, an Easter sunrise service of songs and choric readings from the summit of pine-clad Hot Springs mountain will be given next Sunday by the spa's white-robed Choral club. Englishmen Back New Enterprise at Cuernavaca

CUERNAVACA, Mexico.—The playground of the valley of Cuernavaca has been improving its tourist facilities and attractions. In this city, two hours by car from Mexico City, new hotels, pensions, and tourist courts have been built.

A recently started enterprise already has shown its effect on textile patterns, both in Mexico and in the United States. Child of a group of English expatriates, Artes Internacionales creates its own designs, based on Mexican motifs, and weaves most of its own cloth. The cloths are of lightweight wool and of silk, preshrunk and sun-tested, and the work of applying the dyes is done by the proprietors themselves. Silver buckles and jewelry are designed to match the motifs of the materials.

Another new development is the fashioning of sandals of the same textiles. The association has a shop on Cuernavaca's main street, where its cloths are on display and where clothes are made to order. A customer can have a complete outfit of dress, turban, shoes, purse, and silver ornaments, all of harmonizing or the identical designs.

At the warm sulphur baths of Tehuixtla, an hour's drive from the city, a large swimming pool has been built. The road to Tehuixtla is now paved.

At Xochicalco, another hour's drive, fresh excavations have uncovered more ruins of the ancient Indian civilization, and the carved temples, pyramids, ball courts, and underground tunnels afford a mecca for archeologists and tourists.

Three Spring Benefit Events to Be Given

Bess Sullivan Heptig. [Connelly Photo.]

Announcements are out for three spring benefit parties, each supported by large groups of women. The Women's Bar Association of Illinois has set Saturday, April 11, for its annual dinner-dance, and placed Bess Sullivan Heptig, its defense committee co-chairman, in charge of arrangements. Thus the party takes on a definite wartime aspect, in that all proceeds are to be given to civilian defense needs. It is to be held in the Edgewater Beach hotel.

• • •

April 6 will bring the traditional Easter Monday charity card party of the Big Sisters, one of two important fund raising events sponsored by this organization of Catholic women annually for its extensive work among dependent and delinquent women and girls. This year the men in army camps and naval stations are to share in the benefits of the Big Sisters' party, for in each invitation Mrs. Marshall V. Kearney and her arrangements committee have inserted a bright three stanza jingle requesting each guest to bring with her, to the Palmer House, reading matter for the Victory book campaign.

The annual Maytime frolic of the Jewish Big Sisters must literally be termed a March fête this season, since the date has been advanced to tomorrow. In place of the customary dinner-dance a dessert luncheon will be given at 1 o'clock in the Covenant club, with Mrs. Samuel B. Hollender heading the committee on arrangements. The Jewish Big Sisters' services are organized in the interest of young girls, who, under the wing of their benefactresses, are known as the Little Sisters.

• • •

The placing of its dinner-dance under the management of Mrs. Heptig recalls that the Woman's Bar association has had a civilian defense unit alertly functioning since Jan. 1, 1941. So well organized was its personnel that on Dec. 8, the day after Pearl Harbor, Miss Irene McCormick, the chairman, and Mrs. Heptig were able to volunteer the services of a corps of 100 women in the local defense effort.

With Miss Antonia Rago as chairman and Mrs. Heptig as co-chairman of Red Cross activities, the women attorneys have a unit of 80 college women training to become Red Cross instructors, and have enlisted more than 200 volunteer blood bank donors. Miss B. Fain Tucker is president of the association.

Supporting Mrs. Mayher as hostesses at tea will be Mrs. Robert Stuart, Mrs. William F. Donahue, Mrs. Henry F. Oates, and Mrs. Edward G. Carr.

Easter Brings Spring Spurt to Miami Beach

MIAMI BEACH, FLA.

Easter is bringing that annual spring spurt to the Miami Beach season. There was a time when winter residents celebrated Christmas and Easter back home, scheduling their southern jaunts between the two traditional college holidays. But now the trend is to come down earlier and stay later, and the arrival of college sons and daughters now, for spring vacation, is making Miami Beach as gay as it is at Christmas.

The Surf club plans a big Easter celebration, with special tennis events for the younger set and a ball on April 4. It will continue the weekly Thursday night informal parties thru this week. The usual record crowd is anticipated at the Easter Sunday luncheon in the patio garden.

Women golfers at the Indian Creek club will soon hold their championship tournament, and the college crowd swarms the tennis courts daily at the Indian Creek and Bath clubs. These youngsters get more fun out of sports and the beach during their two too brief vacations than the oldsters do all winter.

• • •

In the meantime, celebrities continue to brighten the picture here. The gamut runs from Lord Beaverbrook, who stopped over in Miami en route from Trinidad to Washington, to the uncontested nominee for the presidency of the Association of Junior Leagues of America, Mrs. Linville K. Martin.

Maj. Edward Bowes was at the navy relief show in Bay Front park last night when Phil Spitalny and his all-girl orchestra staged another show, with Ben Bernie, Al Jolson, and Harry Richman, among other stars, participating.

Bicycles are becoming so thick that a traffic problem has arisen. Kiwanians of Coral Gables arrived at their weekly luncheon on bicycles—that is, all except two who rode horseback. The next thing, probably, will be some dowager behind a pair of spanking bays.

The bicycle fad is having its influence on fashion, too, for slacks are seen even more than ever, skirts being what they are on a bicycle, and slacks and shorts are being permitted at social gatherings where never before seen.

• • •

The rubber shortage is affecting golfers, too, who wish they had some of those balls lost thru the years, and more than 100 balls were retrieved from a Biltmore water hazard. Retrieved from a shallower hazard was the ball that went astray from a putting green right into the highball of Leslie Charteris, author of the "Saint" mystery stories.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Seaverns Jr. and daughter, Mary Clair, will arrive this week to join Mrs. Seaverns' mother, Mrs. Otto L. Mersman, at the Gulf Stream.

At their apartment at the Gulf Stream, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Alcorn are entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Vernon W. Foster and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hamlin, all of Chicago. One of the season's most interesting birthday parties was the dinner-dance given by Mrs. Albert I. Appleton for her husband on his 70th anniversary, at their home in North Bay road. Arthur I. Appleton came from Chicago to surprise his father, and another son, Ernest, was present too. The cake was an exact replica of Mr. Appleton's electrical factory, complete with brick red icing and brown sugar roof. Honeymooning in Miami Beach are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ford Holbrook, who will reside in Chicago. Mrs. Holbrook is the former Nancy Hattery Keith of Chicago, and Sheldon W. Vanzwoll, now vacationing at the Nautilus, was an attendant at the wedding, which took place at the Miami Beach community church.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland Putnam gave a housewarming at their new home on La Gorce Island. Mr. and Mrs. George M. Patch of Oak Park and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey B. Richards and son, Bill, of Lake Bluff, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. John E. Burks at their home in South Bay Shore drive. Mr. and Mrs. Patch are the parents of Mrs. Richards and Mrs. Burk.

ENGAGED

Miss Dorothy Behm is the fiancee of Lieut. Robert F. Simpson of the United States Marine Air corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Simpson of Artesian avenue. Their engagement has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael L. Behm of Libertyville. Miss Behm is a sophomore at Mundelein college. Her fiance was graduated from Loyola university.
